GHOULS

Grave Robbers in Oregon Steal and Hide a Millionaire's Body.

But the Corpse Is Recovered and the Ghouls Are Caught.

New York Custom House Men Nab Two Wealthy Smugglers.

Portland, Ore., May 22.—The body of the late millionaire banker, W. S. Ladd, which was stolen from the grave last Monday night has been recovered and Daniel Magone, a middle-aged farmer, and Charles Montgomery, a young man, who also resides near Oregon City, are under arrest. Montgomery has made a confession, implicating Magone and two other men who are yet at large.

After Montgomery had made his confession he took the officers to the spot where the body was buried. This was on Magone's farm, one mile and a half below Oregon City on the Wilmette river. The body was found practically in the same condition in which it was when removed from the grave.

The principal clue leading to the arrest of the men and the recovery of the body was a drawing knife with which the casket was opened and which was left at the grave. A blacksmith at Milwaukie made the knife and when it was shown to him by the detectives he immediately recognized it as the one he had made for Magone a short time before.

SMUGGLERS CAUGHT.

St. Louis Millionaire and Companion Caught.

New York, May 22.—Richard M. Scruggs, a St. Louis millionaire, and E. G. Langhorne, of the same city, were arrested by custom house inspectors as they stepped off the steamer St. Paul on its arrival from Southampton today. Warning had evidently been telegraphed when they left Southampton. The charge is smuggling. When the inspectors searched Langhorne they found a belt containing diamonds, jewelry and watches. Similar articles were found in Mr. Scruggs' pockets. Valuable lace was also captured. The captured stuff is worth $8000. Mr. Scruggs, smilingly said, as he handed his declaration to the inspector, "It's all right."

"No, it is not all right," said the officer. "Why, what's the trouble," asked Scruggs, still smiling.

"We will have to search you and your companion," was the inspector's reply.

"Search," exclaimed Mr. Scruggs, "what do you mean? Do you dare insult me? I am a respected citizen of this country, and you insult me at your peril. You are impertinent."

"I can't help that," replied the inspector. "I will have to search you."

Mr. Scruggs threatened and then pleaded, but the search was made.

MAY OUST THE CHIEF.

Jefferson City, Mo., May 22.—Attorney General Crow has instituted proceedings in the supreme court to oust Chief of Police Thomas E. Vallins, of Kansas City, from office, alleging that Vallins has not been a resident of the state a sufficient time prior to his appointment. Vallins was in the Pinkerton service previous to his appointment about two months ago. The labor organizations of the state object strongly to Vallins' appointment and furnished the attorney general with the necessary affidavits to institute the proceedings of ouster. The court will consider the matter Tuesday.

CRAVEN WILL CASE.

San Francisco, May 22.—Another expert, Michael S. Gumpel, testified in the Angus-Craven trial and explained to the jury his reasons for believing the signatures to the two deeds in controversy have been forged. He insisted that there were marked discrepancies between the genuine and simulated signatures, the former being written fluently off hand and evenly, while the latter were uneven, halting and utterly lacking in the chief characteristics of the original.

VOLUNTEERS AT ATHENS.

Athens, May 22.—The arrival here of the volunteers from America yesterday excited curiosity, but no enthusiasm. They will proceed to join the army of Crown Prince Constantine. The losses of the Greeks in the bay of Phourka Pass were 800 killed and wounded. All the irregulars have been disbanded.

THE GOLD OUTGO.

New York, May 22.—It is announced that Kidder, Peabody & Co., of Boston, will ship $500,000 in gold to Germany on the steamer Trave, sailing next Tuesday.

THEY THINK IT GRAVE.

Madrid, May 22.—The newspapers here consider the adoption by the United States senate of Senator Morgan's belligerency resolution to be a very grave step. They say it will tend to strengthen the premier, Senor Canovas Del Castillo, in checking the proposed Liberal attack on the ministry.

ORGAN REPAIRER.

F. H. McGowan, of Chicago, is in the city and will give prompt attention to orders for cleaning and repairing organs. Address F. H. McGowan, City.

ROMAN CATHOLICS.

Ruling from Rome Regarding Foreign Tongue Parishes.

Chicago, May 22.—Information was obtained today that Rome has just transmitted to the Roman Catholic church in the United States the most significant ruling of recent years bearing on ecclesiastical matters in America. The decision, which has reference to parishes made up of no foreigners is literally as follows:

1. Children born in America of foreign parents whose native language is not the English, are not obliged when of age to become members of the parish to which their parents belong; but they have the right to join a parish in which the language of the country—that is, English—is used.

2. Roman Catholics not born in America, but knowing the English language, have the right of becoming members of the parish in which English is in use, and they cannot be compelled to submit themselves to the jurisdiction of the rector of a church built for people who continue to speak the language of a foreign country.

The evident purpose of Rome is to make English the language of the American church as speedily as possible, and thus to encourage the development of a spirit of more perfect union among the members of the Roman Catholic faith. Parishes in which a foreign language is used are tolerated as temporary institutions, which will disappear as soon as the conditions making their erection expedient will have passed away. The ruling is perfectly consistent with the general policy adopted and followed by Leo XIII.

ELECTRICAL SCHEME.

General Power Plant Designed for Kansas City.

Kansas City, May 22.—A scheme is on foot according to the Times to run Kansas City's steam plants, manufactories, street railways, etc., by electricity, to be generated at Leavenworth, Kas., where fuel can be obtained cheaply at the promoter's mines. In addition, it is proposed to ultimately construct an electric railroad between the two cities.

Already arrangements to construct a $1,500,000 power plant at Leavenworth have been made. The scheme is headed by Col. D. A. McKibben, Maj. John M. Long, Harvey M. Rush, George W. Kirstead and ex-Senator Caldwell, of Leavenworth, all wealthy men, and it is believed Eastern capitalists are also interested.

MANY NEED RELIEF.

Starving Americans in Cuba May Number 1,200.

Washington, May 22.—A telegram was received at the state department this morning from Consul General Lee, indicating that the number of Americans in need of relief in Cuba is much larger than was supposed at first. The consul general says that the number may reach 1200. The consul at Matanzas reports 250 there, and the consul at Sagua 450.

HISTORICAL GEM STOLEN.

Famous Imperial Diamond Missing at Hyderabad.

Calcutta, May 22.—It is reported here from Hyderabad that the historical gem known as the Imperial diamond, sold by Alexander Jacob, (the original of Marion Crawford's "Mr. Isaacs"), a jeweler of Simla, to the nizam of Hyderabad, has been stolen from the government treasury and replaced by a paste diamond. The affair has caused the greatest sensation as the nizam intended to present the diamond to Queen Victoria upon the occasion of her jubilee.

Jacob, after a long trial in 1891, for appropriating twenty-three lakhs of rupees, deposited by the nizam, as earnest of the money to purchase the gem, was acquitted.

A YOUNG RECEIVER.

Saginaw, Mich., May 22.—Homer Loring, of Newton, Mass., has been appointed receiver of the Union and Consolidated Street railways of this city. He is very young for the position—21 years old. He is a son of S. D. Loring, a wealthy broker of Boston, Mass., who represents the interests of the bondholders. The bond as receiver is fixed at $75,000.

FATHER KNEIPP ALIVE.

Woerishoffen, Bavaria, May 22.—There is no truth in the report which originated in a dispatch from Paris to the Daily Chronicle of London today, saying that Father Kneipp, famous throughout the world for his water cure, is dead. Father Kneipp is still alive and somewhat better.

TONGUE WILL RECOVER.

Washington, May 22.—Congressman Tongue, of Oregon, who was struck by a cable car last night passed a comfortable night. No serious consequences are expected from his injuries. He will probably be able to be out in a week.

SPANISH MINISTRY INTACT.

Madrid, May 22.—The duke of Tetuan, the minister for foreign affairs, who tendered his resignation, after boxing the ears of Senor Comas, a Liberal senator, has withdrawn his resignation on the advice of the premier, Senor Canovas Del Castillo.

AN ELECTION BET.

One of the most interesting oil property sales ever made was closed a few days ago when the South Penn Oil company paid $200,000 for one little 300-barrel per day well on the Fornler farm in Greene county, says the Philadelphia Record. This is the biggest price ever paid for a well, and it is additionally large when the isolated and undeveloped territory in which the well is located is considered. Only 1700 acres of territory go with this well. It is thought by the South Penn people that this acreage will cover the pool.

This well has a most peculiar history. It is the result of an election bet. The Morris Oil and Gas company and the Carnegie Gas company owned the territory jointly, but had not operated on it. They had operated on other fields, sharing expenses. When gas was found in paying quantities the Carnegies took the well and paid all expenses. When oil was found the Morris people did the same thing. Early last fall Manager Tom Ross of the Morris company made the proposition to the Carnegie company that a well be drilled on the Fornler farm. The Carnegie people agreed to drill the well if McKinley should be elected. On Nov. 15 the well was started. Strange to say the pay sand was struck on March 4.

DEADLOCK

No Great Change in the Iron Ore Trade Visible This Week.

But the Deadlock Must Soon Be Broken By Furnacemen's Necessities.

A Few Important Sales and Some Large Season Charters Made.

Ishpeming, Mich., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The week has seen no great change in the situation of the iron ore trade, but the feeling is more hopeful. The more discriminating producers see that it will be impossible for the deadlock in business to continue indefinitely, and that the necessities of the trade will require large amounts of ore for this season's consumption, in addition to the unfortunate surplus left on the docks at the opening of the season, and which has created more consternation than was justified. A few important sales have been made during the week, and some large charters covering season's tonnage have also been placed, the latter at 60 cents for head-of-the-lake freights to Sept. 1, with the option of a 60-day extension at 10 cents additional for the entire season. Other sales are in sight, and while the volume of business promises to be light for the first half of the season, there is at least some business in sight with the certainty that more will soon be coming.

On the Mesaba the operators seem to have gotten over the very bad scare from which they were suffering at the opening of the season of navigation, and the tendency is to open mines that are closed rather than close mines now running. Business is not active on the Mesaba, and probably will not be so this season, but there will be something doing there to furnish bread for the people. A reduction in the present freight rate of 80 cents per ton from Mesaba mines to Duluth has been urged by independent mine operators, but will not be given. It was claimed by President F. T. Gates of the Rockefeller mines and railroad, in a recent interview, that the reductions in freights are of no permanent benefit to the producer; that the price of the product is simply lowered to the same extent as the reduction secured in freights.

The Menominee range mines are fairly active, considering the general business outlook and the small amount of ore disposed of so far by the mines of the district. Negotiations for the sale of the Arragon are still in progress, but no bargain has been reached, though there are two concerns that may buy it. There is some activity in the Crystal Falls division of the Menominee, which is a non-Bessemer district, and which consequently has suffered severely from the past four years of bad business. Many of the idle miners at Norway, who were induced to strike work at the Arragon last winter, are now employed at the Loretto mine, necessitating a daily walk of twelve miles to and from work, and are working for the same wages they struck against in midwinter. The men, who are combining pedestrianism with their regular avocation as miners, are free to admit that the strike was not a success.

The disputes between employers and dock-laborers regarding trimming and unloading charges, have been settled, the men yielding to the inevitable. The business at the opening of the season was so light that it was useless to hold out for the figures of previous years. Many of the vessels carrying ore now leave port without trimming. The practice is not one to be commended, as in a storm untrimmed vessels carrying heavy cargoes of iron ore (and all vessels take all they can carry) are apt to prove difficult to handle, and roll in a very dangerous manner. This trouble can be partly averted by the trimming of the cargo by the crew, but the work of the crew is never equal to that of the regular trimmers at the ore docks. The present charges for trimming are certainly low enough for the heavy manual labor required in doing the work.

It is announced that the management of the Pioneer mine, on the Vermilion, has decided to fill this season's orders by mining new ore, and not by shipping from stock, until July 1, anticipating a boom in the business at the end of the season. The Pioneer people may be wise in taking this optimistic view of the situation, but if convinced that there is to be an August boom, they should make charters for lake cargoes now. If there is a boom, the owners of lake craft will insist on getting part of the proceeds, and will be entitled to it, for they have always taken a share of the bitter pills doled out to the diggers of iron ore.

The Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic, which is the American line of the Canadian Pacific, is handling even less ore than its competitors. The bulk of the shipments of the Marquette range are going to the port of Marquette over the Lake Superior & Ishpeming line. The Chicago & Northwestern railway is losing much of its Marquette county ore business through the operation of the new line, but is not suffering to the same extent as the South Shore. The Lake Superior Iron company will stick by the South Shore, in which it has an interest, but the bulk of the ore traffic will be lost to that road. The port of Marquette will gain ore business at the expense of Escanaba. The Lake Superior shipping ports are placed on a more equal footing with Lake Michigan ports by the operation of the new Soo lock, as large vessels can take heavier loads now from the upper lake, consequently at a smaller price per ton.

HORACE J. STEVENS.

MARINE MATTERS.

Ore Shippers Offer Fifty Cents From Duluth.

Cleveland, May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Several ore cargoes are offered from the head of Lake Superior, but shippers will pay only 50 cents. Marquette cargoes are scarce, and the 50-cent rate from that port is weak. Ore from the docks is moving more freely than for several months past, and this is affording an opportunity for a more active movement from the shipping ports.

THE WARD DAMAGED.

Buffalo, May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire in the upper works of the steamer Ward did about $400 damage. It was put out by the fire tug. The steamer was not disabled, and has cleared for Duluth.

THE SAULT MOVABLE DAM.

It is claimed that the grounding of the steamer Yuma on the sill of the movable dam at the head of the new Sault lock was occasioned by low water resulting from an easterly wind. Col. Lydecker says that the sill will have to stay where it is the remainder of this season, at least. The movable dam above the lock, he says, is necessary as a protection to the canal. Should a passing vessel through any cause whatever break the upper gates direct connection would be established right through the canal between Lakes Superior and Huron. The water would rush through even faster than it does over the rapids, and the canal be rendered utterly useless for the passage of vessels. However, a new sill will be put in place next winter, and until that time the owners will have to wait. At the ordinary stage of water this season, with no influence to disturb the water, there are seventeen feet over it.

A HEAVY STRANDING LOSS.

The recent stranding of the steamer Cadillac on Starve Island reef, Lake Erie, will cost the underwriters upward of $20,000. Forty bottom plates are marked to be taken off and most of them are damaged so badly that they cannot be put back again. Her forefoot is gone, and she will require part new stem. It will take at least two weeks to complete repairs. The Cadillac is insured in foreign companies with a general agency at Chicago.

Granted the Divorce.

FIREBUGS

Another Disastrous Fire Is the Cause of Much Damage at Mankato.

Believed to Be the Work of a Gang of Local Firebugs.

Heavy Rain Helped Quench the Fire But Damaged the Goods.

St. Paul, May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A Mankato special to the Dispatch says: Another destructive fire visited Mankato this morning at 6 o'clock, destroying the wholesale grocery house of D. Patterson & Co. and damaging several other buildings. The Patterson building was a three-story brick and filled with groceries, the first floor being occupied as an office. Loss on building is estimated at $12,000 and on stock from $50,000 to $60,000. The loss on the building is total and salvage on stock will amount to very little. The exact insurance cannot be learned, but it is believed to be from $35,000 to $40,000.

George B. Owen, dealer in musical instruments, bicycles, etc., suffered several hundred dollars' loss from the falling walls crushing through his building and his stock was badly damaged by water and moving.

William F. Jost, jeweler, and the Building and Loan association offices were slightly damaged. A frame structure owned by S. F. Barnero and occupied by A. Rockey's feed store, was totally destroyed by fire. These losses are fairly covered by insurance. Heavy rain set in during the fire and continued throughout the morning, which added to the destruction of goods carried outside for safety. The origin of the fire is a mystery. Many believe it is the work of local firebugs.

THE GIRL MINSTRELS.

Large Audience at the High School Last Evening.

The advertising given the girls' minstrel show, which was presented at the High School building last evening, proved to be of the very best kind for the attendance was very large. The performance was very pleasing to the audience for applause was given in abundant measure. Nobody could find anything in the least way objectionable in the show.

The opening scene was very pretty. The young women were gowned in dark skirts and half wore orange colored jackets and the other half wine colored. In the center sat Miss India Willcuts, the interlocutor, and she made a very "stunning" figure, arrayed in a charming white gown and wearing a magnificent white millinery creation. Her work as interlocutor was excellent. On each end were four dusky damsels arrayed in gowns of indescribable makeup. A curtain chorus, "Silver Moonlight" was sung and the opening overture "Dixie" followed. Then the fun began and was opened by Miss Snowball, whose work on the end was equal to any ever seen in Duluth amateur minstrel circles. Rev. Mr. Patton, who made such a fuss over the show, naturally came in for several strong hits. The jokes and gags throughout were bright and clever. Miss Snowball sang "The Man in the Moon is a Coon," and Miss Jemima gave "Elsie From Chelsea." The ballads were "Cabin on de Mississippi Shore," "Little Nelly," "Leaf of Shamrock," and "Baby is Going to Sleep." A quartet sang "Pretty Little Coon Gal." When near the end of the program the interlocutor suddenly asked Miss Seraphina why she continued to be so quiet. A heavy gruff voice responded and the audience realized the fact that behind the mask of the female attire John Doran was concealed. John kept the crowd howling for about fifteen minutes and had hard work to get away then.

The second part opened with an excellent impersonation by R. H. Cox, C. W. Benson gave musical specialties and his work was excellent. Especially good were the selections played on water goblets. A grand cake walk closed the performance.

Dry Special Term.

The special term of district court this morning was one of the briefest and least important held in a long while. Judge Ensign's was the only court kept later than 10 o'clock. At noon Judge Ensign was hearing some tax matters. The only matter of any interest on the calendar was the case of the Prudential Insurance company against W. S. Woodbridge et al, to foreclose a mortgage on the Woodbridge building, given to secure a note for $5000. Judge Moer ordered the foreclosure of the mortgage and gave judgment for $53,288.14 and $210 attorneys fees.

PROTECT THE SYSTEM FROM MALARIA.

It is possible to do this even in regions of country where miasma is most rife, and where the periodic fevers which it causes assume their most formidable types. The immense popularity of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is very largely attributable to the fact of its efficacy as a remedy for chills and fever, bilious remittents, and as a preventive of the various forms of malarial diseases. In those portions of the West and South where complaints of this nature prevail, and in the tropics, it is particularly esteemed for the protective influence which it exerts and it has been very widely adopted as a substitute for the dangerous and comparatively inefficient alkaloid, sulphate of quinine. Physicians have not been among the last to concede its merits, and the emphatic professional indorsements which it has received have added to the reputation it has obtained at home and abroad.

LONDON

Queen's Jubilee Matters Overshadow All Other Things in Interest.

A Racy Divorce Case With the Usual Nastiness of Nobility.

Theaters Very Dull With the Single Exception of Frohman's Crowd.

London, May 22.—(Copyright, 1897, by the Associated Press.)—London is already plunged into the queen's jubilee preparations and for the next six weeks it promises to be the most uncomfortable city in Europe. Along the route of the procession the fronts of buildings are disfigured by the hideous scaffoldings preparatory to building seats. Even churches like St. Martins-in-the-Fields have been sold to speculators, who have almost completely covered the edifice mentioned with building preparations, a little shed reading "services as usual" being about the only indication left of the church proper. St. Paul's cathedral is likewise disfigured by huge stands.

The price of provisions has already advanced and everything has at least doubled in cost. Forthe jubilee week several of the large hotels refuse to make any definite arrangements for rooms even to old patrons until a week before the jubilee. Every person who has been able to do so has let his or her house for the celebration and is preparing to flee to the country. The fact is that everyone in London is, to use a slang expression, "on the make."

The queen's drawing room at Buckingham palace was by far the smartest of the year. The weather was beautiful and enormous crowds of people lined the streets in the neighborhood of the palace and the mall. A striking feature of the day was the many state carriages in line. The coach of the duke and duchess of Marlborough eclipsed all of them. It cost $7000 and has taken a long time to finish. The body was of a deep red and the coach was adorned in addition to a ducal crown and coat of arms, by a princely corona as the duke of Marlborough is a prince of the Roman empire, and as the Daily News says: "He is not inclined to abate one jot or tittle of his titles." The supports of the carriages are in the shape of mounted silver serpents, with real silver ornaments made by a skilled jeweler. There were three footmen behind the coach. They wore red liveries which were covered with gold embroidery, that part of the work being done in Italy in order to insure the embroidery against tarnishing.

There is a story printed here to the effect that when the duke of Marlborough order his liveriesv he chose a brighter red, but the tailor refused to make the liveries of that color and pointed out to the duke that the particular shade of red which he most admired was confined to the use of royalty. The duke, as a result, was obliged to be contented with the shade of red used by his ancestors for the liveries of their servants. The duchess of Marlborough wore more jewels than anyone present at the drawing-room and her very tall diamond crown and her necklace composed of the famous Vanderbilt pearls caused a sensation.

The trial at Edinburgh of the suit for divorce brought by Sir Charles Henry Ross of Balnagowen castle, Rosshire, against his wife Lady Winifred Ross, is furnishing considerable gossip, as the parties to the suit are prominent. The proceedings, which were commenced last year, were resumed on Wednesday before the Edinburgh court of sessions. Lady Ross is a sister of Lady Olivia Carna, who was cited to testify. The co-respondents, DeBathe and Brinton, are officers of the Eighth Hussars and life guards, respectively. Some of the evidence presented was of a nature too disgusting for publication. The husband's charge of adultery was fully confirmed by the testimony of the servants, who told extraordinary tales of the conduct of Lady Ross house and in secluded nooks in the house and and in secluded nooks in the park of Balnagowen. These details were so salacious that Lady Ross left the court.

With few exceptions there has been a remarkable slump in the business of the theaters. The suddenness of the collapse has nonplussed the managers. Plays that have been doing splendidly have gone to nothing, and it is evident the queen's jubilee will not be a blessing to theatrical managers. A remarkable exception to this rule is the Adelphi theater, where the Americans are appearing, which is packed nightly. Every paper in town bestows the highest praise upon the American company of actors, and Charles Frohman is so pleased that he is trying to cancel his American dates and stay here during the autumn and winter. As he is obliged to surrender the Adelphi on June 12 to Sarah Bernhardt, he is seeking for another house; but if he is unable to find one, he will take his company to Paris until the end of Bernhardt's season, as he wants to see how the Parisians will receive a purely American play.

John Hare, with "The Hobby Horse," is doing well at the Court theater, and Mlle. Jane May and her French company are doing fairly well at the Royalty theater, matinees only. Mrs. John Wood has reappeared in "Belle Belair" at the Avenue theater, "The Geisha" at Daly's, "The Circus Girl" at he Galety, "The French Maid" at the Terrys, and "Saucy Sally" at the Comedy, are other successes of the present moment.

Theatrical London is to have a new sensation—no less than a presentation of "Hogarth" on the stage. For two years Weedon Grossmith has been engaged in designing the costumes, scenery and properties of a play, specially written for him by Thomas Hatton, intended to faithfully transfer to the "traffic of the stage" the famous series of the Hogarth pictures, known as "The Idle Apprentice," which, by the way, will be the title of the play. The part of the hero, Jack Sheppard, will be played by Weedon Grossmith. The principal role, however, will be that of Jonathan Wild, the celebrated thief catcher, and as yet no one has been cast for the part. Mr. Grossmith's wife, May Palfrey, will be included in the cast. "The Idle Apprentice" will be a drama in four acts. The first act will be divided into no less than five scenes. The principal difficulty that now confronts Mr. Grossmith is to find a theater with a stage sufficiently large to admit of the setting of his piece.

The management of the Haymarket have accepted from Sydney Grundy an application of a well known work by the elder Alexander Dumas. It is a pure comedy of the domestic order, with the scene laid in the romantic period of Louis XIV. It will not depend on its scenery, for it contains only one scene, but will rely solely on characterization and dialogue, the situation being such as occurs only in a drawing room.

Ralph Lumley's next new play is to be given at the Avenue, with a cast that will include Mrs. John Wood, Weedon Grossmith, Miss Fitzroy, Irene Vanburgh, Martin Harvey and Aubrey Fitzgerald. Mrs. John Woods' part is that of the middleaged lady and former court beauty.

Beerbohm Tree is reported to be considering a proposition for the production of an adaptation of Blanche Roosevelt's novel, "The Cooper Queen." If the proposal comes to anything, the stage version will be written by Miss Roosevelt herself and Charles Brookfield.

BLEEDING PILES

And all other forms of this common and often dangerous disease readily cured without pain or inconvenience.

Thousands of men and women are afflicted with some sort of piles, without either knowing the exact nature of the trouble, or knowing it, are careless enough to allow it to run without taking the simple means offered for a radical cure.

The failure of salves and ointments to permanently cure piles has led many to believe the only cure to be a surgical operation.

Surgical operations are dangerous to life and, moreover, not often entirely successful, and at his time are no longer used by the best physicians or recommended by them.

The safest and surest way to cure any case of piles, whether blind, bleeding or protruding, is to use the Pyramid Pile cure, composed of healing vegetable oils, and absolutely free from mineral poisons and opiates. The following letter from a Pittsburg gentleman, a severe sufferer from bleeding piles, gives some idea of the prompt, effectual character of this pile cure. He writes:

I take pleasure writing these few lines to let you know that I did not sleep for three months except for a short time each night because of a bad case of bleeding piles. I was down in bed and the doctors did me no good. A good brother told me of the Pyramid Pile Cure, and I bought from my druggist three 50 cents boxes. They cured me, and I will soon be able to go to my work again. WILLIAM HANDSCHU, 46 Street, Cotton alley, below Butter St., Pittsburg, Pa.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is not only the safest and surest remedy for piles, but is the best known and most popular. Every physician and druggist in the country knows it and what it will do.

Send for little book on cause and cure of piles, describing all forms of piles and the proper treatment.

The Pyramid can be found at all drug stores at 50 cents per package.

IN THE DAKOTAS.

NORTH DAKOTA.

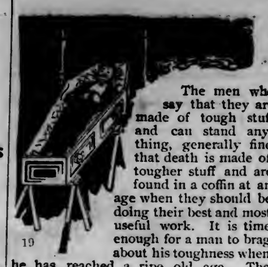
Judge Morgan has signed an order authorizing the stockholders of the Merchants' National bank at Devil's Lake to pay off all claims of depositors, after which they will regain possession of the bank assets. Depositors will be paid in full with interest on their accounts from Jan. 4, the day the bank closed. Bank Examiner Anheir will be here next week to superintend the transfer. Claims against the bank amounting to about $7500 and held by Ramsey and Pierce counties were paid by the officers of the bank some weeks ago.

At an early hour yesterday morning Harry Pond, a night bartender at Dickinson, was shot through the shoulder by Walter Robinson, a young soldier from Standing Rock. The two had some words and exchanged several shots over the bar at close range. Pond was running as news agent on the Northern Pacific last winter.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

A year ago, because County Commissioner Coulson at Yankton opposed awarding the contract for stock banners to Dr. Coney the latter assaulted the commissioner, biting his finger. From this blood poisoning followed, resulting in the death of Coulson. Coney was indicted but the case was finally dismissed. Now the commissioners have awarded the contract for the ensuing year to Coney, and a strong protest has been filed by a number of prominent business men.

The best of all the "scopes" and "graphs" is the Ediscope at the Pavilion tonight—Free.



The men who say that they are made of tough stuff and can stand anything, generally find that death is made of tougher stuff and are found in a coffin at an age when they should be doing their best and most useful work. It is time enough for a man to brag about his toughness when he has reached a ripe old age. The men who live long lives are the ones who take care of their health in youth and maturity. They realize the truth of the old saying that "a stitch in time saves nine." The ones who don't do this die off of nervous prostration, heart failure, and consumption.

The best of all health-restorers and health preservers is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption. It wards off nervous troubles and wasting diseases. It corrects all disorders of the digestion, invigorates the liver and restores the appetite. It fills the arteries with the pure, rich, red blood of health. It tears down, and carries off old, inert and half-dead tissues and replaces them by new. It builds firm, healthy flesh. It makes the muscles strong and elastic and steadies and tones the nerves. It cures debility and weakness of every description. It is the product of the life-time experience and study of an eminent and skillful specialist, Dr. R. V. Pierce, for thirty years chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. Thousands of men and women have testified to its virtues. Druggists sell it.

There is nothing in the world "just as good," although avaricious druggists will sometimes say so for the sake of the greater profit to be made upon the inferior article.

BRANDY

California's Food Inspector Reports That Beverage as a Human Food.

Which Leads to a Clash With the United States Authorities.

During the Hostilities the Consignment of Brandy Vanished Completely.

San Francisco, May 22.—Chief Food Inspector Dockery and the United States government, represented by Collector of the Port Wise, United States District Attorney Foote and Marshal Barry Baldwin, came into collision last night. This clash of authority occurred in the freight yards of the Southern Pacific company. It was the outcome of Dockery's attempt in the interest of pure food, and the good name of one of the most important industries of California, to prevent the shipment of 105 barrels of adulterated brandy to London.

The inspector located the consignment on the cars, and bored holes in three of the barrels, allowing the brandy to escape. Before he could destroy the rest, W. J. Hardy, local freight agent of the company, and E. F. Gerald, foreman of the freight sheds, laid violent hands on him. The railroad men telephoned to the police station, and in response Sergt. Donovan and a posse went to the yards. They refused to interfere with Dockery.

As Hardy and Gerald continued to protest, the inspector arrested them for interfering with an officer in the discharge of his duty. They were released on their own recognizance. During Dockery's absence from the freight yard the consignment of brandy was switched from its original location, and when he returned he could not find it. The railroad people sent for Collector Wise and Marshal Baldwin. When they arrived they had a conference, and it was agreed to do nothing more in the matter until today. Dockery says he acted under the pure food laws.

NAVY MIXED UP IN IT.

San Francisco, May 22.—Naval Officer John P. Irish has notified Secretary of the Treasury Gage of the action of the San Francisco United States manufacturers bonded warehouse in this city in persisting in the shipment of adulterated brandy without the permit from the naval officer. The warehouse company maintains that the permit of the collector is sufficient. A decision from the secretary is shortly expected.

ORIENTAL NEWS.

Mrs. Carew, the Poisoner, Transferred from Yokohoma.

Yokohama, May 22.—After repeated false reports of her transfer, Mrs. Carew, the poisoner, was taken from the British jail at Yokohama and conveyed on board the steamer Oceanic on April 23, booked it is believed, for Hong Kong. The utmost secrecy was preserved regarding her and all inquiries of the various officials as to her destination, met with non-committal replies.

Prince Lobanoff, the Russian consul at Yokohama, was assaulted last month by three soldiers while walking to his villa, at Hayama. On approaching the consul two of them extended their arms and blocking the road, seized him by the breast. The consul endeavored to get away but was followed closely by one of the rowdy soldiers who chased him with a bamboo stick.

Late advices from Seoul, state that the negotiations entered into by the Chinese government to borrow 100,000,000 taels from England in order to pay the whole indemnity to Japan this year, have been broken.

Several settings of the cabinet council have been devoted to a discussion of the proposed engagement of the Russian officers and men with the result that the spirited antagonism of the opponents of the measure has had the effect of postponing the matter indefinitely.

UNITY'S DISCORD.

Drunken Railroad Laborers Have a Fatal Debauch.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 22.—Unity, a village on the line of the New Pittsburg, Bessemer & Lake Erie railroad, is in a state of terror. Yesterday was pay day among the railroad laborers and a general debauch is in progress. Street brawls are numerous and reports have been received at police headquarters that four were fatally shot last night. Among them was Patrick Keefe, a foreman of the road, who was killed while trying to prevent five negroes from robbing William Early, a white man. Keefe was shot in the left breast and kidneys, and Early received a bullet in the leg. The others said to have been fatally wounded were colored laborers and their names are not known.

Will Cut the Grades.

The St. Paul & Duluth Railroad company will cut down the only two remaining heavy grades on the main line this season, which will make the roadbed as perfect as it can be made. Work is to be commenced on it immediately. The company will not buy any more rolling stock this year, as reported, as it already has a larger equipment than any other road in the country owns mileage, with the exception of the two range roads in this county.

The evening paper is always carefully read, especially in the home circle, and is therefore the best advertising medium.

THE TRADE OUTLOOK.

Dun Sees a Great Evidence of Improvement.

New York, May 22.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade today says: Unmistakable evidence of improvement comes in the general increase of commercial loans, mostly for Eastern merchants or companies, though some well known houses in Middle West appear with considerable rediscounts from the South. Not for a long time have commercial loans been fully half the whole. The distinct change gives proof than new business has been larger than many supposed. Receipts of money from the interior exceed shipments $1,500,000, mostly from the Middle West. Exports of gold have no influence and only signify the willingnes of Russia to pay a price for the gold needed. The excess of merchandise imports to answer demands for half a year to come involves a greater excess of exports when the anticipatory movement ends, and crops begin to move, which fact renders large outgoes of gold less likely and gives the country a stronger position in international markets. Meanwhile there is a continuing increase, distinct though gradual, in the volume of business in demand for products of manufacturers considering the time of year in movement of grain and produce.

Western receipts of corn were 1,656,677 bushels against 1,485,570 and Atlantic exports 2,188,825 against 1,608,748 last year, notwithstanding the enormous increase hitherto.

Wheat again cheated hopeful buyers and fell almost 4 cents, closing 3¼ cents lower for the week. Corn was a shade weaker. Cotton once more hopefully advanced to 7⅝ cents but fell back to 7¾ cents with poor support here and abroad. Both the volume of stocks and the condition of domestic and foreign markets for goods hinder advance, and later acreage reports are better.

The iron industry has quite an increase in new business, and though not in all branches. Part was due to the rupture of the steel beam pool and the fall in price from 1.35 to 1.25 nominally quoted, and some good structural contracts were at once obtained. Part is due to a better demand for plates and for pipe, of which one large contract for Indiana fields were placed, and part to growing needs for cars and vessels. There is also some increase in rods, though the season for wire and nails is nearing an end, because of an expected pool of rod mills. Low Southern freight rates marketed a little more iron at the North and Eastern foundry is slightly lower with gray forge only $8.25 at Pittsburg. The Carnegie works are now turning out 3000 tons rails daily, almost all on old orders, and exports of finished products increase.

Sales of copper, said to be almost 60,000,000 pounds, have stiffened the price to 11¾ cents for lake, and tin rose to 13¾ cents in spite of large arrivals, though lead was weaker at $3.25 and tin plates at $3.30. Coke is also a shade lower.

Sales of wool are still greater than when the mills were busy, but manufacturers are doing scarcely anything, most of their positive demand for months ahead having been supplied. Woolen goods are dull but prices are firm. The strike of clothing hands here somewhat restricts the new demand. Western holders begin to offer at 1 to 1½ cents lower than of late. Cotton goods are without change in prices, print cloths still at the lowest on record.

Failures for the week have been 248 in the United States against 27 last year, and thirty-seven in Canada against twenty-eight last year.

WHAT BRADSTREET SEES.

New York, May 22.—Bradstreet's today says: The slight improvement in trade is in the tendency of business to increase at a few cities in the Northwest, on the Pacific coast and in South Atlantic and Gulf states. There is increased buying at Baltimore, Birmingham, Atlanta and New Orleans, where trade has revived on the announcement that Northern Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas flooded districts are being placed under cultivation and that the damage done is less than expected. There are increased sales at Milwaukee, Omaha, Chicago and St. Louis, and exports of general merchandise and lumber from San Francisco have increased. Advices from California are that lack of seasonable rains and long continued dry winds have injured the whole fruit crop. Large Eastern centers report the movement of merchandise slow and trade dull. The season is so far advanced that no general gain is looked for until after fall buying sets in.

The usual industrial disturbances have marked building and other industries, notably clothing, mining, iron and steel. Manufacturers of woolens are well stocked with raw material, but owing to slowness of orders prices are easier. Makers of cotton goods are at a disadvantage owing to the relative high price of cotton and the increase in production of products. There is no gain in demand for iron and steel, prices for which continue low. The report that the steel billet and the wire nail makers are seeking to form a pool to advance prices is not confirmed.

Exports of wheat—flour included—from both coasts of the United States and from Montreal this week amount to 2,665,502 bushels, compared with 2,182,000 bushels last week, 1,806,000 bushels in the week a year ago, 2,754,000 bushels two years ago, 2,310,000 bushels three years ago, and as contrasted with 2,106,000 bushels in the like week of 1893. Exports of Indian corn amount to 3,190,043 bushels, compared with 3,096,000 bushels last week, 1,656,000 bushels in the week a year ago, 1,532,000 in the week two years ago, 597,000 bushels three years ago, and as contrasted with 765,000 bushels in the like week of 1893.

There are 245 business failures throughout the United States this week, which is not far from what may be called the normal. This total is compared with 251 last week, 216 in the third week of May last year, 206 in the like week of 1895, 237 in 1894 and 47 in the corresponding week of 1892. There are twenty-one business failures reported from the Dominion of Canada this week, compared with thirty-one last week, twenty-eight in the week a year ago and twenty-five two years ago.

United States Minister Terrell escorted Maj. Gen. Nelson A. Miles of the United States army, who was accompanied by his aide de camp, Capt. Gamus and two secretaries of the embassy, to the ceremony of the Selamlik at Constantinople yesterday, after which Gen. Miles was received by the sultan, who gave him a special audience.

At Tacoma, Wash., a single robber yesterday afternoon held up a car on the Steilacoom Electric line. As he got on the platform he pulled a mask over his face, produced a revolver and ordered Superintendent Dame of the motor line and Motorman Wellman, to a compartment in the rear of the car. They complied with alacrity. The robber then ordered the passengers to hold up their hands and commenced relieving them of their valuables, but Superintendent Dame drew his gun and fired through the compartment door at the robber, who returned the fire. The robber dropped dead with bullets through his lungs and heart. Dame was shot in the arm and Jewett Smith, a passenger, received a ball in the leg.

Miss Maude Coleman, daughter of Isaac Coleman, of Maine Prairie, Minn., was perhaps fatally injured by a shot from a revolver in the hands of Fred Greely, of Kimball, yesterday. He did not know it was loaded and snapped the weapon in the girl's face. The bullet struck her in the waist and was deflected downwards into the abdomen by her corset steel. She hovers between life and death.

At Folsom, Cal., Benito Lopez, 70 years old, was hanged in the state prison yesterday for the murder of George Washburn, a wealthy ranch owner.

Some more indictments were made public at St. Paul yesterday having been turned in by the grand jury as another result of its investigation of the failed banks. Two of these are against trustees of the Minnesota Savings bank and a third was William Bickel, Sr.; the others were against Alfred S. Kittson and John F. Baker.

ASTRONOMERS DIFFER.

Lick Observatory Staff Have Some Internal Trouble.

San Francisco, May 22.—Director Holden and Professor Hussey of Lick observatory are at outs. A peace commission is already on its way to the scene of hostilities, headed by Judge C. W. Slack, and directed by the regents to hear their grievances, to arbitrate their differences if possible, and if not, to recommend some course that will restore harmony among the astronomers. Timothy Guy Phelps will probably assist in the investigation. Governor Budd was to have been present, but was recalled to Sacramento on business.

The difficulty began with the inability of Professor Holden and his subordinates to agree. After the resignation of Professor Barnard, Holden recommended Professor Hussey of Stanford university for the vacancy. At first Hussey refused, but afterwards he reconsidered and accepted the offer. The new astronomer declares that Professor Holden told him he was to take Barnard's place and go on with Barnard's work.

Director Holden has represented to Judge Slack and others of the regents that Hussey was never employed under any such agreement. Judge Slack is anxious to compromise the matter if possible. He thinks both men may be satisfied, and hopes to prevent any breach of the peace, though the two men have not had written communication with each other for some time, and affairs are quite as frigid on top of the mountain as they were during Barnard's refuge there.

COREA'S NEW RAILROAD.

Washington, May 22.—United States Minister Sill at Zoul, Corea, reports to the state department under date of April 12 last that work on the Seoul Chemulpo railroad has been and is progressing favorably. The concession for this road is held by James Morse, an American, and was granted March 29, 1896, upon condition that the construction of the railroad was begun within one year from its date.

STATE SUPREME COURT.

Justice Collins Hands Down a Batch of Decisions.

St. Paul, May 22.—Seven decisions, signed by Justice Collins, were rendered yesterday by the supreme court. Two were in damage suits against St. Paul concerns, and in both the judgments of the lower court giving plaintiffs a verdict were affirmed. Jacob Pruke sued the South Park Foundry and Machine company for $10,000 damages for personal injuries received while as an employe of the company he was attempting to put a belt on an overhead pully. He got a verdict of $3000 in the trial court. The supreme court held that the evidence was sufficient, as to defendants negligence, and that this negligence was the cause of the injury, to support the verdict in the plaintiff's favor.

James Flannagan was run down by a street car while driving a hack across the tracks of the St. Paul City Railway company. The trial court awarded him $730 damages, from which the company appealed, alleging contributory negligence. The verdict is upheld, the court declaring that the motoneer was negligent in the operation of the car, and that there was no contributory negligence that would preclude a recovery of damages.

Two of the decisions were land cases, and in each the lower court was reversed. The case of A. D. W. Smith, respondent, vs. Lillie Lambert, appellant, was a dispute over 120 acres of land, which the plaintiff had purchased at a tax sale. A certificate, issued at the time of the sale was not correct, and another was issued two and one-half years later, setting forth a correct statement of the facts. The court holds that a certificate of sale issued by the county auditor to a purchaser of lands forfeited to the state under the provisions of general laws of 1881, chapter 125, is not valid, unless executed at the time of the sale or within a reasonable time thereafter.

The other reversal was in re the petition of H. B. Eble, et al, Louis Parier, appellant, vs. the board of county commissioners of Itasca county, respondent. The other decisions were as follows:

Pabst Brewing company, appellant, vs. W. W. Butchart, sheriff, etc., St. Louis county, Minn., respondent; judgment affirmed.

Pabst Brewing company, appellant, vs. Edward Jensen, assistant police court officer of Duluth, Minn., respondent; order affirmed.

C. E. Danforth, respondent, vs. National Chemical company, et al, defendants, F. B. Hart, appellant; order affirmed.

COLOMBIAN COAL FIELDS.

Washington, May 22.—The discovery of one of the largest coal fields in the world is reported to the state department by the United States consul at Cartagena at Colombia. The fields are in the department of Bolivar in Colombia, eight to twelve miles from the bay of Cispati, and forty-eight miles from Cartagena. The coal is semi-anthracite and anthracite, and is good steam coal. The fields contain about 300,000,000 tons, and comprise 215,000 acres.

CUBA'S EGG FAMINE.

Washington, May 22.—An egg famine has resulted in Cuba from the war, and United States Vice Consul Hyatt at Santiago, suggests that there is an excellent market here for American eggs. The eggs sell in Cuba for about 40 cents a dozen. The duties amount to about 10 cents a dozen.

CAN PARADE IN DETROIT.

Washington, May 22.—The citizens of Detroit have made application to the state department to have the Queen's Own, a British regiment stationed at Toronto, but about to visit Windsor on the occasion of the queen's birthday celebration, May 24, parade in Detroit with their arms. The request has been granted by the department at the instance of Secretary Alger.

STRONGER

Wheat Market Was Bullish Today and Prices Advanced One Cent.

Firmness of the Liverpool Cables Caused Strength at the Opening.

Rumors of an Unfavorable French Crop Report Had Bullish Effect.

Wheat opened steady and slightly higher. Early news was of both kinds, but the firmness of Liverpool, following yesterday's American decline, was paramount for the time being. Clearances for the week were large, 2,655,000 bus. Argentine shipments were light, but Beerbohm predicted the weekly world's shipments of 6,000,000 bus notwithstanding. The weather West was favorable and Northwest receipts were heavy, 694 cars against 346 last week and 383 the year before. Rumors of a very unfavorable French crop report also had a bullish effect.

Trading was very dull on the Duluth board. July wheat opened 1c higher at 73¾c and advanced to 73¾c during the first half hour. It ruled dull but firm and took an other spurt after 11 o'clock, selling up to 73⅞c. The close was with sellers at 74c, an advance of 1c for the day. The mills bought 60,000 bus of cash stuff at 1c over July and shippers took 10,000 bus at ¾c over July. Following were the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, cash, 75¾c; May, 75¾c. No. 1 northern, cash, 74⅝c; May, 74⅝c; July, 74c asked; September, 67¾c asked. No. 2 northern, 72¾c. No. 3, 67¾@68¾c. Rejected, 51½@67¾c. To arrive—No. 1 hard, 75¾c; No. 1 northern, 74⅝c; Rye, 35c. No. 2 cars, 21½c; No. 3 cars, 21c. Flax, 77c.

Car inspection—Wheat, 315; oats, 69; rye, 2; barley, 17; flax, 15. Receipts—Wheat, 161,461 bus; oats, 17,900 bus; rye, 2175 bus; barley, 16,720 bus; flax, 9089 bus. Shipments—Wheat, 185,592 bus; oats, 196,718 bus; barley, 2385 bus; flax, 94,716 bus.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 10 Chamber of Commerce and 307 Board of Trade, Chicago, May 22.—Notwithstanding the dull cables and very bearish feeling last night wheat opened strong and closed with a full cent advance maintained. An easy feeling soon after the opening was a probable reflex of the continued large Northwestern receipts and the glowing accounts of the growing crop which come from that section, but the weakness was short lived for wheat was wanted under 73c and the news turned very bullish. The week's clearances were the largest for several weeks and a fair amount of new business was reported here and at the seaboard while St. Louis traders were excited over the presence of an order for 100,000 bus No. 2 wheat to go to France, only 45,000 bus of which could be filled and the remainder of the 100,000 bus cargo being made up of rye. The feature of the day was the official French crop report which claimed a decrease in acreage in France of 10 per cent and a decrease in condition of 20 per cent. This would suggest a yield of about 217,000,000 bus against 237,000,000 bus last year. The world's shipments for the week will be heavy and the weather in the West is everything a bear could wish. The tone of the market at the close was strong but the best buyers were shorts and we still believe profits should be taken on the strong spots.

Corn and oats weaker early but closed steady. Receipts are increasing slowly, but the effect has been overdone in anticipation and 25c corn does not look like a very good short sale.

Provisions weaker on larger estimates and increasing stocks. Packers were best sellers.

Puts, July wheat, 71¼@71½c bid.
Calls, July wheat, 73@73⅛-¼c bid.
Curb, July wheat, 72c.

Woman's Writes

Believe in Woman's Writes? Of course we do. Who could help it when women write such convincing words as these: "For seven years I suffered with scrofula. I had a good physician. Every means of cure was tried in vain. At last I was told to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which entirely cured me after using seven bottles." —Mrs. JOHN A. GENTLE, Fort Fairfield, Me., Jan. 26, 1896.

WEST END

Fellowship Meeting at Plymouth Church Was Well Attended.

Pastors at the Head of the Lakes Contribute Several Papers.

Sawmill Workers to Meet Tomorrow—Work at the Missabe Car Shops.

The attendance at the fellowship meeting held in the Plymouth Congregational church yesterday afternoon and evening was large, and there was great interest shown in the exercises. The afternoon session began at 4:30 o'clock with devotional exercises conducted by Rev. W. W. Newell. A paper on "Claims of the Prayer Meeting and Christian Endeavor" prepared by C. S. Weaver, was read by Mr. Weaver's son as he was unable to be present. The subject of "Prayer Meetings" was discussed generally by those in attendance, and the afternoon session was concluded by a talk on the "Suburban Church" by Rev. L. A. Brink.

An intermission was then taken and an excellent supper was served by the ladies. Rev. C. H. Patton presided in the evening because of the absence of Dr. Salter. Reports of the condition of the following churches at the head of the lakes were read: Plymouth, West Duluth; Pilgrim and Morley, Duluth; Pilgrim and Hope, Superior, and Mayflower, New Duluth. Rev. C. H. Patton discussed "Civic Movements," Rev. E. E. Day "Winning the Child," and Rev J. R. Smith "God's Revelation Progressive." The Morley Sunday school orchestra furnished music for the meeting.

MILL WORKERS' UNION.

The Sawmill Workers' Protective union will hold its next regular meeting Tuesday evening, June 1, in Great Eastern hall, because the hall is engaged for Wednesday evening the regular meeting night. The meetings will thereafter be held the first and third Wednesday nights of each month. An open meeting of the Central union will be held tomorrow afternoon at Normanna hall, which will be addressed by President McEwen of the Trades assembly and others. The West Duluth union is also arranging for a mass meeting at an early date not yet definitely determined upon.

HAS CAR WORKS.

The repair shops of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railroad company are steadily undergoing a process of evolution and are fast approaching a place where they may be classed as a car manufactory. The first complete car made in the shops is a caboose that has just been turned out and which has been christened No. 17. The car is better than any of its kind in the road equipment and the best part of it is that it has been built cheaper than it could have been purchased at a factory and delivered.

A FUNERAL TRAIN.

A special train will be run from Proctorknott to the Union depot tomorrow afternoon for the accommodation of the funeral party attending the last rites in honor of the 2-year-old daughter of C. B. Gilbert. The funeral will take place at the residence at 1 o'clock. Carriages will be in waiting at the Union depot at 2:30 to take the remains to Forest Hill cemetery, where the interment will take place.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

At Plymouth Congregational church, Fifty-fourth avenue west and Bristol street tomorow evening there will be a praise service. Miss Smallwood, soprano, and two other soloists are expected. Rev. W. W. Newell will speak briefly.

Rev. William A. Shannon will preach in the Asbury M. E. church tomorrow morning at 10:30 and in the Methodist church at Proctorknott at 2:30 in the afternoon.

There will be no services at the Westminster Presbyterian church tomorrow owing to the absence of the pastor George E. Keithly, who is at Eagle Lake, Ind., attending the Presbyterian general assembly. Sunday school will be held at the usual hour.

Ring up tel. 3060, West Duluth Steam laundry.

WEAK AND COWARDLY.

Senator Teller's criticism of the policy of "masterly inactivity" pursued by the McKinley administration on the Cuban question is thoroughly justified. The present administration's course has been as cowardly and weak, and as greatly in defiance of public sentiment, as was the course pursued by the Cleveland administration. Indeed there has been practically no change in policy. The Republican foreign policy is as contemptible as was the foreign policy of President Cleveland and Secretary Olney. The aggressiveness of the Republican party, of which we heard so much years ago and which did have an existence then, and of which Republican spellbinders boasted last fall, seems to have entirely disappeared, and in its place has arisen a policy of temporizing, of inaction, of subservience to the wishes of a certain commercial class, largely resident in the East, until the Republican party is no longer recognizable by its administrations.

We are told by those supposed to be in the confidence of the administration that President McKinley has not yet decided upon any Cuban policy, and the old bugaboo is trotted out that the talk on the subject does harm to business and causes irritation with Spain. Was anything more weak and cowardly as well as absurd ever uttered? One Washington correspondent who is regarded as drawing his inspiration from the White House, says: "The president believes that the passage of the tariff bill will set the wheels going in all the shops, will cause work to resume in the mines, bring hoarded money out of tin boxes and stockings and brighten up every home in the land. He believes, too, that the agitation on the Cuban question creates distrust and apprehension among capitalists and postpones the return of prosperity. He thinks that what the country needs most is peace and quiet and relief from commercial, political and financial disturbances." In other words, he would have the people of the United States remain silent, while Weyler and his bands of Spanish cutthroats butchered and ravished the inhabitants of Cuba, and drove them to endure the pangs of hunger, in conformity with that "spirit of Christian civilization," to which the Spanish minister so touchingly refers in the letter, made public this morning, which he wrote in reply to Mr. Olney's offer of mediation. The American people have been bunkoed so often by this sort of talk that it is astonishing the present administration has the effrontery to try the old game again. The settlement of the Cuban question would allay any "distrust" or "apprehension" which may be felt by "capitalists," and the only way it can be settled is by decisive action by this country.

DOLLARS AND GOOD ROADS.

Charles Kendall Adams, the eminent educator and writer, now president of Wisconsin university, while in Europe not long ago, traveled a thousand miles by coach in the Alps. There were six persons in the coach. It required thirty-three days. They went through four of the great passes. They never drove less than twenty-five miles a day and frequently as high as fifty, yet in making that one thousand miles, in thirty-three days, they had but one span of horses. It is explained in the fact that the entire distance covered had been supplied with superb roads. Dr. Adams is enthusiastic as an advocate of good roads. After giving his experience as above stated, he asked, "What would be the condition of a team of horses driven in this country, over mountain roads, from twenty-five to fifty miles a day, six days in a week, for a month?" The statement of facts and the question furnish ample food for reflection.

A dollar mark placed before a row of figures as naturally attracts the attention of the average reader as a pretty face attracts the attention of the average person. If there is a name, particularly the name of a well-known man close to the row of figures, the paragraph is about as certain to be read as a telegram sent by a senator to an officeseeker announcing his appointment to the place he was seeking. Men who have been spending years in computing the cost of transporting farm products from the farm to the railroad in this country, give it as their firm belief that the products thus transported amounted in 1896 to the fabulous sum of 2,659,875,147 tons for one mile, and that the cost of such wagon transportation was $265,000,000, or at the rate of 25 cents a ton for each mile. They estimate that the amount of products transported by wagon on good gravel or broken stone road should be done at a saving of two-thirds of the vast amount, an amount so great that it seems almost beyond comprehension.

Now, if these same gentlemen, one of them the editor of an agricultural paper, John M. Stahl, another a farmer, another Isaac B. Potter, president of the League of American Wheelmen, and that class of men, would give us an estimate of the number of miles of good road the $265,000,000 that good roads would save per year, would construct, it would be comparatively easy to state how long it would require to furnish the country with a system of good roads that would enable it each year to save more than a half a billion of dollars in the matter of wagon transportation, to say nothing about the great pleasure such roads would give the people; to say nothing about the hundreds of millions of dollars that would be added to the value of farm and other property; to say nothing about the convenience in reaching school, church, creamery, cheese factory, and so on, and so on.

A SPANISH CRISIS.

Affairs are rapidly approaching a serious state in Spain. Indeed it may be correctly said that a crisis now exists, and the outlook is favorable for the overthrow of the ministry headed by Senor Canovas. The minister of foreign affairs and a senator had a fight yesterday, in which the senator was knocked down. Then the foreign minister presented his resignation to the premier. The trouble arose over the Cuban question, it being charged by the foreign minister that Senor Sagasta's speech the other day had contributed to bring about the vote in the American senate in favor of recognizing the Cuban insurgents as belligerents. To this the Liberals retorted that the cowardice and feebleness of the Spanish government were responsible.

Senor Sagasta's remarks a few days gave warning of the impending ministerial crisis. While the Liberal leaders have not approved the policy of Senor Canovas, they have cordially suported it until there could be a full and fair trial. Senor Sagasta had a three-hours' interview with the queen last winter, when he warned her that a policy of reconciliation must be adopted toward Cuba, or the Liberals would overthrow the government. The reforms offered last February were the result of his interview, and he and his associates have been waiting to see whether they would be carried into effect in good faith. It was the belief among diplomats that Senor Sagasta's speech was intended as a warning to the ministry that their sincerity, as well as their policy, is to be attacked, and that they can no longer rely upon the co-operation of their political opponents. The Liberals have no confidence in Weyler, and have several times demanded his recall. They believe peace is not possible as long as Weyler is in Cuba, and that no reforms that can be contrived will be acceptable to the people if he is permitted to carry them out. It is evident that Senor Sagasta considers himself absolved from his pledge to the queen, and that a political contest in Spain may now be expected. Such a contest will undoubtedly result in the defeat of the Canovas government. Premier Canovas has declared again that he will not accept mediation. This being the case, President McKinley's report effort to secure a settlement of the Cuban question cannot succeed, as long as Canovas remains in power. Should he be overthrown, and Senor Sagasta form a Liberal ministry, President McKinley's peace overtures might be favorably considered. But even Sagasta might refuse to consider them.

The Philadelphia Record notes the fact that President McKinley and Vice President Hobart travel by different roads when going to a public ceremony. It is one of the precautionary measures that hedge about the lives of the two foremost men in the national government, the idea being that if an accident upon the rail should cause the death of one of the illustrious men the other would still be spared to the country. It was for this reason that ex-President Cleveland invariably rode upon the Pennsylvania railroad when he journeyed from the capital to Philadelphia or New York and Vice President Stevenson traveled on the Baltimore & Ohio. President McKinley and Vice President Hobart, when they acted the recent Grant celebration in New York, followed the same plan.

An exchange says that if the old soldier pensioner of Indiana, who became so delighted on receiving his pension voucher on May 7 that he went off at once and married an old sweetheart, could have anticipated his happy union by one week he might not only have left his name to the woman after he shall "shuffle off this mortal coil," but she would have been comforted by the right to a widow's pension. The bill introduced in congress by Senator Carter acts against this case, for it provides that "no widow shall hereafter be entitled to a pension on account of the services of her husband in the army or navy, unless it is shown that the marriage on which her claim is based was contracted prior to May 1, 1897."

The New York Herald says: "Things cannot go on as they are. If the dullness of trade, stagnation of industry and insufficient employment of labor were due to famine, war or pestilence, the people would bow to the inevitable and pray for relief. But we are afflicted in none of these ways. On the contrary, we are told there is too much food, too much iron and coal, too many manufactured goods—too much of everything that is needed to make people happy. The trouble is restricted markets and inability of would-be consumers to obtain these things."

According to a report issued by the Illinois bureau of labor statistics, the properties of the gas companies of Chicago can be duplicated for $15,000,000, and yet they are capitalized at $51,346,000. Evidently their stock has been inflated with gas as well as watered.

The eagles that were sent to Maj. McKinley in the course of the campaign last summer are to be set free. Of course they were a nuisance to Mr. McKinley, and he gave them to Canton for the park. The authorities have discovered that the laws of Ohio prohibit the keeping of an eagle in captivity, and will set them free. Now if they will free prosperity from captivity, we may all be happy.

The Omaha Bee says: "A section of Missouri is alarmed over the antics of a supposed wild man, who is prancing around almost naked, pursued by a score of deputy sheriff. It is supposed to be an aggravated case of sixteentoone." The Bee is mistaken. The man is merely looking for the prosperity that the Bee's friends promised last fall and for which he voted.

Senator Gallinger's amendment to the tariff bill, prohibiting the importation of goods made by contract labor, should be adopted. There is no reason why free American labor should be forced to meet the competition of foreign criminals.

Since Senators Hoar and Hale have discovered what a very small minority they are in the senate, perhaps they will subside and permit that body to act in accordance with the popular will, without further interference.

The higher the court the lower is its opinion of contempt cases. The supreme court of Ohio, in passing upon the appeal of an editor sentenced for contempt by an inferior court, remarked that contempt of a judge does not constitute contempt of court.

The News Tribune evidently recognizes the futility of publishing anything as news after The Herald has exploited it. This must be the reason why it said nothing today about the Florida-Roby collision on Lake Huron or the serious accident to the Welland canal.

A Havana dispatch says that Gen. Weyler has asked the queen of Spain to give his son the cross of Maria Christine and that this has caused a bad impression, as Weyler's son has not even seen the battlefields of Cuba. Perhaps he has been running the Weyler news bureau.

The morning paper the other day remarked that when a public official became known as "Honest John," etc., it was time to regard him with suspicion. It must have been thinking of that great patriot, "Honest Bob" Dunn.

A girl in Chicago of well-to-do parents stole a bicycle, and it is now pleaded in defense that she is a biklomaniac. Perhaps she is, but the best way to cure kleptomaniacs and biklomaniacs is to send them to jail.

It is related that a patient who was brought into the London hospital recently, on being told that his leg was fractured, breathed a sigh of relief and said in devout tones: "Thank God, it isn't broken."

The Superior Leader says: "Again we must caution contemporaries about speaking of the 50-cent dollar; it's only worth 47 cents now." And yet it passes every day for a full dollar.

Five more indictments against St. Paul bankers are reported. Ramsey county has a grand jury that commands admiration, because it is doing its duty, irrespective of persons.

It is said a Connecticut girl found a gold coin in the stomach of a pickerel. The Chicago Dispatch thinks the story is doubtful, because only suckers swallow gold.

Professor Level's theory that compressed air is breaking down the cliff at Niagara Falls is derided by scientists. They do not think the professor's head is level.

The brewers say the increased beer tax will fall on the consumer, but the consumer will not be slow to take notice which saloon fills the biggest glasses.

According to the weekly reviews by the commercial agencies, trade is making a better showing. There is room, however, for further improvement.

The Martin County Sentinel says that Senator Keller knows no more about sugar beets than he does about drinking water.

THE BIWABIK BUDGET.

The Biwabik Mine Opened for the Season's Work.

Biwabik, May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Biwabik mine was opened up this week for the season's business. It is not yet known how much ore will be shipped, or whether the Drake & Stratton company will do any stripping. The Biwabik-Bessemer company evidently thought it cheaper to pay 50 cents per ton royalty at the Biwabik than to take either the Adams or McKinley mines at lower royalty. On the basis of this year's prices it is understood that if any can be sold Biwabik ore will sell for $2.60 per ton, which is 20 cents per ton more than the Fayal ore brings. Shipments will commence next Monday. This revives hope in the village and the business men may yet enjoy a good season.

The Minnesota Ore company has settled with the watchman at the Hale and Col. Dorwin now has the pumps at work. The water is rapidly receding and shipping will be started about June 1.

The Cincinnati has been practically idle for two weeks past owing to too much water. A new pump has been ordered and will soon be in position, when mining will be resumed.

There is talk that the Adams mine at Eveleth will resume operations soon.

H. L. Loughlin, deputy county surveyor, who is working on the new county road near the head of Vermilion lake, was down to Virginia this week to visit his family. He says the road will open up an excellent farming country along the Little Fork river. He has taken up a claim there himself and says a number of his friends will also take homesteads. He says the country is literally overrun with game of all kinds and he anticipates great sport there next fall.

Col. W. E. Dorwin went to Duluth yesterday to spend Sunday with his family.

Miss Annie Laird made a trip to Duluth yesterday.

M. Steinberg of this place, contemplates opening a liquor store at Eveleth.

Mowry Bates of the Cincinnati went to Duluth yesterday and will return Monday.

DOOM OF A DREIBUND.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Iowa's free silver dreibund has no appreciable effect on the political situation. It is merely a formal reiteration of the combination which was buried under something like 60,000 votes last fall.

SHOTS AT THE PULPIT.

Sioux City Tribune: There are 3000 ministers in New York out of a job. The farmers in the West need help before long, and if it is well for the farmer to diversify crops, it may be for the preacher to diversify labor.

Minneapolis Journal: A Philadelphia minister smoked a cigarette while riding a bicycle and his congregation, getting odor of the fact, asked his resignation. They did it on the ground that the odor of cigarettes and the odor of sanctity did not go together.

Kansas City World: Rev. Thomas Dixon, Jr., of New York, said last Sunday. "If there is an intellectual runt in the family who is of no earthly use for anything else, the parents make a preacher of him." Rev. Thomas is yet in the prime of life, and it is not too late for him to change his vocation if he thinks his parents made a mistake in his case.

Chicago Chronicle: While the clergymen of the large cities are deploring the alleged fact that the bicycle craze accounts for their half-empty pews Sunday morning, a Grand Rapids church has gone sensibly at work to encourage its "biking" communicants to wheel to church Sunday morning. It has provided accommodations for storing the wheels during service and furnished a boy to take charge of them. Some churches in larger cities might follow this example.

Boston Transcript: It is not an alluring outlook for young men who desire to enter the clerical profession. Yet we fancy that, after all the facts have been admitted, no earnest, resolute man who, with a fair equipment, yearns to serve mankind through spiritual ministrations, moral leadership and practical philanthropy, will be turned aside. If in this profession are sought social station and pulpit prominence to gratify ambition, the average candidate will suffer the bitterest of disappointment; but there is plenty of room at the bottom if a man be contented to do his work there. And we mean by the bottom, the poor people, the slums of the great cities, the vast horde of unchurched who cannot be reached by clergymen so unfortunate as to preach in elegant edifices and minister chiefly to the rich and prosperous. The profession is not overcrowded where there is the most need of its devoted, self-sacrificing labors. There is always room at the bottom—and in this bottom the bottom is the top.

One truth in the life is better than a hundred in the memory.

Success, like a lung-testing machine, is valuable only as it measures strength.

The man who tries to be famous and religious will not be able to succeed at both.

Man should be a little lower than the angels, and not a good deal lower than the beasts.

A better thing than "hitching your wagon to a star" is to put your hand in the hand that moves the star.

THE FIN DE SIECLE BELLE.

If you are seeking Cupid's lair,
Look in the coils of her wayward hair.

If you would find earth's paradise,
Look in the depths of her dark blue eyes.

If you yearn for languorous ease and rest,
Lay your head on her heaving breast.

But remember this—and remember it well—
Don't marry this fin de siecle belle.

STEAM AND ELECTRICITY.

Philadelphia Record: The introduction of electric traction upon steam railroads is a novelty that may with greater experience become commonplace. The great advantage of the locomotive is that it carries its power along with it and as long as fuel and the water supply hold out and the boiler and machinery remain in good order preserves its efficiency. Any break in the current leaves the electric car without the ability of self-movement.

WISE AND BEAUTIFUL WOMEN.

Chicago Tribune: The young women of Crown Point, Ind., have formed a "Marriageable Ladies' league" based on the resolution to abjure matrimony unless the male supplicant is a patron of his home newspaper. For, otherwise, the league's constitution declares "it is strong evidence of a want of intelligence, and he will prove too stingy to provide for a family, educate his children and encourage institutions of learning in the community." These young women have the right idea, but what if there are two or more newspapers? Must the wooer patronize them all in order to be sure he is subscribing to the "home newspaper?"

SUMMER VISITORS.

The time for the hammock is coming,
When the nights will be sultry and hot;
When mosquitoes will come by the thousands
To settle their bills on the spot.

Be pleasant and give them a welcome,
Invite them to have a wee "smack;"
But do not forget you should greet them
With a good, hearty slap on the back.

A BACHELOR'S VIEWS.

New York Press: The first thing the devil will say when he sees a man coming is: "I told you so."

A girl is never really in love with a man till she hates all the women that like him and all the men that dislike him.

It's often the girl with the most birds on her hat who makes the most fuss about putting the poor little worm on the cruel hook.

After a woman has been married a year she begins to try plans that she gets out of papers to make home happy for her husband.

There aren't near as many reasons why a girl should blush when any mentions her garters as there are why she shouldn't mention them without it.

A pessimist is a man who wonders if another man's wife knows her husband as well as he does; an optimist is a man who wonders if he knows another man as well as the other man's wife does.

SEASONABLE ADVICE.

The summer days are coming, when the mercury will sizz,
The breeze will scorch your whiskers, and the soda fountain fizz,
But remember this injunction, however hot it is,
Keep away from the thermometer!

It doesn't do a bit of good to count up the degrees,
You'll find it ninety-six, perhaps, but that won't bring a breeze,
Work, if you must; loaf if you can; but this remember, please,
Keep away from the thermometer!

Oh, why did Mr. Fahrenheit invent the cursed thing?
The knowledge just how hot it is can never comfort bring,
So when the air grows sultry, and the stinging lacness sing,
Keep away from the thermometer!

It is well to get accustomed in this world to sizzling heat,
It's hard to tell sometimes, you know, what in the next you'll meet,
But there or here, remember this advice with sense replete,
Keep away from the thermometer!

In Duluth's Social Circles.

Music has absorbed all of society this week. In the first place a large number of people attended the May musical festival at Minneapolis and returned full of praises which have not yet lessened in enthusiasm. Then there was the Heinrich Meyn concert at the Lyceum and more enthusiasm was the result. In fact, the musicians are just at present living in a state of enchantment. There have been several little receptions for Mr. Meyn and he has been very generous with his songs to the great delight of everyone who has been fortunate enough to hear him. A number of local musical affairs have also been given. Among matters purely social Company G's ball is all the talk now and it bids fair to equal all expectations.

* * *

Next Friday the first annual ball of Company G will be given at the Armory and the preparations which are being made indicate that it will be a little better than anything of the kind that Duluth has ever seen. A limited number of invitations have been issued and the members of the company, one and all, insist that it is to be "very swell." The Armory will be handsomely decorated, in fact, the young men are sparing no expense in that direction. The Duluth City band, of twenty-six pieces will play the two-steps and the Hoare-Flaaten orchestra will play the waltzes. There will be several new selections played by the band and orchestra. The committees in charge are as follows: C. P. McCormick, general chairman; decorations, Alfred H. Wigdahl, chairman; Henry Mehling, Ed Haines, Jack McLaren, Will McLennan, Norton Edwards, John Reed, Hale Horton, Mr. McCabe, Charles Sinclair and Clarence S. Nixon; music, Will McCormick, chairman; James Eastman and E. Hugh Cooke; patronesses, Marvin McLaren, chairman; David Stocking; programs, J. Scott Cash, chairman; William Chapman, Jack McLaren and Charles McClure.

* * *

Several of Duluth's singers sang for Herr Heinrich Meyn during his stay in Duluth. One of these was Franz Schultz, one of Duluth's rising singers. Herr Meyn complimented Mr. Schultz on his rendition of Schumann's "Die bieden Grenadiers" and Campana's "From the Depths" and encouraged him to further study abroad. Herr Meyn seemed much pleased with Mr. Schultz's conception and delivery of these two telling compositions and Mr. Schultz feels the value of such a weighty opinion as that of Mr. Meyn.

* * *

The concert at the Bethel Monday evening by the Temple Ladies quartet was a delightful one and a large audience was greatly pleased. The quartet songs and the solos were excellent. George Louis Tyler sang two songs. Miss Rosser gave several charming recitations.

The annual concerts of Herr Carl Riedelsberger have always been occasions of great demonstrations of favor on the part of Duluth audiences, and he is regarded as equal to any of the noted players of the country. This favor is well merited, as Mr. Riedelsberger has been progressing ever since he became known here, and his art is ever new and attractive. He is also receiving compliments from men whose judgment has the ring of authority. Last fall Mr. Riedelsberger played in concert with Xaver Scharwenka, the famous pianist-composer, and he received afterwards the following flattering letter:

"Dear Mr. Riedelsberger: I have highly enjoyed your rendition of my violin sonata in regard to conception and execution, and it has completely satisfied me. You are an artist of taste and temperament. * * * If I return next year I shall play Beethoven's 'Kreutzer Sonata' with you.

"XAVER SCHARWENKA."

The appearance of Mr. Riedelsberger this year will be on June 7, in connection with Gerard Tonning, of this city.

HE GROWS SARCASTIC.

How a Defunct Druggist Is Getting Even.

An East Fourth street druggist, who was overwhelmed by the failure of the tidal wave of prosperity to put in an appearance at his place of business on schedule time, was forced to close his doors a day or two ago. Before doing so, however, he prepared a number of large placards, which he posted up in his show windows, giving expression to his feelings in a number of epigrammatic sentences. His political leanings are clearly given in the following paraphrase of Patrick Henry's famous remark:

"Give me bimetallism or give me death."

Unlike Patrick Henry, who took death—a business demise—as a substitute for the much desired free coinage of silver. Then he grew sarcastic, as shown by this:

"Confidence Restored! Nit!"

And this is the way he refers to the chief magistrate of the nation:

"Napoleon of America! Rats!"

When he painted this good campaign banner, he was evidently not sincere:

"Hurrah for the G. O. P."

Some of this disappointed pill seller's other mottoes are: "Good-bye Hard Times, Good-bye." "More 50-cent Dollars" and "McKinley Prosperity."

Discrepancies in Scales.

L. D. Berry, state scale expert, is in the city to investigate some discrepancies in the weights of bonded wheat passing through Duluth from Manitoba. It is evident that there is some difference in the scales used in Duluth and Winnipeg, and it may be necessary for Mr. Berry to pay a visit to Winnipeg in order to discover the cause of the discrepancy.

Merit Talks

"Merit talks" the intrinsic value of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Merit in medicine means the power to cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses actual and unequalled curative power and therefore it has true merit. When you buy Hood's Sarsaparilla, and take it according to directions, to purify your blood, or cure any of the many blood diseases, you are morally certain to receive benefit. The power to cure is there. You are not trying an experiment. It will make your blood pure, rich and nourishing, and thus drive out the germs of disease, strengthen the nerves and build up the whole system.

ROBERT DOWNING.

Excellent Production of "The Gladiator" Last Evening.

Robert Downing appeared at the Lyceum last night in "The Gladiator," the play with which his name has been for years most familiarly associated in the popular mind. Mr. Downing has been a regular visitor to Duluth in past seasons, so there is little necessity of speaking of his work, especially in "The Gladiator." His massive physique and his strong, deep, impassioned voice are ideal components of the character, and Downing is an ideal gladiator. His work is especially strong when in the first act he relates to the Christian priest in the Roman catacombs the story of his wrongs, and breaths vengeance upon his persecuters.

Mr. Downing is supported by Miss Jennie Dailey as Modamia, the Christian slave. Miss Dailey is gifted with a pleasing face and figure and a well modulated voice. Her acting is clever and full of force and character, and her appearance last night was satisfactory. The company is good. J. H. Kolker as Flavian, and Miss Linda Dowling being worthy of special mention. "The Gladiator" will be repeated tonight. The audience last night was fair, but not so large but that it showed the effect of counter attractions.

Races Close Tonight.

Farnsworth is now riding all alone far in advance of the other racers at the Union rink, and the rest of the race will consist merely of riding around the track with a few spurts between the riders. Harp will be second and Brooks probably third, though she is only four laps ahead of Hokenson. Baldwin did not ride last night, her injuries being too severe. Several other races are scheduled for tonight. Murphy, of Duluth, and Burnett and Smith, of Superior, will try against Farnsworth's unpaced mile.

CORNER STONE OF HEALTH

Effect of Paine's Celery Compound Upon the Blood and Nerves.

Now is the season to lay the foundation for future health and strength.

The corner stones of good health are complete digestion, sound sleep, pure blood and a perfectly nourished nervous system.

The wonderful success of Paine's celery compound in making people well and keeping them so, has always been accounted for by physicians by its extraordinary power of nourishing and regulating all of these functions.

It is not strange that so many unscientific remedies do no permanent good when they disregarded this close interdependence of the nerves and the organs of digestion and circulation, and attend to but one deranged part at the expense of all the rest.

The only possible way that a real lasting gain in strength and vitality can come is through purer blood, better nourished nerves and tissues, more refreshing sleep and an economy in the expenditure of nerve force.

These are the objective points aimed at and attained by Paine's celery compound!

This remarkable remedy permanently cures every form of nervous debility, neuralgia, sleeplessness, melancholy, hysteria, headaches, dyspepsia and heart palpitation. Primarily the nerves, and then every organ governed by them is induced to work in a normal and orderly manner.

Mothers should give their children Paine's celery compound now it is spring, instead of some hearsay food purifier that can have no power of correcting an impure state of the blood or regulating so complicated parts of the body as the brain and nerves. Debility and disease are cured by Paine's celery compound. It is not in the power of any other remedy to make people so permanently and so completely well as this astonishing nerve and brain strengthener and restorer and blood purifier, Paine's celery compound. One needs simply to give it a trial to be satisfied.

We practice painless Dentistry, we extract teeth without pain. When we say "without pain," we mean exactly what we say. We have the most complete set of instruments, many of which were made especially for us (Dr. Schiffman's own designs,) which enable us to extract any tooth, any broken-off roots or roots badly decayed away down under the gums; in fact any tooth or root. We are aware of the deep-seated belief that to remove sensitive, decayed and ulcerated teeth from the mouth without suffering seems an impossibility. We are also aware of the fact that there are many men in the business who lure patients on with the deceptive statements that they are "painless dentists" until they have them in the chair, when their crude operating, with still cruder tools, causes the victim much regret and suffering when it is too late.

Remember until June 5, you have an opportunity to have one or all teeth extracted for only 50c a tooth without pain, including our famous anaesthetic.

Judge Moer Takes Back Part of His Order as to the Spellmans.

Finds That His Decision Two Days Ago Was Not Correct.

Mrs. Spellman Will Be Tried But Spellman's Case Goes Over.

Mrs. Rachel Spellman will be placed on trial in the district court Monday morning for arson in the third degree, notwithstanding Judge Moer's order sustaining an objection to the introduction of testimony in the case against Thomas Spellman.

When the case against Spellman came to trial, and after a jury had been drawn, the defendant's attorney aobjected to the introduction of any testimony on the ground that the indictment was defective, the defect consisting in the omission of any statement as to the corporate existence of the insurance company which held the risk on the building. After an argument Judge Moer sustained the objection and ordered the case back to the next grand jury. In the order was included Mrs. Spellman, though the parties demanded separate trials.

Yesterday afternoon the matter was brought up before Judge Moer on an application by the county attorney to set aside that portion of the order referring Mrs. Spellman's case back to the grand jury. Mr. Arbury submitted authorities which he had exhumed since the first hearing and which practically settled the matter so far as Mrs. Spellman was concerned. It was shown that the indictment followed the statutes and the prescribed forms, and an Indiana decision was quoted in a case exactly similar to the present one. Judge Moer therefore revoked his order concerning Mrs. Spellman when these facts were presented to him and her trial will be taken up Monday morning.

As to Thomas Spellman, however, Judge Moer said that it would be impossible to revoke his order. A jury had been drawn to try him and he might have been tried at that time, and it would be prejudicing his interests to revoke the order. His case will therefore have to go over to September, when he will be tried. The only way it can be brought up before is by the consent of the defendant, which it is not at all likely will be given.

Judge Cant yesterday afternoon took under advisement the motion to direct a verdict for the defendant in the case of Isaac Hill against Winston Bros., and he will announce his decision Monday morning. The arguments wer not concluded until 5:30 o'clock last night.

KING OF CLUBS

The Policeman is Peculiarly Susceptible to Kidney Trouble.

Causes and Cure Discussed—A Member of the St. Paul Police Force Tells How He Was Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

St. Paul, Minn., May 22.—Men who are constantly exposed to all sorts of weather, who have to stand on their feet for long periods of time, who wear tight belts or clothing close fitting about the waist, are liable to kidney disease.

Take the policemen, for example. Their vocation is peculiarly trying. Policemen rarely have lung troubles, but are too frequently afflicted with lame back, painful kidneys and rheumatic troubles. They should be told that there is a remedy that is within their reach, and a sure cure for all kidney ills.

The best proof of the power of these pills—known as DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS—is in what they have done. They will cure because they have cured. They will not fail to cure because they have never failed. They will cure policemen because they have cured a member of the St. Paul police force, Detective Ahern.

Here is what Mr. Ahern says over his own signature. Ask him if it is not true, that DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS are a wonderful remedy.

Dodd's Medicine Company:

Gentlemen—I have been troubled for two years with pains in my back and side. I got a box of DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS, and after using part of the box the pains left me. I think DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS are a wonderful pill, and I can highly recommend them to any person suffering with kidney disease. I have no objections to your publishing this if by so doing it may help others.

AMONG THE PARSEES.

There is a thriving settlement for university women in India. One of the most active workers is Miss Mary Rachel Dobson daughter of Austin Dobson, the poet. She, with a band of fellow workers, has followed the Parsees to the hills during the plague, though the headquarters of the settlement is Bombay, says the New York Sun.

In an issue of a paper published in the interest of the settlement, one of the workers wrote:

"This city, which in size ranks second only to London among the towns of the British empire, would, we believe, afford the greatest scope for work of this kind. Besides a large Mohammedan and Hindu population, it contains a colony of 60,000 Parsees. This influential and enlightened race has as yet been almost untouched by missionary effort. Western missionaries may lead the way, but the true reformers of India must eventually be natives fully consecrated and highly qualified. It is as a training school that this settlement is to find its highest mission. For women's work among them there is a distinct opening. The Parsee ladies are free from Mohammedan and Hindu restrictions; education with them, though partial, is universal, and they are eager for Western culture and intercourse with English women. The missionaries of Western India are unanimous in declaring, on the one hand, that there is urgent need among them for missionary extension on educational lines: on the other, that women with university education, and these alone, can engage in this work with hope of success.

"It is hoped that this scheme may develop in more than one direction. In the districts of Nasik and Malegaon, about 100 miles from Bombay, there is pressing need for lady doctors among 2,000,000 native women, who are almost entirely without medical aid. There it is hoped to establish a medical branch of the settlement as soon as two fully qualified lady doctors offer for the work. In future years we may therefore see in every university center in India a band of women representing the missionary effort of the universities at home; for who can tell what the reflex influence on our colleges will be of such organized representation of women students in the foreign field?"

RUMORS

Many of Them Afloat as to the New Road to Winnipeg.

Idea That Rockefeller Is to Build It Is Not Credited.

Party Headed by James McNaught Will Be In Duluth Soon.

Premier Greenway, of Manitoba, has been in Ottawa this week in the interest of his projected air line railroad from Winnipeg to Duluth, and is now on his way home. A party of American capitalists who are co-operating with him in promoting the enterprise went to Montreal early in the week on a similar errand, and they too will visit the Northwest in a few days. It is possible that they will join Premier Greenway at St. Paul, and from there the American party which is headed by Col. James McNaught, formerly general counsel for the Northern Pacific, will come to Duluth. It may be the intention of Premier Greenway to accompany them, but no information relative to the latter's movements after his arrival in St. Paul can be obtained.

It is now conceded that the new railroad scheme has assumed definite shape and that it is more than probable that its construction will be begun this year. In this connection the news reaches Duluth by the way of Winnipeg that John D. Rockefeller has opened negotiations with Premier Greenway with a view of forming some alliance which will permit him to extend the Duluth, Missabe & Northern to the Canadian boundary there to connect with the new road from Winnipeg. The report has it that Rockefeller has formed a company in New York with a capital of $12,000,000 for the purpose of railway construction in Minnesota and also to develop timber and mineral resources.

It is known that the subject of extending the Missabe road has been discussed more or less seriously by the Missabe people, and it was announced last winter when the legislature was in session and freight rate legislation was threatened that extensions would certainly be built to the wheat fields in the Northwest were it not for the menacing attitude of the law-makers, who, if they enacted proposed laws, would make the railroad business unprofitable. Since all of the objectionable bills were killed and the legislature safely adjourned for another two years the representatives of the Rockefeller interests have maintained a conspicuous silence relative to their intentions. However, their interest in the railroad extension that would prove of such importance to Northern Minnesota may again be revived next year when the time for another legislative session draws near.

If Mr. Rockefeller is attempting to form an alliance with Premier Greenway, it is not believed that anything will come of it, as it is generally understood that his financial arrangements have already been perfected and that the syndicate represented by Col. McNaught will build the road. If the owner of the Missabe road gets an interest in it, it will have to be through Col. McNaught and his associates and not by a direct deal with Manitoba's premier. In any event there is but little of the line of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, aside from its terminals in Duluth that would be available for an air line connection between Duluth and Winnipeg as its road to the Missabe range runs considerably east of what is the nearest and most available route. In fact its northern terminus is little, if any, nearer to Winnipeg than Duluth is.

The Carson-Schremer case still drags along in the municipal court, and will go to the jury this evening. TO OPEN THE MARKET.

Mayor Truelsen Will Make an Effort to Do It.

Mayor Truelsen is making a special effort to get the city market hall into shape for business, and to that end he has been punching up the board of public works about this matter. The board will ask the council on Monday for the necessary instructions to go ahead with the work, and the mayor hopes to see the market opened for business by the middle of September.

Mayor Truelsen said this morning: "I am interested in getting the market opened for several reasons. We have several fine store rooms for rent, from which the city should derive a good revenue. The truck farmers and market gardeners are all anxious to get stands in the new market, as they know that when their customers know where to find them for sure, that they will sell much more of their produce and make sales with greater certainty than they can do under their present enforced hap-hazard system."

"It stands to reason that a man will prefer to buy his potatoes from a grocery store, as he wants them and when he wants them, than to have to depend upon the intermittent visits of a farmer who only at present comes to town because he has to. But if you give the country people a chance of making daily sales under a good roof, and upon a public market, they will become regular suppliers of fresh vegetables, butter, eggs, poultry and all those things that we have to purchase now from St. Paul and Chicago.

"The opening of the market will, therefore, benefit both the purveyor and the customer, and I will spare no effort upon my part to reach the consummation of affairs as soon as it is practicable."

ADMITTED THEIR GUILT.

Boy Burglars Turned State's Evidence This Morning.

The boy burglars, Brigham and St. Arnold, were before Judge Boyle today. They are the lads who burgled Susman Cohen's store at Eighteenth avenue on May 2. This morning, after Mr. Cohen had testified to the fact of the burglary and identified his goods, the prisoners fell over each other in their eagerness to turn state's evidence and "saw off" the job upon the other fellows. Brigham, however, was the most nimble in doing the flip-flop act, and he pleaded guilty and went on the stand and helped St. Arnold to turn state's evidence. Just what the lads expect to gain by this move remains to be seen, as the offense is an indictable one, and all the police court can do is to hold them to the grand jury. Detectives Donovan and Troyer did some clever work in catching these burglars, and had such a perfect case worked up against the thieves that probably, like the historic coon, they concluded to "come down."

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

Across the Tea Table.

"And the air was sweet with a thousand odors,
And the world like a full rose smelt."

May has put on her beautiful garments and her sweet fields stand drest in living green"—the most exquisitely beautiful and indescribable color, the color of youth, and joy, and life. The rosy tints of dawn, the soft, gray shadows of twilight, the glorious blue of the noontide heat and sun are in themselves beautiful, but not to be compared to the tender freshness of nature's own color, the restful, satisfying soft green which the young year dons—the background for all of nature's scenic effects. The odors of spring are like a subtle enchantment, the budding leaves, the springing grass, the blossoms on bush and tree, the wild flowers hidden in shady nooks, the very earth itself, all breathe forth a perfume which is the unconscious tribute of life, the very ecstacy of being, the giving of the best that in them lies. This is what makes the spring so beautiful. Everything in nature gives the freshest, the sweetest, the best, and the result is a blossoming perfumed world which is a continunal reproach to the sad, the morbid, the unhappy. It whispers consolation and hope. It tells its story of effort to shake off the darkness of winter; it teaches that in communion with nature one can feel "the soul of things, the life that haunts us with imaginings, that lives, breathes, throbs in all we hear and the charm, the secret hidden everywhere," the secret of life. Listening to nature's stories, watching her glorious paintings, hearing the songs she sings brings us into accord with the great divine principle in nature and ourselves, and teaches us the secret o f happiness. Why fret and murmur over our destinies and the mysteries of life and being? Better "to take the joy the moment gives and feel the glad, pure day, the gently lifting breeze that steals their odors from the unconscious flowers." It is not always May.

It seems as if it were almost a crime to lead a selfish existence in the sweet spring season. There is so much to do, so many calls upon one's time that one feels nature's example of giving is the only safe way of answering this constant call. So it is, in one sense, but we cannot give as nature does to all the world and to everyone. We must concentrate our energies, our time, our powers or we have no results to show, for we must not waste our vitality. The wise woman, therefore, who recognizes the dependence of those dearest to her who "tendeth her home," and makes it the happiest place on earth; the sweetest, freshest exponent of nature in spring time bravery. It seems such a natural longing in the woman of the house and home, the desire to have this place in order and fresh array, but it is not necessary to expend a vast amount of money or time to put on it a more seasonable look than it bore in the winter with heavy hangings and draperies. The shops are full of the daintiest fabrics, exceedingly inexpensive when we compare them with the goods offered by the professional upholsterer. And these can be utilized for sash curtains for the library or dining room, or for long curtains for the bedroom. Some of the organdies with their exquisite patterns can be made to dress a room to a conventionalized imitation of nature which will prove a constant inspiration. One dares not suggest the bargain counter these days when men and women write long dissertations on the subject of its pernicious influence; but the dangers of bargain hunting can all be summed up in the evil of buying something that is not thoroughly needed. If one can find bargains in silks and cottons for either the house or oneself, then to buy and utilize is an evidence of that thrift which helps to prosperity and happiness, the thrift which is the instinct of every well-regulated woman. These cotton fabrics shown now in such profusion at the dress goods counter in the stores can be made to do such brave service in freshening up the house in the spring—not only in the way of draperies, but for sofa pillows; and for covers for the dressing table they can be made very beautiful if one wishes to expend one's energies in embroidery. Using the stamped flower for a pattern, this can be worked over in embroidery silks in exact imitation of the design and shading, the stems and leaves embroidered in the shades used in the fabric, and the whole placed over a thick white muslin to throw out the pattern. Edged with lace, it is an easy way of making a cover and saves the cost of stamping. The toilet covers nowadays have a pincushion added as a necessity. This pincushion is not the square or round object with which our eyes have long been familiar as an addition to every well-regulated dressing table; but it puzzles the beholder. It looks like a diminutive bolster; not the round, hard bolster which crowns the modern brass bed in French fashion during the day, but the soft, long, narrow, flat bolster which served as a base for pillows on the feather beds of fifty years ago. In fact, the pincushion, to my ignorant vision, looked like a bolster for a doll's bed, and my timid inquiry in regard to its use voiced this suggestion to the well-poised and up-to-date shop woman, who, regarding me with scorn, informed me that was a pincushion. It is fitted to the dressing table in size, is adorned with an embroidered cover, is finished with lace and fluffy ribbon bows, and is, like all fashionable pets, a very imposing looking thing. But, oh, joy! its capacity for holding pins is not to be overlooked. In the last few years of banishment of the pincushion from fashion's domain, there are many women who have longed for masculine privileges in regard to the use of expletives. The beautiful silver pin trays loaded with pins had a fashion of emptying themselves at unlooked for moments, the pins stuck together or else pricked the fingers, and the receptacle was most always apostrophised in vigorous language if one happened to be in a hurry. Loose pins are the hardest things to pick up without feeling the point of their usefulness, and it is next to impossible to separate black and white ones; the goats always insisted on playing hide and seek with the sheep in the world of pins, and refused to be divided. We therefore hail the return of the pincushion, even if it bears a somewhat enlarged and swollen appearance. It is the proper thing, though, and your needle at work on dainty belongings for your own or guests chamber must fashion one of the bureau "bolsters."

I suppose that it is an actual fact that we Americans bring little of the poetry of life into our houses and homes. Many are the sweet, dainty, restful homes, where all of the comfort and luxuries of life are found, and where the preparation of food is looked upon as a fine art. Education has done wonders, I know it has reduced numbers marvelously among those who, as Charles Dudley Warner says, still dieten sodden pie, and the products of the frying pan of the pioneers, and then, in order to promote digestion, attempt to imitate the patient cow by masticating some elastic and fragrant gum. These, as Mr. Warner says, are doing very little to bring in that universal physical health and beauty which is the natural heritage of our opportunity. There are others whose material sense is satisfied by supplying good food, properly prepared, but who do not realize that there is a beautiful world all about us which can be brought into our daily life, and which supplies the poetry of existence. A breakfast table, crowned with some of the flowers spring offers us of her largesse, fosters a love of the beautiful in nature. Strawberries set in a bed of green leaves suggest a freshness which may have actually fled from the fruit. The great soft green leaves, resembling grape leaves, of the flowering raspberry in our glens, have an odor almost as powerful as a flower, and are the daintiest kind of a background for fruit. Oranges or grape fruit should, at this season, always be set in leaves, and salads must, of necessity, wear the livery of spring. That box of parsley, which I suggested to you a month or more ago, dresses meat and vegetables in a living green, which is a delight to the eye and a promoter of digestion. The perfumed air of May must find its way into your dining or breakfast room, or your soul is not attuned to harmony. The French people, who dine and breakfast out of doors, allow subtle influences to play upon them at this time; and we must pattern ourselves upon them if we would know the secret of the arts of the table, or have a just conception of the poetry which can be infused into, and be made to surround "the ungracious act of eating." You remember how wisely gentle Elia discourses on the duty of appreciation of good food; how he hates a man who swallows his food, affecting not to know what he is eating; how he suspects his taste in higher matters. It is not necessary to be gluttons and wine-bibbers to appreciate our food, but to make the setting of it before us a part of the courtesy of life we must study this art and learn that these little refinements educate us and prepare us for what Mr. Warner calls the natural heritage of our opportunity in this land of plenty.

If you entertain in the spring time, my dear Modern Woman, your breakfast party is far more in keeping with the season that a luncheon. Even the suggestion of a breakfast party recalls old-time stories of those famous breakfasts of Rogers, of the breakfasts where McCauley figured as a youthful wonder, where Keats and Shelley, and Byron, and Leigh Hunt, and Landor, and Walpole, and Coleridge, and Moore and Hood gathered sometimes: Those latter ones when Thackeray and Dickens, and the members of the Garrick club told rich and racy stories "over the coffee cups." Breakfast parties have been superseded by luncheon parties, but the luncheon has been made of late to assume such a formidable aspect that latter day simplicity demands something less elaborate, and a breakfast party in May or June can be made by a woman with artistic appreciation of the gifts of the season, a function worthy of its name. It should never be allowed to encroach upon the prerogatives of the luncheon. No shaded or artificial lights are permissible, only the glad light of day to illumine the feast. Everything should be dainty and refreshing, the hour must never be later than 12 and the food must be distinctively characteristic. One recalls how Matthew Arnold chronicles the breakfasts he ate in New England. How the pie offered on one occasion stduck terror to his soul, how tea seemed inadequate to satisfy the longings of his stomach in the morning, and how surprised he felt at seeing a huge beefsteak served immediately after oatmeal and cream. This could have been no more strange to him than the service of English breakfast seems to Americans. But we no longer offer pie and doughnuts for breakfast. The amenities of the table do not demand these little additions; instead, the American breakfast as served now in the homes of refined people is assuming a national character and is rapidly becoming in form a very delightful meal. Artistic people in the larger cities affect the giving of breakfasts, and I have heard of a house in Duluth where Sunday morning breakfasts are so delightfully, so daintily and appetizingly served that they assume the dignity of a function without the formality demanded by this characterization. If you wish to give an elaborate breakfast you must have a number of courses, but you must make it bear an individuality as a breakfast. Make your floral decorations suggestive of the season, serve your fruit which is necessarily your first course, simply, but daintily. If you use grape fruit always decorate it with green, and it is much better if the seeds are taken out, the pulp loosened, and sugar allowed to cover it for an hour, pour over it then some rich liqueur, maraschino is good, and keep it on the ice until it is very cold. If you use strawberries, serve them with the caps and set in green leaves; a dainty receptacle for sugar served individually adds the necessary sweet to the fruit. Sugar and cream served on strawberries from which the caps have been removed appeals not to the ethical standard of the modern woman. You must have an egg course, stuffed eggs served in cream, an omelet of any kind, or any dainty fashion of serving; fish is also permissible, and the meat course with a vegetable can be served as at luncheon; hot light rolls with this course are delightful. Then your salad which may be either a fruit salad or a vegetable one, always, however, a light one, never a meat salad. Sweets, but never teas, and the sweets always most delicate. At a very informal breakfast, hot waffles and maple syrup supply this course and this is followed by a cup of fine coffee. Olives, and bonbons of the simplest variety, and salted almonds may be placed upon the table and the guest at a breakfast party loiters not, promptness is demanded if one wishes to pay proper respect to the laws of good breeding.

If you are seeking a novel form of entertainment, you must follow New York's lead and give an "Indian tea." All the accessories are to be obtained here more easily than in New York, with the difference that the dusky daughter of the forest who figures at New York teas is a superb specimen of Indian womanhood, the most popular model at the studios, and lacks the harsh crudities of the one which might be secured by you. You might possibly have to teach your Indian the cleansing influences of soap and water, but if you undertake novel entertainments you are probably possessed of indomitable energy and capable of carrying out your desires. You must have your Indian appear in the full Indian regalia as did "Falling Star" in New York. There is a question in the unromantic mind as to what full dress means to an Indian woman, but never mind, we'll adorn her with the belongings of sentiment and attire her in the garb of Pocahontas as pictured. Then she must be able to tell fortunes by the hand and to look into the depths of a cup of tea and read the future in the grounds "looking at you with the soft eyes of her race," and pronouncing your doom or happiness with the assurance of a Delphic oracle. Falling Star is said to be really beautiful, but close contact with the Indian in native haunts has taught us that beauty from our standpoint is very rarely seen among them. The close, small, smoky, black eyes glitter like beads if they have in them a ray of expression and the impasive immobile countenance of the typical Indian woman does not suggest romance. However, the Indian tea is the latest thing in New York Indian tea is the latest thing in New York. I give you the suggestion for what it is worth.

A Real Hero Developed at a Mining Camp.

That the heroic in man or woman only waits upon occasion and is never so extinct that a moment may not suffice to reveal it to a startled and admiring world, is a truth that was illustrated grandly in a recent mining event at Rossland, B. C., says the Northwest Magazine.

Two miners were working at the bottom of the 100-foot shaft of the Young American mine. At the top was Jim Hemsworth, turning the big windlass that hoists ore to the surface. The heavy bucket, filled with ore, had almost reached the top of the shaft when the iron crank of the windlass snapped in two like a bit of pine and hurled Hemsworth violently to the ground.

Springing to his feet, half-dazed by the blow, Hemsworth saw the windless whirling around at a frightful rate of speed as the loaded bucket shot down the shaft upon the doomed men a hundred feet below. He had not a second to lose. There was just one chance to save them, and he took that chance. Bending forward, he thrust his right arm between the cogs of the whirling windlass. The iron jaws crunched and tore the flesh, crushed nerves, bone and sinews, tore ghastly wounds from finger tip to shoulder—but the windlass stood still. With an awful jerk the loaded bucket stopped just above the heads of the two terrified miners far down in the earth.

There was a rush to release Hemsworth, and in a wonderfully short time the cogs were turned back and the maimed limb lifted out of the machine. It was a horrible sight, crushed, torn and covered with blood, and a chorus of sympathetic cries came from the miners. The arm was ruined forever and the terrible shock might call for life itself, but never a murmur came from the suffering man.

"It's a bad arm, Jim, and it'll lay you up," said a friend compassionately.

"Oh, damn the arm," the brave fellow retorted it saved their lives, and I'm glad."

It was not bravado. The oath was not profane. It was only the poor man's way of saying that self-sacrifice is naught, if it but serves a noble purpose. All honor to Jim Hemsworth, the miner hero of Rossland.

WHITE BREAD.

Pleases the Eye but Does Not Nourish the System.

Next to the outside covering of the wheat berry lies the part which under moisture and heat produces a microscopic growth, a sort of delicate fungus called diastase.

This, together with the saliva, forms an amyloiytic ferment which is absolutely necessary to digest the starch which is the white part of the flour.

Therefore whole wheat bread is digestible and nourishing, while white bread alone will not sustain life.

The parts next to the outside of the wheat berry also contain the albumen, gluten and phosphates of which nature builds the gray matter in the brain and the nerve cells of the body. Brain workers need this part of wheat.

Seventy per cent of Postum Cereal Food Coffee is made of that part of wheat and this is one reason for the quick return to strength and vitality when nervous people leave off and use Postum Cereal Food Coffee.

It is a delicious beverage when properly prepared (boiled fifteen minutes) and the result in physical and mental vigor is often startling and always pleasing.

Imitations of Postum Cereal Food Coffee are offered by scheming grocers as "just as good" as Postum. See that the red seals, "it makes red blood" are on the package.

Wheels and Their Riders.

The "girls" at the Union rink have engrossed the attention of a great many local cyclists this week, its present prominence looming up so that it has even cast a shade over the coming road race. The attendance at the race has been fairly large all during the week, and it is expected that tonight the finish of the race will draw out enough people to test the capacity of the rink. This class of attraction draws fairly well in Duluth, though not nearly so well this year or last as had been expected.

* * *

There are no new developments in the road race plans this week, except that everything is progressing beautifully and that if the weather is a suitable article next Saturday the race will eclipse everything. The lists close Monday and the handicaps will not be announced till Saturday morning. The prize committee is hard at work and with good results. Unknown to anyone the handicap committee is also at work, and the man who expects to enter must be careful where he tests his speed for fear that he will be placed too close to the scratch to suit him.

* * *

Following the road race those local riders who are speedy or who think they are and who blame the track or wheel if they do not smash a record will begin training for the races to be held at the fair grounds on the Fourth of July or rather on the Saturday preceding that holiday, as the glorious comes on a Sunday this year. There will be several good races, and the fame of the Duluth riders is enough to insure the public that they will be lively ones. The prizes will be diamonds, and it is expected that there will be fast men from the outside.

* * *

The Y. M. C. A. Bicycle club is growing and doing well. It is now considering a series of races to be held during the summer for medals, and the gold medal is now being made by a local jeweler. There will also be a silver medal and a bronze medal. The races are expected to begin in about three weeks.

BEST MAKE OF BIKES.

Foreign wheel manufacturers are rapidly being forced to the conclusion that they lag far in the rear of their American rivals, whose supremacy in cycle construction is coming to be universally conceded. Of course the stubborn Britisher is among the last to be convinced of this fact, but even his calm air of superiority received a rude shaking recently when an English manufacturer of fifteen years' standing declared that this country was far ahead of England in the matter of cycle construction, adding that he had found many valuable hints while studying American models. This announcement, made in the columns of a cycling paper, had a startling effect upon English manufacturers generally, who until then had clung to the idea that "Yankee cycle makers were mere imitators, don't you know." Some of them still refuse to believe, claiming that American made machines can't stand the roads in England. To the American who has wheeled in Great Britain this allegation sounds ridiculous, the roads there being a vast delight to the cis-Atlantic visitor, accustomed as he is to highways composed of two-thirds rut and one-third sand. This idea of great strength being necessary is what induces English makers to turn out such heavy machines. The weight of American road wheels averages from 20 to 24 pounds, while the same style of English wheels run from 24 to 30 pounds. When an English visitor to this country was told that an American bicycle weighing 20 pounds had supported sixteen men of an average weight of 135 pounds, he expressed himself as extremely skeptical, but the case was soon proven to him by a practical illustration. It was something, he said, that would not be tried by the best bicycle makers in Europe.

It is not alone in weight, however, that the American machine enjoys superiority over its European rival. A striking difference also exist in the finish. Americans, to meet the demand for novelty, have introduced every color of enamel, while the English makers stick closely to the well-known lines of sombre black. On an American wheelway one may see wheels of every color of the rainbow, while on the roads in England nothing but black is seen. What is true of England is generally true of France, the next most important country from the wheelman's point of view, and of Germany as well, although there are few wheels made in Germany or Italy. Then again, nearly every wheel made in England has a gear case. The gear case is very infrequently used in this country. It may best be described as a case covering the chain and sprockets of the wheel, somewhat after the order of the dress guard seen on the wheels ridden by women. Gear cases are thought necessary in England because of the mud at certain seasons of the year and strenuous efforts have been made by interested persons to introduce them on this side of the ocean. However, as the average Englishman is nurtured in tradition and prejudice, American makers are fitting their wheels used for export with gear cases and the Britisher is consequently highly pleased.

The principal firms manufacturing bicycles in this country estimate that 1,000,000 wheels were sold in the United States during the past year. Over 250,000 more were shipped abroad, covering nearly every section of the globe from China to England. The total output of American makers sold in this country is valued at $30,000,000, while the value of the wheels sent abroad is estimater at $1,250,000.

STILL ANOTHER NEW WHEEL.

C. E. Cain, of Milwaukee, has devised a piece of mechanism which, as in the case of many other inventors, he expects to revolutionize the bicycle business. It is a sort of cross between a bicycle and a railway velocipede and is worked by both hands and feet. In this way the rider can bring considerable more power to bear and accordingly can get over the ground much faster than a rider on a regular wheel. The wheel is somewhat longer and heavier than an ordinary machine and the first impression it gives the spectator is that it is a clumsy contrivance, but this impression is dissipated when the machine is seen in action. The seat of the rider is much lower than that of the "safety." Any person of the average stature can easily put his feet to the ground while in the saddle.

There are no pedals in the accepted sense of the term on the machine, but in their place are two stirrups, arranged in a similar manner to those on a railroad velocipede, and the power is exerted by the rider thrusting his feet forward, at the same time drawing back on the handle bar, which moves always in the reverse direction from the stirrups. The movement of the rider's body produced by this motion is similar to that of rowing, where the oarsman occupies a sliding seat, the only difference being that in the case of the bicycle the seat is fixed while the feet move. In most other respects the machine is similar to the regular bicycle and is steered in the same way.

There is a mechanism connected with the handle bar by which the machine can be steered by the handle bar while the latter is in motion, giving impetus to the wheel. By another mechanical contrivance the rider can easily disconnect the handle bar from the former machinery and simply use it for steering, as in other bicycles.

CATCHING AN UNWARY THIEF.

The Parisian rogue is proverbial for the cleverness with which he victimizes people, but even he meets his match sometimes. Foreign exchanges tell how a clerk cleverly captured a bicycle thief. The young man went into a tobacco shop in the Rue Richelieu to purchase some cigarettes, leaving his machine standing against the curb in front of the place. When he came out of the shop he found that the bicycle was stolen and that it and the thief were out of sight. The office of the Petit Journal was not far away, and the smart young man went over there and inserted an advertisement that a gentleman would pay a good price for a second-hand bicycle, naming his preference for one of the same make as the one stolen. Next afternoon sure enough the thief came around and offered to sell the smart young man his own machine. The smart young man had the pleasure of getting back his bike and handing the thief over to the police.

LAMP OF CHICAGO INVENTION.

One evening last week a wheelman caused something of a sensation at the Garfield park race track, Chicago, with a lamp of such unusual brilliancy as to attract general attention. Curiously enough, it happened that while the lamp was doing its prettiest in the way of showing a glare the electric light around the track went out for a few moments, affording the wheelman and a friend no little amusement as they flashed the brilliant light here and there among the hundreds of bicycles present. The lamp is the product of Chicago genius, the substance burned being acetylene gas. The barrel of the lamp contains two chambers, one above the other, the upper containing ordinary water and the lower carbide of calcium. By a clever screw adjustment the water is allowed to drop slowly upon the carbide, the gas is immediately generated and the lamp is ready to light. The lower chamber of carbide is a cartridge sort of an arrangement, which can be taken out and replaced in a few seconds even by a lady with gloves on without fear of soiling the gloves. The inventor claims that when the lamp is showing its full power it gives a light sufficiently strong to enable one to read a newspaper at a distance of fifty feet. Certain it is that the sample exhibited at Garfield park far outshone anything else there. Indeed the glare was so strong that when thrown fully in the eyes the observer was forced to turn away his head. Not the least feature of excellence about it is that on a rough road, where other lamps generally jolt out, this contrivance burns at its brightest. The inventor claims that there is absolutely no danger of explosion.

CHAIR AS A BICYCLE RACK.

In cleaning a bicycle most people find difficulty in keeping the machine steady. At such times the want of a rack is felt badly. A little boy on the West Side overcame this trouble the other evening in a simple way. He discovered that an ordinary chair serves the purpose excellently for those who are not provided with the necessary rack. The little chap turned the chair over, hooked the handles of his bicycle into the rear legs and rested the saddle on the back. The wheel rested firmly in this position and young American found that all the working parts could be easily manipulated at will.

HOW WHEELS HAVE EVOLVED.

Some evenings ago a practical engineer and bridge builder saw a heavy-weight spinning along on a bicycle, and it occurred to him that surely such a delicate-looking machine as that was not calculated to sustain such a strain. He at once sat down and began figuring out just how much a bicycle ought to weigh in order to carry a man of, say, 160 pounds. The lowest estimate he could make was sixty pounds, and that he said he would hesitate to guarantee. Cycle makers started at the bridge builder's estimate ten years ago, but now by practical experience they find they can safely build a road wheel to weigh as little as twenty-one pounds and in some cases even less. The change has been a gradual one, rendered possible partly by a great number of important inventions and partly by the exact knowledge secured by experience of where the machine can safely be lightened.

The diamond frame, the wood rim and the pneumatic tire have been the principal inventions which have resulted in the decreased weight, the first two being lighter themselves, and the last allowing a general cutting in the weight of the metallic parts by doing away with vibration, which is, of course, most trying to metals. In addition to this, experience of years has shown exactly the parts which bear the greatest strain, so that the others can be lightened. In all of this the bicycle differs from most other machines which have a certain uniform margin of safety—that is, excess of strength—throughout. In the bicycle this is graduated according to the possible strain on the machine. In some places where no sudden strain can possibly come there is an excess strength of only about 25 per cent. In others which are likely to be subjected to great pressure the bicycle is four times as strong as it is necessary to carry its load. In a general way the front part of a bicycle is the one which must be made especially strong, because in collisions and most all accidents which are likely to occur to a wheel it is the front portion which suffers the most. Besides a man on general principles would prefer not to take too many chances of breaking his neck or leaving his classic features in the road by a header. It is also necessary to have the parts about the crank shaft unusually strong, because it is there the strain of driving comes. From this point upward and backward the proportionate strength is gradually decreased.

THE COST OF WHEELING.

After seeing the clouds of bicyclists on the boulevards and in the parks these days it is difficult to imagine that anyone thinks the wheel is unattainable from a financial point of view. Occasionally, nevertheless, an individual is met who is deterred from purchasing a bicycle under the false impression that it is an expensive luxury, the idea expressed in such cases that after paying a good price for the machine the purchaser finds that there is a never-ending running up of accounts at a repair shop. A greater error was never fostered, for many people go through a whole season with the "extra" expense well within $1. One couple, who ride frequently aver that their tandem cost them but 15 cents the season through, yet they toured through Colorado, besides doing an immense amount of riding in this section. Cycling is only expensive if one makes it so. If there is a disposition to buy every un-heard-of and impractical thing pertaining to cycling which chances to appear upon the market a small fortune can be wasted in one season, but these expenses are wholly optional and not incidental. Many ride a whole season through without a puncture or the loss of a single nut. Abuse entails expense, but to the careful rider of a machine which is well built to begin with the incidental expenses will be found small. In point of utility no article designed for recreative work offers such large and extended fields for its adaptability. The original outlay may seem heavy, but a few weeks of cycling will soon assure one of the economical features.

AMONG THE SPORTS.

This is one week, at least, in the local sporting field, that has an event in it that is of much interest. Not only one, but two, providing the weather man is generous enough to provide for this afternoon a sufficiently copious quantity of good weather. First, there is the field day at the West End Driving park, and second, there is a ball game at the West End ball park. Such a number of interesting events in one day is entirely unwonted in this section, and the sports this afternoon were like the animal of fame who hesitated between two tempting piles of fodder, scarcely knowing which to tackle.

* * *

The event at the ball park was expected to be a most wondrous aggregation of monstrosities in the way of ball playing, most fitting to celebrate the waning of that historic battleground where in days of yore the Duluth Baseball club, under the leadership of Maj. Gen. Samuel Atkinson, met and defeated with great slaughter the sturdy cohorts of the nine from Podunk. For the ball grounds at the West End are to be torn down, carted away, and sold for old lumber. It has been definitely settled now that Duluth is to have no regular ball club this year, so there is little use in keeping up the grounds. If left there they would be used, it is true, but some of the people who live in that vicinity are said to have contracted a neighborly habit of coming over and "swiping" a board when they need a little kindling, so that the fence surrounding the park is in an advanced stage of disintegration. Consequently the owners of the park have decided to tear the thing down and sell it for what it will bring.

* * *

It is to be hoped, however, that that is not to be the end. Duluth is too American a city to be able to get along without baseball, and some day, some time, another ball park will spring up and the game will rage with an energy only strengthened by the wait. In that day the outfield of the new park will probably not be so eccentric as the one at the West End. Those who have witnessed games there will remember the drop in the left field, which was so arranged that a ball struck smartly into that quarter would never stop if it struck the ground. The left fielder abode in a hollow and gazed upon the game as it progressed on the heights above.

* * *

But today, probably for the last time, the "park" was to be used again, and by an unparalleled combination of players who were expected to make the welkin ring in more ways than one. The game was between the braves and Ashtabula terrace and chief medicine men of Chester terrace and the proceeds are to go for the benefit of the Women's and Children's home. The attendance was expected to be large and the sum netted for the home a substantial one.

* * *

The other event was the annual field day of the Duluth High School Athletic association, which was to be held at the West End Driving park this afternoon. There was a list of eighteen field and track events, of a varied and interesting character, and the number of the entries showed a lively rivalry. The winners will make up the team which will represent Duluth in the joint field days at Ashland May 29, and at Minneapolis June 5.

* * *

The new magautrapp of the Central Gun club arrived during the week, and that body is as proud and happy as a big boy with a new pair of brass-toed shoes. The new contrivance is certainly something to be proud of, and it will undoubtedly prove a great aid in the shoots to be held in the future. It is worked by a man or boy astride of a bicycle saddle and propelling bicycle pedals, and the motive required to throw the clay rocks is but little more than that required to propel a bicycle. The magautrap has been on exhibition in the show window of the Big Duluth for several days this week, and a large number of people have surveyed it. It had been the intention to try it Thursday if it had not been for the rain.

* * *

The Central Gun club is conceded to be in a more flourishing condition at present than at any time in its previous history. Its finances are better, its equipment more complete and its membership greater than they ever were before. The new grounds at Thirty-third avenue east, near the summer garden, are beautifully located, and they are fitted up handsomely. The new house for the magautrap has been completed and a new club house has been put up.

* * *

The new Company G Baseball club has begun practicing, and it is the intention to practice every afternoon that weather permits. The practice is done on the High School grounds from 4 to 6, and there is always a good turnout. The club feels strong, and one of the company members ventures the assertion that it will prove the warmest article that ever perambulated the public thoroughfare.

* * *

The Y. M. C. A. gymnasium athletes are busy these days. The new tennis club is in process of formation and the organization will take place at the Y. M. C. A. building tonight. The membership is about twenty-five. The grounds will be on the vacant lot near the Mendenhall residence and the work of preparing them will be begun as soon as possible.

* * *

The Y. M. C. A. has abandoned the field day project, for a while, at least, believing that their June field day would come too close to that given by the high school boys. One may possibly be arranged later in the season.

The Y. M. C. A. Camera club is flourishing. Weekly meetings are held on Wednesdays, and the club is still discussing "Exposures."

* * *

By his recent victory over "Denver" Ed Smith, Joe Choynski has re-established himself in public favor. Choynski always has been popular, even in defeat. But ring followers love to see him win. He is a fair, honest boxer, clever, strong and game, but on account of his size he seldom gets a match on anything like even terms. He is just a few pounds heavy for the middleweight class, and too light for the first-class heavy weights. Men like Maher, Corbett and Sharkey have anywhere from ten to fifteen pounds the best of him, and men of that class are the only men he can get to box him. Smith outweighed him a little, but he does not class with Choynski. He is big enough and strong enough, but lacks brilliancy. Choynski won easily in four rounds. Smith, always a rough fighter, resorted to foul tactics repeatedly in order to save a knockout, preferring to lose on a foul. By his course Smith lost caste as well as the contest, and he may find much difficulty in the future in getting good matches. Choynski, on the other hand, is in higher favor than ever, for, notwithstanding Smith's rough work, he neither lost his temper nor made complaint. He might have been justified in doing a little rough work himself, but he preferred to fight on fair lines.

Just what Choynski will do now depends very largely on the other heavy-weights. He is ready to meet anyone on fair terms. For some time he has been pleading for a match with Fitzsimmons, his manager, "Parson" Davies, having posted a good forfeit for him. But Fitzsimmons does not want him. At least he will not make a match with him at present. If he will meet and defeat Maher, Sharkey or Corbett, then Fitzsimmons says he will talk with him.

* * *

Meanwhile Choynski is keeping his hand in by training Tom Sharkey for his contest with Maher. In view of the fact that Choynski and Sharkey would be a logical match should Sharkey win over Maher, it is strange that they should be camping together now. The wise ones, of course, have already settled the Maher-Sharkey contest in favor of Maher, but it is not a foregone conclusion that the sailor man will go down before the Irish champion. He has given the best of them a rough battle, and he ought to go into the ring with Maher better than he ever was in his life. Sharkey has had a great deal to learn, and the presumption is he has been steadily improving. Choynski is one of the best of men for a man like Sharkey to train with. He is clever, cool, and at the same time fast. When not at work with the gloves he is busy at some other sort of work. It is safe to say he will keep the sailor everlastingly at it while he is awake, and post him into the ring better than ever. Even at his best, Maher should defeat him, for against a man of his caliber the Irishman should show to good advantage. He never has had much trouble in defeating a man he could hit, and one of Sharkey's peculiarities is his method of stopping blows with his head. Choynski may take that out of him and show him how to avoid those terrible Maher swings. If Maher does not defeat him quickly, the sailor is quite likely to take much of the fight out of him by his rough work.

* * *

Just as was expected, the much-advertised "Kid" McCoy has taken on something easy instead of flying at the biggest game in sight. He will box Dick O'Brien, a moderate middle-weight, before he gets into the ring with Dan Creedon. The McCoy-O'Brien bout is set for May 29, and unless there is an understanding as to the outcome, McCoy is running a great risk with his drawing qualities. He can get a big purse for a meeting with Creedon, but should he lose to O'Brien in a meritorious contest his pugilistic star would go down to the level of O'Brien and his class. It looks as if McCoy had an easy thing of it in his match with O'Brien, but it is by no means a sure thing. McCoy, although touted as a coming match for Fitzsimmons, may not be the boxer he is cracked up to be. He proved himself better than a crack welterweight when he defeated Tommy Ryan, but he has not yet met a really good man in his own class. When he does his guage may be taken.

* * *

One of the closest games of ball ever played in the West was one during the season of 1886 between the Chicago club and the St. Louis Browns at the Bridge City. The score was a tie at the end of the eighth inning—2 to 2—and the Browns were at the bat for their ninth turn. Two were out and Curt Welsh was at the bat, with Jack Clarkson pitching for Anson's aggregation. Curt had two strikes tabbed against him and only one ball. One of Clarkson's slow teasers came sailing up and Curt sidetracked it with his wrist. In those days the batsman got his base if the ball hit him in the forearm, a rule that the committee has properly restored. Curt stole second, and Arlie Latham scooped up one of Clarkson's swift ones. The ball went high and quite deep to Abner Dalrymple, who was playing left field. It was an easy chance for Abner, but the big fielder was shivering like a frightened fawn and the ball hobbled out of his mitt. Welsh dashed down the line, turned the corner and slid across the home plate with the winning run. You would have thought Curt and Comiskey were going to be married the way Commie grabbed Curt and hugged him, and the Romeo and Juliet scene was played by the other Browns. They were an emotional bunch of lovers, and everybody in the grand stand was hugging his neighbor, too.

* * *

A pitcher who has nothing but a speedy ball is a dence in baseball today. He may go in one day and strike out a big bunch. Just through luck, but the next time he goes against the same aggregation the chances are his speed will be tamed and he will be ready to switch to a slow ball if he has any in his repertoire. Perhaps the best performance in the way of strike-outs was done by Tom Ramsey, the noted left-hander of the Louisville team, in the old association. Ramsey depended chiefly on a slow drop ball and the batsmen broke their backs in reaching for it.

In 1887 he struck out nineteen of the St. Louis Browns. Though other pitchers have struck out more than Ramsey, it must be remembered that during the season of 1887 the 1-strike rule was in vogue, which gave the pitcher at least 25 per cent more handicap than the 3-strike rule. In 1884 Charley Sweeney, in a game with the Providence and Boston teams, made nineteen bean-eaters fan the ambient. But the pitcher was located about forty-five feet from the home plate in those days and he was allowed the hop, step and jump. Imagine how the cannonading used to operate in those hop-step-and-jump days. Charley Sweeney and Grasshopper Jim Whitney and that crowd of twirlers were on the slab. With all their speed, "Old Hoss" Radbourne had aces in his deck that none of 'em ever dealt, and to the mind of most critics he was the greatest pitcher that ever faced a batsman.

* * *

Bill Dahlen, the star infielder of Anson's aggregation, was without his own knowledge the idol of a poolroom crowd in Kansas City for a short time one day while the colts were playing there. Jimmy Manning's cowboys. "Dahl" told the story to a friend at the time, and it recently leaked out.

One afternoon shortly after Anson and his men arrived in the Missouri town, Dahlen was taking a stroll about the city all by himself, as, on account of the inclement weather there was no ball playing to be done. In the course of an hour or so the Chicago shortstop dropped into a local poolroom and scanned the odds posted against the horses on the different tracks then in operation. "Dahl" was dressed in the height of fashion, as he always is, and he looked like a "live one," although the truth of the matter was the little fielder's finances were just then at a rather low ebb, as the first pay day had yet to arrive and the winter had been a long one. While Dahlen was throwing a few wise glances at the blackboard some tout sported him and immediately proceeded to make a grand stand play with a "sucker" that he had in tow.

"See that swell lookin' guy over there?" said the tout, pointing to Dahlen. "Well, do you know who that is? That's Mike Dwyer, and he just came on here from New York today to play that trick I've just been telling you about. Hurry up and get a bet down on him before Dwyer backs him off the boards."

A half dozen of the habitues of the room overheard the tout's remarks and in less than a minute everybody in the place was "rubber-necking" at Dahlen in a highly interested fashion, and when at length he put his hand in his trousers pocket and approached the bet taker's stand everybody made a grand stand rush to get in behind him and see what he played. Bill fingered around in his clothes for a minute and then produced half a dollar and two quarters and requested the layer of odds to place it on some skate that was about to start out at 'Frisco. Then he turned and walked out into the street and he was simply at a loss to understand the looks of disgust on the rabble behind him until somebody followed him out and asked him if he was really the famous Eastern plunger. Dahl didn't even go back to see if his horse had won, but waited for the next day's papers.

All the college crews in the country are hustling themselves in preparation for the greatest intercollegiate regatta of America, which is scheduled for the beautiful straightaway course on the Hudson at Poughkeepsie for the last of next month. There are to be no less than four races and in two of these the freshmen and 'varsity contests, crews of the greatest rowing universities in the country will cross blades. Yale and Harvard have not met for two years and there is more bitter rivalry between them than ever. Then each of these crews has its own reason for wishing to defeat Cornell—Harvard to get revenge for like two victories Cornell secured over it last year and Yale to even up matters for the defeats administered twenty years ago. In that time Yale has steadily refused to meet Cornell and the rivalry has not been without bitterness. Mean things have been said on each side and each secretly rejoiced at the other's defeat at Henley. This year all old scores will be settled and the American championship effectually decided.

At Yale the prospects for a speedy crew are brighter than they were two weeks ago. All is not harmony yet, however, and the open revolt against that much overestimated coach, Robert J. Cook, has had a deleterious effect on the work. Cook has been retained despite the protests of some of Yale's best carsmen, and is diligently at work with the best set of candidates New Haven ever saw turn out for the crew. A number of the men who crossed the pond last summer are in the shell, and their experience will count for a great deal in the race against Harvard and Cornell.

Coach Lehman, as is generally reported, is developing the finest crew ever turned out at Harvard. He has the advantage of being able to teach his English stroke to a set of men uniformly of superb physique. It was conceded at Poughkeepsie last year that Harvard had the best crew physically, and most of the old carsmen are rowing again this season.

At Cornell Coach Courtney is saying little, but quietly working up a crew that he thinks can break another world's record, as his pupils did last year. Chic Frecborn, last year's captain, has recently come out and is again competing for a seat in the shell. Though a trifle late in making an appearance, it's a good bet that he will be in the boat when the referee starts that grand race. The crew is now rowing in the same order as it did when it defeated Harvard, Pennsylvania and Columbia last year, with little Briggs at stroke.

Meanwhile there is no little interest in the crews of Columbia and Pennsylvania, which Cornell will row after its races with Yale and Harvard. Though the result of the races with Columbia and Pennsylvania are not in so much doubt for Cornell as its first series, it must be remembered that Ellis Ward is training a speedy lot of Quaker oarsmen at Philadelphia, and that they are not to be discounted because of Pennsylvania's past defeats on the water.

George Siler, the referee of the recent fight between James J. Corbett and Robert Fitzsimmons, at Carson City, Nev., March 17, with Lou M. Houseman, sporting editor of the Chicago Inter Ocean, as collaborateur, has just issued a neat, graphically illustrated history of the big heavy-weight engagement. The book with illuminated cover, embraces a complete history of the fight and the circumstances leading up to it. Dan A. Stuart, the promoter of the contest, ordered the work from Siler and Houseman, and it is to be sold at all exhibitions of the pictures of the fight in America and abroad. An edition du luxe," selling at 25 cents, will be supplemented by a popular edition, 10 cents. Chicago, W. J. Jefferson Printing and Publishing company.

Veterans' Stories.

Old Soldiers Tell About Munyon's Great Victories.

Mr. D. H. Clark, member of the Union Veteran Legion, No. 1, and residing at Glenwood, Twenty-third Ward, Pittsburg, says: "I suffered for twenty years from weakness of the heart. During some of the spells that I had it amounted to almost heart failure. These spells were accompanied by pains extending down the left side and arm. My case was so severe that the Government is paying me a pension on account of it. I have tried everything in an effort to secure relief, but finally gave up the idea of being helped. Recently I tried Munyon's Heart Cure and it gave me almost instant relief. I carry a bottle of it in my pocket all the time, to be used in case of an emergency. I have also been troubled with severe distress in my stomach, accompanied by pains and drawing up of the intestines. At times I felt that I would die. I purchased a bottle of Munyon's Dyspepsia Cure and I am happy to say that the first dose cured me."

A. G. Austin, No. 7 Harper's Court, South Bend, Ind., a veteran of the war, who contracted rheumatism while in the army, and is also suffering from the effects of sunstroke, says: "I have been using the Munyon Rheumatism Cure since last Monday. I have derived more benefit and greater relief from the medicine than any that I have ever used; indeed, one feature is very remarkable; my little finger, which has been perfectly stiff, as though it had no joint in it, and always in my way, which I have not been able to bend for many years, has become supple and pliant, and I can now close it into the palm of the hand in a natural way. I am delighted with Munyon's medicine."

Munyon has a separate cure for each disease. At all druggists, mostly 25 cents a vial.

FREE TREATMENT.

Dr. Hartman Treats a Multitude of Women Free Every Year.

No one could ever be more thankful than I am for your advice and the benefits which I have derived from it. I took Peruna persistently. There is a great difference in my health now and last winter when I first applied to you. At that time I was so weak and nervous I could not do much work without shortness of breath and palpitation of the heart. I could not sleep at night for a spell some nights. I can lie down now and sleep soundly all night, and I am able to do all my housework without a servant, except washing. I had been troubled more or less with catarrh for twenty-five years, and I believe it would soon have gone into consumption had I not taken your treatment. I believe Peruna and Manalin are the best medicines that have ever been manufactured. I know that I have never taken any medicine from which I received so much benefit. I never expect to take any other medicine. I know it is all it is recommended to be. I have used it in my family for different complaints, and I find it sufficient for all the ills of life. I have recommended it to my friends that were afflicted with chronic diseases and they all find benefit from its use. I have told several invalids that if they would take Dr. Hartman's treatment they would get well, for I believed him the best physician in the United States. I often think it was through the Divine Providence that you ever made such grand medicines. May you live long to do good for suffering humanity is the prayer of your most grateful patient.

WHERE FISHING IS GOOD.

Those looking for the best fishing grounds are reminded of Lake Tetonka, at Waterville, and Madison lake, on the Minneapolis & St. Louis railroad.

Wall-eyed pike, bass and crappies are found in great abundance at both of these lakes, which have not been fished out to the extent of some of the older and better known localities.

Excellent hotel accommodations, boats, bait, etc., on hand, and all charges are very reasonable.

MEMORY

Canadian Militiamen Decorate Graves of the Riel Rebellion Heroes.

Recalls an Interesting Period in the History of the Northwest.

Something of the Rebellion and the Character of Gabriel Dumont.

On Sunday last the veteran militiamen of Toronto, Ont., decorated the graves of their comrades who fell twelve years ago fighting the halfbreeds in the Northwest.

The second "Riel rebellion," as the uprising in 1885 of the Metis was called, is now an almost forgotten incident of frontier history, but twelve years ago it was a live issue with all those living to the north and west of the line of the Northern Pacific railroad in Minnesota and Dakota. Everywhere, especially along the international boundary, the halfbreeds and Indians were disposed to be turbulent, and lost no opportunity to treat white men, whether settlers or travelers, with whom they came in contact, with a degree of arrogant and unusual insolence.

To the observant there were many signs that had a peculiar significance to those familiar with "Injun" nature. Among the Chippewas of Northern Minnesota the style of their dances changed suddenly. The somewhat tame "begging dance" disappeared, and in its place came the fierce "scup stick" dance of the Salteaux Sioux. The Indian "coup stick," it may be explained, is a headless spear, decorated formerly with scalps, but now most generally with knots of ribbon or strips of cloth. In battle the warrior who first touched the body of a fallen foe with the point of his spear, his hand, or even the hoof of his cayuse, gained the right to add another knot to his coup stick, and, therefore, the coup stick is symbolical of the scalps of his enemies, so dear to the heart of the gentle savage of the woods and plains.

In addition to these warlike dances, for there was more than one variety of them, there was a constant coming and going. Halfbreed Sioux were met with as far East as the Nipigon, and on the American side of Rainy river they were to be met with every day. They kept the Indians on the Rainy lake, Rainy river and Lake of the Woods reservations in a constant state of turmoil, and the settlers and Hudson's bay officials passed an anxious time in the summer of 1885.

In the meantime the Canadian volunteer militia, aided by a few regular troops, had responded bravely to the call of duty, had gone forth to meet hardship, exposure, wounds and possibly death upon the bleak prairies of the Assiniboin and Saschatchewan regions, returning victorious after a brief but glorious campaign of less than ninety days. The rebellion was suppressed, and its crazy high priest and ringleader, Louis Riel, captured and hanged, but many a Canadian home mourned the stalwart son or brother who fell upon those northern plains. That the Canadian people have not forgotten these patriotic soldiers was evidenced by the ceremonies of Sunday last.

Among the leaders of the Metis was one most picturesque character, Gabriel Dumont. Half Indian, half French, of sturdy build, and of immense strength and endurance, Gabriel Dumont seemed to have been fashioned by nature to become the leader of his people—the Metis or halfbreeds of the Red River of the North. Inured from his birth to endure hunger, fatigue and the rigors of the northern winter; trained in the fierce, cruel school of the buffalo hunter of the plains; skilled in all the arts of the hunter, trapper, voyageur and Indian trader, Gabriel Dumont looms up as a type of the man who carried the name and the dominion of the great "company of gentleman adventurers trading out of the Hudson's bay" to the uttermost parts of British North America, and as far South upon the Pacific coast as Northern California.

To such a man the coming of civilization meant virtual extinction. It meant that he, the mighty hunter, the lord of the prairie, must in future toil like a squaw in order to live. Is it, then, any wonder that when that half-crazy fanatic, Riel, commenced his crusade against the advancing civilization of Canada, that Dumont should at once come to the front as a military leader.

Two years after the uprising was put down, Gabriel Dumont, who had retreated unsconquered and unsubdued with a small band of his followers across the international boundary into Montana, fell into evil days. He was growing old and was desperately poor. Some of those who had known him in his palmy days fitted him out and started him upon a lecture tour. This, of course, was a failure, as may well be imagined. He could not speak in public, and he could never overcome the sense of shame of being exhibited, to use his own words, "like a buffalo calf."

But if the grizzled old buffalo hunter could not speak in public, he could in private company. When warmed with food, and cheered by his pipe and a small dram of rum, for Dumont was an abstemious man, he would unfold many a tradition of the plains, and tell many a story of long forgotten battles with hostile Indians, and still more hostile white trappers. To listen to him was to live in a bygone time; to hear him tell of the great fall hunts for winter meat was to realize how the rapid extinction of the buffalo herds appalled the men of the plains, and became one of the chief reasons for their undying hatred of the white intruders.

But in his old age Dumont was too intelligent not to comprehend, although dimly, the inexorable march of Western progress. He saw the deserted buffalo ranges covered with domestic cattle, flocks of sheep and bands of horses. He saw the fertile river bottoms of his own Red river, where formerly the high bush cranberry waved red in the summer winds, with its load of glossy berries, golden yellow with rippling fields of wheat. He rode as many miles in one day on the cars as would take his old Red river ox carts a month to cover, and he also became aware that there was other knowledge in this world than that to be wrested from nature in the free air of the plains.

Dumont, as these things dawned upon his mind, bowed to the inevitable, and shortly after his return to Montana he and his family disappeared from their usual haunts.

Whither he went, or whether he is alive or dead is not known, but in the history of the Great Northwest the name of Gabriel Dument will ever stand forth as an example of those traditional heroes of the frontier, whose vices and virtues add so much to the romance of the early days of Western civilization.

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN the payment of the sum of seven hundred thirty-six and 81-100 dollars which is claimed to be due and is actually due at the date of this notice on a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Ludwig Rusch, a widower, mortgagor, to Wilhelm Brown, of Duluth, Minnesota, mortgagee, said mortgage bearing date the 21st day of April, 1894, and duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, on the 21st day of April, 1894, at 10 o'clock and 45 minutes in the forenoon of that day, in Book 105 of mortgages, on page 148, which mortgage was executed to secure the payment of one certain promissory note of even date with said mortgage in the sum of six hundred dollars, payable in three years after the date of said note and mortgage with interest on said note at the rate of seven per cent per annum from date until paid, which interest was payable and due semi-annually, said note being signed by said mortgagor as maker and payable to the order of and delivered to said mortgagee; and said mortgage containing the provision that the said mortgagor should keep the property described in said mortgage continuously insured in some responsible stock insurance company for at least the sum of one thousand dollars, payable, in case of loss, to the said mortgagee or his assigns, and further providing that in case said mortgagor should not effect such insurance or fail to pay the premium therefor, then and in that case said mortgagee or his assigns, should be empowered to effect such insurance and pay all such unpaid premiums, and all sums of money paid for such purpose should be tacked and impressed as an additional lien upon said premises, and should be secured by and be collectible as a part of said mortgage and bear interest at the same rate as the indebtedness secured by said mortgage.

And, whereas, it was further understood and agreed by the terms of said mortgage that said mortgagor should pay all taxes and assessments that should for any purpose be payable, assessed or imposed upon said premises or any part thereof, before the same should become delinquent. And that upon his failure to do so, the said Wilhelm Brown, said mortgagee, was authorized to pay such taxes or assessments, and any and all sum or sums so paid should be tacked and impressed as an additional lien upon said premises, and should be secured by and collectible as a part of said mortgage and bear interest at the same rate as the indebtedness secured by the said mortgage and the note thereby secured, and,

Whereas, the said mortgagor having failed to pay and cancel the taxes on said premises in said mortgage described for the years, 1892, 1894 and 1895, and the same having become delinquent, the said mortgagee thereafter, and on the 1st day of May, 1897, did pay the taxes on said premises for said years 1893, 1894 and 1895, which with penalties and costs attached to said taxes because of such non-payment amounted to the sum of one hundred nine and 6-100 dollars, and no action or proceeding, at law or otherwise, having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, or the said amount of taxes and insurance so paid.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided the said mortgage will be foreclosed and the premises described in and covered and conveyed by said mortgage, to-wit: Lot number eighty-six, East Seventh street, Duluth Proper, First Division, according to the recorded plat thereof, on file and of record in the office of the register of deeds in and for St. Louis County, Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging, will be sold as public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest and the taxes and insurance hereinbefore paid by said mortgagee as hereinbefore set forth, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, which sale will be made by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, Minnesota, at the front entrance door to the county court house, in the city of Duluth, in St. Louis County, Minnesota, on the 21st day of June, A. The World of Fashion.

Just at present weddings have the lead in fashionable festivities, and balls and parties are the rare exception; but the search after novelties in dress goes on, like, the brook, forever, says the New York Sun. Owing to the tendency this season to revive some of the special characteristics of fashion sixty years ago, there is unlimited variety in style, and we have trimmed and flounced skirts, sloping shoulders, sashes, fichus and feather-trimmed hats in all their varying forms. Paris, as well as London, is putting forth every effort to harmonize the early Victorian modes with modern taste and necessities of dress, and old books and fashion plates are sought after by the dressmakers to aid them in carrying out the season's scheme of dress with modifications in honor of the queen's jubilee. Fashion, like history, repeats itself, but rarely on the old lines, as the old ideas are not suited to the new conditions of life. It is interesting, however, to notice the new adaptations of old fashions and the variety of pretty effects which modern taste can produce.

A WEDDING GOWN.

The conventional wedding gown of white satin, with chiffon and lace for decoration, is not a subject for great variety in style; but the trousseau, as a means of displaying all the whims and fancies of fashion, offers a field for operations which leaves nothing to be desired. First on the list is the evening dress. Satin, either plain or brocaded, colored or white, and often veiled with thin gauze, is the material most generally employed; yet crepe de chine, Liberty gauze, transparent stuffs of all kinds and flowered taffetas are all in favor. A pretty evening dress in one trousseau is of pale gray crepe de chine, in the dove shade so popular this season, made over pale pink silk. Steel sequins set around the skirt in irregular vandykes at the hem and just below the waist were the trimming, and these appeared again on the full bodice in the same form. A thick band of sequins trimmed the low-cut neck and a band of pink satin ribbon formed the belt. The sleeves, of shirred crepe de chine, were long and transparent, with narrow sequin-trimmed frills at the top. Pink tulle over pink satin, and trimmed with ruches of narrow pink satin ribbon, forms another and more girlish gown, and the sleeves are short butterfly bows of dainty lace. A wide belt of pink satin and a half-moon arrangement of shaded pink roses at one side of the bodice complete the decoration. A rope of flowers caught at the waist on one side and at the neck on the other is one form of floral garniture, and a fringe of some fine flower around the neck, forming a bertha, is another; for this violets are especially pretty.

A NEW EVENING DRESS.

A pretty feature of the new evening dresses is the long soft scarf of chiffon. It may be black, white or colored, and the black and white sashes are made very effective by dotting them over with appliqué figures of lace in contrast, black and white and the reverse. Plain chiffon, with a frill of lace all around the edge, is also used, and the sashes, of white organdie, have innumerable rows of narrow lace insertion across the edge.

Ruches of tinted chiffon are festooned around the skirt of plain and brocaded satin evening dresses, and one charming gown in the trousseau of a pretty brunette is of yellow moire, with kiltings of yellow chiffon in the skirt. The bodice has tiny bolero fronts of jeweled lace and a soft full vest of the chiffon, caught up at one side with green and pink hydrangea blossoms. A striking yet simple evening gown is of pale blue brocaded satin, with plaited bolero bows and a belt of green velvet.

Pink is very popular for the summer party gown, and a new effect is gained by combining it with shades of violet. Of course, great care must be used in selecting the tints, but they can be made to harmonize very prettily. Another novel combination, fashionable this season, is red used in conjunction with pink for trimming. Another gown is of pink brocaded satin, with two bands of red velvet around the skirt and a finish of red velvet at the neck and belt, embroidered with silver and pearls. Red and pink sound very inharmonious, but if the colors are chosen carefully, so that the red is but pink grown dark, the effect is good. A pretty evening blouse for my lady's wedding outfit is of white chiffon, with rows of lace insertion running around the full bodice, a bertha of lace around the shoulders, and a finish of pale green satin at the neck and belt.

COMBINATIONS OF COLOR.

In the fashionable combinations of color—and they are one of the chief points in fashion this season—for day gowns we find blue and a brownish orange and brown and violet very conspicuous. Blue in all the tints, from a dark navy through all the cornflower shades to palest turquoise, is a favorite color this season, and a dark blue cam as made over blue silk and finished with a touch of orange is decidedly chic. Pale blue with cerise is one of the new combinations of color, and an afternoon gown of the up-to-date trousseau is made of pale blue grenadine over blue silk, with a vest and yoke of cerise taffeta and a frill of cerise silk falling down the front of the bodice. Bands of narrow black and white ribbon trim the skirt and edges of the bodice where the grenadine laps over the silk. Dark blue, cherry red, white, and grass linen is another mixture of colors and materials seen in an imported gown of blue canvas with a white chiffon vest, a cherry satin collar band and belt, and embroidered grass linen revers.

Black grenadines are worn by women of all ages, and some of the latest gowns are lined with black. The touch of color so necessary to the success of a dress this season is given in bows or kilted frills of silk on the bodice, and the skirts are trimmed with narrow black satin ribbon put on in various designs. Triple ruches of the material, narrow, box plaited and flat, and set on from the knee down, are another form of skirt trimming. Skirts certainly do not lack variety this season, either in cut or finish, and many of the new models are generously supplied with ruffles, flounces of various widths, rows and rows of millliners' folds or ribbon, kilted frills and tucks and insertions galore. There are side panels, front panels and plaited panels of silk set in the two front seams to flare out at the bottom, fan fashion, and every other sort of skirt trimming which old and new ideas can devise; and yet the plain skirt is the one most in evidence just at present.

NEW BODICE MODELS.

The bodice, opened and trimmed on the left side, is one of the most popular models among the new gowns, and the latest fancy is opened diagonally from the left shoulder to the right side and finished on the edge with accordion-plaited frills of silk chiffon or lace in double rows. For slender, long-waisted women this is an exceedingly pretty style, but the artistic effect is promptly lost if the figure is short and stout.

A very fascinating gown for the casino, and one of many in a very complete trousseau, is of pervenchi blue faille silk, with a bodice of pompadour silk, with the same blue in the flowering. Tiny ruffles of blue gauze with baby ribbon on the edge trim the skirt, lapping narrowly in front, and spreading out with a space between at the back. The sleeves, of plain blue, have epaulettes of gauze ruffles, which also finish the collar band at the back. For these dressy gowns, white taffeta silk is charming, made with a sun-plaited skirt, set in a yoke. A very novel and expensive idea is a plaited skirt of chiffon in some delicate color underneath the taffeta one. A plain foundation skirt is an additional necessity, of course, but the effect is perfect with a broad sash of the same chiffon knotted around the waist. The bodice of one of these gowns, made of violet chiffon, has a yoke of fine guipure lace over the color, with frillings of silk and chiffon around the shoulders, forming a bertha.

A STRIKING COSTUME.

A striking costume amid all the bright colors used this season is one of black taffeta with three narrow flounces of black silk net around the skirt. A net bodice over Parisian pink silk, which is brought out in relief, has a round yoke with fine tucks, and a narrow vest down the front. Another peculiar costume of this kind has a black satin skirt of four deep plaited flounces, the upper one set in at the waist, and all edged with one row of half-inch cream satin ribbon. The bodice and sleeves are of the pink silk, with epaulette frills of black chiffon edged with cream ribbon and a bolero of cream guipure over pink, edged with a black satin fold.

The combination of checked taffeta, in blue or green and white, with plain material, is not an unusual one this season. The check is used for the bodice, with plain green or blue canvas for the skirt and sleeves, and frillings of plain silk in some contrasting color are introduced to carry out the present scheme of color mixture. Plaitings of cream net add very much to the becoming effect of the bodice. A dainty bodice to wear with a black silk skirt is pale gray silk, with a pinkish tinge, white chiffon and Valenciennes lace insertion. The rest is of chiffon, with crosswise insertions and edgings of lace; the sleeves of gray silk, tucked and trimmed with insertion, and the bolero is made of alternate bands of tucked silk and lace. A stylish model for a cashmere gown is carried out in tan color, with three bands of black satin in the skirt piped on the upper edge with turquoise blue. Cream guipure lace forms the epaulettes, stole ends, and bands, which are also piped with blue, and blue satin rosettes are the finish. The belt and collar are of black, piped with blue.

In fancy bodices, which seem to be quite as fashionable as ever, there is one of linen batiste with a fine silk stripe of pink, made over pink dimity. The sleeves are shirred and fine batiste embroidery forms the yoke and band down the front. Another bodice is of figured muslin with a sailor collar of the same material trimmed with lace insertion.

DRAPERY AGAIN.

That drapery is coming in again seems to be a foregone conclusion, and here we have a red and white checked silk lined off in larger checks of black with a sort of handkerchief drapery on each side of the back, showing the red selvage of the silk as border. The bodice has a loose vest of white satin embroidered with green, red, and gold, and the white cemture of black satin is drawn up at either side of the vest and finished with plaited ends of black chiffon with a row of cream lace insertion above the hem. Plaitings of lisse are arranged over the shoulders and in a deep frill over the sleeves.

Foulards are decidedly the most popular materials of the season, and there is certainly an endless choice. A gown of this in green, white, yellow and pink mixture has a trimming of lace and insertion down the front seams, a lace yoke, a mauve belt and collar, and a frill of mauve chiffon down the side. A simple model for the bride's traveling dress has a finish of white moire peeping out from the edge all down the front, at the collar and cuffs, and a finish of white cord and fancy buttons. A novel wrap in bolero form is made of black satin, with cape sleeves of kilted black chiffon, cream lace in the tabbed revers, and fancy buttons.

In bridesmaids' gowns anything for variety seems to be admissable, and pretty ones are made of white book muslin over white silk with rows of Mechlin lace insertion set in around the skirt and sleeves, and a soft full sash of pink crepe de chine. One of the gowns is of white Liberty gauze trimmed with lace, and the sash is of blue silk, edged around with lace.

COMPLEXION'S CARE.

Some Seasonable Hints About Preserving It.

Not so much devotion is given a fair complexion now as in the days when Dolly Madison's Quaker mother sent her to school every morning along country roads with a linen mask over her face, long linen mittens on her arms and a sunbonnet sewed tightly to the mask, so that the little 7-year-old could not take it off till it was ripped off, says the New York Journal.

Nowadays it is more to the point to study a girl's diet and personal habits than to veil and shade her till her breath is half cut off. When a rosebud will eat eight cream cakes at a sitting dullness of complexion must follow, though she lives indoors. But when her appetite is regulated, and she lives out of doors on beach and hilltop, the sun bleaches and brings out the vivid rose tint, provided always that she eats home-made brown bread, goes to bed at 9 or 10 o'clock, bathes twice or more a week in cold weather, oftener in warm, and is out of doors at least three hours every day of her life.

The skin which clothes our bodies must be kept in the freshest condition. The difference between the hasty "wash" and thorough bathing deserves consideration. For young women in good flesh the cold bath may be most agreeable and good. But in case of languor, pallor and stiffness of the limbs the hot bath is best, quite as hot as the skin can bear, and rendered more cleansing with ammonia, borax or pearline. Remain in it ten minutes, to let the skin absorb the water, soaking off the old layer, softening and stimulating the new growth and suppling the joints.

USE GOOD SOAP.

Keep the water hot while taking a thorough rub with good soap, then let it run clear, adding lavender or any pleasant toilet water for a refreshing finish. Keep the head wet in cool water if any sense of fulness there is felt. Wipe with warm towels, to lose none of the stimulating heat which sends the blood coursing in the veins, renewing worn tissues and carrying away obstructions. The hot bath well followed in other matters leads to growth of stature, no matter what age, before the decline of life sets in. The power to grow again, which Dr. Weir Mitchell says often follows a typhoid or yellow fever, adding half an inch to height in six months may be gained without such risks by strict attention to health, aided by the hot bath. This kindly agent sweeps away millions of dead molecules by the skin, warding off obesity, congestion, rheumatic stiffness and a host of unlovely disorders, and the least any one can do to keep decent is to take a hot bath with soap and hot towels twice a week. The wiping should be leisurely and repeated, to absorb the free-flowing perspiration, and the best practice after towelling is to wrap the body in a warm bath gown of Turkish towelling and lie down in a well-heated, well-aired room for a good rest. This restores tone all over doubles the benefit of the bath, and does away with the risk of taking cold, which, however, diminishes with the habit of hot bathing. The best way for busy people is to take the bath between 8 and 9 o'clock in the evening, put on clean clothes and go straight to bed to read and rest till sleepy. The early sleep and the bath sleep keep women young.

OIL THE JOINTS.

Rubbing warm oil on the joints and heating it in before a fire promotes suppleness and prevents rheumatic malaise. An old superstition of hunters and opera dancers, to whom lightness and agility are indispensable, is to heat deer suet and the fat of goats and antelopes, and rub it well into the joints. From observation, one is greatly disposed to value the practices of people who are not given to throwing away their trouble. Flaxseed embrocations assist in suppling the joints, and are made by soaking the seed twelve hours in five times as much cold water, then pressing the mucilage through cheesecloth, heating and binding it hot upon the joints when going to bed. Friction with thick flannel or mullein leaves, bathing with hot water after tiring exercise, or cool water when fevered, keep the joints in good condition, and preserve the elastic gait and easy motions which are the soonest lost of woman's graces.

Actresses work hard to gain and keep pliancy of limb. I know one ambitious creature of rounded figure who at first, like most women, could hardly lift her arms to do her own hair, whose stage training included a variety of muscular exercise fatiguing to inspect. To stand and kick at a mantel sixty times with one foot and as many times with the other for two hours a day gave pliancy of leg and ankle. To stoop and touch the floor without bending the knee gave command of limb, but to do it a hundred times in a morning is harder work than you or I have undertaken. Then came exercise with the gymnastic pull of stout rubber cords a yard long, with wooden handles, screwed to the wall, by which one might grip, swing, wrestle, hang backward at full weight, or turn hand over hand till the figure lost all the disabilities of ordinary too, too solid flesh and blood and seemed plastic to sentiment, as nature ordained. Most systems of gymnastic exercises for indolent women and overtrained girls are so artificial, formal and worthless for practical ends that they have no use in our scheme of beauty.

GREEK GIRLS BEAUTIFUL.

If the early Greek girls were more beautiful than any other women the sun ever shown upon, they were also useful as few have been before or since. It is work, duty, most musical of words, which perpetuate beauty. The shapeliest hands I ever saw and the slenderest natural waists belonged to two of the hardest working women who had wrought since childhood at common domestice duties.

I wish I could reach the mothers of a certain class, families of no special fortune, with income large enough for the small gentilities of life, the very last ones who should fall out of traditional activities—shopkeepers' and ministers' and upper clerks' families, whose mothers, with mistaken indulgence, are letting their daughters grow up without duties and without work. School, fancy work, a little music, some church work, some society, some puttering about flower beds, some driving, fill in their time, not one thing to really develop muscle or start healthy blood. They go to bed when they please, get up when they please, eat what coaxes their squeamish appetites and take walks when other girls come for them.

Let your girls do housekeeping vigorously mornings, or work—not potter—in the garden, dance or play tennis afternoons and sing part songs in the evenings; but never let them shirk the interest, the development, that lies in real work.

WHAT THE BATH DOES.

The bath is woman's best antidote to pain, the tonic for her strength and preservation of freshness. Chronic irregularities and periodic attacks of pain seldom refuse to yield to a course of varied baths. From the time girls enter their teens preliminary aches and langour call for hot foot baths. One of the best foot tubs is the three-gallon tin can in which peppermint oil comes for druggists, which allows the legs to be immersed to the knees. Such a leg bath with very warm soap and water sitz bath on retiring, wiping on warm towels and getting immediately into a warm bed, with hot bricks of soapstones, is hygiene, which steals a countermarch on the acute disorders which ruin a girl's scholarship, good looks and comfort. In contradiction to nearly all doctors' advice on the subject, I say, don't finish the hot bath with a cool douche or sponge in cases where there is ache or pain, however slight. Warmth is vitality and anodyne to pain. Rather have a robe of Turkish toweling to slip over the night gown warmed for sleeping. It leaves one so warm that she can sleep with the window open—so much the better for her complexion and well-being. Fresh air by night and day is a far more wholesome tonic than any amount of cold bathing. The first approach of malaise with girls should be a signal for prompt curative practice of the kind named. This prevents the flushing and pimples, the headaches and fractiousness, of growing girls. When these disappear, or a few days after, is the time for cold sponging of the back below the waist and the hip muscles. Finish by rubbing with alcohol or bay spirit. Such treatment transforms girls from lumpish, awkward creatures to supple, vivacious ones, if they are not educated to death over their books.

A NEW YORK BRIDE.

The wedding trosseau of Miss Belle Neilson was entirely the creation of American artists. This form of patriotism is so strangely unique among the brides of the "Four Hundred" that the Paris aspirants showered sketches upon the young lady, imploring her attention and patronage. But, alas! for all such outside the states, madamoiselle declared for America and her genius. Among the ladies that understand the art of dressing there has been much rebellion in a quiet way, especially during the past year. They object to the prevailing system of the leading dressmakers in town of importing a limited number of the same design as a model gown. The result of this scheme is that a lady who can afford to be well gowned pays a big price for the privilege of seeing her attire duplicated by perhaps her closest friend or worst enemy, with but a slight variation, perhaps, in the combination of colors or materials employed. This is exactly what Miss Neilson proposed to escape. Many of her gowns have been especially designed for her, and bear not the slightest resemblance to the hackneyed French model gowns that one gets familiar with to a degree that breeds contempt before the close of each and every season.

So simple, dainty and unusual are these creations that they are in themselves the strongest argument possible in favor of less blind servile following only of those fashions that bear the hitherto all-powerful hall mark of Paris. I proves, too, that were American talent encouraged, and were more women to take the decided stand adopted by Miss Neilson, it would be only a question of an amazingly short period before New York would cease to lag, as it now does, half a year or more behind Paris, but could stand, if not on terms of supremacy with her, certainly on equality.

A SIMPLE WEDDING GOWN.

Miss Neilson's wedding gown was a marvel of simplicity and becomingness. It was made by Madame Donovan, who also made Mrs. Neilson's wedding gown, nearly a quarter of a century ago.

The reproduction of some of the gowns sketched from life will be a liberal education to those who are interested in knowing what is the "dernier cri" in modes.

The dinner gown is of deep yellow chiffon, a shade that is most difficult for any but one of Miss Neilson's perfect brunete type to wear. The entire waist, sleeves and upper part of the skirt is bouillonnee by hand. This means a vast amount of labor that ordinarily one never sees in this country.

The corsage is decollete, a la surplice, and blouses decidedly in the front. The skirt below the bouillonnees ends in one double ruffle and two deep ruffles finished with selvage edges. The skirt is, of ecurse, loose from its lining of yellow taffeta silk, and is contined at the waist by a narrow belt of black satin.

Another charming dinner gown is of deep amethyst English crepe—the same as a black crepe in texture, but a great and exclusive novelty in color. This gown has a bebe waist, a plain, full skirt, and with it is worn a narrow belt of Russian gold, studded with amethysts of some size and fastened with a clasp formed of three of these huge purple stones.

AN AFTERNOON GOWN.

An afternoon gown is of gray taffeta. The skirt, which is only moderately full, has a plain hem of seven inches, surmounted by a cluster of eight quarter-inch tucks, set wide apart. Directly above them are three narrow bouillonnees of gray chiffon. Another set of eight tucks, two bouillonnees of chiffon, more tucks, one row of chiffon, and then the skirt is quite plain to the waist. The corsage and sleeves are formed of alternate rows of tucks and bouillonnees of criffon. The corsage, blouse decidedly all the way around, is confined at the waisth y a soft blas belt of taffeta that finishes in the back by a little bow of two loops, with ends about six inches long, outlined by the same narrow bouillonnees of chiffon. The stock collar is of soft folds of the chiffon edged top and bottom with the bouillonnees.

A morning gown is of biscuit muslin, dotted with white. The waist, as well as the sleeves, are plaided with transparent entre deux of narrow, black thread lace. The skirt is also plaided with entre deux and simulates a tablier; that in the front deep down in a point well below the knee and rising sharply to a short line on the hips and in the back. The whole gown is mounted separately over yellow taffeta. The sleeves are wrinkled a la mousquetaire, with scarcely any extra fulness at the top. The collar is formed of folds of the same plaided effect, surmounted by a narrow, full frill of black thread lace. The belt is of black taffeta.

An exceedingly smart and appropriate country gown is made of brown linen. This has six gores that are outlined by lapped seams and is unlined. It hangs marvelously well, and is the quintessence of simplicity and comfort. The blouse, which is also unlined, has a broad collar, machine stitched about the edge, to match the skirt. It fastens in the front invisibly under a machine-stitched flap like a covert coat's. The sleeves are reduced shirt waist sleeves, finished with a 4-inch light cuff that fastens with half a dozen tiny buttons covered with brown linen. The "V" is formed of folds of white pineapple muslin, arranged to follow the line of the throat line. One sees them arranged in the immaculate throat gear of certain sisterhoods. The belt is a ribbon of Russian gold, studded and fastened with golden ever-changing tiger's eyes.

SHIRT WAISTS IMPORTANT.

Probably the most important item in a woman's wardrobe in almost every phase of life are her shirt waists. Whether they be of satin, of chiffon, or silk or of cotton, it is upon them she depends for her comfort in life—from a clothes point of view—and her ability to be successfully prepared for any and every emergency. Miss Neilson's trousseau included shirt waists in shoals. Perhaps the two smartest were one of cerise taffeta; the other of gleaming white satin of the hue known as oyster shell.

The blouse of cerise taffeta was crossed and countercrossed by clusters of three tiny tucks four inches apart, until the whole had a plaided effect. The sleeves were also plaided by these fine tucks to the elbow. The waist was made to blouse all the way around, which is much newer and smarter than being tight-fitting in the back and blousing only in the front. At the throat is worn a cravat with pointed ends in black mousseline de soie, strapped with cerise taffeta and adorned with tiny tucks finished with frills of narrow black and gold lace.

The white satin blouse is entirely formed of quarter-inch tucks running horizontally. A yoke effect is formed by three tucks the same width across the back and front. The sleeves are formed of tucks the same width, only running around the arm. They extend well above the elbow. The cravat worn with this blouse is of white net strapped with white satin and finished with frills of the net.

Altoether, Miss Neilson has as tasteful a bridal outfit as any bride could wish for, and it is an American production at that!

THE MOTHER'S CORNER.

Conducted by a Kindergartner.

I only wish that everyone of our dear little mothers could realize what a powerful aid to the gold of the home they could possess in those happy moments that come

"Between the dark and the daylight

When the night is beginning to lower,

In that pause in the day's occupation

That is known as the children's hour."

That sweet, dear time that comes between is the happiest recollection of childhood days. Now, during these spring and the coming summer days, more than ever, does he need this happy hour. Now he is more independent of mother for his pleasures. All out-of-doors is his to draw from and these bedtime moments must counteract the things we cannot see; the new friends we have not known, must keep little ideals un—little faults in mind, and first of all help the child to feel that home is the best place of all. A little one going to his happy dreams and rest is better with a mind filled with the sweet story mother told or the wonderful pictures father drew on blackboard or paper, or for a merry playtime all together than hurried to bed with perhaps the good night kiss and nothing more. These little ones need these golden memories to bind one day to another until they become an angel of protection that guards the after years.

If it is only ten moments taken from the kitchen, the mending basket or from social duties give at least that much up completely to a happy time. Not always a story, let it be a game, perhaps that they have played in the kindergarten, or the songs they know or love to hear, or free-hand drawing on a blackboard. The praise of a baby's judgment is not difficult to command and it is one of the most highly enjoyed and most helpful of pastimes. Then for the stories there is such a wealth of children's literature published that we have almost an embarrassment of riches, but there is something to suit every need, we have only to look to find. One ambitious little mother told me last week that she was trying to direct her 8-year-old boy to read only what would make him well-informed later. We do not feed a child for next week or next year but for today that he may build up strength for tomorrow and if is the same with his mental food. A little child easily forgets what does not interest or please him. They remember and enjoy only what they have done or feel they would like to have been or done.

Give them much of that mysterious time "when I was a little girl," or "when papa was a little boy" with its charm of reality and wonder. The mother or father who has not lived through a lifetime of adventures in the eyes of little children has not understood one of nature's greatest gifts. In her little talk to the mothers Miss Hofer spoke of a mother who had lived for twelve years in a lighthouse and of all the stories that could be drawn from her experience and then of the woman who had known little "Patsy" how much she could have told; and who of us who have not lived in surroundings that fill some story or known story-like people.

Take our little Duluth children out into the story land of the country much during these summer days that are coming. Let him make his mental pictures—his ideals—something more than a few feet of turf and the little bed of geraniums that most of our city homes possess. Tell them of the most beautiful gardens you can find in poetry or history, or in one's own experience, using them as a background of our own stories. The dear little garden where grandmamma walked with its neat hedgerows, its trim tulip beds, its lavender, rosemary, and sweet william in odorous profusion and the sweet dainty perfume of it all, will linger through the story and make it more pure and uplifting. Then the wonderful parks of England—the long reaches of green turf—the forest preserves with birds and deer and the little rose cottage at the gate; the fragrant vine bowered gardens of France or the bright beautiful garden spots of our own North, South, East and West. All our highest, purest self is drawn out in the beautiful nature, in the going back to the green beginning when all the world was a garden.

Just now during these last May days there are so many tales to be told of the brave soldiers of the civil war. Why we set apart a day to honor the dead as well as the living heroes of our country. Fill them with loving memories of the land and reverence for the sacrifice for right as each side saw it, and an intense love for our country and our flag. Not a bright, merry joyous time, but drawing out the deeper sympathies and thoughts. Henry Ward Beecher says: "Till the mountains are worn out and the rivers forget to flow, till the clouds are weary of refreshing springs and the springs forget to gush and the rills to sing shall their names be kept fresh with reverent honor which are inscribed on the book of national remembrance."

TO MOTHERS OF LARGE FAMILIES.

Mrs. Pinkham's Advice Free.

In this workaday world few women are so placed that physical exertion is not constantly demanded of them in their daily life.

Mrs. Pinkham makes a special appeal to mothers of large families whose work is never done, and many of whom suffer and suffer for lack of intelligent aid.

To women, young or old, rich or poor, Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., extends her invitation of free advice. Oh, women! do not let your lives be sacrificed when a word from Mrs. Pinkham, at the first approach of weakness, may fill your future years with healthy joy.

Mrs. A. C. Buhler, 1123 North Albany avenue, near Humboldt Park, Chicago, Ill., says: "I am fifty-one years old and have had twelve children, and my youngest is eight years old. I have been suffering for some time with a terrible weakness: that bearing-down feeling was dreadful, and I could not walk any distance. I began the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash and they have cured me. I cannot praise your medicine enough."

GOSSIP OF ★ ★ THE STAGE.

Few farce-comedies can show a better record than "A Railroad Ticket," written by Joseph M. Gaites. It continues to move along season after season, giving better satisfaction each time. It is a musical farce-comedy, and while it introduces many specialty people, they are all novelties. It has a well-defined and consistent plot that carries interest until the final curtain. The music, songs, dances and medleys with which the performance abounds are bright and catchy, the costuming beautiful and appropriate. The cast is one of the best ever put together to present this piece and includes Marie Stuart, the famous chanteuse, who played ten consecutive weeks in New York, twelve in London and eight in Paris last season. She has been specially engaged to play the French maid and introduce her specialty. The popular little comedian Louis Wesley will be seen as "Chips," a part he created in the original production of "A Railroad Ticket." There are over seventeen others in the cast. This excellent attraction will be seen here on Monday at the Lyceum.

It is about time some sensible person was exploding a lot of the gilded nonsense which constitutes the public conception of the chorus girls, and DeWolf Hopper has written a commendably sensible account of her characteristics for a San Francisco paper. Mr. Hopper, of course, devotes himself to his own chorus, but he makes it known that they are human and that their every day life is a good deal like that of other girls who are supposed to be sane and reasonably happy, even if their local habitation is continually shifting from place to place. Most of Mr. Hopper's chorus girls do not possess diamonds or sealskin sacques.

It is probable that Charles E. Evans, of "A Parlor Match" fame, and his wife, known on the program as Minnie French, are to retire permanently from the stage. They have just made public celebration of the fifteenth anniversary of their marriage and such an acknowledgement would hardly be made if Mrs. Evans desired to continue playing giddy soubrette roles. There is a Charles E. Evans, Jr., who was part of this celebration.

Therese Vaughan and "Joe" Ott are to star next season. Miss Vaughan is a beautiful woman with a beautiful voice, and is Ott's sister.

After raising his variety sketches to the importance of legitimate comedies, Edward Harrigan is to "return to his first love" and again appear in the vaudevilles. It will be noted that when Harrigan left it was called the variety business, while now he returns to the vaudevilles.

Odell Williams, he of mighty girth and unctuous humor, goes a-starring next season in "The Alderman," by William Gill.

They all get the vaudeville fever nowadays. Frank Bangs, that veteran of the palmy days, who so stoutly refuses to see good in modern methods of acting, threatens to go into the vaudevilles. If he makes such an appearance it will be as Marc Antony in the Forum scene of "Julius Caesar" with a stage full of supers.

The wife of Eugene Cowles, the basso of the Bostonians, is suing him for divorce and the moving cause is that he insisted on entertaining his actor friends at home. Of course there must be real incompatibility between husband and wife under the circumstances, because if she wished to keep track of her handsome husband she would encourage the very practice she complains of.

The announcement that Charles H. Hoyt has engaged A. B. Sloane to write incidental music for "A Stranger in New York" provokes inquiry as to the whereabouts of Richard Stahl, the genial German who is supposed to be Mr. Hoyt's principal manufacturer of harmony. Mr. Hoyt is now writing a new piece for Otis Harlan, and it is to be produced in Detroit Dec. 15.

Della Fox was unfortunate enough to be prevented by illness from taking her part in "The Wedding Day" one night last week, and those who had predicted that jealousy would break up the triple alliance between Russell, Fox and D'Angelis had a short inning at "I told you so." Miss Fox recovered all right and is again in the east.

James A. Herne has been playing "Shore Acres" for five years, and its continued success serves to keep from a public hearing a new play which he has completed. During the season now so near its end Mr. Herne has delivered a great many lectures or sermons, in the churches at various points he has visited.

Over in London the music hall is an important institution, and a new evidence of the fact is the announcement that Sir Arthur Sullivan has composed a ballet for the Alhambra. The title of the production is "Victoria and Merrie England," and it requires stage settings of the most elaborate kind.

The vaudeville performers gave a benefit last Sunday night in New York city for the actors' fund, and out of over 500 volunteers seventy were selected for the performance. A feature of the occasion which had no small attraction for many people was the legitimate actors who, for this once, acted as ushers. Think of the joy of the matinee girl in being shown to her seat by Faversham, Lackaye, DeBelleville, Sothern, Hackett or some other handsome actor whose line of acting is limited to lovers.

There is an amiable and clever performer on the vaudeville stage who calls himself Harrigan, the tramp juggler. He makes his specialty amusing by audible comments upon his own work and one of his regular remarks is: "Don't it seem mean in me to take money for doing this?" Last week the Baroness Blanc of extensive notoriety made her debut on the vaudeville stage in New York and some one was unkind enough to suggest that Harrigan's catch line belonged by right to her.

John Henshaw is to have a new version of the old piece for next season, to be called "Dodge's Trip to New York."

What is there so fascinating to our comedians in the part of Petruchio in "The Taming of the Shrew?" Last week Sol Smith Russell, that paragon of actors in the delineation of homely virtue, announced himself as a candidate for honor in this character next season, and now comes Nat Goodwin, a little more versatile, who wants to play Petruchio to Maxine Elliott's Katherine. Ward and Vokes, Matthews and Bulger, Louis Wesley, Otis Harlan, Harry Conor, Roland Reed, Gus Williams and Harry Blaney are yet to be heard from.

Mme. Calve was asked the other day what advice she would give a young woman who had a good voice and fancied that Providence had cut out a career for her on the stage. The French woman's reply was full of force and good sense. "I should tell her," she said firmly, "to go home and mend her stockings, do anything but go upon the stage. There is no happiness in a stage life. What is it? It is a life of continual worriment. It is not to sleep, not to eat, to be always in a state of nervousness—to have cruel and unjust things said of you and motives ascribed to you of which you are utterly innocent. There are very few born artists. History proves that there are only about three great artists in a generation. For one great reason the stage is unhappiness for the average woman. It is no place for the woman who is not absolutely wedded to her art. The artist should not think of marrying. While she is on the stage she is not fit to be the wife of any man. There is always the divided heart and no man wants that. The husband should be the head. He does not wish his name to be upon the billboards, nor his wife's picture in every window. That is right: that is as it should be. No, no; the stage, alluring, fascinating as it is, is not the place for the wife, but the woman who lives only for the art. That is why I say to the stage-struck girl: 'Stay at home; sew, read, teach, marry—do anything rather than go upon the stage.'"

There are two classes of frauds in relation to matters musical, says a writer in the Omaha Bee. One is composed of those who really know very little of and care very little for the art, but pose as its ardent devotees. They are always deploring the fact that "one can hear nothing in this slow town," yet they never attend any of the fine concerts that are given here every season, being sick, or too tired, or kept at home by some other trivial excuse. They are eternally "going to Chicago or to St. Louis to hear something," but they never go. Their breath is pestilence, their words malignant germs that breed disease, their influence a bane to all within its reach. The second is composed of those would-be musicians, who, with practically no musical education, with no real training, but with a picked-up incongruous knowledge of some few odds and ends of its practice, set themselves up as leaders. They take under their care the young and ambitious, destroy their talent, and bury them in the grave of oblivion. They are clogs on the wheels of progress; they are like barnacles on an ocean steamer; they are parasites upon society, who destroy that they may live.

Besides all these there remains the great public into whose life music enters but rarely and slightly, who looks upon it as an amusement, or a means of worship, appropriate at a funeral or a wedding, convenient to march by or to dance to, a pleasing accompaniment to a conversation, especially if it is not desirable that the words be heard by the surrounding guests, and all things considered, not a nuisance, unless there is too much of it.

Of these is the world constituted, so far as music is concerned. Its progress is to be made with the help and hindrance of these classes. They may be likened to an army, and its recruits, it is readily seen, must come from the class called the public. As it is not considered lawful to force people to enlist in the service of art, they must be caused to desire its welfare, and to be willing to come to its aid. This can only be done by bringing them under its direct influence.

DR. HOBBS
SPARAGUS KIDNEY PILLS.

Have Reached a Sale in Duluth and Vicinity that is Simply Enormous.

Hundreds of Boxes Sold Yesterday.

Nothing Like it Ever Heard of or Known Before in this City.

Step a moment and think of it!! Hundreds of boxes of Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills were sold in Duluth in a single day, and this of a remedy that a few months ago was totally unheard of in this section of the state.

Had there been no merit in Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills, and had all the claims made for these pills not been verified, no amount of advertising, however large, could have been the means of producing such incredible sales.

It was simply a question of merit, and the cures effected by Dr. Hobbs' remedy have been so pronounced that those who had been benefited or cured by using Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills could not refrain from recommending them to their friends on all occasions. Of course, the frank and open-handed honest manner in which Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills were introduced in this city is perhaps another explanation of their success and of their wonderful sale in and around Duluth.

Dr. Hobbs says the kidneys should be in perfect order to insure good health. This important fact is understood by everybody.

Mankind suffers from the fact that the human purifiers of the blood—the kidneys—are not performing their work properly, and, like any bit of delicate machinery that is out of order, needs repairing.

If the kidneys don't filtrate all poisons out of the blood, it is because they are sick and weak. What is the result? A hundred and one ailments originate from diseased kidneys. This shows how important it is to keep your kidneys active, strong and well.

Hence, if you are a sufferer from backache, kidney trouble, diabetes, dropsy, rheumatism, gout, general muscular weakness, neuralgia, headache, nervous exhaustion or generally run down, go to your druggist's at once and make the best investment you ever made in your life by procuring a box of Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills, and in a week's time you will have undergone a change for the better that will surprise you as well as your friends.

From a Well Known Mason and Odd Fellow, Who Has Been Drawing Sick Benefits for Three Months.

Garland, N. Y., Sept. 18, 1896.
Hobbs' Remedy Company, Chicago:

Gentlemen: I had been a great sufferer from a complication of diseases which mostly affected my kidneys, liver and stomach. I was confined to my bed for eight weeks. Consulted three different physicians and was under their care all this time with no relief whatever. My attention was called to your wonderful Sparagus Kidney Pills through an advertisement. I began taking them without much faith, but you can imagine my surprise when I discovered beneficial effects from the first dose, and three boxes were sufficient to perform a complete cure. I would cheerfully recommend Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills to all persons suffering in any way from kidney disease and the other necessary following ills.

Yours very gratefully,
GEORGE N. DAVIS.

I have suffered for several years with chronic kidney troubles, and a greater portion of the time have been afflicted with rheumatism also. In fact, until I got a box of Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills a couple of weeks ago I had not been free from pain in many years. THE CAT CAME BACK.

A Kansas cat came to Shelbyville, Ind., last January. He didn't like the neighborhood, so he walked back to his old home, 600 miles away, and is there now, as happy and contented as the big flower which gives his state a name, says the Chicago Times-Herald.

The cat, which is a splendid Maltese, was brought here by a family named Nading. The cat seemed dejected, and, after moping about for three weeks, disappeared. Today the Nadings got a letter from relatives who live in the old Kansas home, saying that Tinsel had come back to them, a little tired and hungry when he arrived, but willing to be petted and eager for a rub.

How the cat traveled the 600 miles between here and Topeka, how he knew where to go, how he lived while on his journey and why he did not lose his way are things his owners cannot guess, and will not attempt to explain, until some scientist can account for the marvelous feats under the guidance of the wonderful attribute now known as "instinct."

IN THE LABOR FIELD

Interest in the coming convention of the State Federation of Labor, which convenes in St. Cloud on Sunday, June 13, increases as the time approaches. The fact that the federation maintained C. F. McCauley as lobbyist during the entire session of the legislature, and that it was in a great measure due to that gentleman's exertions that the committee was appointed to enquire into the conducting of the state labor bureau by Commissioner Powers, and the passing of the various labor laws, has roused interest in the local unions to have a good representation from this section of the state, and everything points to the largest delegation from Duluth which has yet attended any meeting of the State Federation of Labor. Duluth is highly favored in the matter of officers of the State Federation. McEwen and McDowell, respectively secretary and treasurer, are also connected with the Trades and Labor assembly of Duluth, and should they be chosen by that body to represent them at the forthcoming convention at St. Cloud, it will not only allow the Trades assembly to be represented by six delegates, but will enable the unions to which these gentlemen belong to be represented as well. Altogether, the prospects for a good turnout at the convention at St. Cloud are very promising indeed.

* * *

Not much of public interest has transpired in the local unions during the week. The Cigarmakers' union has held meetings, and an effort will be made to create renewed interest in the union label. The Painters' union also held meetings, at which reports were submitted showing an increase in numbers.

MEN WHOM UNIONS DETEST.

"The great influences of and for good that have found their source and inspiration in the trade-union movement, the fellowship among all classes from all countries, and indeed significant of a day not far distant when peace and good will throughout the land shall be as common a portion of every man's heritage as the air he breathes."

So writes James O'Connell in his annual report submitted to the machinists' convention.

"How far the great truths as advocated by the trade unions may influence the future of the wage workers is best judged by past results. The present generation has unquestionably felt the uplifting influence of the past, and society in general is the better for the existence of trade unions. It is charged that the trade unionists are opposed to a certain class simply because they are rich. The public press has devoted column after column in trying to prove that trade unions are only widening the breach between the employer and employe, and poisoning the minds of the wage workers against the employing classes.

"The man whom the trade unionists detest and are unalterably opposed to is the man who builds a church, then turns the widowed out of her humble cottage into the streets.

"The man who builds a hospital, then refuses to place safeguards around the machinery in his factory for the protection of the lives and limbs of innocent children and unfortunate women.

"The man who builds and endows a free library, then works his employes so many hours per day that they never see the inside of the building nor the books.

"The man who endows a university, then enters into a combination to prevent liberal effort in the ordinary channels of business.

"The man who corners the necessities of life, then contributes a few hundred dollars toward relieving the hungery.

"The man who starves his employes by paying them too small wages to live upon, then contributes toward the starving public souphouses.

"The man who is superintendent of a Sunday school, then works little children in department stores, factories and workshops a number of hours for an average of $1.50 per week.

"The man who poses as a philanthropist, then reduces the wages of his employes in each case to make up for his public contributions.

"The man who by misrepresentation seduces men to leave their homes in another land and come here to enjoy fortune and happiness beyond limit, while millions of our wage workers are begging for an opportunity to work in order to provide the necessities of life for themselves and families.

"This is the class of men that trade unions are fighting, and will continue to fight until their mode of procedure is changed."

BENEFIT OF UNION LABEL.

There is no doubt that the union label would bring about a wonderful victory for the cause of labor if those who are members of labor organizations would demand labeled goods when making a purchase, says a writer in the Critic. I venture to say there would not be one union man out of employment. By demanding labeled goods you then adopt the exchange system. For instance, take a cigarmaker, shoemaker, tailor, hatmaker, a baker, a printer, barber, molder, providing that no members of those organizations but no goods unless made by the members of the above named organizations, would this not be a fair exchange? Would this not give steady employment to the members of the organizations?

Suppose, for instance, the cigarmakers would buy shoes and hats which were made in state prisons and tenement houses. How could they expect the members of the Hatters' and Shoemakers' unions to buy union labeled cigars? They could not do it for the reason that the cigarmakers had thrown them out of employment, and the result is that when the hatters are out of employment it does not alone affect the cigarmakers, but it affects the tailor, printer, molder, barber, in fact all other trades, but if the cigarmakers had demanded union label hats and shoes the result would be that the hatters and shoemakers would be at work and they would be consuming union label cigars which would give employment to all of the cigarmakers. If this theory was adopted I would venture to say every union man who is now walking the streets would be employed and receiving fair wages, for his label would be the arbitrator in the wage question and those who are now working for starvation wages would be compelled to walk the streets or become members of their labor organization and adopt the label system. Let us all unite in the demand for union labeled goods.

MAYOR'S HARSH ACT.

The mayor of Hoboken has suspended two girls employed in the free public library because they refused to work thirteen and a half hours a day. We would call the attention of the great moral engines of New York to this case, says the Trades Unionist. The libraries are good things. They are established for the purpose of enlightening and advancing the people. But how many of the patrons of the Hoboken library are willing to be enlightened and advanced at the cost of the food of two women who refuse to work thirteen and a half hours a day.

This is telling the prisoner he is free and can go where he pleases, although the shackles are cutting into his ankle bones. This is giving the patent poison to cure him. Let the people read and discover that slavery is no more—that it is a barbaric relic of the past—while the girls who supply the reading matter are working thirteen and a half hours a day to obtain food and shelter. When Lowell wrote, "Ye cannot keep the hope of being free," he was fighting for abolition of slavery. He died happy, for had he not attained the goal of his desire? Had he? Well, we are still hoping.

TRY TO FOOL ORGANIZED LABOR.

It is a curious but not wholly inexplicable phenomenon that the interpretation of the recent anti-trust decision of the United States supreme court at a blow at labor unions comes from railroad attorneys who have systematically fought labor organizations, or from newspapers which have habitually defended trusts, says the New York Journal. And it is a very impressive evidence of the thorough discipline of all the forces which go to create, maintain and defend combinations in restraint of trade, that so swiftly after the decision against the trans-Missouri association the plan should have been formed, and all over the United States the wrongs of the workingmen should be seized on as the wedge with which to break into congress.

Within thirty days the very railroads which ever since the futile strike of the American Railway union have kept active union men on a blacklist will have their agents out seeking to prove to union men that the integrity and permanence of organized labor are dependent upon congressional action for the repeal of the law upon which the anti-pooling decision rests. Not only will the shrewdest corporation lawyers and the most unscrupulous corporation newspapers be employed to this end, but workmen must expect members of their own organizations suddenly appearing as defenders of railroad corporations and corporate monopolies. It would not be amiss to advise members of labor unions to use extreme caution, lest they find themselves used to pull the chestnuts of monopoly out of the fire for monopolists who will never divide the prize.

FRAUD IN ARMOR PLATE JOBS.

The Carnegie and Bethlehem corporations—one and the same—which have for years furnished armor plate to the government at extravagant prices, decline to bid on the armament required for the vessels now in course of construction, says the Typographical Journal. A law was passed last winter by congress fixing the rate to be paid for armor plate at not to exceed $300 per ton. This measure was the outcome of an investigation into the cost of making armor plate, conducted by experts appointed by the secretary of the navy. It was shown in the evidence presented that the Carnegie companies had furnished armor plate to Russia at less than half the price charged the United States. Carnegie controls the only plants capable of furnishing this material at the present time, however, and his representatives state that $300 per ton is insufficient, and consequently refuse to make contracts at that rate.

Is not this in the nature of a conspiracy? Workingmen would be severely dealt with if they retarded government work by striking for higher wages, but in this instance the secretary of the navy appeals to congress for a change in the law in order that the Carnegie companies may have another opportunity to pillage the treasury. Is the government longer to be the mercy of this trust and will the United States be compelled to pay more for armor plate than other countries.

We are aware that Carnegie has presented another city with a library, and he must get the money either by holding up the government or reducing the wages of his workmen, in whose welfare such a great interest is manifested at times.

INVESTIGATION A FARCE.

They have been holding one of those fake Whitewash affairs in Pennsylvania, those good fellowship arrangements wherein the criminal refuses to testify, jollies the committee and all hands go out and dine oysters all the time, says the Journal, writes J. Syme Hastings in the Journal of Labor. The legislative committee appointed to investigate the cause of the terrible destitution among the Pennsylvania miners placed J. B. Carey, the millionaire coal operator, on the stand on Friday and that gentleman told them that the investigation was a farce. Mr. Carey then proceeded to acknowledge that he was doing as he pleased—he would discharge his men when he pleased—starve them or keep them if he thought fit—and defied the committee to interfere. He denounced labor unions and labor leaders and said he would never employ a union man.

"If miners are kicked out of one job," he added with a smile, "let them get another. This is all there is to it."

When will we realize the truth of Mr. Carey's statement that such investigations are mere farces? And yet there are miners who doubt the benefit of an industrial commission. Let us do our own work in our own craft who would investigate—note the word investigate—such problems as this and see that justice was done. With a majority of men representing organized labor on such a commission as this could leeches like Carey stand up and defy them to do anything? But some men prefer to plod along in an eight-hour rut forgetting that vast problems remain unsolved, until, as in this case they are confronted by the crisis. Well, think this over and act for your homes—your families—your fellowmen.

SNUB TO LABOR UNION.

Contrary to the general expectation, the Cleveland chamber of commerce, through its board of directors, has declined to meet the Central Labor union to debate the question as to whether or not labor agitators are a menace to society, says the Cleveland Citizen. The chamber makes the excuse that such a discussion "would not be beneficial to the Central Labor union, to the chamber of commerce nor to society at large."

While the chamber of commerce has a perfect right to its opinion as to what is beneficial to its membership, it presumes too much when it attempts to point out what would or would not be of benefit to the Central Labor union as well as to the public at large.

We can assure the chamber of commerce that the Central Labor union is fully awake to its own interests, and the fact that the proposed debate was widely discussed by all classes of citizens ought to satisfy every sensible and fair-minded man that a large portion of society at large is taking a lively interest in the matter. Without a doubt such a structure as Music hall could have been crowded to the doors by a debate of this kind, which would prove that the people realize what is beneficial to them.

We frankly admit that we have no respect for the Cleveland chamber of commerce as an organization and very little for a majority of its members. And now that there is no probability of securing a joint debate, it is quite likely that the ringleaders and bosses of the chamber will continue to conspire in secret behind bolted doors and in private offices, but we do not believe that the public will henceforth pay much attention to the dictation and bossing of this cabal. However, the Central Labor union is ready and willing at any time to discuss the question affecting labor with any capitalistic organization or individual, the chamber of commerce or any of its members preferred, and it will guarantee fair treatment from the labor side.

LABOR NOTES.

Detroit's board of education resolved to patronize union labor wherever possible.

New Orleans has a new labor paper, the Southern Economist and Trade Unionist. It is probable that union labor will receive the preference in the construction of a new waterworks plant at Cincinnati.

John Kane of the United Mine Workers says there are 350,000 miners in this country, or about 110,000 more than there are jobs for.

A mine foreman in Pittston, Pa., is under bond in the sum of $200 to answer the charge of selling the right of employment in his mine.

The City of Mexico has an official bicycle inspector, who is paid $40 per month to see that owners register their machines and pay taxes.

It is probable that the shoemakers of this country will be represented at the world's congress of the craft at Brussels, Belgium, June 6.

A joint conference of the government and mine owners of the Transvaal at Johannesburg decided upon a 30 per cent cut of wages of miners.

Glassworkers have been refused the restoration of their old scale, but the window glass trust has advanced prices 5 per cent just the same.

The employes of the Akron, Bedford & Cleveland railroad at Akron, Ohio, were notified that their wages will be increased from 17 to 20 cents per hour.

The stove mounters employed at Rathbone, Sard & Co.'s foundry, Albany, struck because they were compelled to work with the expelled members of the union.

Six months ago labor was unorganized in Sault Ste. Marie and Sudbury, Ont. Now both places are thoroughly organized with a membership of 1000 and still growing.

Two years ago the woodworkers of Denver were securing $2.50 a day. They refused to pay a few cents into their union and allowed it to go to the dogs, and now they are receiving $1.00 a day.

The painters' strike for an eight-hour workday, which the local union of Orange, N. Y., had planned to start last Monday was called off. The men decided to wait until September before pressing their demands.

AMONG THE PLANTS.

In spite of all the cautions given verbally and through The Herald's columns, still there are some who never heed. Quite a number of complaints come in of ferns dying that are kept in jardinieres, and the trouble nearly always lies in overwatering. They love moist and shady places, but who ever saw them growing in water, and in the jardiniere the bottoms of the pots are generally in water, and they simply drown out. There are other causes of death, of course, and there is much to learn in their treatment. Some know a little more than others, but no one knows everything, only when they are in their youth; at 50 they find out that they have but little knowledge, for nature is infinite in her ways.

Pansies—The distance to plant them I would say should be about eight inches. They will cover a foot of space, but at eight inches they run together shading the ground, a good thing in the hot summer days, thus forcing the flower stems to reach up for the light, and lengthening the stems, making it much easier to arrange them for the table, and the principal trouble with the pansy is its short stem. It is better to pick them every day, for how can a pansy bloom well and have forty seed pods to take care of at the same time? Remember that its principal business is to make seed. If you pick off the blossom, Mrs. Pansy, who wants her own way, immediately sends up another, and she keeps trying all summer. Keep her busy.

Sometimes the red spider attacks the plants. A heavy spraying from the hose, applied heavy enough to bend over the leaves and drench the under side will fix him. He loves dry, hot quarters, and is disgusted with cool, moist ones. The green fly can only be cured by tobacco in some form, either in the form of dust or strong tobacco water sprayed on. Better to apply it on a still night.

This coming week planting may begin in earnest. Still it is too early for some of the tender things; better wait until the following week in exposed places. The growth will be all the better for it, and nearly everyone is too anxious. Some have complained of their geraniums turning red. I think we should be a little red if we stood shivering in the cold winds of this last week with no overcoats on. They ought not to have been planted out so early, but we live and learn.

Why cabbages burst open? It is because they have reached their growth, and the head bursts to let the seed stalk through. There are early cabbages which, if planted now, would give heads fit to cook in six to eight weeks, while the same plants put in June 25, would make a fair winter cabbage, and so it is not so much the variety as it is the time of planting. We grow for early a pointed head, as the object is earliness and not size; while for winter use we grow a large variety, for size is what we want then. The late cabbage ought to be planted from the middle of June to July 1, according to the richness of the land.

The Effects of A Slight Cold

IT RAPIDLY DEVELOPED INTO SCIATIC RHEUMATISM.

From a Hale and Hearty Man the Patient Became a Confirmed Invalid—It Pays to Treat "Slight Colds" in Time—By so Doing Many Months of Suffering May be Averted.

From the Tribune, Hornellsville, N. Y.

Perched on one of the highest hills of the town of Howard, midway between the villages of Howard and Towlersville, stands the substantial farmhouse of William McAdams, one of the oldest inhabitants of this part of the State. Mr. McAdams came to the county sixty-six years ago and settled in Howard on a farm adjacent to the one he now occupies, and moved in 1852 to his present home, where he has lived ever since. It is one of the most picturesque points in Steuben County, and commands a wide view both in the direction of Hornellsville and Bath.

When your correspondent presented himself at Mr. McAdams' house Mrs. McAdams said that her husband was out on an adjacent hill of the farm, loading bark which he was preparing to draw to Canisteo. Anyone who knew Mr. McAdams two years ago would scarcely believe that such a thing were possible for a man in the condition in which he was at that time, for among his neighbors and even among his family, Mr. McAdams' case was set down as incurable, and it was only regarded as a question of time when the disease would prove fatal.

Mrs. McAdams then entered into a history of her husband's case, stating that about two years ago Mr. McAdams caught a slight cold while working on his farm, which at his advanced age (sixty-seven years at that time), rapidly developed into acute rheumatism, the disease settling in his left side, from his hip down to his foot, rendering the left leg almost useless and terribly painful. From a hale and hearty farmer, who, was doing his own work, he became a confirmed invalid, and in the fall of 1894 his rheumatism became so bad that he could do absolutely nothing. On election day of that year he was so helpless that his neighbor, Mr. Willis, had to come and drive him over to the polls to vote. Mrs. McAdams said that when the spasms of rheumatism would come upon her husband, the only thing that gave him relief was to bend over almost double and clasp both arms about the limb where the pains were, and that she had seen him stop and bend over in that way three times in coming the distance from their barn to the house, which is about one hundred and fifty feet, and sometimes he would have to call for help before he could get in. Eventually he was compelled to move about in a stooping posture, with the aid of two sticks, and at night, when his attacks came on, it was terrible to hear his groans and have no way of relieving him. He found it impossible to get a refreshing sleep, and had no appetite for his food. In short, from a ruddy, stout man, he grew pale and thin, and gave himself up to die. He had, of course, tried many remedies for his rheumatism, some of which had afforded him temporary relief, but none gave him any real or permanent benefit. At about this time, Mrs. McAdams saw an advertisement of "Pink Pills for Pale People" in one of the Steuben County papers, and persuaded her husband to try what they would do for him.

Mr. McAdams had no faith in the pills whatever, but to please his wife he began their use. He took two boxes without experiencing any perceptible relief, and he was greatly discouraged and wanted to give them up, but Mrs. McAdams thought they had hardly been given a fair trial and persuaded him to try them a little longer, "as nothing could hurt him in the condition he was then in." It was fortunate for Mr. McAdams that he followed his wife's advice, for the next box of Pink Pills showed their effect and began to give him marked relief. His first sign of returning health came to him in good, sound sleep, which he had not enjoyed in many months. Gradually his appetite began to return, and soon he threw away the canes which he has used for so long. As a proof of the wonderful change which had been wrought in Mr. McAdams' health, he is now doing his own farm work and is working in the fields and woods alongside of a young man of twenty-four. Mrs. McAdams said that one of the strongest influences which helped her to persuade her husband to continue the use of Pink Pills when he became discouraged after the first two boxes, was the recommendation of Dr. Charles Annabel, who was at that time practising in Elmira, but is now located at Waverly, N. Y. When Mr. McAdams told the doctor he was trying Pink Pills for his rheumatism, Dr. Annabel told him that it was one of the very best remedies he could use.

Mr. McAdams has persevered with the pills to this day, and now never thinks he can get along without at least one box in the house. Both he and Mrs. McAdams assert that Pink Pills have cured his rheumatism, and they have freely recommended them to their friends. At the time of this visit your correspondent did not have an opportunity to speak with Mr. McAdams, who could be seen from the house working on a distant hill, more than a mile away, but Mrs. McAdams and her daughter, Eva, gave all of the facts above stated, which were naturally within their own personal knowledge. They were both very willing to add their testimonials to the marvellous properties of Pink Pills, and stated that there was not the slightest doubt in their minds that Mr. McAdams' cure was due solely to the Pink Pills.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People have an enormous sale. An analysis of their properties shows that they contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effect of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, that tired feeling resulting from nervous prostration; all diseases resulting from vitiated humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood, and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. There are no ill effects following the use of this wonderful medicine, and it can be given to children with perfect safety.

These pills are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., and are sold only in boxes bearing the firm's trade mark and wrapper, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and are never sold in bulk. They may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company. The price at which these pills are sold makes a course of treatment inexpensive as compared with other remedies.

THE TARIFF BILL.

Caucus of the Republican Senators is Held.

Washington, May 24.—Immediately after the adjournment of the senate today, out of respect to the late Senator Earl of South Carolina, the Republican senators went into caucus. Chairman Allison said the caucus was called upon the request of several senators, and some of those who signed the call stated that they wanted to know something about the plan of procedure for the consideration of the tariff bill.

Senator Aldrich, who reported the bill, took the floor, but had not proceeded far when someone asked him for an explanation of the schedule. Mr. Aldrich went into quite an elaborate explanation of the schedule, presenting the figures in the present law, the Dingley bill and the senate amendment. He said that the senate amendment was less advantageous to the sugar refiners than the Dingley bill or the present law.

CIVIL APPROPRIATIONS.

Sundry Civil Bill Conferees Have Agreed.

Washington, May 24.—The conferees on the sundry civil appropriation bill have agreed. The most important amendment to the bill was that revoking the order of President Cleveland of Feb. 22, 1897, setting apart 21,060,000 acres of lands as forest reservations. It includes the Duluth harbor appropriation.

STEVENS INDICTED.

Fourth District Congressman Accused of Crooked Banking.

St. Paul, May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The grand jury this afternoon returned another sensational indictment, Congressman F. C. Stevens being named and charged with an overdraft of $2200 in his account with the Minnesota Savings bank at the time when he was a trustee and acting president of the bank.

Another indictment was also returned against W. F. Bickel on the charge of grand larceny for an overdraft.

THE GOLD OUTFLOW.

Washington, May 24.—The treasury department at 11 o'clock today received a telegram from New York stating that $1,150,000 in gold coin had been withdrawn from the sub-treasury for export, also that $1,225,000 in gold had been obtained from the banks, making the total shipments for tomorrow $2,400,000.

THE TREASURY CONDITION.

Washington, May 24.—Today's statement of the condition of the treasury shows: Available cash balances, $231,164,969; gold reserve, $144,704,812.

COMPANIES MUST SEPARATE.

Omaha, May 24.—Judge Munger of the United States district court this morning made an order that the divorce directed by Judge Brewer in the Western Union and Union Pacific Telegraph companies must be complete by Sept. 1.

REMOVAL

Tenure of Appointive Offices Rests Entirely With the President.

He Can Remove Officeholders of That Class at His Pleasure.

Final Decision of the Supreme Court In the Parsons Case.

Washington, May 24.—In the United States supreme court today Justice Peckham handed down the opinion of the court in the case of L. E. Parsons, late district attorney for the Northern district of Alabama, appealed from the court of claims. The decision was adverse to Parsons' claim that he was entitled, under section 769 of the revised statutes, to hold his office for four years, notwithstanding the president's order of removal. Justice Peckham said that while the appointment was for four years it might be terminated earlier at the discretion of the president. The judgment of the court of claims was affirmed.

The determination of this case has been looked forward to with interest because of its possible effect upon the removal of office holders incident to the change of administration. Parsons was removed from the office of United States district attorney in Alabama in 1893, having been appointed in 1890. He wrote a letter to the president, refusing to surrender the place on the ground that as he had been appointed for a term of four years the president had no right to remove him before the expiration of that time.

He has fought the case through the various federal courts on this theory, losing in the lower courts as he did today in the supreme court. Parsons has, however, not been in possession of the office during the contest. On the day that he was removed Emmett O'Neil was appointed to succeed him, and to him Parsons surrendered the office after an order was issued to him by the circuit court to do so. He prosecuted the case on another basis from that time.

BERLIN SCANDALS.

Secret Political Police Matters Are in Court.

Berlin, My 24.—The trial of Herr Von Tausch, the former commissioner of the secret political police who was arrested on December last, at the close of the sensational Luetzow-Leckert trial, during which the imperial chancellor, Prince Hohenlohe, the minister or foreign affairs, Baron Marschal Von Bieberstein and the German ambassador to Austria, Count Philip Von Eulenberg, were among the witnesses, commenced today and will probably last a week. Among the witnesses summoned are Baron Marschal Von Bieberstein, Count Philip Von Eulenberg, ex-Ministers Von Kiffer and Gen. Bronsart Von Schellendorf, Police President Windheim, Herr Bebel, the socialist leader, and about fifty newspaper men, besides a number of officials belonging to the different ministries.

At the opening of the trial the present court cautioned Baron on Luetzow not to depart from the actual truth in the testimony which he might be called upon to give against Von Tausch.

The former chief of the secret political police was then examined. He made a statement relative to the employment of Von Luetzow, and a newspaper man named Schumann, by the secret political police, and assured the court that he, Von Tausch, had never caused political interests to be served by his agents. Schumann, or Normann-Schumann, is said to have been much more guilty than Baron Von Luetzow. Schumann escaped from Berlin just in time to avoid arrest. He was charged in conjunction with Baron Von Luetzow with having signed fictitious names to receipts for money given them to bribe newspaper writers or editors or subordinate employes of the government to furnish secretly information of every kind wanted in the alleged campaign to discredit the existing cabinet.

NAVAL ENGINEER CADETS.

Annapolis, Md., May 24.—The following is the standing of the engineer division of the six-year naval cadets, as determined by their recent examination here: 1, Thomas M. Dick, of South Carolina; 2, Chas. K. Mallory, of Tennessee; 3, Newton Mansfield, Ohio; 4, James P. Morton, Missouri; 5, Daniel N. Garrison, New Jersey; 6, Franklin D. Karns, of Ohio; 7, Frederic N. Freeman, of Indiana; 8, John F. Marshall, Jr., of Indiana; 8, Darwin R. Merritt, Iowa; 10, Ernest F. Eckhardt, of Wisconsin; 11, Edward H. Durin, of Connecticut.

WILL RELY ON THE POWERS.

Athens, May 24.—The Greek government, as a reply to the notification sent by Edhem Pasha, commander of the Turkish army in Thessaly, that he is empowered to negotiate the terms of peace with Greece direct, has informed the ministers of the powers here that, as Greece has already confided her interests to the powers, there is no reason why she should negotiate directly with Turkey.

Claims the Title.

Judge Ensign took up the court calendar this morning in district court, beginning with the case of Elizabeth K. Brown against the city, to clear title to a part of West Sixth street. The plaintiff claims possession by virtue of over twenty years' adverse possession. She told on the stand this morning how her father built their house, completing it in 1872, in the midst of what was then a wilderness. They cleared up the property, and fenced it in, including a part of what is now claimed to be the street, where they had a well and a garden.

In Judge Cant's court the case of Hill against Winston Bros. was still on today, Judge Cant having denied the defendant's motion to direct a verdict. The attorneys were closing to the jury and the case was to go to the jury today.

WILL BUILD IT ANYWAY.

Bridge Company Will Have That Superior Approach.

There was an exciting time in Superior yesterday. The bridge company has taken matters in its own hands and will build the bridge approach in spite of the city council. A few days ago the company filed a petition with the court asking for the appointment of appraisers to fix the value of land to be taken for the approach. The council had passed a resolution for the condemnation of the street, but Mayor Starkweather vetoed it.

Saturday night at midnight the company sprang a surprise by hauling three piledrivers on to the property and beginning work. A gang of men gathered and headed by Alderman Lund made an attack on the workers. There was a lively row in which Superintendent Ingersoll of the Superior Street Railway company was badly beaten. The workers held the fort, however, and continued operations. Last night the work already done was guarded from interference.

Yesterday the company secured writs of injunction restraining the St. Paul and Western Coal company and all other persons from interfering and it proposes to go ahead at once and build the approach and operate street cars.

IS AT SUPERIOR.

James J. Hill Looks Over Allouez Bay Terminals.

James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railway company, arrived in West Superior this morning on a special train and put in several hours in looking over the dock and terminal properties of the Northwestern Coal Railway company. He was accompanied by General Manager F. B. Clark, Second Vice President Newman and his private secretary, F. E. Ward. The party was met in West Superior by J. N. Hill, general manager of the Eastern Minnesota; E. N. Saunders, president of the Northwestern Fuel company, and C. B. Yale, claim agent of the Great Northern. It was not known at the office of the Eastern Minnesota this afternoon whether Mr. Hill would visit Duluth before returning to St. Paul or not. The Northwestern Coal railway is a corporation in which Mr. Hill is heavily interested.

ON TRIAL

Mrs. Rachel Spellman's Case Taken Up By Judge Moer Today.

Considerable Time Occupied in Getting a Jury of Unprejudiced Men.

Baldwin Claimed the Indictment Was Quashed But Was Overruled.

The trial of Mrs. Rachel Spellman for arson in the third degree was taken up before Judge Moer this morning in district court, County Attorney Arbury appearing for the state and and C. O. Baldwin and J. C. Hesslan for the defense. Nearly the entire morning was spent in drawing a jury, which was attended with some difficulty because of the manner in which the affair came to light and the nearness of the event to the trial. Several had read of the matter in The Herald, and from the testimony given in the municipal court hearing had formed disqualifying opinions. The state's attorney examined the jurors especially to ascertain whether or not the fact that the defendant was a woman would influence their verdict. Only one man, a friend of the Spellmans, thought it would have an effect upon his verdict. He thought that the fact that the defendant was a mother of small children would influence him, and he was excused. All the rest believed that they could give a woman the same kind of justice as a man.

When the jury was finally completed it was composed as follows: R. J. Clemens, J. H. Heimbach, William McComber, W. R. Eichman, J. C. Ferguson, W. D. Dean, F. E. Pinkman, D. S. Lapham, Perry Nash, H. M. Backus, C. C. Ames and L. H. Grieser.

County Attorney Arbury then opened to the jury. He read the indictment charging the defendant with setting fire to a building at 1804 West Superior street, belonging to her and her husband, with an intent to prejudice the insurer, which constitutes arson in the third degree.

He said that on April 1 the defendant and her nieces were occupying the building as their home, using the upper story, the ground floor, a store room, being vacant. About 3 o'clock a. m. on April 1 a passing policeman discovered fire in the building and turned in an alarm. Returning in five minutes he found Mrs. Spellman and another woman standing across the street from the burning building, fully dressed, with their heads covered with shawls instead of hats. After about an hour's work the fire was extinguished and the building was examined. The walls were found to be little damaged, and in every living room, the kitchen especially, the wainscoting was pulled away at the top, the plastering knocked off and holes a foot or a foot and a half in diameter made in the lathing. In these holes were large quantities of cotton waste, small pieces of kindling, all thoroughly soaked in oil. In the kitchen was heaped a promiscuous pile of kindling. In the room off the kitchen, where the nieces slept, the bed was entirely destroyed by the fire. All the furniture was moved about three feet away from the walls, and nearly all the bed clothing had been removed from the beds, except the mattresses.

Mr. Arbury said also that he would prove that the building was insured for $2000 and the contents for $1700. There was on the building a mortgage for $3500, the semi-annual interest on which came due April 1.

Jacob Rozek, the policeman who discovered the fire, was called to the stand and C. O. Baldwin objected to the introduction of any testimony on the ground that this indictment was quashed May 20, when the court refused to hear any evidence under it, and the case was ordered back to the grand jury. He also objected on the ground that the indictment did not state facts sufficient to constitute a public offense.

Judge Moer overruled the objections, and Rozek had just begun to give his testimony when the noon adjournment was taken.

BIG DAY'S SHIPMENTS.

Ore Dock Broke the Record Last Saturday.

The Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railroad company's ore docks in this city broke the record for big shipments Saturday. In the twenty-four hours ending at 6 p. m. nine boats were loaded with a total of 38,626 gross tons. The largest former single day's shipment was in the neighborhood of 32,000 tons, but this smaller shipment really required more work as more boats were loaded. All of the boats loaded Saturday were large ones, the largest cargo being taken out by the Seamens, being 4769 gross tons, or about 5341 net tons. This is less than 100 tons less than was loaded on the Queen City at Ashland yesterday, which is credited with the largest cargo ever taken from Lake Superior. The Queen City's load was 4843 gross tons, or 5424 net tons.

Shipments of iron ore from this port give promise of becoming much larger in the near future. The Ohio mine, the lease of which was recently acquired by the Consolidated, began shipping to the docks in this city today, it being the only Rockefeller property on the Mesaba range from which shipments are being made. The Biwabik, which is leased from the Consolidated by Todd, Stambaugh & Co., of Cleveland, will probably begin shipping in a few days, as preparations have been in progress for some time.

MISSIONS

Presbyterian General Assembly at Eagle Lake Took Up Mission Work.

Freedmen's Board Gave a Very Interesting Report of Its Work.

And Then Home Missions Were Given Much Time and Attention.

Eagle Lake, Ind., May 24.—The first business in order at the Presbyterian general assembly today was the report of the freedmen's board. The board reported as follows:

Although no new work has been projected for the past four years, the board has found itself operating two large and fully equipped boarding schools for girls that were not on the list last year, one at Anniston, Ala., and the other at West Point, Miss. The former was the generous gift of Mrs. Phineas M. Barber, of Philadelphia, the other the Mary Holmes seminary starting again after a lapse of nearly two years, the first building having been burned. The first mentioned cost $50,000 and is out of debt. The latter cost $39,000 and is mortgaged for $5000. Besides these two schools all the other seventeen boarding schools have been retained, but the terms have been reduced. Twelve are allowed only six months each, two five months and the parochial schools four months. The number of the latter had been reduced by twenty.

The services of the treasurer, as a salaried officer, and also of the field secretary were dispensed with. These changes effected a reduction of expenses of $2966. An increase in the real estate item together with the fact that the receipts fell to a lower figure than they had fallen in the last eight years had operated to increase the debt, the amount last year being $51,275 as against $26,123 on the previous one.

Buildings have been completed as follows: Boys' dormitory at Oak Hill, church and school at Newport News, Hot Springs church, basement of new church at Chattanooga, and ald was given to build churches at Columbia, S. C.; Savannah, Ga.; Charlotte, N. C.; Statesville, N. C.; Roanoke, Va.; Birmingham, Ala.; Spartanburg, S. C., and Maryville, Tenn. The board desired that at least $20,000 of the debt should be paid this year. An increase of $11,000 in income over last year would make this possible.

The bodies contributing to the cause were: Churches, $3639; woman's societies, $1805; Young People's societies, $256; Sunday schools, $469. The amount contributed for self-support, none of which entered into the board's accounts, was $70,047, an increase compared with the previous year of $1918. The freedmen gave to the support of their own ministers and churches $56.555 and to the support of their own schools $33,461.

The next in order was the report on home missions, which was as follows:

The report began with a review of the financial condition of the past few years and their bearings upon the debt of the board. During three years there has been a decline in receipts amounting to $213,000 in 1895-96 as compared with that of 1892-93. At the beginning of the present fiscal year the board had a debt of $310,000, which had been reduced to $147,276 by an excess of receipts over expenditures of nearly $45,000 by the use of about the same amount derived from prominent funds available for current work and by the receipt of over $73,000 from special collections and from the quarter century anniversary fund. Other moneys in course of collection or otherwise available further reduce the net debt to $121,176. For the purposes of current wor kthe board received a total of $506,770, nearly $300,000 of which was credited to the women's executive committee of home missions. The total contributed by the churches was $476,115 and legacies brought in $105,589.

The reduction of expenditures was obtained by a cut of 10 per cent in the office expenditures in New York and by a like reduction in the amounts apportioned to the various presbyteries. The amounts thus given to the presbyteries was proportioned by them and they were free to consolidate work or cut salaries as they saw fit.

During the year 1416 ministers had been in the pay of the board, of whom 131 were in New York, 12 0in Kansas, 106 in Iowa, 93 in Minnesota, 84 each in Michigan and Nebraska, 75 in California, 74 in South Dakota, 66 in Washington and a smaller number in the rest of the states and territories in which the board operated. There had also been 308 tachers at work. Additions to the churches numbered 8522, nearly one-half of whom were adults who received baptism. In connection with the board are 2180 Sunday schools and 1617 churches.

The total expenditures for the year were $716,371, of which $650,877 was for missionary and school work, $19,432 for administration of the women's executive committee and $32,418 for the expenses of the administration of the main office.

TAX ON TEA.

How it Troubles Some Dealers in and Near Iowa.

Dubuque, Iowa, May 24.—The wholesale grocers of Iowa who have been caught on the short side of tea have sent a delegation to Washington to see what Senator Allison can do for them. With them they have one or two representatives of Chicago houses. Before the tariff of 10 cents a pound on tea was publicly suggested by the senate committee, these grocers sold for future delivery in such quantities that one Chicago house stands to lose $100,000 if compelled to furnish taxed tea, and Iowa houses will also lose heavily.

The importers have discounted the future and have sold their stocks at a liberal advances on former prices. One Chicago and New York house is reported to have cleaned up $250,000 and other importers are supposed to Love is the natural heritage of many an attractive young woman, now doomed to loveless spinsterhood by ill-health. No woman should enter upon the duties of wifehood who is not fitted by good health for that position and for the responsibilities of motherhood. If a woman suffers from weakness and disease of the organs that make wifehood and motherhood possible, she should remedy these conditions before assuming the responsibilities of a wife. Otherwise, she stands little chance of proving a happy and capable wife, and motherhood will always menace her with the terrors of death.

A sure and quick cure for all weakness and disease that unfits a woman for matrimony and maternity is found in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It acts directly and only on the organs involved. It makes them strong and healthy. It cures all weakness and disease. It prepares for wifehood and motherhood. Taken during the expectant period it makes baby's coming easy and comparatively painless. It insures the health of the child. Thousands of women have testified to its merits. Druggists sell it.

"I have found great relief since taking your Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. Henry Barlow, of Lonsdale, Providence Co., R. I. "I was all broken down from nervous prostration. Since taking your medicine I have had more relief than from all the doctors' medicines—which cost me more than I could afford."

It is hard work to work when poisoned from neglected constipation. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation.

have done equally well. The grocers tried to cover with the result that the demand for immediate shipment raised prices in the Japan 7 1-2 cents. Some of the grocers, rather than stand this, decided to countermand their orders on securing a modification of the tariff bill.

The delegation sent to Washington was appointed at a conference in Chicago last week and is headed by F. A. Hancock, of Dubuque. They will ask that the tariff bill be amended to provide for a rebate of the tax on all tea imported to fill orders taken before the senate bill was reported.

Copenhagen, May 24.—King Christian has accepted the resignation of the Thott ministry, which was tendered on May 10. The cabinet has been reconstructed with the following assignments of portfolios: Herr Herring, premier and minister of finance; Vice Admiral Rayn, minister of marine and ad interim minister of foreign affairs; Herr A'Herraus Buerdenfleth, minister of the interior; Herr Alfred Hage, minister of agriculture; Bishop St. Hyr, minister of education and public worship; Col. Puxen, minister of war; Herr Ne R. Rump, minister of justice and for Iceland.

Herr H. E. Herring was minister of the interior and of the public works in the cabinet of Baron Reedtz Thott. Herr Rump and Vice Admiral Rayn retain their former portfolios of justice and marine, though Baron Thott was minister for foreign affairs in his own cabinet.

IN THE DAKOTAS.

NORTH DAKOTA.

A most ingenious way of getting liquor has come to light at Devil's Lake, and a man named Paul Hevener, of that place, stands convicted of the larceny of a barrel of whisky which was in the custody of the rGeat Northern road in its storage room. The barrel of bourbon was consigned to Devil's Lake, and when it arrived at the station the consignee had not the money to take possession of it at once. So it was stored away under lock and key until he could raise enough cash to take it. A month passed, and finally he got some $200, and triumphantly he and the road representative went after the big barrel. The door was locked, and when it was finally thrown open, the two men took hold of the barrel to roll it outside. They were prepared for the weight to offer some resistance. It did not, however, and the two men went sprawling over the floor of the room, the barrel mixing up with them. In surprise and wonderment they raised themselves to their feet, and upon examination of the barrel and the floor, discovered that a hole had been made through the latter and into the former and the contents drawn off.

Lisbon had $300 tied up in the Allemania bank, St. Paul. It had been sent to the Commercial bank at St. Paul to pay the January interest due on $5000 of Lisbon funding bonds. The interest coupons, however, were payable in New York city, and had the money been sent there by mistake, it would not now be tied up in St. Paul. Demand has been made upon the city for the defaulted interest, and unless it is shortly forthcoming, suit is threatened to collect the same. The county treasurer has just issued a notice calling in all of Ransom county's outstanding warrants, and interest will be stopped thereon on June 1, all the $40,000 of floating debt having been funded.

Surveyors of the Great Northern have staked out a proposed extension of the Langdon branch twenty-two miles west of Langdon, reaching within two miles of the international boundary line. The route laid out by the surveyors traverses the northeast bank of Rush lake, and opens a market for farmers of Western Cavalier county, who, for years past, have hauled their grain to this point, a distance of twenty-five or thirty miles. Good authority is obtainable for the statement that construction will immediately follow the wake of the surveyors.

Sheriff Currie of Churches' Ferry found in Butte, Mont., one of the murderers of Detective Bryan, whose body was found on a farm last week. The prisoner confesses that he knows who did the killing, but says it was the other man. There were two of them in the job. The man under arrest here says he helped to hide the body.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Notwithstanding several frosts during the past week, the crops are in good condition near Watertown. hTe wheat has a healthy color and is growing rapidly. There is sufficient moisture in the ground to last for several weeks. Farmers in this vicinity are plowing up the prairie and sowing it to flax. Trees and shrubbery are looking fine, and pastures are exceptionally good for this early in the season.

IRISH PRISONERS' HOPE.

Dublin, May 24.—It is believed to be certain that many, perhaps all the Irish political prisoners, including the invincibles, James Fitzharris, Larry Hamlon and Joe Mullett, will be pardoned early in June ni commemoration of the sixtieth year of the reign of Queen Victoria.

HELLO

Bell Telephone Company Will Have to Fight a Powerful Foe.

Alliance of Independent Exchanges and Loud Distance Offices Formed.

Meeting of New Company to Be Held in Chicago Soon.

Chicago, May 24.—The Times-Herald saye: Steps looking to the formation of a powerful alliance in opposition to the Bell Telephone company are to be taken in Chicago this week. Here are the main things contemplated: A national association of the 1000 operating telephone exchanges of the United States independent of the Bell company for mutual protection and development. Long distance toll line connections by the connection of the various independent telephone exchanges of the country. The establishment of an independent long distance service, connecting the great commercial centers in a field now occupied exclusively by the Bell company.

The completion in the near future of an opposition telephone exchange in the city of Chicago, for which purpose a company composed of capitalists with experience in large enterprises has already been organized. Co-operation for resisting any action the Bell company may take in the courts in reference to the Berliner decision.

All these matters will be brought prominently to the attention of the public at a meeting which will be held here next Thursday, Friday and Sunday. The call for his meeting has been issued by James E. Keelyn, president of the Western Telephone Construction company. It has been sent to all of the 1000 or more independent telephone exchanges of the country, and has elicited a general interest among them. Reports received indicate that at least 300 exchanges will send from one to five representatives each. Mr. Keelyn estimating the total attendance at between 500 and 1000 delegates.

INTO THE RIVER.

Cremated Ashes of Adolph Rosin Were Cast.

St. Louis, Mo., 24.—The ashes of Adolph Rosin were cast into the Mississippi river from near the end of the Eads bridge. Rosin had spent most of his life in the vicinity of Cincinnati. About a year ago he visited his birthplace in Northern Germany, and while there was taken sick and died. During his illness he prepared a will in which he provided that his body should be cremated and his ashes returned to his Cincinnati relatives and kept by them until May 23, 1897, the anniversary of his birthday, and then thrown from the Eads bridge at St. Louis into the Mississippi river.

Last evening a well dressed man walked on the bridge from St. Louis. He carried a small black box by the handle. When near the center he stopped, opened the box and emptied what appeared to be a few handfuls of ashes into the river below. Without priest or prayer all that remained mortal of Adolph Rosin was thus cast to the great river.

CHICAGO MAN'S CHANCE.

Chicago, May 24.—Frederick F. Stoll, formerly general superintendent of city delivery in the Chicago postoffice, has been asked, through a representative of Li Hung Chang, to take charge of the first delivery postal system, which it is proposed to establish in Hong Kong. The offer carries a salary of $6000 a year for five years. If he accepts Mr. Stoll will introduce the delivery system now in vogue in Chicago.

WARSHIPS FOR CUBA.

Chicago, May 24.—A special from Washington says. President McKinley has under consideration a suggestion that a warship be sent to Havana during the coming week. No decision has as yet been reached, but members of the administration would not be surprised if a naval vessel were ordered to Havana within a few days.

EDDIE VAUGHN ALL RIGHT.

New York, May 24.—Eddie Vaughn, the prize fighter, who was injured in the ring of the National Sporting club on Sunday night, is declared by the physicians at Manhattan hospital, to be in a fair way of recovery. It is said that he is suffering from a slight laceration of the brain caused by a fall. The injury is on the left side or opposite to that on which he fell. It is denied that Vaughn was in poor shape at the fight and it is said that had it not been for the fall he would have won the bout.

CAPT. ROMEYN'S ESCAPE.

Washington, May 24.—The president has remitted the sentence of dismissal imposed by court martial on Capt. Romeyn, Fifth infantry, who after a sensational trial was convicted recently of assault on Lieut. O'Brien of the same reiment at Fort McPherson, Ga., in view of the fact that Capt. Romeyn will retire by operation of law on June 1, the president believes that the ends of justice will be secured by his severe reprimand.

MEMORIAL SERVICES.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Memorial services were held at St. Joseph's church yesterday. Rev. C. V. Gamache delivered an eloquent and patriotic sermon to the old soldiers, and singing appropriate to the occasion was joined in by a good-sized congregation of people of various creeds.

THE ONLY PEARL FARM.

There is said to be only one pearl farm in the world, but that pays its proprietor handsomely, says the Rochester (N. Y.) Times. This farm is in Torres strait, at the northern extremity of Australia, and belongs to James Clark, of Queensland. Mr. Clark, who is known as "the king of the pearl fishers," originally stocked it with 150,000 pearl oysters. Now 1500 men—200 of whom are divers—and 250 vessels are employed in harvesting the crop. "I have been fifteen years engaged in pearl fishing," Mr. Clark told a correspondent of the Melbourne Age. "My experience has led me to the belief that, with proper intelligence in the selection of a place, one can raise pearls and pearl shells as easily as one can raise oysters. I started my farm three years ago, and have stocked it with shells which I obtained in many instances far out at sea. My pearl shell farm covers 500 square miles. Over most of it the water is shallow. In shallow water shells attain the largest size. I ship my pearls to London in my own vessels. The catch each year runs, roughly speaking, from £40,000 worth up to almost five times that amount."

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

BIG BANKS CONSOLIDATE.

Kansas City, Mo., May 24.—The consolidation of the National Bank of Commerce and the Metropolitan National bank, with a combined list of deposits amounting to nearly $10,000,000, became a matter of fact this morning when the Bank of Commerce took up the business of both concerns. The details had been quietly negotiated for several weeks past and were finally consummated last Sunday at Chicago, at a conference of bank officials and Comptroller of the Currency J. P. Eckels. The consolidation is announced as a developments of Comptroller Eckels' policy looking toward a reduction of the weaker national banks. The terms of the deal are not made known, but it is stated that the National Bank of Commerce pays something in the neighborhood of $40,000 for the good will of the Metropolitan National.

DECLINED

There Was a Lot of Bearish News and Wheat Dropped.

Decrease in the Visible Was Less Than Had Been Expected.

The Receipts Were Heavy and Home Crop Reports Were Favorable.

Wheat opened quiet but firm at figures substantially unchanged from Saturday's close. The news was mixed. Liverpool was higher, but home crop reports were very favorable, and news in regard to the French crop was less sensational than last week. Northwest receipts were heavy, Minneapolis and Duluth reporting a total of 621 cars against 550 last week and 593 the year before. The preponderance of bearish news affected the market, and a decline ensued. Such good support was given that a rally took place, which in turn was followed by a reaction. The world's shipments for the week to Europe were 7,168,000 bus, and the amount on ocean passage increased 1,520,000 bus. The English visible increased 189,000 bus. The home visible decreased 1,441,000 bus, or about 600,000 bus less than had generally been looked for. The quantity in the visible now is only 28,296,000 bus. The foreign markets were strong; Liverpool started at a half penny advance, and added another half penny to that, making one penny advance for the day. Paris rose to the extent of from 35 centimes to 55 centimes. Fifty-five centimes is equal to two seven-eight cents per bus. Berlin made a gain of one cent per bus.

There was a fair amount of trading on the Duluth board. July wheat opened unchanged at 74c, sold up to 74 5-8c and declined again to 74c. Then it ruled dull and weak and closed at 73 3-8c asked, a decline of 5-8c for the day. Shippers bought 80,000 bus of cash stuff at 1c over July. The mills took 30,000 bus at 1 1-4c over July, but they were bidding only 1c over. Following were the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, cash, 75¼c; May, 75¼c. No. 1 northern, cash, 74½c; May, 74½c; July, 73⅝c asked; September, 68¾c. No. 2 northern, 72c. No. 3, 67¼@68¾c. Rejected, 51½@65½c. To arrive—No. 1 hard, 75¼c; No. 1 northern, 74½c. Rye, 35c. No. 2 oats, 21½c; No. 3 oats, 21c. Flax, 77c.

Car inspection—Wheat, 297; oats, 29; rye, 2; barley, 15; flax, 7. Receipts—Wheat, 169,-186 bus; oats, 24,501 bus; rye, 2189 bus; barley, 20,833 bus; flax, 12,168 bus. Shipments—Wheat, 201,094 bus; oats, 107,500 bus.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 307 Board of Trade, Chicago, May 24.—The early strength in wheat came from the advance at Liverpool and a continuation of buying by some local operators who turned to the bull side on Saturday. The news of damage to the French crop was confirmed from several sources, and the Paris market advanced equal to about 2 1-2c per bush. Domestic news, however, favored sellers. Northwest news continued of the most favorable character for the growing crop, and from the far Southwest came reports of wheat fields already cut. Statistical news indicated a reduction in the world's visible supply for the week only about one-third as large as last year's for the same week, and the reduction in our own visible was disappointingly small. Clearances were light and shipping demand slack. Outside markets, particularly St. Louis, were weak, and foreigners, though doing little, were on the selling side. May wheat was bid up by local traders and held its premium so well that cash business was prevented, for shippers prefer to wait and take chances after May deliveries are all made than to pay present big premiums. The market closed to lower than Saturday for July, and the large short interest in September held it steady.

Corn was depressed by large receipts and heavy selling by receivers and elevators, but yielded but slightly in price.

Oats quiet and steady.

Provisions weak on large receipts and lower prices for hogs. Indications point to a rapid accumulation of stocks, particularly of lard.

Puts, July wheat, 70 3-8 1-2@70 1-2 5-8c.

Calls, July wheat, 71 3-4@71 7-8 72c.

Curb, July wheat, 71 1-4c.

THE WEATHER.

United States Agricultural Department, Weather Bureau, Duluth. Synopsis of weather conditions for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 a. m. (Central time), May 24.—A general and decided fall in temperature has taken place in the central and northern portions of the country, including the greater part of the Missouri and Mississippi valleys and the upper lake region. Killing frosts are reported at Huron and Moorhead, and light frosts at Bismarck and St. Paul. At Huron and Moorhead the minimum temperature on 26 last night was the lowest ever recorded during the third decade of May.

The weather is partly cloudy in the upper lake region, with light rain falling at Milwaukee. Fair weather prevails elsewhere.

A high pressure area overlying the central districts has increased in intensity, and the pressure is now lowest in the far Northwest, where the temperature is now rising.

Duluth temperature at 7 a. m. today, 39; maximum yesterday, 48; minimum yesterday, 31.

Local forecast for Duluth and vicinity: Fair today; Tuesday fair and warmer; variable winds, mostly easterly.

JAMES KENEALY,
Local Forecast Official.

Chicago, May 24.—Forecast until 8 p. m. tomorrow: Fair and cool with light frost tonight; Tuesday fair and warmer in the afternoon; fresh northerly winds becoming variable Tuesday. For Minnesota: Fair tonight with warmer in west and frost in extreme east portions; Tuesday fair and warmer; light northerly winds becoming variable tonight.

NEW YORK'S NEW CHARTER.

Dr. Albert Shaw, the well-known editor of the Review of Reviews and author of "Municipal Government in the United States," is not pleased with the new Greater New York charter. In the June Atlantic he makes an interesting comparative study of municipal government in different countries, and comes to the conclusion that the government of American cities is much more complicated than it need be, and that one of the greatest weaknesses of the new New York charter is its complexity and the likelihood that it will be interfered with by continued legislative action.

Dr. Shaw thinks the chief difficulty this charter will meet in practice will be found to lie in that great law of nature by which water flows downhill, and everything else tends to follow the lines of least resistance. For it should be remembered that the legislative power at the state capitol which confers this elaborate charter upon the city of New York can at any time amend it or supersede it. A member of the state senate remarked the other day that this new charter was quite too complicated for his purposes, and that when his constituents wanted anything done he should make it his busines to take the matter straight to the legislature. With several scores of politicians from New York city districts sitting in the state legislature, there will be no public opinion strong enough to prevent the resumption of the present and long-continued practice of state intervention. If the city falls into bad hands under the new charter, the municipal reformers will not wait for the next municipal election, but will hurry to Albany with a movement for getting the bad commissioners legislated out of office. If good men hold the reins of authority in the metropolis, the boss will undoubtedly conclude to alter the charter, and incidentally to legislate the good men out of office.

This prediction that the Albany shortcut will inevitably be used has striking confirmation already, says Dr. Shaw; for no sooner had the new charter been approved by both houses of the legislature, in the latter days of March, than there were taken up for consideration great public improvements for New York city, and also for Brooklyn, involving expenditures in the aggregate of probably $50,000,000. One of these special measures was a bill creating a board of commissioners to have full control of a boulevard system for the upper part of New York city. Several practical politicians are named in the bill as commissioners, and are given authority to spend a vast amount of money every year for an indefinite number of years, each commissioner to draw a large salary from the date of the passage of the act. There is no urgency about this matter, and no one can deny that it is intended to take this critically important enterprise out of the hands of the street department and board of public improvements, as provided for in the new charter.

There is no doubt that a city charter, which can be changed at will by the legislature, is not a very satisfactory charter. There does not appear to be any valid reason why the people of a city should not frame their own charter and be free from the interference of the state legislature. This would necessitate amendments to the state constitutions, but it is likely that such amendments would readily be made. In Minnesota we already have the Sheehan amendment, which, however, has one serious defect—it creates a board of freeholders, to hold office for life, which is to prepare the charter for submission to popular vote. At the next election another amendment will be submitted to cure this defect. Then Duluth and other cities in this state will be in a position to adopt charters to suit their own views.

THE SUGAR SCHEDULE.

Ex-Senator John J. Ingalls of Kansas has created a sensation by declaring that the sugar schedule of the tariff bill, framed by Allison and Aldrich in the interest of the sugar trust, is the most brazen hold-up of the century, in comparison with which train-robbing is respectable. Here is what the brilliant and vitriolic Kansan says:

"From the Republican point of view it would be better that the tariff bill should fall than that the sugar schedule should stand. It is the most brazen and audacious hold-up of the century. It makes train-robbing respectable. It has no excuse except the insatiable greed and rapacity of the most shameless squad of plunderers that ever escaped the penitentiary. Ordinary marauders are content to rob a bank or swindle a community. These brigands propose to pillage the nation and to compel congress to become their accomplice. The trust schedule will defy competition, annihilate the beet sugar industry and add to the oppressive burdens of every citizen of the United States, for the avowed purpose of swelling the already inordinate gains of a remorseless monopoly. These are the performances which explain Populism and which, if not restrained, will make anarchy possible."

There is no doubt that every word of Mr Ingalls' criticism is true. The sugar schedule of the tariff bill, as it stands today, is exactly what the trust wants to make its monopoly complete and secure against any assault. The Republican party cannot enact it without branding itself as the willing servant of the sugar trust, and affirming the correctness of the rumor that such legislation was promised in return for a heavy contribution by the trust to the Republican campaign fund last fall.

Congressman Grosvenor of the house ways and means committee, which prepared the Dingley bill, has asserted that the sugar schedule recommended by the senate committee is word for word identical with the schedule submitted to the house committee on behalf of the refiners that constitute the sugar trust. The marked rise in the quotations of sugar trust stocks immediately following the formal recommendation of the revised Dingley bill to the senate goes far to confirm the prevailing impression that the changes made by the senate committee in the sugar duties were extremely partial to the trust.

The Omaha Bee (Rep.) attacks the schedule on the ground that it would be the means of killing the beet sugar industry in this country. What concerns the people of the United States, and especially the people of the states engaged in sugar cane and beet culture is whether they will permit the sugar refiners combine to thwart the main object of tariff revision—the protection of American industry. The people of the United States are paying $100,000,000 to $120,000,000 a year to foreign sugar growers. With reasonable protection every pound of sugar consumed in this country can be produced from American sugar cane and American sugar beets. With a tariff framed with a view to stimulating the American sugar industry, Southern sugar planters will be able to quadruple their product and sugar beet culture will receive an impetus that will do as much as any other agency toward the restoration of prosperity. The sugar schedule in the Dingley tariff bill was framed with this end in view, with incidental protection to American sugar refiners to enable them to compete successfully with the refiners of Germany, France and Great Britain. The manager of the sugar trust has induced the senate committee to change the whole schedule, and has forced an ad valorem duty, which gives free scope for speculation and undervaluation. The Bee concludes: "It is to be hoped that congress will not stultify itself by capitulating to the trust. The sugar schedule as drawn by Mr. Dingley and passed by the house should be restored. The American people will cheerfully submit to increased taxation for the building up of the beet sugar industry and the encouragement of cane growing. They will cheerfully submit to being taxed for the protection of the American sugar manufacturers. But they will not submit patiently to burdens imposed upon them for the benefit of the sugar refining monopoly, which seeks to throttle American producers by entrenching itself behind ingeniously devised barriers erected through tariff legislation. In other words, the people of the United States are willing to tax themselves for a few years in order that America may supply its own market with its own sugar, but they will not and should not submit to being taxed upon imported sugar merely to put millions into the coffers of the sugar trust."

Just for a joke Dr. Frank Linbarger, at Asbury Park, in 1895, had a friend introduce him to Miss Mae Sanford, of Red Bank, N. J., as Dr. Lee. Acquaintance ripened into love. Miss Sanford had $75,000 in her own name. The doctor was afraid of "queering" his suit if he told of the deception, so he kept right on and married her under the name of Lee. Now he asks the circuit court of Union county, N. J., to change his name from Linbarger to Lee. Certainly no one can be surprised that he desires to change his old name.

SUPPRESSED BY REED.

The Morgan resolution recognizing the belligerency of the Cuban insurgents will not be acted upon by the house this week. This is the report that comes from Washington this week. The reason is that Tom Reed and his lieutenants have decided to block its passage. In other words, the large majority of the house that is undoubtedly in favor of the resolution will not be permitted to act because Czar Reed is opposed to it, and President McKinley desires no action taken at the present time. The majority in the house is tied hand and foot and cannot move until "the czar" gives the word.

It is a shameful state of affairs. It is a travesty on representative government. It is utterly opposed to the spirit of the constitution, and it is amazing that the self-respecting members of the house do not rise en masse and rebel against the tyranny of the speaker and his lieutenants.

Congressman Stevens of St. Paul has been indicted by the Ramsey county grand jury, which has been rounding up the ex-bankers who are alleged to have violated the banking laws. He was formerly president of the Minnesota Savings bank, and the charge against him is an alleged overdraft of his account. Mr. Stevens claims, however, that certain credits due him were not placed to his account, and it thus erroneously appeared that his account was overdrawn.

There is a rumor that Senator Fuller of Morrison county is to be appointed receiver of the Duluth land office when Mr. Ryan's term expires. Senator Culkin has been selected by Congressman Morris as Register Taylor's successor. Perhaps some other Sixth district senator may be made collector.

The Boston Transcript tells of two youths who, at a theater in that city the other evening, carried on a vigorous discussion over the authorship of "The Tempest." Surely they must have been strangers. No resident of Boston would be in doubt on such a subject.

Prince Luigi, with the help of the Apalachians, is to try to scale Mount Saint Elias, in Alaska, but the task before the Italian prince has already been assigned to a United States government expedition. There is to be "no foot-race to the summit," which is some 20,000 feet above the sea level.

The Westlicher Herold is deserving of warm praise for the enterprise which it displayed last week by issuing a Winona edition, printed on tinted paper and filled with excelent half-tone illustrations and interesting reading matter concerning Winona.

There is a Polish woman 101 years old now living in Oregon who, as a young girl, saw the battle of Waterloo. She was afar off, and, like Zaccheus, she did climb a tree, and saw the smoke and heard the road of the day of Napoleon's fall.

Henry Clews thinks the senate is "untrustworthy and dangerous" because it passed the Morgan resolution. But Henry voices the opinion of Wall street only, while the senate represents the sentiment of the people.

A Dutchess county, N. Y., man has brought suit for damages against a clergyman for baptizing his infant son and giving him a name that he could not like. This should settle the question of "what's in a name?"

According to the Detroit Journal, Gen. Alger is the whole cabinet, and the other members cut but a very small figure. This story may be swallowed by Michiganders, but it will not go elsewhere.

James Gordon Bennett has returned to New York, and the Herald force will be in an agitated state, because his visits are usually attended by many changes.

Perhaps Senator Nelson may conclude to hold up the tariff bill until Czar Reed agrees to let the house consider the bankruptcy bill.

Speaker Reed has abandoned bicycle practice while in Washington. He is so busy preventing the house from transacting business that he has no time to ride.

The United States has some youthful diplomats. The secretary of legation at at Madrid is 24 and at Rome 23.

Since the sultan has seen Gen. Miles he seems disposed to be more reasonable in settling the terms of peace.

The senate committee reduced the Dingley tariff rates on toothpicks one-half. This should please the hotelkeepers.

A BACHELOR'S REFLECTIONS.

New York Press: As soon as a man gets too fat and acts eccentric, he begins, to be known as an "able" man.

Love is a good deal like a radish. The part you see is all right, but the deeper you go the smaller it tapers off.

"Not exactly. We both believe in it, but I'm not in favor of it."

Detroit Free Press: "My wife is a sure enough genius."

"Has she written a book?"

"No; but she kept her hat on straight the whole time we were moving."

Judge: Ethel—Did you ever run across a real smart man in your life?

Penelope—No, indeed; such men jump very quickly when they hear a bicycle bell.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "I guess Jim can get away for that fishing party all right."

"What makes you think so?"

"I was up to his house last night. His wife used to be an amateur elocutionist before they were married, and he asked her to recite. She'll never refuse him now."

Chicago Record: "You have taken all the cushions out of your church?"

"Yes, we thought if we could make the pews seem like base ball bleachers the attendance might increase."

Puck: Family physician (solemnly)—Your wife is a very sick woman. Do you want to know the worst?

Husband (who has been there before)—Certainly, certainly—tell me the worst. Is it Long Branch, Saratoga, Richfield Springs or Europe?

New York Press: Professor—If you used a little energy you could find plenty of work to do.

Tramp—Tommy Tomkins (with dignity)—Sir, one conversant with the first principles of physics knows that the expenditure of energy lessens the ability of the body to perform work.

Professor—Um—ah—here's a dollar.

Philadelphia Record: Beggar—Can you help a poor man to—

Pedestrian—I think you've touched me before.

Beggar—Possibly, sir; possibly. You see I'm a stranded photographer, and the old habit of retouching clings, sir.

Up to Date: Marie (the maid)—You look charming, Miss Penelope; I can tell you that as well as the glass. Women were made before mirrors, you know.

Penelope—Yes, and they have been before them ever since.

Chicago Record: "My son is to leave business and go on the stage."

"Has he any theatrical talent?"

"Yes; his salary is always spent before he gets it."

Boston Transcript: Grigson—Excuse me, Mitwin, but why is it that people of your name are generally such confounded bores?

Mitwin—I don't know. How many persons of my name did you ever know?

Grigson—By George! come to think of it, you are the only one I ever knew.

Chicago Record: "Bobby asked me what a continuous performance was."

"What did you tell him?"

"I said that the tariff discussion was as near as I could come to it."

Chicago Post: He was rather proud of his accomplishments in a business way.

"Do you know," he said to his wife, "I have learned to run a typewriter myself?"

"Have you," she replied coldly. "Well, I understand that's the way with most men when they get a pretty one."

Of course it was useless trying to explain. It only made matters worse, as it always does.

THE IMPOTENT CONCERT.

New York Tribune: How ignoble a part the great powers have played and are playing in what they are pleased to style intervention is now painfully evident. Last week they bade both combatants to halt. Greece obeyed but Turkey disobeyed. Greece stopped fighting, abandoned the decided advantages she had just gained in Epirus, and evacuated that province, trusting to the promise of the great powers that they would restrain the Turks from any further advance in Thessaly. That promise the great powers did not fulfill; perhaps could not. So while Greece, at their word, laid down her arms, Turkey, in spite of them, pressed her attack upon her then defenseless foe. A fine reward, in truth, to Greece for her compliance with the wishes of the great powers! Much encouragement it must give her to intrust her interests to them! It is just another such betrayal of her as she suffered in the boundary matter years ago, and more recently in Crete. It stamps the "Concert of the Powers" with either insincerity or impotency beyond all excuse or explanation.

Turkey has lost no time in making good her occupation of Thessaly. She has organized Turkish local governments in all the districts and towns; introduced the Turkish language for use on the telegraph lines; set Turkish engineers at work repairing and operating the railroads, and in all respects has established as purely Turkish an administration as there is in Thrace itself. That indicates the earnestness of her intention to reannex Thessaly as part of the spoils of war. Why not? She has, indeed, already done so. The reannexation of Thessaly is, from both military and a civil point of view, an accomplished fact; much more so than the alleged annexation of Crete to Greece was a few weeks ago. Who will undo that fact in the face of 70,000 Turkish soldiers in the field? Not Greece, assuredly. By a guerrilla warfare, like that of the Spaniards against the French a century ago, she might make a Turkish advance into Lividia impossible; but she cannot hope to reconquer a single rood of the Thessaly she has already lost. The great powers? We have just seen a sample of their potency. Turkey defies their requests and their threats, and it would take a tremendous military force now to reduce her to their will. That they will send such a force seems most improbable, especially since one of them, Germany, is already practically committed to the cession of Thessaly to Turkey. Germany's motive in that is clear. She wants to make Greece give Thessaly to Turkey rather than a big cash indemnity, in order to protect her own holders of Greek bonds. Well, if the six great powers could not agree to coerce Turkey while Turkey was the "Sick Man," is it probable that five of them will undertake to do so now that Turkey has become the "Strong Man" and is vigorously backed up by the sixth great power?

Cancer

Mrs. A. H. Crausby, of 158 Kerr St., Memphis, Tenn., paid no attention to a small lump in her breast, but it soon developed into a cancer of the most malignant type. The best physicians in New York treated her, and finally declared her case hopeless. As a last resort, S. S. S was given, and an immediate improvement resulted; a few bottles cured her completely, and no sign of the disease has returned for ten years.

Remains of Miss Elsie Prescott Arrived Today---The Funeral Tomorrow.

West Duluth Team Defeated Proctorknott at Baseball Yesterday Afternoon.

Victor Wilson, who was seriously injured in an accident at the St. Louis Lumber company's mill early Friday, is reported as doing nicely although it cannot yet be determined whether it will be necessary to amputate his leg. He has withstood the effects of the shock remarkably well and if the bone is not too badly crushed the injured member will be saved.

MISS PRESCOTT'S FUNERAL.

THROUGH WIT POLITICS.

Sauk Rapids Free Press: R. H. Hartley has succeeded Tams Bixby as private secretary to Governor Clough. The new secretary is a son-in-law to the governor, and the appointment is construed to mean that Governor Clough is through with politics and at the end of his term will retire to private life. If this is really his intention we doubt not he will undertake a big job in attempting to "pull off" his friends when convention time rolls around.

"A RAILROAD TICKET."

The sparkling comedy "A Railroad Ticket," by Joseph M. Gaites, will be presented by Freeman's fun makers at the Lyceum tonight, with a cast second to none playing farce comedy. The thread of the story is a bright one. The plot is based upon incidents of every-day life in a railroad ticket broker's office. A pretty girl and a stolen railroad ticket succeed in getting a number of people in a complicated and funny situation. There are introduced in the comedy novel mechanical effects, a rain machine showing the audience how easy it is to have a rain storm whenever a person desires one, an electric car which carries motorman, conductor and passengers. The scenery for the entire production is carried by the company. Marie Stuart and Louis Wesley head the long list of entertainers.

Rescued a Drowning Boy.

Ex-Chief of Police Harry Armstrong performed a gallant deed of heroism on Saturday, whereby he saved a human life from a watery grave and ruined a good suit of clothes. A party of small boys were playing around the tug dock at the foot of Twenty-second avenue west, when one of them fell into the water, which is deep at that point. His companions were all frightened and ran away to give the alarm. Mr. Armstrong was in the neighborhood, and without hesitation jumped in the water and got hold of the boy just as he was sinking for the third time, and, after a hard struggle, pulled him out. The boy was taken to a neighboring house and easily resuscitated, but he would not tell his name, and made off home as soon as he could.

VETERANS

Survivors of the War Attend Services Both Morning and Evening.

Dr. Humason Talks of the Soldier, of War and of the Cross.

"The Unification of Our Country" Was Rev. Mr. Patton's Subject.

According to the usual custom when Memorial day falls on Saturday, the Sabbath before is celebrated by religious ceremonies commemorative of the death of members of the Northern armies. This occurred yesterday, and in two Duluth pulpits sermons appropriate to the occasion were given. In the morning Rev. G. H. Humason spoke at the First Methodist church, and in the evening Rev. C. H. Patton spoke at the Congregational church. Both churches were decorated in honor of the day with colors, stacked arms and flowers.

In the morning Dr. Humason took his text from Timothy. He said that life is a campaign, and if we want anything we must fight for it. He did not believe in war, but until times change, it is our duty to know how to fight. "Let us honor the brave men who fought for our liberties, and treat their fallen comrades with the respect due their services. Piety without patriotism is poor stuff. I urge any of your number who have not enlisted under the banner of love to do so promptly, and learn to keep step with the great Captain of our salvation.

"It is most appropriate that the country should appoint a day each year to keep fresh the sacrifices of those who died for their country. The day should never be one of feasting and rioting, but it ought forever to be observed with proper respect and solemnity. The nation's wealth is in her men, and when these fall in protecting her those that remain should show proper gratitude. They fell asleep in the defense of liberty, and are enwrapped in the folds of the most beautiful flag ever kissed by heaven's breeze. Many of them unknown, God has filled one soil with the bodies of these heroes to make the whole Union sacred, for the blue and the gray must be lying side by side. All sections are interested in these graves. To the sons and daughters of the soldiers of the republic belongs property that time can never destroy. Hand down the grand name you have received untarnished to prosperity.

"The speaker then went on to compare the life of a soldier in the late war with a soldier of the cross, and he invited those who had endured hardships as soldiers of the Union to come and suffer with him as good soldiers of the cross. Among the first duties each must learn is obedience. Music is a power with both. The soldier loves the flag, and the Christian the cross, but the cross represents more than the flag. The best soldiers and the best Christians are those who fight from principle. In almost all armies there are traitors. Of those that turn traitor to the cause of Christ and bring reproach upon His glorious name, it is said that 'they crucify the son of God afresh and put Him to an open shame.' The G. A. R. men delight in their camp fires and reunions, and it is a joy to see the old comrades. But many are absent, except in memory, and your ranks are daily growing thinner. Shoulder to shoulder, the blue and the gray are marching double-quick into the unknown country. You long to meet old comrades, or father, mother, sister, brother, wife or child. It cannot be that life has no final reunion. When the war of life is over, the loved ones shall assemble in a grand reunion. From all the quarters of the earth the multitudes will gather, and the sea will give up her dead. Ask them who they are and whither they are going, and listen to the answer: 'These are they who have come out of great tribulation and have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb. They shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more, and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes. These are the soldiers of the cross, who have suffered hardship, and they are going to their final reunion and reward."

Rev. C. H. Patton's subject was "The Unification of Our Country, or the Re-United States." He said that when he looked upon the gray heads and bent forms of many of the veterans it seemed inappropriate for him, a young man, to speak to them of the sacred memories that cluster around Memorial day. Yet, upon second thought, it did not seem so inappropriate, for the thinning of their ranks reminded us that soon none of them will be left to decorate the graves, none but those who have grown up since those sad but glorious days and have inherited the product of their labor and self-sacrifice. "As representing the new generation I may stand here and pledge you the devotion of those that follow. It is wonderful to think that a whole generation has arisen since that time. When you are gone the grand army of young men and women will continue to plant the flag upon all soldiers' graves and to grace with earth's fairest flowers the resting place of the nation's defenders.

"In speaking of our reunited states I shall look backward to the war as the means of reunion and forward to a closer brotherhood of peoples in the years to come. At the bottom the war was a moral rather than a political struggle, for it was a fight against human oppression for the freeing of the slave. There was the unifying influence of a national sense of sin. Our nation needed humbling before almighty God. After the war came the unifying power of a great success. A country saved from disseverment, a constitution enforced, the slaves freed, the mightiest political and philanthropic work of the century accomplished. Even the South, accepting the arbitrament of war in a loyal and soldierly spirit, entered into the bonds of this great success.

"Finally, there was the unifying influence of a great national sorrow, marked by hundreds of thousands of graves, with the death of Lincoln on top of all. All these things have made up not only politically but morally one nation. The years of reconstruction and mutual interests have completed the binding work, and we are now looking forth on a new era where new questions confront us and new men are coming on the field. Let our great task be to unify the mass of apparently discordant elements."

PROTESTS AGAINST IT.

Dr. Humason Wants No Saloon on Minnesota Point.

At the Methodist church last night Dr. Humason appealed to his hearers to use their influence to prevent the establishment of a saloon on Minnesota Point. He spoke in the most enthusiastic terms of the advantages afforded the city by the popular camping grounds, and said that the locality should be kept free from the lawless element that could usually be found wherever the saloon was located. He declared tha those who camped on the Point were entitled to peace and quiet, which they would be deprived of if a saloon was permitted anexistence there. He referred to the announcement of a park management that "respectable dances" were to be conducted Sundays in the dancing pavilion, and said he did not know what a respectable dance on Sunday could mean.

On the subject of saloon keepers in general, he said there were saloon keepers and saloon keepers, and that some were better than others. He did not think, as many did, that all saloon keepers were bad. He knew some who were good men and who respected the law and conducted their business, bad though it was, in a decent, orderly manner. However, saloon keepers of this class did not want to invade Minnesota Point, and if a saloon were established there it would be some representative of the worst element of the trade. To issue a license for a saloon there would be a bad business venture for the city, for it would cost the taxpayers more than the amount that would be paid for a license. In fact, Dr. Humason made the sweeping assertion that there never had been a saloon license issued in Duluth that had not cost the city more than it had received for the license.

He spoke of the effort made last year to ell liquor at the Pavilion, and told a story of a board of trade man who had been asked to sign a petition protesting against a license being issued for a saloon in the Pavilion. The trader read the petition and said: "Of course I'll sign it; the Pavilion is too far away to go for a drink." And so Dr. Humason asked all to protest against a license for a Minnesota Point saloon if for no other reason than that it was too far away to be handy for drinking purposes.

Helpers Organize.

The boilermakers' helpers organized Saturday evening under the direction of Organizer George C. Findley of the American Federation of Labor. George Wood was elected temporary president and John Hatton secretary. Treasurer Bilx of the Trades assembly and Organizer Woods of the Cigarmakers' International union were present. Next Saturday evening another meeting will be held at 114 First avenue east.

Foresters' Entertainment.

An entertainment is to be given Thursday evening by the lodges of the United Order of Foresters at their lodge rooms in the Masonic Temple building. Three courts, Center, Eastern Star and Star will join in giving the affair. There will be dancing and refreshments. Many guests from outside are expected to be in attendance.

A Pastor Called.

Yesterday morning, after the regular service at the First Baptist church, the congregation held a meeting and extended a call to Rev. B. R. Patrick, who has preached here for the last two or three Sundays. Mr. Patrick is taking the theological course at the Chicago university and will leave for there today to resume his work. He has not as yet made any answer to the call, but the members of the congregation are confident that he will accept, and earnestly hope that he will, believing that he is well fitted for the position.

Motors Are Cheaper.

T. W. Hugo on Saturday evening read a paper before the stationary engineers on the economy of using electric motors in the place of belts and shafts. Many manufacturers are substituting the motors and find the saving of power very great. At the next meeting "The Economy of Using Steam for Heating" will be discussed.

Hicken Gets a Job.

There are three of these appraisers for each county, and two more appointments are expected. The duties of these appraisers are to set a value on all school sections and state swamp land in the county that may be offered for sale by the state auditor on July 1.

DISAGREE

Statements of Presidents Gates and Bacon Conflict, Mine Owners Say.

Effect of Sliding Scale of Freight Rates, According to Mr. Bacon.

He Does Not Say That It Would Benefit Only Furnace Men.

While in Duluth Saturday D. H. Bacon of the Minnesota Iron company, in discussing the iron situation, is reported as having said that the Southern railroads have an agreement with the producers of pig iron from Southern ores by which a sliding scale of rates exists. He said that when the productions are low there is a corresponding freight rate, and when they command a good price there is a rate to correspond. There is a limit, he said, to this sliding scale, but it is sufficiently elastic to accommodate any ordinary fluctuations of business and enabled the Southern manufacturers to know just what they could do at all times.

A prominent independent mine owner in an interview with an Evening Herald reporter in relation to this statement made by Mr. Bacon said that it did not agree with the assertion recently made by President Gates of the Consolidated, in which he declared that to reduce the freight rates on iron ore would simply reduce the market price of ore in Cleveland and would not in any way benefit independent shippers. The producers of Southern ores, whose product is smelted near the mines, are given a low freight rate when prices are low and are charged a higher rate when the condition of the market will stand it. In other words, the market regulates the freight rate instead of the freight regulating the market. According to Mr. Gates' reasoning, if the rates on the Missabe and Iron Range roads were advanced the price of ore at Cleveland would advance with it. But why a reduction in rates on the Michigan and Wisconsin ranges as well as in the South has not reduced the value of ore, if a reduction of rates on the Minnesota range roads would accomplish this is beyond the understanding of the men who own iron properties in this state and are not also fortunate enough to be the possessors of railroads. If a sliding schedule of rates is good for Southern miners and smelters it should be good for the owners of mines in this state, and if a reduction of freight rates on the old range roads, such as was made after the bottom fell out of prices, did not still further reduce them, a similar reduction on Minnesota roads ought not to interefere with values.

The telegraph brought a prominent physician in a consultation which resulted in no benefit. I went to Wyoming for change of climate without benefit, was brought back to Atchison where nurses worked with me night and day to keep me alive to reach my friends here. My heart became so bad that my friends gave up all hope. I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine alternately and was restored to health. It is now months since and I am perfectly well."

ATTACHED THE RECEIPTS.

Bicycle Race Receipts Levied Upon Saturday Evening.

On Saturday night the box office receipts of the Union rink were attacked by Court Officers Marshal and Forgy, at the suit of the News Tribune. Officer Marshal served the papers in the suit upon Manager Wray in the inside office. Immediately Mr. Wray ran to the front office and shouted to the treasurer to pocket all the receipts, and Mr. Marshal made a short sprint towards a pile of bills just inside the pay window, managing to get his hand upon them before the other man. The treasurer then jammed the window down on Mr. Marshal's arm, bruising it somewhat. Marshal ordered Officer Forgy to smash in the glass of the window, which was promptly done, and Marshal grabbed two handsful of currency and put it in his pocket.

When Manager Wray saw that Marshal had got the major part of the money he gave up, counted out $75, the amount claimed in the writ of attachment, and peace once more reigned.

About the same time Officer Jensen made a raid and seized the ediscope at the Pavilion for a claim. This was temporarily settled by the management, and the machine will click as merrily as ever this evening.

GAVE NO WARNING.

The Bicycle Race Management Raised the Admission Fee.

The female race closed Saturday night at the Union rink, in the order indicated in Saturday's Herald, Farnsworth first with 231 miles 8 laps; Harp second and Brooks third. Before the race Walter Murphy beat Farnsworth's mile by ten seconds.

There was a great deal of indignation felt and expressed at the manner in which the price of admission was doubled without notice. The advertisements Saturday stated that the price would be 25 cents, and when the spectators got to the rink they were confronted by a sign which informed them that they would have to put up 50 cents. If this is a specimen of the policy the management intends to pursue when it gives entertainments, it will get the cold shoulder from the public. It was a very small piece of business, and without excuse.

The Municipal Court.

In the police court today an Italian, named Mike Manielo, was fined $10 for being drunk. After he had paid his fine one of his fellow countrymen appeared and demanded pay for serices as an interpreter, because he had bailed Mike out of jail last night. To his great disgust he failed to get anything, and he left the police court with the avowed intention of enforcing his claim through the Italian consul at Chicago.

Eight boxcar lodgers were fined $5 or five days, and they all went up for that period.

J. A. Manthey, who was arrested for using bad language to Anton Schulte was let off with a suspended sentence upon his showing that he had received great provocation, and also that he was an industrious man, of excellent character. Thomas F. aCmeron paid $1 and costs for choking Jasper Lord, who was insulting him.

Fitzgeraid the Lowest.

Bids for the excavation of the trenches for the force main, from Sixty-third avenue east to Fortieth avenue east, were opened in the office of the board of public works today. The contract was awarded to Mike Fitzgerald, whose bid amounted to $25,618.50. Other bidders were J. D. O'Connell, $32,130; P. McDonnell, $29,430; King & Steele, $31,409; Carlson & Co., $34,643; James A. Burke, $26,030; Engle & Osman, $28,540. The award will be sent to the council for confirmation tonight.

You may never know it happened if you fail to read The Evening Herald.

A CRISIS

Effort Made to Precipitate One in the City Engineer Matter.

Notice Given By the Board That Mr. Reed is Engineer.

Mr. Patton Promptly Tore the Orders Down and Refuses to Surrender.

Should there be a quorum tonight at the council meeting the session bids fair to be a lively one, as there are several important matters to be brought up and if possible settled, so that the waterworks contracts may go ahead.

The contest over the office of the city engineer will be brought into the council either by the presentation of D. A. Reed's bond or upon a motion to confirm John Flood as a member of the board of public works. There was some talk of a reconsideration of the acceptance of Reed's resignation as a member of the board of public works, and there will certainly be considerable opposition to the acceptance of his bond.

A fresh phase of the affair was brought about on Saturday by the action of the board of public works. About the official closing hour Mr. Reed appeared before the city clerk, took the oath of office, and, armed with a notification from the board, demanded that the city engineer's office be turned over to him. This Mr. Paton, acting under legal advice, refused to do.

This morning Mr. Reed took possession of a seat in the office, and the president of the board ordered notices posted up in the engineer's office saying that Reed, having been duly elected city engineer, all orders given by him must be obeyed.

Mr. Patton promptly tore these notices down and refused to surrender his desk or deliver up the records of his office, alleging as a reason that Mr. Reed was not legally his successor and that he would not turn over the office until he was advised of the legality of Mr. Reed's appointment.

The board and Mr. Reed retired without the breastworks and held a council of war. Shortly afterwards Mr. Reed appeared again and took a seat alongside Bookkeeper Abell in the outer office and sat there until Mr. Patton left upon a visit of inspection to Lakewood. Then he went into the draughting room, and having inspected the work going on there, he took a seat at Assistant Engineer Duffies' side and proceeded to ply that gentleman with questions. While he was doing this the chief clerk of the board was busy making out formal notices, signed by President Smith, notifying each and every employee of the city engineer's office and of the board of Mr. Reed's election and appointment, and warning them to obey only Mr. Reed's orders, and these notices will be handed to them today. In the meantime the records, plans and property of the offices are in Mr. Patton's possession, and he firmly declines to turn them over until Mr. Reed is re-elected by the board and reconfirmed by the council, unless so ordered to do by the courts.

The report, published last week in The Herald, of the pump house committee will be submitted to the council tonight, accompanied by a report from the board of public works urging a prompt settlement of the future plans for the completion of the building, as the time is fast approaching when the pumping machinery will be ready for installation.

The award of the contract for the excavation of the water trenches will come up for confirmation, and the confirmation of John Flood will be brought up and will most likely be unanimous.

The awarding of the city printing for the current year is a matter that has now been laid over awaiting the report of the committee for some time, and it is thought probable that it will be settled tonight, and that the ordinance reducing the rates for hack and dray licenses will be passed. There is a petition before the council from Barnum & Bailey for a reduction of the license for their show from $500 to $250, and this may also be incorporated in the same ordinance.

His honor the mayor will send a message to the council tonight, vetoing the refusal to pay the bill of E. R. Cobb for twenty-four days' work at $2 per diem for work put in upon the uniform charter bill. Mayor Truelsen feels that it is wrong not to pay Mr. Cobb this bill, as he worked faithfully at the charter and should be paid for the work.

Asks an Accounting.

G. E. Gee has begun suit against H. D. Gee for partnership accounting. He alleges that the partnership was formed July 30, 1896, each putting in $500. It was conducted with profit, but last January the firm of H. D. Gee & Co. dissolved by mutual consent. The plaintiff alleges that he has not received a fair share of the profits, that the defendant has failed to keep proper business records and that he has given him fictitious statements. He asks for an accounting, for an injunction, restraining H. D. Gee from collecting outstanding indebtedness, and for a receiver to take care of the money and divide it. Van Fossen & Frost, of Minneapolis, are the plaintiff's attorneys.

AN EASTERN RUMOR.

Grand Trunk Said to Be Backing Col. McNaught.

It is current rumor in financial and railroad circles in New York that the Grand Trunk railway and Allan Steamship line is backing Col. James McNaught in his negotiations with Premier Greenway of Manitoba for the construction of an air line railway from Duluth to Winnipeg. Ten or twelve years ago the Grand Trunk attempted to secure some valuable dock property in Duluth, with a view of building a Duluth connection. The Allan Steamship company's interest in the proposed line is to secure a share of the wheat of the Northwest for export, its boats running between Montreal and Liverpool.

TO PLAY WEDNESDAY.

Ashtabula and Chester Terrace Nines to Get Together.

The ball game which was to have been played Saturday afternoon by the Ashtabula and Chester terrace nines, but which had to be postponed because of the rain, will be played Wednesday at the West End ball park. This allows two or three days more for practice, for which several of the players are truly grateful. It is said that some of the players are admitting on the quiet that the side that gets to bat first will win, because they will pound the ball until they are worn out. Others of the nines are more conceited, however, and are talking about shutouts, goose eggs and other things.

Good Fishing Season.

J. M. George, the popular manager of Good Luck Lodge, the cosy little fisherman and hunter's home at the Winnebonjou crossing of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad, was in the city on Saturday. Mr. George says that the present trout fishing season has opened most auspiciously, the takes of fish being large and the supply of mosquitoes being extremely small. He has had several parties of his old customers already to visit him and a fair proportion of new ones and he looks for a great fishing season along the banks of the famed Brule.

THE TARIFF DEBATE

Senator Aldrich Opens the Discussion in the Senate on the Amended Tariff Bill.

Figures That It Will Produce a Surplus of Two Millions and Three Quarters.

He Defends the Sugar Schedule and Urges Modification of the Hawaiian Treaty.

Washington, May 25.—The long-deferred debate on the tariff bill was opened in the senate today. It served to attract considerable crowds, although the galleries were not overtaxed during the early hours of the session. Many ladies were among the spectators, adding a touch of color to the somberness of the chamber. On the floor the various elements in the tariff contest were fully represented, the attendance of senators being as large or larger than at any time since the extra session opened. There was no positive agreement as to the time for taking up the bill, but it was generally understood that Mr. Aldrich, of Rhode Island, would be recognized for the opening statement immediately after the opening business.

In opening his speech Senator Aldrich said: Mr. President, the business of the entire country is in a state of suspension awaiting the action of the senate upon the bill under consideration. I believe the anxiety to secure action upon this important measure at the earliest possible day is shared by every member of the senate. I can say for the senators sitting on this side of the chamber that no time will be spent in academic discussion of the principles of protection.

It was, I believe, thoroughly understood throughout the country in the last political campaign that if the Republican party should be again intrusted with power no extreme tariff legislation would follow. It was believed that in the changed conditions of the country a return to the duties imposed by the act of 1890 would not be necessary, even from a protective standpoint. It was with these facts constantly in view that the majority of the finance committee prepared the amendments which they have submitted for your consideration. Nothing could be more conducive to the return and maintenance of real prosperity in this country than the well-grounded belief that there were to be no violent changes in our revenue policy for some years to come.

The committee believe that in the reductions they have suggested from the rates imposed in the house bill they have not gone in any instance below the protective point, and if the bill should become a law in the form presented by them every American industry would be enabled to meet foreign competition on equal terms; that is, so far as this equality can be secured by tariff legislation. The rates suggested by the committee amendments are considerably below those imposed by the house bill, and in most instances below those contained in the act of 1890.

The framers of the house bill estimate a total revenue from the bill of $269,-105,710 in normal years. This would be the largest revenue received from customs duties, and an increase of $13,-479,793 over the customs revenue of 1896, and of $70,732,254 over that of 1893. The report of the ways and means committee of the house recognizes the fact that anticipatory importations will largely reduce the expected revenues of the first fiscal year under the new tariff; but after making allowance for these importations, the report estimates an increased income of $76,000,-000 for the year 1898, provided the law should be passed by May 1. If its enactment were delayed until July 1, the report added that $15,000,000 additional would easily be lost to the public treasury.

After giving in detail the house estimates of revenue, Mr. Aldrich proceeded. It will be apparent from a critical examination of the provisions of the house bill that the estimate of $4,000,-000 increase of revenue, if the bill should become a law by July 1, was excessive. To indicate the grounds upon which this judgment is based, we may take the wool and woolen schedule, from which $24,000,000 out of $76,000,000 increase is expected. The fact is well known that there have been unusual importations of wool in anticipation of the reimposing of a duty—enough, according to the trade reports, to supply all the foreign wool needed by the domestic manufacturers for more than a year. The statistics on this point justify the belief that there can be no revenue from the wool duties during the fiscal year 1898, except possibly a small amount from third class wools. The estimate of $14,000,000 increase from woolen goods is equally erroneous.

The same condition exists in lesser degree, perhaps, with reference to other schdules. Instead of an increased revenue from tobacco, we may more safely count upon a decrease in the first year, the increase from sugar will be much less than the ways and means committee's estimate, owing to the fact that one-quarter of the years' supplies of raw sugar will probably be imported before any new rates of duty can be applied to them.

The secretary of the treasury estimates the expenditures for all purposes for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1898, at $465,946,077.28. The finance committee estimates the revenue to be derived in the same fiscal year from customs, if the provisions of the bill reported by them could be enacted into law at $182,744,000. This includes an estimated revenue from the temporary duty of tea of $8,000,000. The committee estimates the receipts from international revenue for the same period at $170,700,000. If we add to this the treasury estimate for miscellaneous receipts, $20,000,000 and the receipts on account of the postoffice, $96,227,076, we have a total estimated excess of receipts over expenditures for that year of $2,725,028.

If the estimated revenue from the duty on tea and the additional international revenue taxes should be omitted from the committee's estimates of receipts, there would be an estimated deficiency of $29,175,000 instead of $2,-725,028. The committee believe it to be the imperative duty of congress to provide in the measure under consideration for a revenue which will certainly meet the requirements of the government for the next fiscal year. The adoption of a revenue bill which should fail in this purpose, and which should create an additional deficiency in the immediate future and which would require a further issue of bonds to meet current expenditures, would certainly be fatal to the hopes of future success of any political party responsible for such legislation.

In selecting the sources for additional revenue the committee decided to increase temporarily the tax on articles of voluntary use rather than to assess additional duties which might prove inoperative upon articles of necessity or upon those which enter into our manufactured products. Assuming that the necessity for additional revenue exists, and of this we believe there can be no question, there is no economic reason and certainly none that affects the public interests why beer an dtobacco should not bear their share of additional taxation. The committee believes that the duty proposed on tea will not prove a serious burden upon the consumers of that article.

The senator defended the sugar schedule at considerable length, and said: The committee, after full consideration, reached the conclusion that the essential elements of a certainty of revenue and an adjustment of rates that would lessen discriminations could only be secured by the adoption of compound rates. The committee, therefore, adopted the suggestion which is contained in the bill we have reported to the senate, of imposing a specific duty, which is equivalent to about 40 per centum ad valorem, with an additional duty of 35 per centum ad valorem on all sugars from 87 degrees to 100 degrees, with thirteen-hundredths of 1 cent per pound additional on all sugars above No. 16 duties standard in color and on refined sugars. It is important from every economic standpoint that we make it possible that the refining of sugar can be successfully carried on here, and that the business should not be turned over by legislative discriminations to German refiners.

The senator then took up the Hawaiian treaty and said the committee will also prepare and present an amendment to the house provisions in regard to the Hawaiian treaty. If this treaty should remain in force, it would result in giving a bounty to the Hawaiian sugar producers amounting to more than $8,000,000 per annum. The committee will present an amendment looking to a modification of the treaty in order to reduce this bounty to a reasonable sum.

MINNESOTA PETITION.

Washington, May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator Nelson today presented a petition from citizens of Minnesota urging the passage of a bill restricting immigration.

MINISTER TO BRAZIL.

President McKinley Appoints E. H. Conger, of Iowa.

Washington, May 25.—The president today sent the following nominations to the senate:

Edwin H. Conger, of Iowa, to be envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Brazil.

Hon. H. G. Foster, of Vermont, to be consul of the United States at Sherbrooke, Quebec, Can.

War—Brig. Gen. John R. Brooke, to be major general.

Navy—Assistant Engineer Dr. E. Desmeules to be a passed assistant engineer.

Interior—George B. McLaughlin, agent for the Indians of the Blackfeet agency in Montana.

BLAND ON REED.

Says the Czar Dominates the Lower House.

St. Louis, May 25.—Congressman Bland of Missouri is here to make several speeches in the First congressional district. Speaking of the Morga rsolution, Mr. Bland said: "Two-thirds of the members of the house are uncompromisingly in favor of its adoption, but Mr. Reed is to all intents and purposes the lower house of congress, and the mere fact that two-thirds or three-fourths of the members want any measure adopted counts for nothing against his wishes. It is said that he is opposed to the recognition of the Cuban revolutionists, and if this is true, it matters not what all the other members of congress want, the Morgan resolution will never be voted upon at the present term of congress."

JUMPED TO DEATH.

Chicago Man Shoots Himself and Then Jumps.

Chicago, May 25.—A little after 8 o'clock this morning an unidentified man, while walking around the corridor on the thirteenth floor of the Chamber of Commerce building, corner of La Salle and Washington streets, suddenly drew a revolver and shot himself. He then threw himself over the railing into the court, thirteen stories below, narrowly missing pedestrians in the crowded main lobby of the big structure. It is thought the man was dead before he struck the pavement. The corpse was horribly crushed.

The fall was a distance of 180 feet. A letter in the suicide's pocket showed him to be W. F. Mittman, a dancing teacher. The letter said his wife had accused him wrongfully, and that he intended to take his life yesterday, but had concluded to give her one more chance.

BASEBALL TOMORROW.

The Much Talked of Game Will Be Played.

It was but natural to expect that such an aggregation of baseball talent as that lined up between the inmates of the terraces Chester and Ashtabula should create the atmospheric disturbances which caused the heavy precipitation of Saturday. To be sure the result was disastrous to the game, causing it to be postponed to tomorrow afternoon, but interest has not lapsed, and as the park could not have held the crowd that was going to attend Saturday it is probably just as well that the game was postponed. The members of the two teams have not suffered the days to drag them into less favorable physical conditions than they would have been Saturday. They have steadily kept up their training, and their excellence of "form" could only be described by adjectives so extraordinarily superlative as to have no place in the grammar.

This is as true of one team as of the other. In the shape in which the players find themselves one shudders to think of the result if they were opposed to each other in direct muscular exertion. The upshot of the contest would prove to be something like the old question of what would happen if a perfectly irresistible body should collide with a perfectly immovable body. The game will be called at 3 o'clock and the lineup will be as follows:

Chester.		Ashtabula.
Edson..	Catcher	Baldrick
Wade....	Pitcher..	Mosher
Sterritt..	First base..	Larke
West..	Second base....	Cross
Adams..	Short stop....	Bagley
McGregor..	Third base ..	Clark
Ash..	Center field..	Barnes
Gilbert..	Right field..	Robinson

Apply to a Policeman When a Child is Lost.

Detective Joe Ryan picked up a pretty little girl today who was wandering about the streets evidently lost, and took her to headquarters. The child, at an early hour this afternoon had not been claimed. She is probably the child of well-to-do persons, being well dressed and evidently well cared for. Chief Hansen says that it is no unusual thing to have stray children all day at headquarters, while their parents are traveling around to Oneota, Proctorknott and Lakeside looking for them, and that it has puzzled him to find why the central station seems to be the last resort of the searchers.

As soon as a child is picked up the telephone operator on duty notifies every policeman as he makes his hourly report from the patrol box on his beat of the child being found with a description of the little one and therefore the best thing anyone can do upon missing a child is to apply at once to the nearest policeman.

The Baseball Fever.

The sports of Piedmont terrace are organizing a base ball nine and propose to challenge the winners of the terrace game tomorrow as they feel sure that they can pulverize any set of ball players living upon the lowlands at the East End of town.

The St. Paul city hall nine is also anxious to get up a match with a nine from the Duluth city hall, and has opened negotiations to that end with City Clerk Richardson. The game is to be played for the benefit of any charitable organization.

HILL'S LEG

District Court Jury Decides It Was Worth Five Thousand Dollars.

A Verdict For That Amount Returned Against Winston Bros. Today.

The Arson Case Against Rachel Spellman Was Submitted at Noon.

A verdict was returned in a personal injury suit in district court this morning which reminded the personal injury attorneys of old times. Isaac Hill was the lucky plaintiff, Winston Bros., of Minneapolis, were the mulcted defendants and $5000 was the amount of the verdict.

All day yesterday, from early morning, when Judge Cant denied the defendant's motion to direct a verdict in its favor, to almost up to the hour of adjournment last night, when the court finished its charge to the jury, the case continued in court room No. 2. It was only a few minutes before the usual time for adjournment when the case was given to the jury, and one of the jurymen said this morning that it was hardly ten minutes before the verdict was agreed upon. For the looks of the thing, however, the jury stayed out until 5:30. At that time the court had adjourned, so the verdict was sealed and brought into court at the opening of this morning's session. The defendant asked for and obtained a stay of forty days.

The suit was to recover $30,000 for the loss of a leg. Hill was a laborer in the employ of the defendants, who had the contract for stripping the Iron King or Auburn mines at Virginia. While working under a bank at the mine a section of earth caved in and crushed Hill's leg so badly that he was forced to have it amputated and to replace it with a peg. The case was tried at the January term of district court before a struck jury, and the trial resulted in a disagreement. John Jenswold, Jr., was Hill's attorney.

This mornig Judge Cant and a jury took up another personal injury case, that of Maime L. Guilbeault against H. Singer et al., to recover $2000 for an injured shoulder. The plaintiff was injured by a collision with a scow while crossing the canal in one of the city's ferry boats. The city was first sued, but that failing, Capt. Singer was made defendant.

Yesterday afternoon Judge Ensign ordered the case of Elizabeth K. Brown against the city submitted on briefs, and he next took up the mandamus case of the city against the St. Paul & Duluth and the Northern Pacific roads, to compel them to build the Garfield avenue viaduct under the direction of the city engineer. The roads claim that they were there before there was any Garfield avenue, and that therefore they have a prior right, and to support this point there was a roomful of old-timers to testify. The case was still on trial at noon.

GIVEN TO THE JURY.

Rachel Spellman's Fate Now In Its Hands.

The case against Rachel Spellman for arson went to the jury this noon, the defense putting in no testimony whatever. Yesterday afternoon and a part of this morning was taken up by the state's case, which was not so long as was expected. The firemen, policemen and insurance agents testified practically as outlined in the county attorney's opening to the jury yesterday.

Charles Lindblom, who was hired by Spellman to clean out the place, was placed on the stand this morning, and on cross-examination he rather offset some of the state's testimony as to the absence of furniture and bedclothing in the building. He testified that he took out a considerable quantity of bed clothing, furniture, dishes, etc.

When the state rested, C. O. Baldwin moved to dismiss the case on the ground that the state had not shown a public offense. He argued that the state had not proved that there was any insurance on the building, as it had not proved the legal existence of the alleged insurer. Judge Moer denied the motion, and the defense rstd without the introduction of any testimony. The arguments to the jury took up but little time, and the court's charge was made before adjournment. The jury was still out at 2:30 p. m.

Several decisions were received at the United States land office today from the general land office. In Charles Carlson vs. Frank D. Adams, involving north half of northeast quarter, southeast quarter of northeast quarter and northeast quarter of northwest quarter of section 26-46-18, the homestead entry of Frank D. Adams is ordered cancelled. The same ruling is made in two other cases: August Lindstrom vs. John W. Munro, involving east half of southeast quarter of section 10-59-19, and Otto G. Korb vs. Alpheus Pierce, involving southwest quarter of northeast quarter and lots 1, 2, 6 and 7, of section 1-63-14. All of these affirm the local officers.

Caught a Big String.

C. A. Wright and wife, T. W. Wahl and Miss Daisy Butchart returned this morning from a fishing excursion to Deer Lake, bringing with them a string of nearly two hundred black bass and muskalonge. The party left here Saturday expecting to try their luck Sunday, but the weather was so bad that, snow falling for an hour on the lake, that they put in the day in rest, but yesterday morning dawned clear and warm, an ideal condition for piscatorial sport. As their big string shows their success was all that could be expected. Several bass were between four and five pounds in weight and two of the muskalonge were unusually large, one weighing fourteen pounds and another eighteen pounds, this on the authority of James A. Butchart, of the St. Louis hotel, father of the ladies of the party.

Interstate Commerce Commission Will Investigate Railroad Complaints.

Hearing Begins at Chicago and Affects Many Northwestern Lines.

Rather Unique Case Brought Up By the Milwaukee Road's Admission.

Washington, May 25.—An investigation of many charges against various Western railroads will begin at Chicago a week from tomorrow by the interstate commerce commission. One of them is the most unique case that has confronted the commission for some years. This is an admission of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway that it is not obeying a recent order of the committee to re-establish rates made in compliance with a former order, which was issued after hearing a complaint of discrimination made by the Eau Claire, Wis., board of trade. The road complained that it could not comply on account of the tariffs of competing lines between various lumber points in Wisconsin. The hearing is to determine whether the road's contention is well founded.

Among the other cases to be investigated are the following: James McMillan & Co., of Minneapolis, against many roads for alleged discrimination against them in carrying machine compressed scoured wool; American Warehousemen's association vs. Illinois Central on charges of allowing certain shippers free storage facilities; Sidney Race vs. Chicago & Northwestern railroad for alleged refusal to allow him to carry parcels on the road's trains; Fred H. Clarke vs. Northern Pacific, on the ground of existing excessive rates on wine from San Francisco to Missouri river points; the Cattle Raisers Association of Texas vs. the Ft. Worth & Denver regarding the terminal or switching charges at Chicago.

The Grain Shippers Association of Northwestern Iowa also has a complaint against the Illinois Central railroad for alleged unreasonable rates on wheat and other cereals between Chicago and Missouri river points; A. J. Gustin vs. the Burlington & Missouri, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe and Illinois Central railroads for alleged overcharges on various articles of freight between many points; and charges of many grain shippers in the Northwest against the Chicago & West Indiana, that the road is imposing unreasonable charges between Chicago and New York and other Atlantic points.

PIPE TRUST.

Important Case Commences at Nashville Tomorrow.

Washington, May 25.—An important anti-trust case, the decision of which will have a material bearing upon the disposition of the governmental action against the Joint Traffic association, will be tried by the circuit court of appeals for the Sixth Judicial circuit at Nashville, Tenn., commencing Wednesday. The trust which the government is after is called "the pipe trust," although it is officially known as the Associated Pipe works. The association has six members, the Eddyston Pipe and Steel company, of Cincinnati; Dennis Long & Co., of Louisville; South Pittsburg company, of South Pittsburg, Tenn.; Chattanooga company, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Anniston company, of Anniston, Ala., and the Howard Harrison company, of Bessemer, Ala.

According to the argument which will be made by the government, the combination is powerful enough to control completely the market for cast iron pipe in some portions of the United States, and to control it partially in other portions, its only rivals in the latter case being certain companies whose output enables them to compete only to a limited extent.

Justice Harlan, who, in company with Circuit Judge William H. Taft, of Cincinnati, and Horace H. Lurton, of Clarksville, Tenn., will hear the case, left this city last evening for Nashville. He was followed on a later train by Assistant Attorney General Edward B. Whitney, who has been assigned to handle the government's side of the case.

DR. PARKHURST ILL.

New York, May 25.—After struggling against it for months, Rev. Charles Parkhurst has finally succumbed to nervous prostration and is confined to his bed. His attending physician says that Dr. Parkhurst is a victim of overwork and will not be able to resume his labors for at least a week. After his winter vacation, which ended a month ago, he thought himself sufficiently recovered to take up his work again, but the work was heavier than usual. He was worn out. Dr. Parkhurst had planned to sail for Europe June 9. The physician doubts that he will be able to sail at the time he had planned.

Thousands of men in every walk of life all over the world are playing a desperate game with Death for an opponent. They are playing with an opponent who has every advantage, and the outcome of the game is as certain as—Death. The man in any walk of life, who is too hard-worked, too busy, to take care of his health has only himself to blame when the final break-down comes. It is easy to keep health while one has it, but uphill work to win it back when it is lost. A man neglects a slight indigestion. Then his appetite gets poor. That's a trifle and he pays no attention to it. Then he complains of headaches and it is hard to work or think. His sleep becomes restless and he only gets troubled spells of it. He gets nervous and irritable. Everything goes wrong both at home and at business. He persists in paying no attention to his health. Then some day he breaks down. The doctor says nervous prostration or consumption as the case may be. He has been playing a game with death and has been checkmated at the weakest point.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is an unfailing cure for all disorders of the digestion, and the deadly maladies that follow in their train. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder, and nerve tonic. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption. It is an unfailing remedy for nervous prostration and exhaustion. Thousands of men have testified to their recovery under its use, after all other remedies had failed. All druggists sell it. Do not deal with a druggist who offers you a substitute for he is not only dishonest but willing to sacrifice your health and possibly your life for a few added pennies of profit.

A clear complexion. Any one can have it who keeps the blood pure. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them.

DURRANT CASE.

Another Plea For Clemency Based on Hearsay.

San Francisco, May 25.—The latest effort to induce Governor Budd to grant a replevin to Theodore Durrant comes in the announcement that John E. Purdy, a bookkeeper, has furnished proof that Juror Samuel E. Dutton had expressed the opinion that Durrant was guilty and should hang. According to Purdy's statement Dutton expressed this opinion in conversation in a saloon. Dutton says he has no recollection of this incident. An inspection of the record in the Durrant case shows that Dutton was acceptable to both sides, although he admitted having an "impression not amounting to an opinion" concerning Durrant's guilt or innocence.

GOVERNOR BUDD'S DECISION.

Sacramento, Cal., May 25.—Governor Budd has given out the statement that he would not make an announcement in the cases of Theodore Durrant and S. D. Worden, petitioners for executive clemency before Thursday or Friday of this week and that he would then make his decision known in both cases. Worden's sentence is for train wrecking during the railway strike three years ago.

A "COCKED HAT" RECORD.

Portland, Ore., May 25.—A. B. Crossman of the Multnomah Athletic club last night smashed the world's "cocked hat" bowling record, making eighty-six out of a possible ninety. Charles Fuelscher, of St. Louis, bowled a record in 1893, but the alleys on which his score was made were not constructed according to modern regulations. The Pacific Northwest record up to this time has been eighty-three, made in 1895 by Neison, of Seattle.

A WEARYING CONTEST.

San Francisco, May 25.—The sixth week of the trial of the Angus-Craven case, now the main fight of the Fair case, has been begun, and bids fair to prove as monotonously weary as those which have preceded it. Expert Max Gumpel resumed his testimony and although the jury had photographic copies of each and all the exhibits the witness was required to explain each letter of the various documents introduced more minutely, and explain the innumerable discrepancies which he claimed to have discovered.

MRS. MOFFAT WANTS $50,000.

San Francisco, May 25.—Mrs. Margaret Moffat has brought suit in the superior court to recover damages in the sum of $50,000 from her husband's father for alleged alienation of affection and has instituted proceedings against her husband to compel him to support her. She alleges that she has twice been married to W. Moffat, but that each time her father-in-law has induced his son to desert her.

Closing Session of the May Anniversaries Held in Pittsburg.

Most Satisfactory Meeting Held For Years---Rev. Mr. Cossum Sat Alone.

Wisconsin Women Report a Marked Temperance Boom in the Badger State.

Pittsburg, May 25.—The final session of the North American Baptist May anniversaries, which have been going on in the Fourth Avenue Baptist church of this city since May 1, began at 10 o'clock this morning. The delegates in attendance say that the anniversaries just held have been the most profitable and enthusiastic of any held for years. Before the meeting was formally opened all foreign missionaries, with one exception, were invited to seats on the platform.

The exception was Rev. W. H. Cossum, of China, who yesterday caused a sensation by his remarks on John A. Rockefeller. Whether the omission was accidental or intentional is not known. Mr. Cossum occupied a seat close to the front and there was a rather set expression on his face.

After devotional exercises Rev. H. P. Cochrane, of Burmah, and W. H. Leslie, M.D., of the African mission, gave interesting accounts of the mission work in their respective fields.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Fifteen thousand people attended the Ontario Jockey club races at Toronto yesterday. The winners were: Morpheus, Mordecai, Tragedian, Thorncliffe, Fiddle, Lion Heart.

Ex-Congressman P. V. Deuster, of Milwaukee, editor of the Seebote and at present consul at Crefeld, Germany, was robbed of $581 while returning to this country on a furlough last week. He left his pocketbook under the pillow in his stateroom on the Friesland and when he returned to his room, the money was missing.

Tommy Ryan, of Syracuse, knocked out Pat Raedy, of Washington, in six rounds before the Olenzl Athletic club at Rochester, New York, last night. The bout was a hot one while it lasted. In the sixth round Ryan simply smothered his opponent, sending rights and lefts all over the head and face. Raedy went down three times and the third time his seconds threw up the sponge.

At Orilla, Ont., yesterday, Gaudaur defeated Rogers by three lengths in the race for the sculling championship today. The time was slow.

At Cleveland, Ohio, Tom Jenkins, of Cleveland, last night defeated W. L. Malone, of Chicago, the heavy weight champion wrestler of the Northwest. The match was best two falls in three. Jenkins won the first fall in three and a half minutes and the second in three minutes. Jenkins has gone to Chicago to seek a match with "Farmer" Burns.

At Fort Wayne, Ind., yesterday, four workmen employed by the city were engulfed in quicksand. Three of them were killed.

A 10-round go between Jim Watts (colored), of Louisville, and Peter Peterson, the "Terrible Swede," of Chicago, was stopped in Louisville last night at the end of the fifth round by the police, who declared it too brutal. Referee Frank McCouth gave the decision to Watts.

Philip McEthon, recently convicted of taking valuable documents from the congressional library at Washington, was sentenced to pay a fine of $200.

The retiring United States ambassador at Paris, James B. Eustis, drove to the Elysee palace yesterday and presented his respects to President Faure.

The president, on the suggestion of Secretary Alger is considering the plan of assigning an officer from the commissary department of the regular army to take charge of the assembling of relief supplies for Americans in Cuba. This department is trained in the handling of supplies and has advantages in contracting for large quantities of necessaries.

STATE SUPREME COURT.

A Decision of Interest to Many Duluth People.

St. Paul, May 25.—According to a supreme court ruling the chances are that the State bank of Duluth, or the assignee, A. D. Davidson, will have to return to John Lundberg, of Duluth, some valuable property that the bank acquired from him under foreclosure while he was insane.

The supreme court holds that the foreclosure is not void, because the mortgage was made while Lundberg was sane, but that it may be voided on the ground of fraud in a court of equity and the foreclosure set aside.

It appears that Lundberg owned two lots in Duluth, free of incumbrance and valued at $10,000. Solomon Lundberg owned a lot also worth $10,000, but incumbered with a $2000 mortgage. The two Lundbergs gave one Hooper a mortgage on the three lots to secure a debtor loan of $4000. The mortgage passed from one hand to another until finally in 1892, three years after the mortgage was given, John Lundberg became insane and remained in that condition until Oct. 1, 1895. Then the trustees foreclosed the mortgage, and when the year of redemption had expired had an employe named Turner bid in the two lots owned by Lundberg for $1000. It has been shown that the bank induced trustees to foreclose the mortgage at the time it did for the purpose of getting the property at this low figure, knowing that on account of his insanity Lundberg would be unable to redeem the property, while, if he had been sane and able to transact business he would have been amply able to do so. The lower court is reversed.

In the case of Kate C. Kern, respondent, against James S. Field, Justice Canty affirms the decision of the lower court, and says that when Field's wife got an absolute divorce from him he forfeited his dower right in her property, which they had previously occupied together as a homestead, and that he is not allowed to hang around the hotel now run by his sister-in-law, leaving his board bills unpaid and driving patronage away to the rival hotel.

Patrick Kelly, who got out of the Rochester insane asylum on a writ of habeas corpus some time ago, will have to go back

The order of the lower court is reversed and a new trial granted in the case of George Hamberg, respondent, against the St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance company, appellant.

Other decisions: William Conroy, respondent, against A. H. Ferree, defendant, Thomas E. Thomnson et al, garnishee. A. G. Englund, claimant and intervenor. Judgment affirmed. W. J. Jennison et al, appellants, against O. L. Thompson, respondent. Order reversed.

CHURCH GETS THE MOST.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 25.—A petition for the probate of the will of Mrs. Winifred Martin, ex-Governor Downey's sister, who died in Balimore on May 4 last, was filed yesterday. The deceased, who was 74 years old, left a half-sister, Mrs. Eleanor Martin, and half a dozen nephews. The old lady's estate in Los Angeles, San Bernardino, River and San Diego counties alone is valued at $300,000. Among her legates are Archbishop Gibbons, of Baltimore, Rev. P. J. Donahue, bishop of Wheeling, W. Va.; seven Roman Catholic schools in Maryland and the District of Columbia, a long list of Roman Catholic divines, eleven charitable institutions and people in this city and San Francisco. None of the relatives are named, except Mrs. Martin and some of the nephews and nieces in San Francisco.

DIED VERY SUDDENLY.

Seattle, Wash., May 25.—In the mountains six miles from Skyomisch and three miles from a trail, Charles W. Frisbee, general auditor of the Peninsula railroad, fell dead of heart disease Sunday afternoon. Frisbee was a native of Plymouth, Mich., where his father still lives. He leaves a wife and three children.

IN THE DAKOTAS.

NORTH DAKOTA.

While the south side of tree claims and clumps of trees near Devil's Lake are well along in summer vegetation and are in full leaf, on the north sides of very many of those sheltered places there are still great drifts and mounds of snow. In many cases these drifts are six and eight feet deep and melting very slowly. They were from thirty to forty feet deep at the close of winter and have kept the temperature so low and the ground in their immediate vicinity so moist with cold water vegetation has come on very slowly. The trees on the north sides of these groves are still hardly showing any signs of summer, and it is a very easy thing for one to pass from summer to very early spring in this part of North Dakota at the present time.

Frost was reported in several sections of the state Monday night.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Jan Travaleck, who was probably the oldest person living in the state, died a few days ago at his home near Tabor in Bon Homme county. He was born in Bohemia in 1798, and had lived in Dakota for more than twenty years.

Papers at Miller report that in many of the gulches where the snow was piled to immense depths last winter, there are yet piles of snow several feet deep, in many places the gulches were filled entirely full and the immense body of snow which was packed in is very slow to melt, and it will be some time yet before it all disappears.

A heavy frost Monday night made ice a quarter of an inch thick in open vessels at Watertown. Gardens are much damaged and grain put back. Corn was generally cut down, but will recover.

A PHOTOGRAPHING TELESCOPE.

The photographing telescope has been under construction for three years past by Sir Henry Grubb, of Berlin. The new photographic refractor has an object glass twenty-six inches in diameter, with a focal length of twenty-two feet six inches, and is the largest refractor as yet specially made for photographic purposes, says the Chicago Tribune. The photographs it will take will be on twice the scale of the astrographic map—two millimetres to one minute of arc—and on account of its relatively short focal length it will possess very great light-gathering power. For separating close double stars and in other cases in which a larger scale is desirable and there is abundance of light, an enlarging lens can be readily adapted to magnify the image to any extent that may be thought advantageous. The function of the twelve and three-quarter-inch Merz refractor, which is mounted as a guiding telescope, is to enable the observer to watch the star during the time it is being photographed, and by means of the delicate slow motions in right ascension and declination to bring the image back to the center of the sensitive plate as represented by the cross of spider lines, should the telescope in spite of all precautions fail to keep precise time with the star. Everything included, the telescope weighs some ten or twelve tons, about half the amount being accounted for by the moving parts. The object glass of the large refractor weighs, with the cell in which it is mounted, about 250 pounds, the flint disk being 160 pounds and the crown ninety-two pounds. The mirror of the reflector weighs, with its cell, about 50 pounds and the attached spectroscope about 180 pounds.

A NEWFOUNDLAND FOG.

A Newfoundland fog is frequently so thick that for the bowsprit of a vessel to be seen emerging from the mist whilst not a trace of the masts or hull is perceptible is as common as is the spectacle of a vessel, the topmasts of which are baking in the sunshine whilst the crew below cannot see from stem to stern.

WOULD NOT BALANCE.

A bookkeeper in a local wholesale house has been spending sleepless nights for three weeks in fruitless efforts to make his books balance. There was an apparent shortage of $900 that could not be accounted for, says the San Francisco Post. He added up columns and struck balances until he was almost insane. He finally worked himself into that frame of mind that usually lands a man in Canada, the insane asylum or a suicide's grave, when the manager of the house invited his confidence. Then they went over the books together, but the $900 shortage was still there.

The head of the house was called in and the work of overhauling accounts commenced again. They had not gone far till they came to an entry of $1000.

"Why, that should be $1000," declared the employer. "How did it happen to be entered $1900?"

A careful examination showed that a fly had been smashed between the pages of the cash book and one leg made a tail of the first cypher of the $1000 entry, converting it into a 9.

FISH THAT SPINS SILK.

A queer little shell-fish known as the "pinna," lives in the Mediterranean, and has the curious power of spinning a viscid silk, which is made in Sicily into a regular and very handsome fabric, says the Cincinnati Enquirer. This silk is spun by the shell-fish, in the first place, for the purpose of attaching itself to the rocks. It is able to guide the delicate filaments to the proper place, and there glue them fast, and if they are cut away it can reproduce them. The material, when gathered —which is done at low tide—is washed in soap-and-water, dried, straightened, and carried, one pound of the coarse filament yielding about three ounces of the fine thread, which, when spun, is of a lovely burnished, golden-brown color.

BEARISH

The Wheat Market Ruled Easier Today and the Price Declined.

Most of the Day's News Was in the Bears' Favor.

Declines Reported In the Markets at Liverpool and at Paris.

The wheat market opened lower than yesterday's closing figures. The news was of a mixed character, the chief support of the market coming from a 1 franc advance in the French country markets, equivalent to about a 3-cent advance. On the other hand Liverpool and Berlin were lower and Northwest receipts were heavy, 852 cars against 622 last week and 544 the year before. The market was steadied by reports of frost in Indiana and Michigan. This firmness was shaken when the St. Louis market broke to 1 cent per bus below the price it closed at yesterday, and New York sent dispatches about the same time claiming a decline at Paris equal to 1¼ cent per bus. Minneapolis reported 56,000 barrels of flour sold yesterday by two milling firms, about one-half of which it was said was for export. The actual decrease in Chicago stocks of wheat last week were 170,000 bus more than the 830,000 bus estimated yesterday by the inspection department.

Chicago received only twelve carloads and 15,000 bus were inspected out of store. Closing cables gave the net declines for the day at Liverpool at 1d each for May and ½d for September. Paris was unchanged for September, December, and 5 centimes higher for May. Antwerp 12½ centimes lower and Berlin ¼ mark lower. Bradstreet's which was expected to show a decrease in the world's receipts from the week of about 1,500,000 bus, reported only 736,000 bus decrease, the falling off in this country east of the Rockies being 2,495,000 bus, and the increase in and afloat for Europe 1,759,000 bus. It can be seen that the most of the day's news was in favor of the bears.

July wheat opened here 1c lower at 70¾c, reacted to 73¾c, but weakened and sold down to 72¾c with dull trading. The close was with buyers at 72¾c, a decline of 2c for the day. Shippers bought 30,000 bus of cash stuff at 1c over July. The mills were bidding ½c over, but got no wheat. Following were the closing prices: Wheat—No. 1 hard cash, 74¾c; May, 74¾c; No. 1 northern, cash, 73¾c; May, 73¾c; July, 72¾c bid; September 69c bid. No. 2 northern, 71¾c. No. 3, 69¾@70¾c. Rejected, 59@65c. To arrive—No. 1 hard, 74¾c. No. 1 northern, 73¾c. Rye, 24½c. No. 2 oats, 2½c; No. 3 oats, 2½c. Flax, etc.

Car inspection—Wheat, 647; corn, 11; oats, 17; rye, 6; barley, 57; flax, 29. Receipts—Wheat, 226,396; oats, 113,781; rye, 722; barley, 11,989; flax, 6895. Shipments—Wheat, 121,756.

THE FLOUR STATEMENT.

Chicago, May 25.—Hogs, official receipts yesterday, 19,458; shipments, 7924. Cattle, receipts, 13,106; shipments, 5227. Sheep, receipts 16,231; shipments, 5243. Estimated receipts hogs tomorrow, 35,000. Estimated receipts hogs today, 28,000; left over, 2000; market fairly active to a shade lower. Light, $3.50@3.75; mixed, $3.55@3.72½; heavy, $3.50@3.70; rough, $3.30@3.45. Cattle—Receipts, 2000; market quiet and steady. Beeves, $2.50@5.10. Cows and heifers, $2.00@4.40. Texas steers, $3.10@4.35. Stockers and feeders, $3.15@3.85. Sheep, receipts, 12,000. Market steady.

THE LIVERPOOL MARKET.

Liverpool, May 25.—Close—Wheat: Spot, firm; futures, steady. May, 5s 10½d, unchanged; July, 5s 10½d, unchanged; September, 5s 9¾d, ½d higher. Corn, dull; futures, quiet; May, 2s 7½d, unchanged; June, 2s 7½d, unchanged; July, 2s 8¼d, ¼d lower; September, 2s 9¾d, unchanged.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Minneapolis, May 25.—Wheat, weak; May, 73¾@74c; July, 70¾@71c; September, 63¾@63¾c; No. 1 hard, 73¾c; No. 1 northern, 72¾c. Receipts, 186 cars.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of H. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 307 Board of Trade.

Chicago, May 25.—Wheat opened slightly firmer, but at the highest price of the day. Weather conditions appear to be against any permanent advance and a nervous feeling prevails among traders, which makes them anxious to secure even small profits. The market sold off to the put price at the close on the selling of a large line held by a local operator and free realizing by the trade, which had been almost unanimously bullish early in the day. The Northwest movement is very large and likely to continue so for some time. The milling and shipping demand here seems to have died out entirely, and we do not look for much if any this month. Export business at seaboard is rather small, and the world's visible, though showing large domestic decrease, made a poor total on account of large increase in European stocks. Shipments from Duluth are very heavy, which is probably a reason for the let up here. St. Louis led us in weakness, probably on the glowing accounts from Southwest fields. We have advices today from Texas that the crop will be up to move by the middle of June and be the biggest in their history. The market today absorbed an immense amount of wheat, and any further decline would likely be stubbornly contested as it was today.

Corn and oats weak on large receipts and free selling for country account.

Provisions also weak and lower. The English packers who sustained the market so long, appear to be willing to let it take care of itself.

Puts, July wheat, 70c bid@69⅞c.

Calls, July wheat, 71⅝c@71¾-¼c.

Curb, July wheat, 70½c bid.

PRODUCE MARKET.

Duluth broke its berry record this morning in jobbing of strawberries. The first full carload of the season was received from Lacoxie, Mo., by Fitzsimmons-Derrig company, and the 600 cases which it contained were sold to various retailers in thirty-five minutes after unloading. All the dealers had nice berries and plenty of green stuff, and prices fell away down.

DULUTH QUOTATIONS.

Note—The quotations below are for goods which change hands in lots on the open market; in filling orders, in order to secure best goods for shipping and to cover cost incurred, an advance over jobbing prices has to be charged. The figures are changed daily.

The Bane of Beauty.

Beauty's bane is the fading or falling of the hair. Luxuriant tresses are far more to the matron than to the maid whose casket of charms is yet unrifled by time. Beautiful women will be glad to be reminded that falling or fading hair is unknown to those who use

Ayer's Hair Vigor.

WEST END

The Hugo Iron Works Contract Will Be Completed Next Month.

Will Be Operated Longer If it Gets the New Contract.

Complaints Being Entered Against Bicycle Scorchers -- Dog Hunt Begins.

The contract of the Hugo iron works for about three miles of large steel force main pipes for the city waterworks plant will be completed next month, and unless further contracts are received the plant will be closed and a large number of men thrown out of employment. The council at its meeting last night decided to readvertise for bids for the 36-inch pipe, and if this contract goes to the Hugo company it will insure the operation of the works for another three or four months.

COMPLAIN AGAINST SCORCHERS.

Considerable complaint is being made because of the practice of wheelmen in riding on sidewalks, to the great annoyance of pedestrians. Scorchers, too, have been abusing the good nature of the people of West Duluth, and persist in wheeling at break-neck speed, regardless of the nerves of any who may happen to be on the street. Lieut. Briggs, who has within the past few weeks developed into a skillful rider, has been apealed to to put his newly acquired accomplishment to practical use and run down some of the wheelmen who are violating the ordinances and making themselves obnoxious to the general public.

ON THE WARPATH.

Frank Freddell, jailer at the West Duluth station, started out today on a dog-hunting expedition. He will have either the money which represents the tax levied upon each and every canine inhabitant of the West End or he will have the hide of the dog where owners refuse to settle up. Many dogs who have been permitted to run at large are now being kept in close confinement, while their masters are rustling for the amount necessary to save their lives.

MISS PRESCOTT'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Miss Elsie Prescott was held at the family residence in West Duluth at 2 o'clock this afternoon. It was largely attended by friends of the family and young people who were the friends and associates of Miss Prescott and with whom she was exceedingly popular. The services were conducted by Dr. Robert Forbes. There were many floral offerings, the casket being literally covered with beautiful flowers. The remains, accompanied by the surviving members of the family, will be sent to Marinette, Wis., on the Omaha train at 5:15 this afternoon. The interment will be made in the family lot at Marinette, which was the home of Mr. Prescott and family before their removal to Duluth a few years ago.

HAS NOT TAKEN PLACE.

W. E. Lawrence, whose marriage to Miss Emma W. Kretschmer is announced to take place June 9, was very much annoyed today at reading in the morning paper that the wedding occurred yesterday. He says that if he is married he does not know it. Congratulations have been pouring in on him at a lively rate today because of his reported nuptials, and while he is pleased at these evidences of friendship for him, he prefers that they be reserved until they are opportune.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

To the Public!

Attention is called to an act of the legislature approved April 21, 1897, relating to school meetings in common school districts:

"Sec. 3678—The officers of each common school district shall be a director, a treasurer and a clerk, who shall be elected by ballot at the annual meeting which shall be held on the third Saturday in June, of each year," etc.

The last section of the law is:

"Sec. 3—This act shall take effect and be in force on and after the first day of January, 1898."

A letter of inquiry to the state superintendent of public instruction brought the reply that the annual meetings this year will be held as usual on the third Saturday in July.

THE WEATHER.

United States Agricultural Department, Weather Bureau, Duluth. Synopsis of weather conditions for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 a. m. (Central time), May 25, 1897.—A high pressure area has moved eastward from the Dakotas, and is now central over the upper lake region, where it was attended last night by frosts in Eastern Minnesota, Wisconsin, Upper Michigan, and as far south as Chicago. Fair weather has been general, except local showers in Rocky mountain districts, where the conditions are dominated by a low pressure area extending from the Saskatchewan valley to Colorado. The eastward advance of this depression has caused a marked rise in temperature in the Missouri and Red River valleys and Manitoba during the past twenty-four hours.

Duluth temperature at 7 a. m. today, 41; maximum yesterday, 55; minimum yesterday, 35.

Local forecast for Duluth and vicinity: Generally fair tonight; showers Wednesday; northeast and east winds, becoming fresh to brisk.

JAMES KENEALY,
Local Forecast Official.

Chicago, May 25.—Forecast until 8 p. m. tomorrow: Fair and warmer tonight; Wednesday, increasing cloudiness and warmer, with showers in extreme west portion; fresh southeast winds. For Minnesota: Fair and warmer tonight; Wednesday, showers with warmer in east portion; brisk southeast winds.

THE TARIFF BILL.

The consideration of the tariff bill began in the senate today, it having been decided by the Democratic senatorial caucus not to oppose the immediate opening of the discussion or to unduly prolong the debate. Senator Gorman has said that the Democrats will be content with a fair discussion of the measure, and to this there can be no legitimate objection. Naturally the Democrats do not approve all the features of the bill, and it could not reasonably be expected that they would silently permit its passage. They will briefly and calmly give their reasons for opposing it and then vote against it. With the votes of Senator Kyle and the Silver Republicans in the senate, who are all protectionists, the Republicans can pass the bill, providing there is no defection in their own ranks, and there is none visible at present. It is certain, however, that the bill will be further amended, and that some of the schedules reported by the finance committee will be changed. The sugar schedule can hardly pass in its present form, as several Republican senators are understood to be strongly opposed to it. It is believed the $2 duty on lumber, which was retained by the finance committee, will not be changed, although there is a possibility that it may fall by the wayside, owing to the strong pressure brought to bear upon Senator Kyle by the people of South Dakota. Largely signed petitions from that state, requesting that lumber be put on the free list, have been forwarded to Senator Kyle, and it is said that he is much perplexed as to the best course to pursue.

The opening speech for the friends of the bill was made today by Senator Aldrich on behalf of the finance committee. Everyone will agree with his statement that the tariff bill passed at this session should be framed so that it will insure a greater degree of permanence to our tariff legislation. There is no question that the frequent changes in the tariff are detrimental to the business interests of the country, and that a permanent tariff would be highly beneficial. Senator Aldrich claims that the senate committee framed the bill with this object in view, and that, while not losing sight of the demand for a protective tariff, they lowered many of the duties below the figures of the house bill and below the old McKinley law.

Senator Aldrich also contends that this is a revenue-producing bill, and in this connection he emphasizes the necessity of the duty on tea and the increased internal revenue taxes. His estimate is that the customs receipts and internal revenue taxes provided by this bill, together with the postal and miscellaneous receipts of the government, will furnish a total revenue of $469,671,076 for the next fiscal year, and that, as the secretary of the treasury estimates the total expenditures during that period at $466,946,047, there will be a surplus of $2,725,028. The duty on tea is estimated to produce $8,000,000 ,and Senator Aldrich says that without this revenue and the increased taxes on beer, tobacco and cigars there would be a deficit of over $29,000,000 instead of the surplus mentioned above. It is doubtful, however, whether the increase in these taxes will be made, because the Democrats will oppose them on the ground that they are unnecessary and there are some Republicans who are not favorable to it.

One thing seems to be certain, and this is that the debate on the bill will not be unnecessarily prolonged, and for this blessing the country will be thankful.

CALIFORNIA'S TORRENS LAW.

A law following closely the lines of the Torrens system of land transfer will go into effect in California on July 1 of this year, and as there is likely to be considerable attention paid to this subject in the next legislative elections in this state, a synopsis of the California law will be of interest. The bill provides that any person owning land may have that land registered by filing a petition in the superior court. This petition must set forth, besides his name, occupation and address, the description of the land and the estate claimed therein, the names, addresses and the estate claimed by any other persons interested in the land, and the names and addresses of adjoining owners. An abstract of title is also furnished and referred to an attorney of at least three years' standing in the court. Upon an unfavorable report by the referee, the judge may order the action dismissed, or he may proceed with the hearing. Upon the day set the persons mentioned in the petition appear in court and evidence is presented, upon which the judge enters a decree declaring in whom the fee simple title stands and the holder of lesser estates, including all liens or incumbrances. This decree is filed in the office of the county recorder, who is made registrar of titles by the act, and he issues in duplicate a certificate of title, setting forth the facts of the decree. The duplicate certificate is issued to the owner of the land, and certified copies may be issued to the holders of lesser estates. The original is retained by the registrar, and upon it he enters all subsequent changes of less than the whole title. Persons acquiring any interest in the property, whether by mortgage, lien or tax deed, must register it against the title, and thus a complete record of the status of the property is kept at all times.

When the interest is under a tax sale, notices are sent to all persons interested in the land, and tax deeds do not pass title until after a decree of the court, notice of the hearing having been sent to all those registered as owning any estate in the property involved. The person to whom a certificate of title is issued is deemed conclusively to be the owner of the property, unless it can be proven that he was guilty of fraud, and no interest in the property against his can be obtained by adverse possession, however long continued. If the certificate of title is lost or destroyed in any way, a duplicate can be issued by the registrar, upon order of the court after full hearing.

The property being thus registered, practically all difficulties of transfer are removed. The title may be passed to another by a simple endorsement upon the certificate of title, or a deed, and the certificate may be filed with the registrar, whereupon a new certificate in duplicate, is issued in the name of the buyer, and the old certificate is marked "cancelled." Where only a portion of the property is transferred, two certificates may be issued, and where only an interest is transferred, the fact may be noted on the original and duplicate certificates of the owner.

There are many other provisions in the act, relating to the special conditions of trustees, executors and similar relationships, but they are of greater interest to the lawyer than to the layman. It is sufficient to say to the latter that the certificate of title to land is treated like a certificate of stock in a corporation, and can be as easily transferred.

A Washington dispatch says that evidence in support of claims for indemnity against Spain is accumulating at the state department. When the Cleveland administration went out the reported losses of American citizens in Cuba amounted to about $19,000,000. As the result of a widespread impression that this administration is to apply a more vigorous policy, claimants have been active since March in presenting details and affidavits. The aggregate of losses of which the government now has official knowledge is considerably over $25,000,000. This, however, represents not more than half of the amount which will be involved, it is expected, when the attempt is made to press the subject formally upon the attention of Spain.

Mrs. William Caynor, who was the oldest resident of Greene county and perhaps the oldest woman in Missouri, died recently at Stratford at the age of 100 years. Mrs. Caynor's age was not so remarkable as the number of her descendants. She was the mother of thirteen children, and three years ago she had 295 grandchildren, great and great-great-grandchildren living. At the time of her death she weighed 220 pounds and had been an inveterate smoker for sixty years.

While King George of Greece was staying at the Park hotel at Weisbaden he noticed a window pane upon which his father, the king of Denmark, had cut his name with a diamond. King George took off his own diamond ring and engraved his name below his father's. A few hours afterward the czar saw the window and immediately cut his name. Then came the kaiser, who added his name to those of the other royalties.

An Indiana banker is in jail on the charge of forgery, embezzlement and willful misappropriation of the bank's funds. An alleged friend has issued a statement in which it is asserted that the banker was forced to the act in order to save the name of his father, who had failed, but whose failure was alone known to the son. The banker who will resort to forgery and embezzlement in order to save his father's reputation must have a very perverted sense of honor. It is worse than no excuse.

On June 3, after several months of suspended animation, the Mesaba Range, published at Biwabik by Ransom Metcalfe, who in addition to being editor is also postmaster and justice of the peace, will be revived. Mr Metcalfe always published a bright, readable and vigorous newspaper, and the Mesaba Range is deserving of patronage by all who are interested in the development of the country. It claims to have been the first newspaper in St. Louis county to advocate the taxation of mining properties in the same manner as other real property, thus increasing the county revenue and causing a reduction of taxes this year. Those who have thus been benefited will naturally have a kindly feeling for the Range, but Editor Metcalfe would be better pleased to also have their names on his subscription list.

Speaker Reed, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, well knows that until he appoints the committees his power is practically absolute, and his control over legislation is in fact absolute. That is why he does not appoint the committees, and that is why, like cravens, the members of the house acquiesce in a despotism which is disgraceful to themselves and which brings scandal upon republican institutions.

The Troy, N. Y., Times says: "The summer vacation has become a fixture in modern life. When the sun begins to throw rays that are too ardent for comfort the mind reverts to the shaded nooks of woodland, the breeze-cooled hills or the surf-washed shore, and where the mind leads the body soon follows." Always provided, however, that the body has the price.

The morning paper is always publishing alleged interviews with "a prominent railway man," who appears to know all the business of all the roads in the Northwest. The name of such an all-wise individual should not be concealed from the public. He should receive the fame that is his due.

Why does not President McKinley hasten the foreclosure of the Union Pacific mortgage? It was supposed it would be foreclosed six months before President Cleveland's term ended, but nothing was done, and now President McKinley has been in office three months and the matter still lags.

Mr. Lyman, formerly the president of the civil service commission, has just taken the examination himself and received a marking of 98.47 per cent out of a possible 100. This was preliminary to his appointment as chief of the stationery division.

So many officeseekers beset President McKinley during his recent trip to Philadelphia that he has determined not to make any more trips unless guaranteed immunity from such annoyance.

APPRECIATED COURTESY.

A good story is told of a dog that one day discovered an organ-grinder's monkey seated upon a bank within his master's grounds and at once made a spring for it, says the London Times. The monkey, which was attired in jacket and hat, awaited the onset in tranquility so undisturbed that the dog halted within a few feet of it to reconnoiter. The animals took along stare at each other, but the dog was evidently recovering from his surprise, and was about to make a spring for the intruder, when the monkey raised his paw and saluted by lifting his hat. The effect was magical. The dog's head and tail dropped and he sneaked off to the house, refusing to leave it until his polite, but mysterious visitor had departed.

A TRUCE TO WAR.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: The powers must now address themselves to the task of making terms between the combatants, which will produce a fresh crop of difficulties. As a main result of the war Turkey has been strengthened, and more than ever is an element dangerous to the peace of Europe.

Indianapolis Journal: At present Turkey is master of the situation, and with her suddenly developed military strength, is in a position to enforce her demand to the full extent or plunge Europe into war. This is the situation which the powers have brought about by coddling Turkey, shutting their eyes to the Armenian atrocities and permitting if not encouraging the invasion of Greece.

Philadelphia Record: The most shameful aspect o fthe situation is the reversal of relative positions of the powers of civilization and of the barbarian who reigns at Constantinople. It is the Turk who now has assumed the making of conditions, and the powers find themselves reduced to the making of protests, exceptions and requests for leniency on the part of their antagonist. Who would have believed a few weeks ago that Europe would ever again be subjected to the humiliation of receiving ultimatums from the Turk? But the sultan's insolent proposal amounts to an announcement that the Ottoman army will advance on Athens if his conditions shall be rejected.

Philadelphia Ledger: Jove had thundered and the sultan was in such woeful plight that he sent a pitiful special message to Lord Salisbury promising to mend his ways speedily and begging the British premier not to be too hard on him. Twenty-five thousand Armenians have been butchered since then, thanks to the concert of the powers, of which Salisbury's government is a member; Greece has been crushed, and the suppliant Turk who begged piteously for mercy is now defying the powers, "Jove's" among them. The fear that Russia and possibly other powers may be secretly playing the sultan's hand for him makes the game a dangerous one, but nevertheless it is hardly credible that any English ministry, however large its majority, could live long after being a party to any serious diminution of Greece's territory. If Turkey persists in her present course England must act, and the world will readily find out whether Salisbury is, as Bismarck long ago designated him, "not iron at all, but merely a painted lath."

ONLY WAITING.

We are waiting—only waiting—
For the promised days to come—
For they said when birds were mating
We would hear the busy hum
Of machinery put in motion,
And the shuttle and the loom
Would dispel all doubtful notion
Of McKinley's business boom.
—Louisville Dispatch.

'Tis true we now are waiting
For the promised days to come;
'Tis true, as you are stating,
That in business there's no hum;
But in answer to your cackle
We reiterate our guess,
That prosperity you'll tackle
In a twelvemonth more or less—
By the way, who mixed this mess?

Yet whose leaves fail to expand;
There are ships love sends a-sailing,

Is not wise unless you know.

A BACHELOR'S REFLECTIONS.

New York Press: No man ever gets quite as close up to God as he does when his little child is sick.

A man who will admit that he is sentimental has no more of it about him than a frog.

The average woman goes to her grave remembering what girl gave her the cheapest wedding present she got.

A girl's idea of a lovely married couple is one that always gives a party on the anniversary of the day they first met.

When a girl who has pretty feet lies down in a hammock, she always goes to lots of trouble to cover them up—and doesn't.

You can never tell how a girl looks at the breakfast table by the way she looks when she sits out on the porch in the evening.

When poverty comes in at the skylight love gets into the cyclone cellar.

Some men won't be happy in heaven because they couldn't sublet their place on earth.

When a man is angry, he keeps his lips together; when a woman is angry, she shows her teeth.

The average woman's idea of wifely affection is to have a certain hour in the day when she thinks of her husband.

Heaven is a place where a man will always be just as hungry when he begins his dessert as he was when he finished his soup.

The fact that a man always dresses in black and never buys loud ties is no proof that he doesn't wear baby blue underclothes and yellow garters.

MILIONS OF BOTTLES.

An association that handles over 6,000,000 mineral water bottles, 41,826 boxes, 22,502 siphons and 420 casks in the year must have its hands pretty full most of the time, says St. James' Budget. This, however, is the record of the Mineral Water Bottle Exchange and Trade Proctection association (limited), as mentioned by E. S. Prick, the chairman, at the annual dinner of the corporation. That society was founded eleven years ago to facilitate the return to the owners of the vast multitude of bottles which are circulated every year in the mineral water trade. Over 300 manufacturers of non-intoxicating bottled beverages are members, and their exchange or clearing house is situated at Blackfriars. The dues charged for the capture and restoration of "strayed bottles" in 1896 resulted in a profit of 400 pounds, as against a deficit of 213 pounds for the preceding year.

OUR OWN STEVE CRANE.

Chicago Daily News: Blood, red blood, dripping, dripping, ceaselessly. Crimson waves flowing, flowing. Dark purple spots, clotted agonies. The past rising in stifled yearnings—voiceless. Shrieks unmurmured, disappointment, mutterings and rustlings. Restless flashings, absinthe-colored, flaring wildly.

The butcher wrapped up the round steak and the liverwurst in the same package and the young man, bachelored it with the aid of an oil steve, paid his little old 9 cents and went.

Voices in the night. Coarse, brawling, flaring through darkness in crimson laughters. Babel, loud strains, music, song, joy, unuttered—dismal—hopeless.

Silence. Flaming lights shining sadly; grotesque shadows, weird flames of passion, lurid gleaming through green, sallow, terror-jaded eyes.

"Ha-ha," reckless glee, untuned, unrhythmed, lost.

And the copper on the beat looked into the downtown saloon, smiled and wot not it was after 12 o'clock.

A man pursued a vision unattainable.

"The fair," he said. And sighed. And reached out his eyes into immeasurable distance.

"Hopeless," he said. And pulled them back again. The vision disappeared. She had him faded.

And he was next discovered writing poetry.

The brazen sun beat fiercely down. It didn't beat anything in particular, but just raced around, tied the writhing landscape up into hard knots, chased all the cool shade into the next county and made things hot for the man.

"Oh-h," it shrieked madly, "I have you beat."

And the man sighed.

"Deadbeat," he said. And did.

He was.

A HUSBAND WANTED.

The queen regent of Spain has a marriageable daughter on her hands, says the Boston Herald. Mercedes, princess of the Austrias, is now 17, and propositions for her hand have been already considered at Spanish court. For six months before the birth of the king, Mercedes, who was named for the first wife of her father, was a daisy queen of Spain. But little Alphonso XIII appeared on the scene, and she was given a back seat. It but a sorry outlook for the two girls who were born to Queen Christina before this little son. Mercedes, being the elder, should marry first, but she is not pretty, and Spain being in a terrible financial condition, the chances for a speedy alliance for her are slim. The second daughter is sweet 16, and quite an attractive little person. The princess of the Asturias rides a bicycle, and tries to have as good a time as she can under the circumstances, but matters are mighty unsarin for the royal family, and it would not be the strangest thing in the world if some day they packed up and went to Paris for a long stay.

CHEERY CHAT.

Yonkers Statesman: Mrs. Y.—My daughter is a promising musician.

Mr. C.—Well, get her to promise that she won't sing any more.

Indianapolis Journal: "I surely had a royal and noble time," said he, recapitulating.

"I had four kings, and in the row that ensued I had to put up my dukes, and the upshot of it all was that I was indicted on three counts."

Philadelphia Record: Even the healthiest fisherman may have lines under his eyes.

Chicago Record: "My daughter has earned a big commission, but I suppose she can't collect it."

"How did she earn it?"

"Since she began her vocal lessons every neighbor on the block has bought a wheel."

Detroit Journal: "Yes," she answered. "That little word," he exclaimed, "raises me to the seventh heaven of bliss!"

She looked into his rapture-lit eyes.

"Only the seventh?" she mused. "And it is already the middle of June? Does he deceive me?"

She shivered and the ocean sobbed at her feet.

Chicago Tribune: Sporting Man—Doctor, your treatment hasn't done me any good. The $25 I paid you for advice and prescriptions was thrown away.

Physician—Well, I put that $25 on that horse that you advised me to bet on the other day, and I lost every cent of it. I think we are about even. Fine day, isn't it?

Cincinnati Enquirer: "And you promised me," she sobbed intensely, "that when we were once married you would be as steady as a clock."

"Well, hully gee!" was his impassioned answer, "ain't I? Don't I keep runnin' around allertime?"

Yet, as women are notoriously without a sense of humor, neither his innocent utterance nor his play upon words struck her as the least bit amusing.

WHEN IT IS LOVELY.

I love to hear the rattle
Of the mower on the lawn,
As it flicks away the verdant blades
The dewdrops rest upon;
It comes as sweetest music,
From every stretch and turn—
That is, of course, when some one else
Is pushing the concern.
—Cleveland Leader.

JUST HORSE SENSE.

Somerville Journal: Don't believe all you hear, but be dead sure that you believe all you say.

All that the pessomist can see in bicycling is a daily cleaning of his wheel.

A girl ought not to flirt, of course, but a girl who doesn't know how to flirt isn't worth a continental.

When a man becomes a grandfather he always looks as proud as if the credit of it all belonged to him.

The chances are that if there weren't any young men in the world, girl's wouldn't be half so particular as they are about the way they look.

If Nansen made so much money by trying without success, to find the North Pole, what wouldn't he have made if he had really found it!

THE PICTURE IN MY HEART.

In each man's soul there lives a dream
Lit by a woman's eyes,
Whose glance is like the tender gleam
That thrills the evening skies.
It is a dream that never faints
Though weal or woe befalls,
But haunts the heart, and softly paints
A picture on its walls.

It is my dream at midnight,
And in the crowded mart,
That darling face
With gentle grace—
The picture in my heart!

In each man's heart there floats a voice,
That speaks to him alone,
The voice of her, his spirit's choice,
He longs to call his own.
The days may hasten like the wind,
Or lag with sullen feet,
Some day his wondering heart will find
The face he longs to meet.

It is my dream at midnight,
Its dear eyes ne'er depart.
Oh, where is she,
My bride to be—
The picture in my heart?

Oh, some hearts range the wide world through
And through to find their mate,
And some amid the darkness rue
That they have met too late;
A wistful glance betrays to each
What neither dares to sigh;
A wedded bond forbids the speech
That's uttered by the eye.

It is my dream at midnight,
It makes my pulses start.
Oh, Fate, be kind
And let me find
The picture in my heart!

CHANCE OR DESIGN?

Detroit Free Press: He should have lived in the days of chivalry. He is so constituted that he cannot bring himself within the common-sense rules prescribed for the government of modern society, and the story of his experiences would be a big volume of romance.

"There are two events in my life," he says, "that mix me all up on the material, the spiritual and the influences that are operative in behalf of fate. At one time I was caught in the floods of the Mississippi valley. I had assisted in helping a good many, and began to believe myself a kind of storm god who could successfully defy the elements, when I was caught in the whirl one night and went booming toward the gulf with no beter prospects than that I would in the end succumb. While floating on my back and trying to be philosophical, I felt my face swept by the leaves of a tree branch, seized it with both hands, and was saved to live the remainder of my life.

"Three years later, because of experiences that made me weary of life, I was ready to cut the thread of my own existence. I had lost faith in humanity. It seemed to me that the last shred of honor, fraternity and good-will had disappeared. While I was settling my affairs, with a view to taking the eternal future into my own hands, I met a woman who restored my faith and confidence. She was good. She routed my cynicism. She put a new face on this probationary existence of ours. She gave me new views, new impulses, new ambitions. It was her fair and dimpled hand that drew me back and filled me with a desire to go on to the end. She did what the unconscious tree branch had done three years before. Can it be that the same power was not behind both acts?"

TRIUMPHS OVER DISEASE.

His Wonderful Discovery, Sparagus Kidney Pills,

Are Rapidly Achieving Marvelous Cures of All Those in and Around Duluth Who Have Been Suffering From Some Form of Kidney Disease.

It is not surprising that the public are astounded at the extraordinary cures effected by Dr. Hobbs' remarkable remedy. Kidney troubles are the most difficult of all diseases to cure, and when people, after expending a large amount of money with doctors, fail to get any permanent relief until they have used Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills, it is no wonder that these cures appear so miraculous.

The results obtained by these kidney curing pills in a few brief weeks in this city and vicinity, have been uniformly successful. No remedy for kidney troubles has ever yet approximated the curative qualities of Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills. These assertions are not made by Dr. Hobbs in a boastful manner; as the truth of them can be verified by scores of people in this vicinity who have good reasons to vouch for their correctness.

Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills have proved to be a blessing to many a family in this city, and you may have already ascertained this fact from your next door neighbor if you do not know it from your own experience.

A remedy like Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills, that is guaranteed to be a positive specific for all kidney ailments, Bright's disease, diabetes, bladder trouble, dropsy, rheumatism, gout, neuralgia, nervousness, etc., must have merit, and in this case it is backed by incontestible proofs. It would require many pages in this newspaper to record in full the glowing testimonials received from prominent citizens in this section, who have been cured by the use of Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills.

Yet the volume of testimony is daily increasing, and is coming in from persons in every grade of society, all of which goes to substantiate that Dr. Hobbs' claims are vouched for by proven facts.

Cured of Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Throopsville, N. Y., Nov. 14, 1896.

A short time ago I bought a box of Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills and took them according to directions. I found such relief from them that I can safely recommend them to anyone suffering from kidney troubles. Before taking your Sparagus Kidney Pills I had suffered a great deal with my kidneys and bladder, together with a pain in my back, although I had taken a great many different kinds of medicine. I have recommended your Sparagus Kidney Pills to others, and while I am writing this, one of my friends has gone to get a box, believing they will relieve him. Wishing you every success, I am, yours truly,

FIELD DAY SPORTS.

High School Athletic Contests Tomorrow Afternoon.

The postponed field day of the High School Athletic association will take place at the fair grounds tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, and a large attendance is expected. The wetting and subsequent drying of the track has put it in excellent shape, and the records made tomorrow should be good ones. There are eighteen events on the list and from four to a dozen entries in each event. The boys have been training assiduously for some time, and most of them are in excellent form for the event. There are good men in every event, and the field day promises to be one of the most interesting ever held.

The winners in each event will make up the field and track team which will meet the Ashland high school team at Ashland next Monday, and the Minneapolis central high school team at Minneapolis on the following Saturday. For this reason there is a great deal of rivalry among the boys who have entered for tomorrow. The lists of events, entries and officers of the day have already been published.

COUNCIL

Mayor's Veto of the Cobb Resolution Failed to Be Sustained.

D. A. Reed's Bond as City Engineer Referred For Another Week.

Discussion of the Pumphouse Contract---John Flood Confirmed.

President Cochrane was the only alderman not in his seat when the council was called to order last night by Vice President Rowley.

The first communication to be read was a veto from the mayor of the resolution refusing to pay E. R. Cobb for his work on the charter, and such a storm of motions and resolutions upon the subject was hurled at the chairman that he called upon President Cochrane, who had come in, to take the chair and see if he could find out what was going on.

Finally, after a preliminary squabble that served to foreshadow the belligerent spirit of the evening, the veto was turned down, Aldermen Shannon, Stevens and Tischer voting to sustain it. Later on in the evening the bill was referred back for a week, and the stenographer's bill for $63, included in the same resolution, was included in the same report.

The city attorney returned Mr. Reed's bond and certified that it was legally drawn. Two new sureties, M. M. Clark and Edward Fiebiger have been added to the bond since last week. It was referred to the finance committee for report next week.

The pumphouse report having been read, together with a supplementary report from the board of public works, and a proposal from Contractor Fredrickson, a long discussion ensued. The report of the expert committee, which has already been given at length in The Herald, was the one most favored. The contractor offered to reconstruct the pumphouse upon the lines of the report for $3627 above the original contract price of the building, after the contract had been altered and modified by order of the board of public works, and according to the ideas of the board he will do the work for $3627. In this latter offer, however, he includes the sum of $1700 which he claims for material that he has furnished, but which he will be unable to use under the plans of the board.

The discussion upon these reports were long and fervent. Finally a short recess was taken, and the warring factions got together. The expert report was referred back to the board of public works; that body was ordered to enter into a suitable contract for the construction of the pumphouse, according to the committee's plans, and this contract is to be sent to the council for confirmation.

John Jenswold, Jr., as attorney for C. J. Fredrickson, formally notified the council that his client would hold the city responsible for all damages and costs arising from the delay occasioned by the action of the city authorities, and the communication was referred to the waterworks committee.

H. B. Earhart's application for a rebate of taxes was granted; the bond of the American Exchange bank for $300,000 as a city depository was referred; the waterworks payrolls were passed; the application of the Canosia Lake Improvement company for permission to place telephone poles within the city limits was referred; William Pettigrew was appointed lamplighter on Park Point, and Maj. Sears' request for a warranty deed to certain lots taken for canal purposes, so as to confirm absolutely the title of the United States to the property, was acceded to.

The committee on police and license recommended the granting of a big batch of miscellaneous licenses, among which were two, granting employment agency licenses to W. H. Alexander and Frank McCreary. The former of these raised a row. It appeared that Mr. Alexander conducts his business at present under the same roof as a saloon, occupying an adjacent room. This was strongly objected to by Alderman Simpson, and after a severe verbal tussle the resolution was divided, all the licenses, except the two above-mentioned, were granted, and Alexander's case was put off for a week. In the case of McCreary there was a majority and minority report, and another animated discussion ensued, the license finally being granted.

After John Flood's appointment to the board of public works had been unanimously confirmed without a word of comment, and a short recess had been indulged in, a delegation of boilermakers repeated their complaint about the pipe laying contract. King & Steel's foreman, a boilermaker of twenty years' experience, apparently refuted all the allegations made against the work being done, and Alderman Jefferson, with an earnest protest against the introduction of these details, which he said properly belonged to the board of public works, shut off the discussion, and after some more desultory talk, the matter was referred to the board of public works.

After several estimates had been allowed, and Mike Fitzgerald's trench contract had been confirmed, the bid of the Gillette-Herzog company on 36-inch steel pipe was taken from the table. The aldermen all took part in the long and dreary discussion upon the relative merits of cast iron and riveted steel pipes, which ended in instructions to the board of public works to re-advertise for bids for both kinds of pipe.

The resolution ordering 3000 feet of new fire hose, which was defeated last week, was reconsidered, and after a warm debate was passed. Alderman Jefferson, in this connection, moved that the city treasurer be instructed not to loan any more money from one fund to another, and this was finally carried.

The question of right-of-way to the pumphouse from the Duluth & Iron Range railroad provoked a very heated argument. The owners of the land have notified the railroad not to run any more cars over the spur, and have also told the city that they are trespassers. After the council had talked considerably, it was decided to refer the whole matter to the city attorney, with instructions to look up the condemnation proceedings in this matter and report.

A test vote showed that Barnum's circus could get a license for $250, instead of $500, and the ordinance cutting dray licenses in two and granting pawnbroker's a license for $100 having been rushed through, a very weary lot of aldermen adjourned after a four-hours' session.

AMUSEMENTS.

"A RAILROAD TICKET."

"A Railroad Ticket" amused a good audience at the Lyceum last evening. It is a nonsensical production without plot or story, but it moves rapidly, there is an abundance of life and action, ridiculous situations follow each other swiftly and there is plenty of music. Some of the funmakers are very clever. Louis Wesley is the life of the show and keeps the fun moving at a fast and furious pace. His dancing is very clever and he is remarkably nimble footed. Gus Pixley, of "Passing Show" fame, is with the company, and his "whistling coon" song has lost none of its old taking power. It was encored three or four times. In the characters of the collector and theater attache he is good. As the latter he has probably the toughest make no ever seen on any stage. W. P. Gould is good in specialties in the line of songs and dances. The quartet singing is also very good.

Miss Marie Stuart is the conspicuously advertised member of the female contingent of the show. Her principal work consists in endeavoring to talk a mixture of French and English and in presenting what is announced as "her original specialty which made her famous in Paris, London, South Africa and New York." It consists principally of "a rather ungraceful—and some might be inclined to say disgraceful—display of limbs in black tights. Some were mean enough to remark after the performance that the specialty ought to be kept in South Africa. The Burt sisters did some clever dancing and were recalled several times.

SHAKESPEAREAN MUSICALE.

A decided novelty in the way of entertainments was the Shakespearean musicale given last evening for the benefit of the Women's hospital at French & Bassett's store, the use of which was donated for the purpose. "The Seven Ages of Man" were presented. Mrs. d'Auttremont reading them and accompanying each was music of an appropriate character. Mrs. d'Autremont's reading was excellent and the musical numbers were delightfully rendered. To illustrate "Infancy" Mrs. Woodward sang Newcomb's "Slumber Song" and Mrs. John A. Stephenson played. The "Triumph March" was played on banjos and guitars by Messrs. Gilbert, Cook, Walbank, Chapman, Hugo, Gearhart for "The School Boy" period. Then came the lover and Mrs. James McAuliffe sang Sawyer's "Spanish Romance." "The Soldier" was next and Professor Woodward sang the stirring "Toreador Song" from "Carmen." An Aeolian solo, Beethoven's Andante from Symphony No. 5, played by C. E. Bassett, illustrated "Justice." For the "lean and slippered pantaloon" Miss Olga Lawitzky sang "Youth" by M. Helmund. The closing age was "Death" and illustrative of this Mr. Bassett gave an aeolian solo "Marionettes Funeral March" by Gounod.

A Wheelman's Tumble.

A wheelman rolled cautiously down Third avenue west about 8 o'clock last night, but as he approached Superior street he removed the back pressure from the pedals and let the machine go. He circled around on Superior street, unconscious of the presence of a peanut gutter merchant who was doing business from a cart in front of the Great Eastern Clothing house. The wheel ran into the cart, the rider took a header over the thrifty dispenser of popcorn, peanuts and gum, and the latter's stock was distributed indiscriminately about the pavement, to the complete satisfaction of a crowd of street gamins, who collected at the scene of the accident in an instant and in the confusion preyed on the wreck. The wheel and cart were badly damaged, but their owners were uninjured.

COUNTERFEITS.

U. S. Court Checks the Distribution of Imitations.

About 400 counterfeiters have been making imitation Cereal Coffees and working them off on buyers. They generally use at least part of the wording on the original and some take the red seals of the genuine Postum Cereal Food Coffee. The U. S. court has lately enjoined Grain-O and ordered them to avoid further infringement.

Postum is the original palatable Cereal Coffee, and is made of selected parts of the Cereals which give the elements needed for the rebuilding of the gray matter in the nerve cells. The counterfeits are made of—well "just any old thing" to look like Postum and get people's money. Does any one expect the maker of a counterfeit to care how much food value he gives?

Buyers can get from two to five times as many pounds of counterfeit for the same price as one pound of the genuine Postum Cereal Food Coffee. All right for those who "have money to burn."

If a grocer offers you an imitation "Cereal Coffee" send his name and address to us, please.

LIVELY

Harmony Seemed to Be Missing at the Humane Society Meeting.

President Woodbridge Made a Ruling Which Caused Considerable Feeling.

Amendment Adopted Reducing Membership Fee---Haskins' Range Trip.

The Duluth Humane society held a special meeting last night for the purpose of reducing the membership fee from $2 to $1. It did so after an hour and a half of hard labor, and in doing so it developed a large amount of what in any other society would be termed "scrap," and it showed that in that organization, the protection of helpless animals and children, there was a strange lack of brotherly love and a great deal of man's inhumanity to man, as it were.

President Woodbridge called a small number of people to order about 8 o'clock and stated the object of the meeting. It was to amend the constitution, as above stated, and the first question that presented itself to him was, who was a member of the society? At the imputation that some of those present might not be members, there was a rumbling in the audience, and several shouldered chips appeared. Mr. Woodbridge thought the constitution clearly indicated that none but those who had paid their $2 were entitled to vote. This created considerable discussion, H. H. Hanford opposing it and Rev. C. H. Patton supporting it. It developed that Secreary Middlecoff did not have with him a scrap of paper out of his records, and President Woodbridge thought that was a funny thing.

Mr. Middlecoff objected strenuously to the president's critising the secretary's work. He explained that he had let Mrs. Meiser, the collector for the society, have the books, and he had been unable to get them back, as she had taken them away with her. Henry Haskins then produced a list of paid members, compiled by Mrs. Meiser, and handed it to the president. Mr. Woodbridge looked it over, and presently announced that Mr. Middlecoff had not paid his $2. This brought Mr. Middlecoff to his feet. He did not propose to take Mrs. Meiser's word for a thing like that, because he knew of some that had paid direct to the society to save the 50 cents Mrs. Meiser got out of each $2.

"That's a nice thing to do," said President Woodbridge, "to get Mrs. Meiser up here to collect, and then try to gouge her out of her percentage."

"I never voted for her to come," responded the secretary.

"You did not vote against it," was the president's rejoinder, whereupon the secretary abode silent for a time, erupting once more, a few minutes later, with an offer to write out his check for $2, which was accepted.

Dr. Ryan then arose and critised methods of delay which had been used. He said that they would be of no benefit to anybody. The object of the meeting was simply to reduce the membership fee, and there was no excuse for dissension. He strongly protested against such methods of obstruction.

Mr. Woodbridge then called the question on the amendment to the constitution, stating that he still ruled that no one could vote who had not paid $2. Secretary Middlecoff then appealed from the decision of the chair.

Ex-Alderman C. T. Crandall then got up and waded in. He said that when he was a member of the council he received a card to the effect that he had been made an honorary member, and he would like to know where he was now. He had worked for the society, but he did not propose to be bulldozed and "ballywaggled." Mr. Crandall did not explain the process of "ballywaggling," but he was indignant. If he was not wanted he would be glad to withdraw, for he never saw a society with so much tomfoolery in his life.

Mr. Woodbridge said that all had been peace and harmony in the society until about the time Mr. Crandall came in, not that he blamed Mr. Crandall for the dissension. He was merely unfortunate in having chosen this time for joining. It was proposed to elect Mr. Crandall an honorary member, and this brought him to his feet again.

"I don't know, Mr. President," said he "whether I want to belong or not. I don't know what good the society has done. The society has been a very ragged institution ever since I have known it. I don't know whether I want to join it or not. There does not seem to be anything to it but the president and the executive agent. No one knows whether he is a member or not, and if the society is going to do anything it ought to have a starting point somewhere."

At Dr. Ryan's motion all who were not certain whether they had paid, but who had membership cards, were made honorary members, after which the chair announced that it still ruled that the payment of $2 was a prerequisite to voting. Mr. Middlecoff's appeal was renewed at this time, but was not voted upon, Rev. C. H. Patton suggesting that if all were agreed there was no reason why those who were known to be paid members could not pass whatever was necessary.

Then there was some discussion as to the amendment, Mrs. G. H. Thompson supporting it, Mr. Woodbridge opposing it on the ground that it would reduce the revenue, Rev. C. H. Patton doubting if it were good policy.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Turle both favored it on the ground that it was preferable to get the public interested in the work rather than to go at it merely for revenue. The amendment was carried.

Humane Officer Haskins read a report of his work during the year, detailing a trip over the ranges which was a round of donated bands, balls and invitations to come again. It took two weeks, and besides the work done on the ranges in the interests of the society there was $30 to turn over to the society.

H. H. Hanford went after Mr. Haskins in a forcible attempt to dash cold water on his enthusiasm by showing that his salary had been $32.50 while he was earning $30. Mr. Haskins explained that usually there was no money to return for his work, so he thought it pretty good if by going outside of his regular routine he managed to earn enough money to pay his own salary.

UNSINKABLE SHIPS.

A Frenchman Has a Very Novel Scheme.

There is an instance on record of a ship going down in midocean before the eyes of her crew and those of a rescuing vessel, and yet of her having been towed into port a few weeks later. The reason for this was that the cargo of salt had melted out of her and she came to the surface by reason of her own buoyancy.

Now, however, comes along a man who claims that he can not only do this with an iron steamer, but that with the adoption of his patent, ships of all kinds will be rendered unsinkable. He does this by means of carbonic acid gas, says the New York Journal.

The inventor's name is M. L. Levasseur, and he has a large working model in his office in London. This model is a hulk floating in a tank.

He fills the hulk with sand bags and bricks until her water line is submerged. Meanwhile there are two gaping holes in her sides, covered over with collision mats and supposed to have been knocked in her by another craft.

As soon as the mats are removed the vessel begins to sink. At this point in his demonstration the experimenter turns on a cock in his model, there is a hissing sound and the gallant little ship floats proudly on the surface.

Allowed to sink to the bottom, she rises at once the moment these cocks are opened. The model is five feet in length.

The invention consists in a number of independent collapsible reservoirs, air tight and waterproof, which, when not in use, hang under the deck of the ship, or, indeed, in any space not required for use, as the ceilings of cabins, engine rooms, etc. These bags fold up like concertinas, and, when not needed, lie quite flat against the ceilings and under the decks. It matters not where they are placed.

On deck, or wherever most convenient, are also placed a number of small cylinders filled with liquid carbonic acid. These, by means of pipes, are connected with the various balloons or air bags, each of which is independent, and in case of one being damaged the others are not injured.

As soon as a collision occurs, the mere pulling of a lever by the officer on the bridge causes the gas to rush into any of the air bags at will. The character of the air bags is such that by the pressure of the gas they fit themselves automatically to the contour of the cargo or whatever place they may occupy.

The inventor claims that there is very rarely a collision which would necessitate the filling of all the bags on a ship fitted with his appliance. But he says no matter how serious may be the damage, even if the ship were cut in two parts, as has sometimes happened, the forward vessel could be kept afloat by means of this bags of carbonic acid gas.

So long as the bags remained uninjured the inventor claims that ship could be kept afloat, as the gas would not escape. The deeper the bags are inserted in the hold, the greater would be the lifting effort they would exert on the ship.

This invention, says M. Levasseur, is based upon the well-known principle of the fish bladder. It was first devised by M. G. Dubois, an engineer of the Paris Ecole Central, and after eighteen months of experiment and study the scheme was finally perfected.

The metal cylinders are charged with liquid carbonic acid at the beginning of the voyage, and once placed in their position on the ship they are to remain there. The bags, however, can be moved around at will to conform to the open spaces that are left when the cargo has been placed.

On passenger ships, where this invention would be especially valuable, its owners say that there would be plenty of room for the bags in spare staterooms. All of this adds, it is claimed, but little to the initial cost of a ship.

M. Levasseur claims that so large a ship as the Paris or Lucania could be fitted up with his appliance for about $5000. Yachts and small boats could, he says, be easily fitted with the appliance at small cost.

PROTECT THE SYSTEM FROM MALARIA.

It is possible to do this even in regions of country where miasma is most rife, and where the periodic fevers which it causes assume their most formidable types. The immense popularity of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is very largely attributable to the fact of its efficacy as a remedy for chills and fever, bilious remittents, and as a preventive of the various forms of malarial diseases. In those portions of the West and South where complaints of this nature prevail, and in the tropics, it is particularly esteemed for the protective influence which it exerts and it has been very widely adopted as a substitute for the dangerous and comparatively inefficient alkaloid, sulphate of quinine. Physicians have not been among the last to concede its merits, and the emphatic professional indorsements which it has received have added to the reputation it has obtained at home and abroad.

SOMETHING TO DEPEND ON.

Mr. James Jones, of the drug firm of Jones & Son, Cowden, Ill., speaking of Dr. King's New Discovery, says that last winter his wife was attacked with la grippe, and her case grew so serious that physicians at Cowden and Pana could do nothing for her. It seemed to develop into hasty consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in store, and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home, and to the surprise of all she began to get better from first dose, and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is guaranteed to do this good work. Try it. Free trial bottles at Duluth Drug company's drug store.

BIGGEST BELL.

India Has the Largest One in Working Order.

For some time past there has been a sort of dead-heat between the two biggest bells in the world, the one at the cathedral in Moscow, and the other at the unfinished pagoda of Mengoon, India, north of Mandalay, across the river, says London Sketch. If the former was the bigger of the two, it was cracked, and therefore useless as a bell, while the latter, though whole, has dragged its supports down till it rested on the ground, and would not emit any sound. Now, however, it has been reswung, and can claim attention as the biggest bell, in working order, in the world.

In 1896 the Burmese community decided to have the bell raised, and employed the Irrawaddy Flotilla company, Limited, to do the work. The rim of the bell was first supported by huge baulks of timber wedged in all round, and a tripod erected over it to fasten the shackle to and keep it upright. The old supports having been knocked away two large iron columns, twenty-five feet high, cast by the Irrawaddy company, were erected, with concrete foundations. A large steel cross-girder, with a distributing girder on the top of it, was then passed through the shackle, and the bell was raised by screw-jacks all round the wedges of timber, until the cross-girder could be placed on the pillars and riveted in position. The screw-jacks were then eased, and the bell left swinging, with its lower rim about 2 feet 10 inches from the ground. The weight is about 98 tons, the circumference at the base being 51 1-2 feet and at the top 26 feet. It averages over a foot in thickness. The bell itself is over 12 feet high, and the shackle, which was intended for logs of timber, about 12 feet. The pin in the shackle has a diameter of 16 inches. The bell was cast about the beginning of the century by King Bodaw-payaa as an accompaniment to the huge brick pagoda which he never finished. It is said to have been cast on an island and rafted across. No proper means yet exist for striking the bell, but when hit with a heavy piece of wood it gives out a deep vibrating boom.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

A NEW WRAPPER.

An advanced civilization has done a great deal to promote human comfort and convenience, but it has also subjected the race to a good many petty and oft-recurring annoyances. There are few intelligent people who do not subscribe for at least one weekly newspaper devoted to science, fashion or amusement, says the Boston Herald. The number and variety of such periodicals going through the mails are enormous. A large proportion of these go from the office of publication in "single wrappers"—that is to say, wrapped individually in sheets of paper on which the address is printed, written or pasted. Some of these periodicals are folded flat and are easily opened, but some of them are rolled and rolled tightly, too, in which case the removal of the wrapper is a difficult task. Though one employ scissors or penknife to rip open the integument, he is likely to mar the cover of the publication inside, and if he resort to no such implement and rely solely upon his fingers his patience is sorely tried. It is hard to get a grip on the wrappers anywhere, and even after a beginning has been made in this direction the paper comes off only in bits. It tears the wrong way, as the publisher in the interest of security against damages in the mails, intends that it shall.

But this nuisance has at last been overcome. For the particular class of papers which are done up singly and are rolled tightly a special wrapper has been invented which can be opened with great ease and without injury to the contents. The novel feature of the scheme is a black cotton thread, affixed by means of paste to the inner surface of the wrappers, and running lengthwise of the rolled package. The color is unimportant, except that it reveals the location of the thread, which can be faintly seen from the outside as a dark line. If now the recipient catches hold of one end of this filament, and pulls at right angles to the short diameter of the roll, the thread will cut the wrapper completely in two from end to end, and open the package in an instant. To facilitate this operation the paper is notched to the depth of half an inch on either side of the thread at one end, thus leaving a tiny flap which a person can readily grasp when he begins to pull. This style of wrapper has come into extensive use during the last year, and is a boon to the subscribers into whose homes it comes.

DEADLOCK

That Is About the Condition of the City Engineer Muddle.

Both Mr. Patton and Mr. Reed Are Performing the Duties.

Employes Do Not Know Where They Are at--- Flood In Office.

The city hall had a certain air about it this morning of having been up all night and most unusual quietude reigned supreme. The city engineers were out upon the line of the waterworks, Mr. Reed being accompanied by some of the union boilermakers and Henry Trueisen, Jr., and Mr. Patton going it alone.

The employes of the city engineer's office have all received their formal notices warning them to take their orders from Mr. Reed and they are sitting there with both ears open so as to receive all orders that may be issued by either engineer, as they don't want to take any chances of getting on the wrong side. There is evident danger of some of these gentlemen becoming crosseyed in their endeavors to look both ways at the same time.

In the morning the board of public works received an offer of expert assistance in opening the vault in the city engineer's office from a well known safe lock man, but they declined to take this step for the present, as the members of the board, although they think that Mr. Reed is the rightful possessor of the engineer's office, are in no hurry to take any measures involving physical force.

There was a good-sized rumor floating around this morning that Mr. Reed had gone to the scene of operations on the waterworks' plant with the intention of summarily firing all the inspectors appointed by Mr. Patton, but this could not be verified and did not appear to have merited much credence.

J. Flood qualified early this morning and will occupy the desk formerly used by Mr. Reed, who cleared out all his belongings today. Mr. Flood's appointment appears to be a highly popular one among the city contractors and the city hall crowd generally and he was the recipient of glad hands today but, probably owing to the hard times, no floral tributes were visible upon his desk.

The board is at present preparing to make extensive repairs to the roadway on West First street betwen Lake avenue and Third avenue west, where the surfacing is badly worn by the traffic. The old macadam will be picked up and new material laid in its place.

The Duluth Incline road was notified by the board today to remove a fence from across Sixty-ninth avenue in West Duluth and not to block up that thoroughfare.

President Smith went to the West End to look over the work in that direction and in the afternoon the president went to Lakewood, accompanied by Alderman Harker and some other members of the waterworks committee.

Additional interest was given to the situation this afternoon by the discovery that the council last evening allowed an estimate which was approved by D. A. Reed as city engineer. This afternoon Mr. Patton locked the door of the draughting room, keeping the men on the inside and Mr. Reed on the outside.

Fell Down Stairs.

James Briggs fell downstairs in the rear of Madden Bros. saloon last night and sustained very severe injuries to his spine. He was still alive today, at St. Luke's hospital, and faint hopes are entertained of his recovery. Briggs come from Superior, where he has been an inmate of the hospital for the past year, suffering from rheumatism. He is a woodsman by calling.

Damage Case Dismissed.

The case of John C. Klabundy vs. W. C. McClure, in the United States circuit court, was dismissed today. It a damage case, and the defense was that Klabundy had signed a release, which was offered in evidence. The dismissal filed today is a settlement from Klabundy of all claims for $100. The defendant in the agreement does not admit that the former settlement was void, but compromises because it would be better than to fight the case. The attorneys for the plaintiff do not seem to have been concerned in the settlement, for their names do not appear on the document.

Sues For Divorce.

Charlotte A. McIver this morning began divorce proceedings against John H. McIver. They are 28 and 32 years of age respectively, and they were married in Birtle, Manitoba, Oct. 2i, cruelty, non-support and desertion, cruCelty, non-support and desertion. The plaintiff alleges that her husband never contributed $5 to her support, and that he was a habitual drunkard, and that Nov. 1, 1889, he deserted her, and she has seen nothing of him since. She wants to resume her maiden name of Douglass. D. M. De Vore is her attorney.

Gronseth & Olsen.

One of the oldest among the popular grocery stores of this city is that of Gronseth & Olsen, who on Saturday celebrated their tenth anniversary. Their store, No. 401 and 403 East Fourth street, is tastefully fitted up and admirably arranged in every way for all purposes of the business. Messrs. Gronseth & Olsen carry a large stock of staple and fancy groceries and make a specialty of "Viking" flour, new crop teas, fragrant coffees, pure spices, sugar, syrups, canned goods, table luuries and dairy butter, cheese, eggs and every variety of fresh fruits and vegetables. Polite clerks are always in attendance and particular attention is given in delivering orders on time. The patronage comes from all classes of the community and as popular prices prevail business is always active and fresh. Anton Gronseth and John Olsen have ever taken an active interest in the upbuilding of Duluth and have hosts of friends in the best commercial and social circles in the city. They are courteous, pleasant gentlemen and make trading at their store a pleasure.

A PERFECT BEAM.

Ironton Plant Claims to Be Successful at Last.

The Ironton Structural Steel company claims that at last its experiments in the manufacture of I beams has been successful and that it has demonstrated the complete practicability of the new methods which it has been seeking to develop for the past two years. The Evening Herald, at the conclusion of the last experimental run the mill made, announced that a perfect beam had for the first time been produced, the information having been furnished by a gentleman connected with the plant. The manager, however, would say nothing on the subject, refusing to either deny or confirm it.

Another run was made last Saturday, after a few minor changes in the machinery had been made, and now the company officially announces the result. It is claimed that I beams were rolled of 24-inch section, uniform throughout, with web three-eighths of an inch thick and flanges seven and one-fourth inches wide, the weight per foot being fifty-nine pounds. It is claimed that the plant is now in a position to supply beams of any size that are 25 per cent lighter than any now on the market. This means that a great step forward has been made in the structural steel business and that a decided saving will be made in the manufacture of structural steel beams of all kinds.

In the construction of the mill at Ironton entirely new ideas have been used in the machinery, and it was to develop these ideas that the plant has been started and shut down so many times recently. If now, as claimed, the new method of rolling beams has been fully tried and found successful, there is no reason why the plant should not now be operated and furnish employment to a large number of men.

The mill was run yesterday and seventeen I beams were completed. Of this number fourteen were perfect, two contained unimportant defects and but one was pronounced a cull. The plant will again be closed today and no further work is likely to be done for the present. It is said that a meeting of the stockholders is to be held in Pittsburg in a short time, at which a complete report of what has been accomplished will be submitted. Suggestions will be made regarding extensive additions to the already large plant and the future policy of the company decided upon.

The demand for structural steel is now quite good in the Northwest, especially in Minnesota, where there is a large number of wooden railroad bridges to be replaced by iron ones.

Must Get Licenses.

The city horseshoers seem to be entirely oblivious of the law passed last session, at the request of the craft in this state, imposing a license upon everybody practising the trade of horseshoeing. The law provides that within six months of the date of the act, April 16, all horseshoers shall file an affidavit with the city clerk, setting forth that they were engaged in that trade on or before that day, paying 25 cents for a certificate to that effect, which entitles them to ply their trade in this state. After the expiration of six months all horseshoers coming to this state will have to pass an examination before the state board of horseshoers before they can practice their trade in this state.

A contract has been awarded by the Duluth & Iron Range road to Dorwin & Roberts for the construction of a two-mile branch road from the main line to the Roberts' mine. Dorwin & Roberts will employ about 100 men at once cutting and grubbing the right-of-way.

TWIN SNAKES.
Anaconda Standard: Doc Hancock, while in Glasgow Friday, related a very peculiar phenomenon he discovered a few days ago on a high divide not far from his ranch. He was riding along gathering horses when he was startled by the ominous warning of the "rattle." He glanced down, and but a few feet from his horse were two snakes, their bodies joined together by three inches at their sides. They were evidently twins, and had unquestionably been born that way. He dismounted, and, killing them, hit them with a large bowlder where they were joined, and completely rended the conjuncting skin.

A SMALL BOY'S INGENUITY.
San Francisco Post: A small boy in the mission is the owner of a woolly little donkey of more than ordinary intelligence and perversity. Some time ago the manger in the stable fell down and struck the donkey on the head, since which time nothing could induce the animal to enter the stable of his own accord, and he wandered around the yard at his own sweet will. The other day the boy found that the donkey viewed the lawn mower with mingled curiosity and alarm. He would not turn tail and run from it, but would back away, the while keeping his ears at a full cock and his eyes on the machine. That fact gave the boy an idea. Now he leads the donkey to the stable door, turns the animal around and runs the lawn mower toward him. When the donkey backs into the stable the door is slammed on him before he realizes where he is.

CARE FOR YOUR SHOES.
Never try to wear a shoe too small or that does not fit when you first put it on. There is no misery more distracting than a shoe that hurts the foot. Never let your shoes get hard and dry. Don't let them pinch the toes. Don't let the heels run down. Don't dry a wet shoe till you have rubbed it well with a flannel cloth and then with vaseline. Never put them near the fire. Half a peck of oats, kept in a small box, will be the very cheapest and best "boot tree" for a wet shoe. Fill the shoe and shake the oats down, after having rubbed and oiled it, and set in a dry place to dry gradually. When dry pour the oats back for further use. Do not "black upon blacking" more than a week at a time. Take a wet rag and wash the shoe at least once a week and oil over night to keep in good condition. Never handle patent leather until you have warmed it. Never wear rubber goloshes with good shoes. Put on old shoes in wet weather. There is no part of the apparel of a lady or a gentleman which should be more scrupulously neat, or that is so often scandalously neglected.

Adventurous Spirits Attracted to New Gold Fields to Find Fortune.

Advice of Men in South Africa is to Stay Away.

Those Who Go to Alaska Should Have Plenty of Money.

Houghton, Mich., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Every new gold field that is opened attracts many who seek to better their fortune, the number of adventurous spirits so drawn together ranging from a few scores or hundreds, as in the case of some camp of but limited renown, to tens of thousands, as has happened in the Witwatersrand gold fields in South Africa.

Lake Superior has furnished several hundred emigrants to South Africa in the past four years, most of them able-bodied miners, and therefore much more apt to find work than the average seeker for wealth, in that far-distant Eldorado. The tide which set so strongly toward the Transvaal has turned, and more miners are coming from there to Lake Superior than are going in the opposite direction. The men who are coming back all tell the same story of idle mines, decreased activity, and thousands of men out of employment. The gloss is off the boom, and while the "Rand," as the miners all call it, is a wonderful mining district, the days of easily acquired fortunes are about over there. Wages are falling, and conditions there are rapidly assuming the same form as in the mining fields of older countries. It was but seven years ago that a Dutch farmer "trekked" into Johannesburg with a big wagon-load of onions, and sold them in an hour for 900 pounds sterling to the miners who had gold in plenty, and had not tasted fresh vegetables for many months, but today any staple article of food can be bought there almost as cheaply as in many Rocky Mountain camps. The advice of the men who have been there is for others to stay away, and even the miners remaining there, and who have steady work, write home to friends not to go to South Africa.

Of the three newest American gold fields, now that Cripple Creek has become an old story, the most important is the Kootenai, a big district which is mainly just across the border in British Columbia, but has a number of good mines in the northern part of the state of Washington. The emigration in that direction has been very heavy. Skilled miners can still obtain steady work at fair wages, but their earnings are not much larger than in the Lake Superior mines, and less than the average returns received from their labor by the men employed in some of the copper mines of Houghton county. Good mechanics can usually find work, though the district has filled up rapidly, but the men who have no capital and expect to make a fortune in some manner not quite clear to themselves, would do better to stay at home. The Kootenai is a good mining country, and is growing, but fortunes are not picked from the bushes there.

A second gold district which is beginning to attract attention is also on the border between the United States and her Brittanic majesty's possessions in North America. The Rainy Lake and Rat Portage districts are principally in Algoma, Ont., but some promising mines are in Minnesota. There is no question of the existence of gold in paying quantities in this field, and some of the older mines are making large profits, while new properties of promise are being opened with frequency. The newspapers and mining men of the "Rainy," as the field is generally known, are advising people to stay away from there, unless they know what they want or have some money. Skilled miners are in active demand, good mechanics can usually find places—all others are a drug in the market, and are much too numerous for the comfort of themselves or their neighbors. The man who goes there without some money or a practical knowledge of mining will be almost certain to regret his action unless he has a trade and is willing to get rich slowly by working and saving, as people do outside of the gold mining countries.

On the principle that distance lends enchantment to the view, the most alluring country of gold, to many, is the far-distant Alaska. There is much gold there in the placers, and it is one of the few mining fields still left where a man can be his own machinery and labor force. Nearly 90 per cent of the world's gold supply comes from deep mining, which requires machinery. Outside of Siberia, Alaska offers almost the only placer mining field of importance now being operated. Thousands have gone to Alaska or will soon go, while many other thousands are looking towards the polar gold fields with eyes of longing. To all such is commended the careful reading and consideration of the following extracts from a letter recently written from Sitka to an old friend in Northern Michigan by Bishop P. T. Rowe of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Alaska:

A trip to Circle City is a very serious undertaking. You take a boat from Seattle to Juneau, 900 miles, fare $15. At Juneau you may have to wait one or two weeks, and expenses for board, etc., are very high. From Juneau to Dyea, 100 miles, the fare is $10. From Dyea to the lakes, over the summit, is a distance of fifty miles, and over this you would have to pack your outfit, sled it or hire it done at 10 cents a pound. Once you reach the lakes you have to build your own boat, sawing your own lumber, etc. It is best to take in as large an outfit of provisions and necessaries as you can; many take in a year's supply of provisions. The outfit will cost at least $500; everything in the interior is very dear. Provisions this year are so scarce that men cannot get all they need; flour in December was selling at $20 to $24 for a 49-pound sack. This will give you an idea of the cost of everything. When I was at Circle City there were more laborers than labor, though at the mines men could easily earn $10 and $12 a day, but they had to furnish their own provisions.

The distance from Dyea to Circle City is 1000 miles, and to Clondyke 700 miles. Most of the way is by river, and the river is so swift that once you are on it there is not much trouble, but you see it is a serious matter to go in, very expensive, the results very uncertain, etc. It costs just as much to get out. I wish I could give you more encouragement, but I must tell you the cold facts as I know them. Dogs are a very necessary thing. At Circle City they are worth from $75 to $100 each.

MERIT MAKES IT FAMOUS.

The Only Remedy in the World, Except a Surgical Operation, That Will Certainly Cure Any Form of Piles.

The study of physicians, the experiments of chemists, the loudly advertised pretensions of quacks, have been for years expended in one direction; to find a pile cure that would cure.

The results have been a number of harmless and in most cases useless ointments, suppositories and even internal remedies, which the public have weighed in the balance of experience and found wanting; nearly all of them gave some relief, but nothing approaching a radical cure resulted from these preparations.

The remedy required is one which will immediately stop the pain so severe in many cases of piles, and then by contracting the small blood vessels (capillaries) to their normal size, produces a radical cure by reducing and finally absorbing the tumors and healing the inflamed, raw mucous surfaces.

Until two years ago, no such remedy had been produced, but at that time a suppository was placed upon the market, which has since proven itself to be the long sought permanent cure for this common and distressing trouble; it has rapidly become famous throughout the United States and Canada, and is now sold by nearly all druggists under the name of the Pyramid Pile Cure.

It is now the best known, because its merit and safety have advertised it wherever used. It has been advertised by word of mouth, from one sufferer to another; people who had tried everything else, even submitting to painful and dangerous surgical operations without avail have finally found that piles may be cured without pain and without expense, practically, as the Pyramid Pile Cure is sold for the nominal price of 50 cents and $1 per package.

The Pyramid instantly stops all pain and at the same time contains no cocaine, morphine or narcotics; the acids and healing properties contained in the remedy speedily remove, cause a healthful, natural contraction and absorption of the tumors; it will cure any form of rectal trouble except cancer and advanced fistula, which, by the way, nearly always result from neglecting proper and timely treatment for piles.

As above stated, can furnish you with the Pyramid Pile Cure at 50 cents for ordinary size or $1 per large package.

WHERE FISHING IS GOOD.

Those looking for the best fishing grounds are reminded of Lake Tetonka, at Waterville, and Madison lake, on the Minneapolis & St. Louis railroad.

Wall-eyed pike, bass and crappies are found in great abundance at both of these lakes, which have not been fished out to the extent of some of the older and better known localities.

Excellent hotel accommodations, boats, bait, etc., on hand, and all charges are very reasonable.

FARMERS

Some Very Valuable Suggestions in the Shape of New Ideas.

Why Import Things Which Can Be Grown Here Very Easily.

One Million Dozen of Hen Fruit, For Instance Was Imported.

"Why did we import 1,000,000 dozen of eggs into the United States last year? Tell me that!" The eye of the new secretary of agriculture, Mr. Wilson, twinkled, says Rene Bache in the Boston Transcript, as he asked the question, adding:

"Do you know that 132,000 dozen of those eggs came from China? Think of fetching that sort of produce all the way from the Flowery Land, just to make sure of freshness! A few were brought from Japan, but the bulk of the imported eggs we ate last year, 800,000 dozen, were laid in Canada."

"What is the matter with the American hen?" I asked.

"Nothing is the matter with the American hen, but something is wrong with the American farmer. He needs to be taught the usefulness of raising on his own land a great many things which we are obliged to purchase abroad for lack of domestic supply. Just think of our being compelled to import $100,000,000 worth of sugar every year. Why it is an absurdity! The sugar beet will grow admirably over large areas in this country, yielding from 13 to 20 per cent of sugar. This summer we are going to make experiments in its culture in eighteen states, and for this purpose I have distributed over four tons of the finest beet seed obtained from Germany. You know, I suppose, that the sugar beet is the same plant as the ordinary garden beet, and that it has been made to yield an extraordinary percentage of sugar by selection of plants for seed bearing from crop to crop."

"So you consider that there is no reason why we should not grow all the sugar we need in the United States?"

"Not any that I can imagine. And why, pray, should we have imported more than $100,000,000 worth of goat skins in the last fiscal year? Is it to be supposed that we cannot grow goats in America? I tell you no. The fact is that the American farmer has much to learn in respect to animal husbandry, and this is only one circumstance in illustration. It is only very recently that he has begun to realize the fact that the same sheep can be made to yield high-priced wool and first-rate mutton. There is, indeed, such big money in combining the industries of mutton production and wool production that sheep raising may be conducted profitably on the highest-priced lands. It is ridiculous that we should import wool."

"How about vegetable products of the farm?"

"The same remark applies. Why should it have been necessary for us to import $658,320 worth of beans and peas in the last fiscal year? Might we not have raised them just as well on our own soil? Is there any reason why we should not have raised the $356,644 worth of cabbages which were imported; likewise $127,595 worth of potatoes? I cannot see why we should have bought of outsiders during the same twelvemonth $2,773,535 worth of hay, $690,000 worth of hops, and nearly $2,200,000 worth of onions."

"People abroad seem disposed to bar out some of our products."

"Naturally there is that tendency. They do not want us as rivals in their markets. But we are taking measures to put a stop to unjust discrimination. The department of agriculture proposes to guarantee the quality of our agricultural products by giving certificates of purity and wholesomeness, to accompany each consignment destined for export. We have begun with beef. None of our beef now goes to Europe without a certificate. If the Germans, or other foreigners, persist in discriminating against us, notwithstanding these measures, we shall insist on their telling us why."

One of the things largely imported, which might be produced in this country, is vanilla. This plant is one of the half-dozen species of orchid that have any value, except for their flowers. Its original home was in Eastern Mexico, but it is now cultivated in tropical countries all over the world. There is no reason why it should not be grown with profit on a large scale in the United States, under glass. This is done successfully in England and France. Most of the world's supply of vanilla is produced on the slopes of the Cordilleras. In nature it depends for its fertilization on a kind of moth that is found only in Mexico. Consequently, in other countries the flowers have to be fertilized artificially by touching the stigmas with the pollen. In this way one man can fertilize 1000 blossoms in a day. The Spaniards first carried the plant to Europe. Vanilla, by the way, is manufactured in the laboratory from oil of cloves and assafoetida.

Experiments in the growing of tea have been made in California recently, with very satisfactory results. The tea produced there is of excellent quality, though different in flavor from any imported leaf. There seems to be no doubt that it could be grown on a commercial scale with profit. The plants are of Japanese, Chinese and Formosan varieties. The yield is 500 pounds of leaves per acre, and the cost of production is 20 cents a pound in addition to the rental of the land. Every person in the United States, by the way, consumes twenty-one ounces of tea per annum, half of it coming from China and 42 per cent from Japan. We imported $12,704,440 worth of it last year. The culture of the plant is as simple as that of the currant or gooseberry. Many people in South Carolina today have private tea gardens for their own use, half a dozen bushes furnishing a sufficient supply for a family. The seeds look like hazelnuts.

Camphor likewise might be grown in parts of the United States. It is the resinous gum of a species of laurel that is indigenous to Eastern Asia. The tree is a large one, attaining a diameter of twenty feet. Being chopped down, it is cut into slips, which are put into water and boiled, the camphor passing in the shape of vapor through a bamboo tube. The process is one of primitive distillation, the gum being condensed in crystals, which are paced in tubs. From the boiling there is a residue of oil, which is used by the natives for illuminating purposes. There is already one successful camphor forest in Southern Florida.

The soil of California is well adapted to the species of oak whose bark is the cork of commerce. In fact, small forests of the trees are already growing in that state, and the department of agriculture has sent many bushels of the acorns thither for planting. Portugal is the greatest producer of cork today, and the enormous consumption of the article is indicated by the circumstance that the world annually uses seven billion cut corks for bottles. The material has many other uses, however, being employed for bicycle handles, hat-linings, toilet powder, lining for ice houses, life preservers, saddles, lifeboats, artificial legs and arms, buoys and inner soles for shoes. In Southern Europe it is utilized for roofing, pails, window-lights, plates, tubs, cups, religious images, horseshoes and coffins. Much of the finest quality goes into nose-pieces for eyeglasses. We imported $1,619,337 worth of cork last year.

The culture of the rubber tree is being tried in the region of the Florida Everglades. In that part of the country is a vast swampy region that could be made to supply the world with rubber. At present the market supply is threatened seriously by reckless destruction of trees in Mexico and Brazil. There are several rubber-producing plants, the best of them being the Siphon elastica, a superb tropical tree which has seeds like horsechestnuts, three in a pod. When ripe, the pod bursts like a cracker, throwing seeds to a distance. This tree does not come into full bearing of sad until its twentieth year; the juice is 56 per cent rubber. A full grown specimen will produce fifty pounds of "milk" per annum for forty years. The finest rubber blankets are made by pouring the sap upon canvas. It is a striking fact that this country imported $16,106,000 worth of crude rubber last year.

There is no reason why the opium poppy should not be cultivated in the United States, except that a popular prejudice exists against it. The prejudice, however, does not prevent the importation of 400,000 pounds of the drug into this country annually. Nearly the whole of this vast quantity is smuggled from China direct or by way of British Columbia. Only about 50,000 pounds is employed for medicinal purposes, the balance being consumed by "fiends." The opium vice is nearly always a secret one, and victims of it are greatly more numerous than is generally imagined. Up to the twelfth century the drug was known only as a product of Asia Minor. From thence it was introduced into India and China. The gum from the seed-pods of the plant is the opium of commerce.

It seems surprising to learn that $166,384 worth of seaweeds were imported into this country last year. These plants are used largely in the manufacture of soda, iodine, bromine and gelatinous extracts. On the French shore of the British Channel more more than 2,250,000 tons of seaweeds are gathered each year with drags and rakes. Of seaweed products the most important is iodine, the entire world's supply of which is got from this source. A marine plant called "Japanese isinglass" contains so much gelatine that it has eight times the gelatinizing power of ordinary gelatine. Two common species called "laver" and "dulse" are eaten by the Haida Indians of our northwest coast; they are dried, pressed in solid blocks, and cut in slices for boiling. Another kind, known as "Irish moss" furnishes a cosmetic for the hair—"bandoline." It is collected in large quantities on Cape Cod every summer, and sold for making puddings. Brewers and calico printers use it in their business. But nearly all of the seaweed crop in this country remains ungathered.

Truffles have recently been gathered and preserved in large quantities in California. They are put up in cans, par-boiled and sealed in their own juice. It may be that these delicious fungi of domestic production might take the place of the imported, of which many thousands of dollars worth come from France annually. That country produces every year $3,000,000 worth of truffles, which sell for $2 a pound. They are found underground about oak trees, and dogs and pigs, which are both very fond of them, are employed to smell them out. The origin of the fungus is very curious. In July and August a little blue-winged fly makes its way into the soil at the base of the oak tree, pierces the bark of the root, and lays its eggs in the wound. From the scar develops a viscous substance, while grows into a truffle. The latter, when full-grown, is about the size of a walnut and has a warty surface.

The demand for citron in this country will soon be supplied by the domestic product. The growing of the fruit is an increasing industry in California and Florida. Only the thick rind is utilized. The fruit is cut in halves and put in casks with strong brine; then the pulp is separated from the rind by gouging it out. The rinds are immersed in fresh water for three days, to free them of salt, and are then boiled in a copper caldon until they are tender. Afterwards they are soaked and boiled in syrups of different strengths, and finally, when completely saturated with sugar, are dried on wire net, coming out most appetizingly covered with sugar crystals.

In Southern Florida might be cultivated the trees that produce myrrh and frankincense, which are in considerable commercial demand. Myrrh is the gum of a tree that grows in Southwestern Asia. The chief markets are Bombay and Aden, where it is sorted, the best quality being sent to Europe and the poorer grades to China. Once a year on the feast of the Epiphany, Queen Victoria makes an offering of gold, frankincense and myrrh at the Chapel Royal, London.

This custom has been pursued since the time of Edward I. Frankincense is obtained from a tree native to Arabia and India, the milk-like juice being collected and, when hard, packed in baskets. Anciently it was believed that the land which produced this substance was one of fogs and darkness, when slaves were compelled to gather the gum from trees infested by serpents of brilliant colors. The fable was probably put in circulation by Arab spice-producers who desired to discourage competition.

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION

Gustav Lueck, a Hermantown Farmer, and His Hired Man Instantly Killed By Dynamite.

Mrs. Lueck and Her Son Seriously Injured and the Farm House Utterly Demolished.

A Quantity of Dynamite, Placed on a Chair Adjoining the Stove, Was Exploded.

By an explosion of dynamite at about 11 o'clock this morning, Gustav Lueck, a Hermantown farmer, and Joe, a hired man, whose other name is unknown, were instantly killed; Mrs. Lueck and her son, Gustav Lueck, Jr., were seriously injured, and the farm house was reduced to kindling wood, and subsequently burned.

The injured woman and the boy were brought by the neighbors to St. Mary's hospital, in this city, where they received every attention. Mrs. Lueck has received severe contusions about the body, and her face and left leg are terribly lacerated, but she will live. Young Gustav has several fingers on the right hand broken, one of which was amputated, and has sustained a serious injury to his knee, but the attending physicians, Drs. G. W. Davis and Wilson have hopes of his complete recovery.

The burned farm house stood on the "straight" road, about a mile from the German church at Hermantown. Gustav Lueck was one of the early settlers of the township, and his farm is remarkably well cultivated and of over 100 acres, all cleared in extent. Through part of his land runs a low ridge, which is encumbered to some degree with heavy boulders. It was for the purpose of blasting these that the dynamite that caused the mischief was procured.

This morning Lueck and his hired man, a Pole, named Joe, whose other name cannot at present be ascertained, started out to break the boulders. The powder did not work very well, and when it was near the dinner hour, the two men returned to the house, bringing eight or nine cartridges of dynamite with them.

These were arranged by Joe on a chair that was placed close to the open oven door of the cooking stove in the kitchen. According to the somewhat incoherent account given by the injured Mrs. Lueck she noticed the powder as soon as she entered the kitchen and remonstrated with the hired man. He was in the act of explaining to her and her husband that there was no danger when to use her own words "the house fell in on her."

When she came to she realized that the house was on fire and she managed to drag herself and her husband out of the ruins. She then became unconscious and remembers nothing more.

The boy Gustav, Jr., was not inside the house when the explosion occurred, but was close enough to receive injury from the flying debris.

There are three little girls belonging to the Lueck family who were, luckily for them, at school when the accident occurred and it was one of these children who carried the news of the accident to Mrs. Fritze, her aunt, the sister of Mrs. Lueck. Mrs. Fritze immediately went to the scene of the disaster and also sent word to Peter Fischen, another relative who lives nearby, and between them they brought the survivors in to St. Mary's hospital.

The mutilated remains of Gustav Lueck were removed to Mrs. Fritze's house, but the body of the unfortunate hired man is supposed to have been cremated in the burning ruins of the farm house.

Gustav Lueck has a brother who runs a confectioner's store at 532 East Fourth street in this city. He was a prosperous farmer and very generally respected by his neighbors and all those who were acquainted with him. He will be buried in the cemetery at Hermantown.

RAILWAY TELEGRAPHERS.

Peoria, Ill., May 26.—The Order of Railway Telegraphers adjourned sine die at 4 o'clock this morning after a night's session. W. Y. Powell was re-elected grand chief; T. McPherson, of Indianapolis, first assistant grand chief; James B. Finnlan, of Baltimore, second assistant grand chief; H. B. Pherham, of Cripple Creek, Col., grand secretary and treasurer, and editor of the official organ; L. A. Tanquary, of Pueblo, Col., Charles Daniels, of Atlanta; William White, of Toronto; S. S. Mahany, of St. Louis, and C. L. French, of Cumberland, Md., grand executive committee.

HAVEMEYER'S TRIAL.

A Little Judicial Humor Enlivens the Proceedings.

Washington, May 26.—The trial of Henry O. Havemeyer, the president of the American Sugar Refining company, indicted for refusing to answer questions propounded by the senate sugar investigation in June, 1894, was resumed this morning. The attendance was almost as large as yesterday. District Attorney Davis re-offered in evidence the extract of the senate journal showing the recreancy of Mr. Havemeyer, to which the defense objected unless the other journals showing the whole action of the senate upon the case be admitted. Judge Bradley agreed to admit all relevant extracts from the senate journals, and thereupon Mr. Johnson withdrew his objection. Accordingly the extracts showing the three reports of the committee to the senate, and detailing the facts of Mr. Havemeyer's contumacy were admitted. Mr. Johnson objected to the admission of the printed report of the committee as evidence, and a long legal debate followed on this point.

The government seriously insisted that it was admissible as an official senate report. Mr. Davis said he was driven to the necessity of offering this document as evidence because the original stenographic notes of Mr. Havemeyer's testimony had been lost. The defense offered to admit the whole printed record, but objected to the extract relating to Mr. Havemeyer's testimony. The court said that if the contention of the government was correct, then the whole record was evidence and much time of the court had been wasted. He convulsed the court room by his sarcastic reference to the "sanctity" with which the district attorney had clothed the proceedings of the senate. In the apostolic days, he said, clothes taken from the bodies of the apostles were supposed to have healing virtues, and even the rags that subsequently came in contact with them. "Those days," said the judge, while Senator Gray laughed outright, "are passed. The court sustains the objection."

IOWA BANKERS MEET.

Ottumawa, Iowa, May 26.—One hundred bankers are in attendance at the eleventh annual meeting of the State Bankers' association today. President Deming in his annual address recommended continuance of the fight on free silver and said that he believed bankers should refrain from any attempt to interfere in future with state legislation, that the bankers appoint a "protective committee" to form a cipher code to telegraph about currency, movement of criminals, etc. J. H. Harman, of Council Bluffs, is principally talked of for president.

FUGITIVES FROM JUSTICE.

Chicago, May 26.—Ozrow W. Clapp, once a well known and wealthy board of trade operator, and his son, Dwight O. Clapp, were arrested today at the request of the New York police department, charged with being fugitives from justice. It is said they are wanted in New York to answer to a charge of illegally transferring property for the purpose of defrauding creditors, the amount involved being $10,000.

FUEL CONTRACT AWARDED.

Washington, May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The contract to supply fuel for the public buildings at Duluth during the next fiscal year was today awarded to J. A. Ferguson, of Duluth, at his bid of $1622.

TENNESSEE TOWN SINGED.

Knoxville, Tenn., May 26.—Eight frame buildings, comprising the principal business portion of Coal Creek, Tenn., were burned today. Insurance, small. Origin is a mystery.

THE GOLD EXODUS.

New York, May 26.—Lazard Freres will ship $500,000 in gold tomorrow to Europe. Of this amount only $240,000 is taken from the sub-treasury. The balance comes from San Francisco.

DIED WHILE TRAVELING.

Chicago, May 26.—Henry Hopper, of Cincinnati, Ohio, was seized with violent cramps on a Rock Island train last night while on his way home from Denver, where he had been visiting, and died before morning. He was unaccompanied by anyone who knew him, and upon the arrival of the train here the body was removed to the morgue.

HEAVY IRON SALES.

Western Pig Iron Market is Quite Active.

Chicago, May 26.—The Industrial World tomorrow will say: The Western iron market has witnessed a continuation of heavy buying of pig iron by the large consumers for their next year's requirements. One buyer has closed for 13,000 tons of Northern iron, another for 4000 tons, another for 3000. In the aggregate perhaps 30,000 tons have been sold, mostly Northern iron. Other large negotiations are pending. Prices are still quoted at $10.25 for No. 2 Northern foundry, with $9.75 for Southern No. 2 foundry. In steel and in finished products further weakness has appeared in values. Business is only moderate and in bars, plates, sheets and beams quotations are perhaps lower than a week ago. Beams are $1.20 Chicago, bars close at 1 cent on some orders, sheets a shade below 2 cents for No. 27 black.

THEY FEEL HOPEFUL.

Snider and Dunnell Confident of Getting Places.

Washington, May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—In view of the fact that President McKinley is continually appointing to the best offices men who formerly served with him in the lower house of the national congress, the friends of ex-Congressmen Snider and Dunnell of Minnesota think he is sure to give them something good later on.

Both Snider and Dunnell served with McKinley in the Fifty-first session and they were on exceedingly friendly terms with him. There is no reason why he should not take care of them, if he continues his plan to appoint his old colleagues to good positions.

SHANNON NOMINATED.

Duluth Boy Recommended For West Point Cadet.

Washington, May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Morris today nominated James A. Shannon, of Duluth, as principal and Ivor M. Engebreton alternate cadet at West Point in accordance with the report of the board of examiners at St. Cloud. Shannon's percentage in the examination was 97 and Engebreton's 92.

KILLED BY INDIANS.

More Trouble Expected Near Miles City.

St. Paul, May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—A Miles City, Mont., special to the Dispatch says: The body of John Hoover, the missing sheep herder of John Berringer, was found about two miles from the ranch with two bullet holes through his body, and his dog was killed by his side, both being killed by Indians. Coroner Bateman, Sheriff Gibb and Stock Inspector Smith left to hold an inquest and see if they can trace the murderers. The Indians are making preparations for trouble, and the settlers are growing uneasy.

JOHNSON INDICTED.

But His Stupid Co-Financiers All Escape.

Indianapolis, May 26.—The federal grand jury today found nine indictments against John F. Johnson, late president of the State National Bank of Logansport, Ind. He is charged with violating practically every section of the national banking law, including forgery. Fifteen counts in all have been prepared, and six additional indictments are to be found and returned with the other nine, probably late this afternoon. It is found that the directors of the bank cannot be indicted for stupidity and incompetence, which the federal authorities indicate is the chief trouble with them.

FLOOD RELIEF FUNDS.

Much of the Appropriation Remains Unexpended.

Washington, May 26.—So well has the distribution of relief to the flood sufferers in the Mississippi and Red River valleys been administered that of the total appropriation of $200,000 about one-half now remains unexpended although the field has been fully covered. Secretary Alger attributes this economy to the excellent work of the officers of the department who gave their personal attention to the relief work. At present most of the relief stations are closed, the laborers are returning to the fields which have emerged above the waters and all the relief work is confined to a small portion of Louisiana.

FATAL BOILER EXPLOSION.

Renovo, Pa., May 26.—Two men were instantly killed and three others seriously injured by the explosion of a boiler in a sawmill of Joseph H. Haney at Glen Hazel, Elk county, this morning. The killed are: William Johnson, the fireman, and a man named Schaefer, both of Reynoldsville. Joseph Haney, the proprietor, and two others, were injured by flying debris. MURDER

Italian Revenge and Hatred Prompts a New Orleans Killing.

Smiles of Friendship End in a River Bank Crime of Blood.

Another of the Numerous Crimes Which Redden New Orleans' Record.

New Orleans, May 26.—Italian hatred and revenge is responsible for one more murder in this city, the latest victim of cold-blooded brutality being Cresinzo Di Liello, a basket-maker, who, a week or so ago possessed a wife and three children. A friend, another Italian, Francisco Cascatero, some time ago borrowed several hundred dollars from Di Liello and worked his way into the good graces of the basket-maker, who admitted him to the bosom of his family and accorded him all the hospitality he thought the intimacy demanded.

Last week Di Liello appeared before the second recorder's court here and made an affidavit against Francisco, charging him with the abduction of his three children, claiming that his friend had eloped with his wife and had also taken his little ones, breaking up his home and causing him bitter sorrow. He said Francisco had taken his wife to New York, and upon the charge a warrant was sent to New York asking the arrest of the entire party. The erring ones were not found in New York.

Yesterday the body of a man was discovered in the river. A crushed skull, a rope tied about the neck and a grind-stone attached thereto indicated murder. Upon an investigation it was ascertained that the murdered man was Di Liello and the indications point to a crime committed by the friends of Francisco in revenge for fancied or real slights upon the name and fame of this individual. It is thought, in view of the fact that Di Liello was seen upon the river front during the day and his body was discovered before night, that he was inveigled on board of a lugger and there murdered and his body cast into the water by the levee.

SILVER IS FALLING.

Declining Since Japan Adopted the Gold Standard.

New York, May 26.—The Journal says: "Silver bullion has just sold at 60 cents per ounce, the lowest point it has ever touched, except for a short period in 1894, when it sold at 58 cents per ounce. The steady decline in silver is attracting considerable attention abroad. Paris has been fairly flooded with South American dollars which have been sold on this side as low as 2 francs 22 centimes for the dollar.

"The price of silver in the Indian bazars has fallen to 76 rupees, the lowest price on record. The exchange between London and Shanghai has fallen to almost the lowest, and even at the low rate China does not absorb a large quantity of silver. Dating from the declaration by Japan of its intention to abandon the use of silver as its standard coinage and go upon a gold basis, the price of the white metal has been steadily declining."

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Judge Lochren of the United States court at St. Paul made an order yesterday in the case of Walter F. Colby against the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company, to the effect that the restraining order heretofore issued in the case be in force until the day of hearing, June 5. The state appeared specially by W. P. Warner, who reserved the right to make all objections on the day of the hearing that might now be made.

At St. Petersburg the chess match between Tschigorin and Schiffers has resulted: Tschigorin, 7; Schiffers, 1; drawn, 6.

Winners at the Morris Park, New York races, were Rustler, Divide, L'Alonette, Rensselaer, Nosegy and Woolhurst.

More than fifty members of the house of representatives, many of them accompanied by wives and other members of their families left Washington last evening in a special train over the Southern railway for Nashville, Tenn., to visit the centennial exposition. Several days will be spent in the visit.

Charles K. Hillyard, 50 years old, a well known lawyer of Brooklyn, shot and killed his 12-year-old son, William, and himself Tuesday night, at what hour is not known. Their bodies were found together in a bedroom in the house.

At St. Louis May Campbell, a variety actress, hid in a clothes closet in Maud Devere's rooms today and listened while her husband and Miss Devere arranged for an elopement. Then Mrs. Campbell emerged with a revolver and put five bullets into her husband and one into Maud Devere. She then walked to the four courts and gave herself up.

Officers of the Cuban league have decided to attempt the raising of a fund of $1,000,000 in the United States, believing this will enable the Cubans to establish their independence. The fund is to be raised in two ways—by donations and by the sale of gold bonds at 6 per cent, payable ten years after the evacuation of Cuba by the Spanish troops."

At Newton, Iowa, Albert and Perry Neale, aged 13 and 11, living in Mingo, quarreled over a pet bird at their home last evening. The younger boy took a gun and shot the older in the side causing instant death. He then took a cloth, wiped up the blood and went out on the street to play. No clue to the murder could be obtained until midnight when the boy murderer confessed his crime.

BRYAN INVITED.

New York, May 26.—At a meeting of a joint committee of the Knights of Labor district assemblies—49 and 25 or New York, 220 and 75 of Brooklyn, and 197 of Jersey City—the attitude of Tammany in the approaching mayoralty campaign was discussed with a view of forcing free silver and the Chicago platform to the front.

A letter from Mr. Bryan in answer to an invitation to speak here was read, in which he said a previous engagement for Labor day made it impossible for him to come. A committee was appointed to invite Mr. Bryan to make silver speeches in Madison Square garden and at Cooper Union on July 4—one in the afternoon and the other in the evening—leaving Tammany to celebrate in the forenoon.

It was informally decided that the Knights of Labor should demand a statement from Tammany as to what the organization will do for the Chicago platform. If a satisfactory reply is not received, an appeal will be made to organized labor to put an independent ticket in the field on a platform, including all the declarations of the Chicago platform regarding free coinage of silver.

WEATHER FORECASTS.

New Development Which Will Increase Accuracy.

Washington, May 26.—The most significant development in weather forecasting for years, making it possible to forecast for a period at least sixteen hours longer than at present and more accurately, has been attained by the weather bureau and soon will bear practical fruit. This is the result of experiments with kites flown at distances of one t otwo miles above the surface of the earth, which have been quietly conducted in this city for some weeks.

Daily readings have been taken at this altitude and the fact has been established that shifting of the winds occurs at a mile level above the earth's surface from twelve to sixteen hours before the same change of direction occurs on the surface. This is due to the same forces which operate to cause wind shifts to produce a storm; one condition being dependent on the other. Secretary of Agriculture Wilson has taken great interest in the experiments which were made by Chief Moore of the weather bureau, and his consultations with Professor Moore have resulted in the formulation of a policy which will make weather predictions more valuable in the future.

The most important fact of weather forecasts now is the prediction as to rain or snow. Meteorologists for the past ten years have been impressed with the fact that future data as to storms must come from a knowledge of the upper air. Balloon investigations, as announced today, have reached that point where it can be safely stated that within six months the government weather bureau for the first time in the history of any meteorological service can construct a telegraphic synchronic chart based on air conditions one mile above the earth.

WHAT McKINLEY SEES.

eNw York, May 26.—The Herald has this from Washington: "President McKinley sees in the Cuban agitation a deliberate scheme of the silver senators to break down the treasury and force the country to a silver basis. Both he and Secretary of the Treasury Gage realize that in the event of a war scare the gold reserve would be quickly depleted. The expenditures incident to the preparations for war would wipe out the cash balance in a week, and the treasury would be left without gold for the redemption of notes or currency to meet current expenses. An appeal to congress for emergency legislation would be necessary, and everyone knows what that would be, with the silver men in control of the senate."

NEW RACING RECORD.

San Francisco, May 26.—The Pacific coast breeders have established a futurity stake—$2000 guaranteed—for colts to trot and pace at 2 and 3-year-olds. They will race in 1899 and 1900. Entries close June 1, 1897. Should entries to the stakes prove liberal the Breeders' association intends to offer similar stakes each year and increase the guaranteed value.

Sent Free to Men.

INDIANA MAN DISCOVERS A REMARKABLE REMEDY FOR LOST VIGOR.

Samples Will Be Sent Free to All Who Write For It.

James P. Johnston, of Ft. Wayne, Ind., after battling for years against the mental and physical suffering of lost manhood has found the exact remedy that cure the trouble.

He is guarding the secret carefully but is willing to send a sample of the medicine to all men who suffer with any form of sexual weakness resulting from youthful ignorance, premature loss of memory and strength, weak back, varicocele and emaciation. The remedy cured Mr. Johnston completely of all the ills and troubles that come from years of misuse of the naturally ordained functions and is said to be absolutely reliable in every case.

A request to Mr. James P. Johnston, Box 1061, Ft. Wayne, Ind., stating that you would like a sample of his remedy for men, will be complied with promptly and no charge whatever will be asked by him. He is very much interested in spreading the news of this great remedy and he is careful to send the sample securely sealed in a perfectly plain package so that its recipient need have no fear of embarrassment or publicity.

Readers are requested to write without delay.

In all the wide range of human sorrow there is no more pitiful tragedy than that of the death of a mother at childbirth. It cuts off a life just at the moment when it has achieved its grandest duty and at the very outset of its greatest happiness. It leaves a helpless, motherless babe to the care of strangers who have no blood interest in its welfare. Kind as a Sister of Charity or a nurse may be, they cannot replace the loving ministrations of a mother. This ever recurring tragedy could be avoided if women would but learn the vital importance of caring for the health and vigor of the delicate organs that bear the burdens of maternity. The woman who neglects weakness and disease of these organs is unfitted for motherhood and it only holds out to her the certainty of agonizing pain and possible death.

A sure, safe, and speedy cure for all weakness and disease of the organs distinctly feminine is found in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It prepares for motherhood by making these organs strong, healthy and elastic. If taken during the period preceding motherhood it banishes the usual discomforts. It insures a healthy baby and makes its advent easy, almost painless. It provides ample nourishment for the newcomer, and shortens the mother's period of illness and debility. It is the best of all known medicines for women and over 90,000 of them have said so over their signatures. If you want to know more of it write to its discoverer, Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. 22

A good, practical home medical work is the best friend and adviser a young wife can have. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is such a book. It contains 1008 pages and 300 illustrations. Several chapters are devoted to the reproductive physiology of women and facts that every wife and mother should know. Over a million women possess copies of it. A new edition is ready and will be given away absolutely FREE. If you want a paper-covered copy send 21 one-cent stamps, to cover the cost of mailing only, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y. Send 31 stamps for cloth-bound copy.

FORESTRY

President McKinley Sends the Committee's Report to the Senate.

Many Depredations Were Found in All the Reserves Visited.

New Scheme Submitted For the Governing of Forest Reserves.

Washington, May 26.—The president has sent to the senate the detailed report on forestry made by the committee of the National Academy of Science at the request of the secretary of the interior. The general conclusions of the committee were announced in an abstract furnished by the committee some weeks ago. Th committee goes into details as to European experiments regarding the influence of forests upon climate and stream flow and says the figures demonstrated a considerable progressive reduction in the mean annual, the flood and the lowest water levels upon all the chief rivers draining continents of Europe.

Millions of dollars have been expended during recent years in Europe in checking the force of flood due to mountain slopes by the construction of stone dams and river beds and planting sod and trees. The committee predicts that similar expenditures in this country must follow the destruction of mountain forests if the narrow valleys of the West are to continue habitable. Fire and pasturage are the chief threatening the reserved forest lands of the public domain illegal timber cutting damage being comparatively insignificant.

The committee says the government in permitting free pasturage on the public domain to scrip owners in the public land states and territories is clearly unjust to people elsewhere who must own or hire pastures.

Traces of depredations were visible in all the reserves visited. The segregations of these great bodies of reserved lands cannot be withdrawn from all occupation and use, but should be managed for the benefit of the people of the whole country, not for a class or section. As to this the report says that under a strict interpretation of the interior department 240,000,000 acres of land are thus theoretically shut out from all human occupation or enjoyment, a condition of affairs that should not continue. Land more valuable for its mineral deposits or agricultural crops than for its timber should be taken from the reservations and sold to miners and farmers, mature timber could be cut and sold, settlers within or adjacent to the boundaries unable to procure it in other ways should be authorized to take such material from reserved forests as is necessary for their needs, and prospectors should be allowed to search the forests for minerals.

This general scheme of administration of forest reserve is submitted: A forestry bureau, under a director, who is to be president of an advisory board, consisting of himself, an assistant director and four forest inspectors. It also provides that the bureau should have a disbursing officer, clerks and legal advisers, twenty-six head foresters, twenty-six assistants, to constitute a permanent corps, 500 various assistant rangers, the salary roll calling for an annual appropriation of $250,000, with appointive preferences given West Point graduates. To provide for the survey of all lands reserved, or to be reserved, a board of forest lands is recommended. Holders, corporate or individual, of lands in the reserves are to exchange them for equitable holdings outside.

As to the unreserved forest lands, the report urges withdrawing from sale and entry lands more valuable for timber and for other purposes, and suggests that after survey, those tracts less valuable for forests be opened to sale and entry, and the remainder held permanently for the government.

MEANS REPUBLICAN DEFEAT.

New York, May 26.—W. V. Hensel, of Lancaster, Pa., one of the best known Democrats in that state, was in the city yesterday. "Mr. Wanamaker's speech the other night," said he, "can be taken as a double warning. First, that the Republicans who are not Quay adherents may revolt and not support the ticket next fall; and, second, that if the federal administration recognizes Senators Quay and Penrose in awarding patronage to the exclusion of the anti-Quay Republicans, the men who are ignored will refuse to support any candidate named by Mr. Quay, and will either run an independent ticket or give support to the Democrats. Mr. Wanamaker plainly notified the Washington administration that there are Republicans in Pennsylvania who are entitled to consideration as well as Messrs. Quay and Penrose. There are times when the people of Pennsylvania defeat candidates named by Mr. Quay.

DESERT WANDERERS.

Two Prospectors Who May Have Starved to Death.

San Diego, Cal., May 26.—J. Dietrick, a desert prospector, has arrived at Banner, in this county, almost insane from having been without food for three and a half days. From the story which he tells it is quite possible that two men who were with him on the desert are now dead. Dietrick and James Kerr had been prospecting for over a year on the desert. At Picacho they picked up an old Arizona prospector named Anderson. The three arrived at Salton on May 17. From there they set out for the San Jacinto mountains.

Last Thursday Dietrick went on ahead of his companions but they failed to follow. He went back and found their trail which led out on the desert toward Yuma. He followed the trail for thirty miles and then turning back made his way, nearly dead, to Banner. A searching party will go out from here.

HER ASHES IN COURT.

Novel Feature in a 'Frisco Will Contest Case.

San Francisco, May 26.—An interesting and novel feature of the contest over the will of J. Z. Davis, now on trial before Judge Coffee, is the fact that the ashes of the widow of the testator inclosed in a neat little metal casket, with a circular lid or cover well soldered in, have been introduced in evidence and during the sessions of the court the box occupies a conspicuous position on the desk near the witnesses. After adjournment the box is taken in charge by the clerk of the court and filed away with the other exhibits in the case.

The box was made twice the usual size, it having been the intention of Davis that his ashes should also be placed in the receptacle and mingle with those of his helpmate in life. But owing to the scramble over the estate of the deceased, his wishes in this respect have not yet been carried out.

The evening paper is always carefully read, especially in the home circle, and is therefore an excellent advertising medium. Advertisers in The Evening Herald always get full value.

After all it is Nature that makes the cures. Only now and then she gets into a tight place and needs the helping hand of science. When the right thing is needed to check diseased action and start the organs and tissues on the way to health, Scott's Emulsion comes as the helpmeet of Nature. It feeds, nourishes, strengthens; and it does this all round—the Hypophosphites act upon the nerves; the Cod-liver Oil feeds the body.

DECLINED

Weakness Again Prevailed in the Wheat Markets and Prices Fell.

A Penny Decline at Liverpool Was One of the Bearish Factors.

Fine Weather Also Had a Depressing Effect on the Speculators.

Wheat opened steady notwithstanding the fact that Liverpool, Paris and Berlin cables all came lower. Local crop news and weather reports were generally favorable, although rain was needed in some localities. Northwest receipts showed a sudden falling off, 307 cars being reported this morning against 553 last week and 202 last year. The market was steadied by reports of renewed bad weather in France and by talk here that Northwest receipts will show a drop after this week. The Liverpool market was one of the bearish factors, inasmuch as it opened ½d lower and closed with a loss of as much more, or 1d decline for the day. The fine weather exercised the next most bearish influence on speculative opinion.

Trading was dull on the Duluth board, but this market ruled stronger than that at Chicago, July opened practically unchanged at 72⅝-73c, declined to 72⅜c, reacted to 72¾c, and again sold off to 72⅛c. The close was at 72⅝c, a decline of ½c for the day. The mills bought 17,000 bus of cash stuff at 1¼c over July, and shippers took 6000 bus at 1c over July. Following were the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, cash, 74c; May, 74c. No. 1 northern, cash, 73¼c; May, 73¼c; July, 72⅜c; September, 65⅜c. No. 2 northern, 72¾c. No. 3, 66@67c. Rejected, 50@52c. No. 2 durum—No. 1 hard, 74c; No. 1 northern, 73¼c. Rye, 34½c. No. 2 oats, 21c; No 3 oats, 20½c. Flax, 77c.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 chamber of Commerce and 207 Board of Trade, Chicago, May 26.—Wheat was firm for a short time early this morning on renewed talk of bad weather in France and prospective lighter movement in the Northwest. The buying power was limited, however, and not sufficient to overcome the influence of the weak Liverpool market and the fact of the Paris market closing at a decline in the face of all the bull news from there. The fact remains that our domestic crop prospects are so bountiful that they overshadow everything else at present. Advices from all directions are so favorable that the trade ignores the bull news and even a few reports of chinch bugs and Hessian fly failed to arouse any enthusiasm. Continental houses were good buyers in New York and forty loads were reported worked for export. The decline influenced some shipping business here, about 100,000 bus being taken for millers. Some important long lines came on the market and the sustaining power came mainly from puts. The market closed with a weak tone and under 70c for July.

Corn and oats weak and lower. Large receipts are the factor and receiving houses report large and increasing country offerings.

Puts, July wheat, 69¾-70c.
Calls, July wheat, 70¾@70⅞-75c.
Curb, July wheat, 69⅝c asked.

A LIGHT SENTENCE.

The West Duluth Quack Gets Off Easily.

George W. Riggin, the little, bent old man with a cane, who was indicted for practicing medicine without a license, and who pleaded guilty on the advice of his attorney, was arraigned for sentence before Judge Moer this morning, and was allowed to go with a suspended sentence.

Joe Van Rossenerance, his attorney, made a plea for the old man on the ground that he had been manipulating and selling medicine for years without being arrested, and he thought that the majesty of the law would be vindicated if the defendant was let off with ten days, the minimum punishment, and a warning. He said that the old man was 62 years of age, poverty-stricken, partly paralyzed and he had but few more years to live.

Questioned by the court the little decrepit old manufacturer of remedies said in a trembling voice that he had been making remedies for thirty-one years, and that he had never prescribed for anyone. Judge Moer asked him how long he had been in jail and he replied "nine days." Judge Moer said that he would not send him up for more than ten days, and he would give the tenth day and let him go. The old man touched his foretop with his dexter finger, looked vastly relieved and limped out.

ONE-HALF DESTROYED.

The Village of Dexter Visited By Fire.

St. Paul, May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—An Austin, Minn., special to the Dispatch says: Fire broke out in the village of Dexter, this county, about 12 o'clock last night and about half of the village was totally destroyed. The fire originated in Juleson's hardware store and communicated to all the stores and buildings on the west side of Main street, burning the Milwaukee depot and all its buildings and water tank, the lumber yards and elevators and warehouses. The fire is still burning in the lumber yards, but it is now under control. The Austin fire department went down on a special train. The loss has been estimated at anywhere from $50,000 to $75,000; one-third covered by insurance.

IOWA'S GOLD BUGS.

Des Moines, Iowa, May 26.—The gold standard Democrats are holding a state conference here today. Many Democrats of formerly party leaders in the state are attending. They will probably postpone formal action till after the fusion convention.

BARNEY BARNATO ILL.

London, May 26.—A sharp drop in the Barnato group of South African securities was occasioned today by a dispatch from Cape Town stating that Barney Barnato was suffering from nervous prostration, and that his friends had found it necessary to place him under restraint. Barnato's London report, however, said later in the day that he had received a cable dispatch stating that Barnato was suffering from a light attack of cape fever, but that his condition was not serious.

"Saved From the Horrors of Nervous Prostration" by Dr. Miles' Nervine.

A COUGH does not always indicate consumption. Mr. W. H. Palmer, of Waterloo, Iowa, writes: "I was taken with a nervous stricture of the bronchial tubes, which developed into nervous prostration. I was so weak I could not sit up. I got no sleep for days except when under the influence of opiates. For four months I suffered agonies and prayed that I might die and be at rest. One physician said I had consumption, for I had a cough that gave me no rest. But a good old physician whose medicine had failed, advised me to use Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and I thank God that it has brightened my days, lengthened my life and saved me from the horrors of nervous prostration."

Dr. Miles' Remedies are sold by all druggists under a positive guarantee, first bottle benefits or money refunded. Book on Heart and Nerves sent free to all applicants.

Maccabees Preparing to Go to Minneapolis in Force Next Week.

Three Special Cars Will Be Required to Carry the Party.

Reception to Master Workman C. G. Hinds of the A. O. U. W. Tonight.

The Knights of the Maccabees in West Duluth, together with those of the Duluth lodges, will leave for St. Paul next Tuesday at 9 a. m. to attend the Grand lodge meeting, which will be held there Tuesday and Wednesday. In addition to the lodge meeting there will be a celebration of the sixteenth anniversary of the founding of the order, which will be participated in not only by Minnesota Maccabees, but by knights from Northern Wisconsin, Northern Iowa, North and South Dakota. There will be three special cars attached to the regular St. Paul & Duluth train for the accommodation of the Maccabees. The cars will be appropriately decorated with flags and banners and the journey will be enlivened with music furnished by the Duluth City band, which as been engaged fer the occasion.

The Duluth delegation has two important objects in attending the Grand lodge meeting in full force. The first is to secure the next Grand lodge meeting for Duluth in 1898, and the next is to elect I. N. Chellew one of the two delegates to the meeting of the supreme tent in Cleveland next month. Mr. Chellew is now state commander of the order, and in order to insure his election as delegate the lodge here will waive any claims they may have to any state offices this year. The Duluth knights are confident of success in their efforts to secure the Grand lodge meeting, having received many encouraging promises of support.

LADIES WILL PARTICIPATE.

The ladies of the West Duluth lodge, Degree of Honor, will take an important part in the reception to be given to Charles G. Hinds, grand master workman of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, in A. O. U. W. hall tonight. The reception will take place immediately after the lodge meeting, at which thirteen candidates are to be initiated into the mysteries of the order.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

The Memorial day exercises at Irving school by the primary pupils will be supplemented by a very interesting program, consisting of songs and recitations by the children and patriotic addresses by members of the Grand Army.

A number of West Duluth young people attended the dance given by the Proctorknott cornet band in the village hall last night. They report an excellent time.

W. A. Abramson, formerly of the firm of Mark & Abramson, is arranging to open a second-hand store in the Walker building.

Excelsior R. D. lodge, I. O. O. F. will elect officers at its meeting Saturday night.

The West Duluth baseball club, which now claims the championship of the West End because of having defeated the Proctorknotts two games out of a series of three, will play the Zenith City club next Sunday afternoon.

The regular weekly meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance union will be held in the Congregational church tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The subject for discussion will be "The Relation of Drugs to Health," under the leadership of Mrs. Ellison.

Ring up tel. 3069, West Duluth Steam laundry.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Dull Trading Was the Feature of the Opening.

New York, May 26.—Trading on the stock exchange was very dull at the outset, but values were firm, improvements being shown in the international shares and quite a number of stocks opening unchanged from last night's close. New Jersey Central opened ⅛ higher, Northern Pacific fell off ½ and the preferred stock of the same company gained ⅛. The specialties soon became prominent in the speculation and absorbed considerable of the traders. New Jersey Central was the feature and rose rapidly to 74. Delaware & Hudson also improved sharply. Sugar was largely dealt in at a higher level and an urgent demand by the shorts carried Western Union up 1¼ per cent on a revived rumor that an amicable working agreement would be perfected with the Bell telephone in the interests. The announcement of the engagement of $500,000 gold for export tomorrow led to a marked diminution in the volume of trading, but values were well held.

The market displayed considerable animation and strength after the first hour, very material improvements being shown in a number of shares. The specialties displayed the most aggressive strength and the stocks of these rose from 1 to 1½ per cent, the latter in Tobacco. Purchases of sugar were on a large scale, the price of the stock rising to 116. Chicago Gas was also taken in round amounts for both accounts and improved 1⅛ per cent. Ann Arbor preferred rose 2 per cent. Toward midday Baltimore & Ohio developed marked weakness and fell off 1⅞ per cent. An easier tendency was also manifested in the general list, but the concessions were unimportant aside from Manhattan and New Jersey Central, which lost about a point each. The bond market showed higher prices generally, the extreme gain of 1¼ per cent being registered by St. Louis and San Francisco general fours. The sales of stocks to noon were 112,900 shares.

HE KNEW NOTHING.

A Witness Without a Thought or Idea.

Judge Cant was still engaged upon the case of Mulme Guilbeault against W. H. Singer this morning. The plaintiff rested yesterday afternoon and after the court had denied the defendant's motion to dismiss the case the defendant began to put in testimony and was still doing so at noon today. Yesterday afternoon Theodore Hollister, the defendant's attorney, struck a witness that he had to confess was much for him. He was one of the city's ferrymen on the canal, and what he did not know would make numerous large volumes.

"When you saw the tug coming did you think you could get through?" asked Mr. Hollister.

The witness scratched his head and hesitated. Finally he admitted that he did not know.

"Did you think at all?"

The witness had to give that up.

"Did you have an idea?"

"No."

"Did you think you thought?

"No, I guess not."

After the examination had proceeded on those lines for some time Mr. Hollister gave it up.

THE WEATHER.

United States Agricultural Department, Weather Bureau, Duluth. Synopsis of weather conditions for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 a. m., (Central time) May 26.—The high pressure area overlying the lake region, the Ohio and Mississippi valleys, was again attended by frosts last night in Michigan and Eastern Wisconsin, while the gradual eastward advance of a trough-shaped depression which now extends from Canada southward to Kansas has resulted in showers in Manitoba, Minnesota, North Dakota and the Lower Missouri valley. Numerous light showers have occurred also in Montana and the provinces adjoining it on the north, where the barometer has risen very decidedly, with falling temperature.

Duluth temperature at 7 a. m. today, 41; maximum yesterday, 49, minimum yesterday, 40.

Local forecast for Duluth and vicinity: Showers tonight and Thursday; northeast winds increasing to brisk and possibly high.

JAMES KENEALY,

Chicago, May 26.—Forecast until 8 p. m. tomorrow: For Wisconsin: Showers tonight and Thursday; warmer in north and east portions tonight; warmer in east portions Thursday; increasing southeasterly winds. For Minnesota: Showers tonight and Thursday; cooler in central and west portions Thursday; brisk to high easterly to southerly winds.

THE GOLD MINING INTERESTS.

The last issue of the Rainy Lake Journal which has reached Duluth contains a red-hot roast of the little meeting recently held here which decided to recommend to Congressman Morris that Minnesota should not be placed under the operation of the United States mining laws. It will be remembered that The Herald condemned this conclusion and asserted that it did not reflect the sentiments of the men interested in gold mining in the Rainy Lake district or of the hundreds of men who are anxious to go prospecting in search of fortune on their own account. Since that time the Vermilion Iron Journal has also attacked the conclusion reached at this meeting, and the people of Tower, who are very anxious to see the gold region developed, have signed a petition to Judge Morris setting forth the facts and urging him to have the federal mining laws applied to this region. And now the Rainy Lake Journal has joined the chorus of protests against the decision of the meeting which did not include one man who knew anything about prospecting for gold or the real effect of the mining laws.

The Rainy Lake paper is mad—it says it is "mad clear through"—and its caustic comments indicate that its ire has been thoroughly aroused. It calls those who were at the meeting "lumberjacks," evidently believing that they represented the owners of pine lands, and then it jumps astride their necks in this vigorous and rough fashion:

"According to the Duluth dailies this gang of lumberjacks have coolly instructed one 'Buchanan to write to Congressman Morris and inform him that there is no necessity for legislation of this character at the present time.' Such monumental gall might come with good grace from a government mule, but up to the present instance no one would have surmised that a mule and the aforesaid lumberjacks could be so nearly of the same kith and kin! But the Journal would like to know who these men are that are so cocksure and undertake to speak so glibly for the gold mining men of this region? Upon what meat have they fed that they are so great? What mining men authorized them to make such a statement so contrary to the manifest interests of the gold mining industry of the northern part of Minnesota? Who gave them the assurance that the mining interests of this section favor a condition of things that to secure title to government lands here for mining purposes makes every man doing so a perjurer? Some of the lumberjacks in active eruption in the meetin' claim to be lawyers, and for sake of argument the Journal will grant their claim, and granting that they are lawyers in fact and very truth, they know, if they know anything at all, that no man valuing an oath and knowing mineral existed on a piece of land in this part of the state would dare to take the oath required by the government at the time of making final proof. They know full well, too, and so do those whose mouthpieces they seem to be, that the average prospector is not a man of wealth, and is wholly unable on his own account to scrip land as they so cunningly say can be done to acquire title! True enough, land can be scripped—if you have the money to pay for it! So, too, can land be homesteaded and taken under the timber and stone acts here if you want to perjure yourself to do so. But, granting that the government and everybody wink at the perjury as a necessary and unavoidable evil, it must not be forgotten that these same lumberjacks know that in either case it only serves to pave the way for them to grow fat off of the mining man who may have the temerity to brave the gauntlet of the 'pluggers'and so-called land attorneys who infest that city in his attempt to get title to a gold mine in this state."

It will be seen from the above extract that the Journal is decidedly hot, and The Herald is not surprised, because it knows the sentiments of the gold mining men who are convinced that the lack of development on the American side of the international boundary is due to the difficulty of obtaining title to land on which gold may be found. There is no doubt that the American side of the line is as rich in gold as is the Canadian side, but American prospectors and mining men ignore this fact and go across the border where they can get fairer treatment. There is therefore an urgent demand that legislation to place Minnesota under the operation of the United States mining law be immediately enacted, and the gold mining men are calling upon Congressman Morris to take action without delay. The Journal says: "The only change the Journal would suggest in the law would be to make all claims taken here to be bounded on the points of the compass, and that no lines be allowed to infringe upon another survey. Such a plan would prevent the litigation sure to result from claims taken in any other way, and the law so far as regards this matter could be safely copied from the existing law in the province of Ontario. If such legislation be enacted, and it should be, the northern part of this state will at once be invaded by an army of prospectors, who will not fail to discover hidden riches, and the result will be that progress and development will take the place of the present stagnation, and the wilderness of today will then become the scene of industry on every hand."

MR. BEAULIEU'S RECORD.

Theo. H. Beaulieu, of White Earth, a mixed blood Chippewa, and one of the estimators of the pine timber on the Red Lake reservation, whose work was investigated by Inspector Wright, has contributed a letter to the St. Paul Dispatch, taking exception to a reference made to him in a Washington dispatch to The Herald. The reference is as follows: "Estimator Beaulieu was at White Earth and St. Paul the weeks ending May 4 and 18, while he reported an examination of certain tracts." Mr. Beaulieu says that during those weeks he was draughting maps for the general land office, and had to visit White Earth and St. Paul to properly compile them. He adds: "The special tracts referred to were previously gone over or examined by me, and the reports and dates rendered of the same were in perfect accord with the system and requirements of the office and instructions from the foreman of the corps, and that is all there is to it. The object of the calumnious insinuation, undoubtedly, was a servile effort to create public prejudice against me, and whereby some certain party, adverse to my interest, hoped to reap political capital therefrom."

Mr. Beaulieu had better have refrained from this attack upon the motives of the Washington correspondent who sent out the original dispatch referring to Beaulieu's absence at White Earth and St. Paul while he reported an examination of certain tracts. The correspondent merely quoted from the report of Inspector Wright to the commissioner of the general land office. On page 10 of this report, Senate Document No. 85, the following appears: "Reports furnished to the department show Beaulieu examined secs. 1, 2 and 11, T. 150 R. 32, on the weeks ending May 4 and May 18, 1895, while his testimony shows that he was at White Earth agency and at St. Paul on those respective dates." Perhaps Beaulieu will now claim that Inspector Wright is guilty of "a servile effort to create public prejudice" against him!

The fact is that the evidence taken by Inspector Wright and printed in this senate document places Mr. Beaulieu in a very unpleasant position, and it is strange that he should revive the subject. Perhaps he did not know that the evidence has been printed. It appears that Beaulieu was not regarded as competent to be an estimator. He stated himself that he only had two months' experience estimating pine in 1882 or 1883. On the other hand, several witnesses testified that they had known Beaulieu for from fifteen to eighteen years, and had never known him to do any work in woods or estimate standing timber, before he was appointed an estimator in 1893. Beaulieu made numerous statements to Inspector Wright when first called before him, which were afterwards flatly contradicted, and on page 9 of the report Inspector Wright says: "In regard to statements made by T. H. Beaulieu, considerable latitude should be allowed for same, in view of the fact that, though making positive statements, they were afterwards withdrawn when confronted by those accused. (See statements of Mr. Harmon and others attached to his statement.) He acknowledges accepting others' reports on sec. 2, T. 150, R. 32, and not seeing them himself, on which large discrepancies are found, one 40-acre tract being classed as agriculture, containing 450 M Norway; others reported at 11 M white, containing no white and about 200 M Norway."

It is not necessary for The Herald to indulge in any comment on these and other references to Beaulieu made in Inspector Wright's report. These are reproduced in order to show that the original reference to him in these columns was not made with a desire "to create public prejudice against him," as he claims, but because he figured prominently in the report. It is hardly necessary to add that, as a result of this report, Mr. Beaulieu ceased to estimate Red Lake pine on behalf of the interior department.

The airship bids fair to assist the government in settling the Indian question, if reports from the Pima reservation in Arizona are correct. The medicine men of the Pima tribe by some means got hold of an illustrated paper containing a picture of an airship, and under their sage direction the young Pima braves have nearly finished an aerial craft which will start off into space from the highest bluff in the Pima reservation in a few days. It will be loaded with warriors, and the result will be startling.

The universities of Gottingen and Jena are in close competition for the doubtful honor of being the center of German student dueling. In Gottingen not a day passes that a duel is not fought. Not long since twelve duels with more or less serious results were fought there within twenty-four hours; the record at Jena is twenty-one within the same length of time.

Gen. Benjamin Prentiss, the "hero of Shiloh," who refused to accept any office from President Harrison but the postmastership at Bethany, Mo., a position which he has filled for many years, is said to be in meager circumstances. He was at one time one of the wealthiest men in Illinois.

There has been a sugar war in St. Paul and Minneapolis for several days past, and yesterday the sweet stuff was quoted at twenty two pounds for $1. The housewives bought liberally, and were delighted to get sugar so cheap for the preserving season.

Mr. Vest, on behalf of the Democratic senators, has said that there will be no factious opposition to the tariff bill and no attempt to delay its passage. The outlook is therefore promising for a vote at an early date, after fair discussion.

A state senator in Florida yesterday denounced a member of the lower house of the state legislature as worse than a thief. This would have been sufficient cause for a duel a few years ago, and it may be now in Florida.

The Omaha Bee thinks that one of the reasons why the lower house of congress is not as anxious for a brush with Spain as the senate is that most of the members are under the maximum military age.

Brigham Young's fame is seriously threatened by the multitude of women who claim to have been wives of the late A. J. Davis, of Butte, over whose millions there has been a bitter fight for several years.

Erasmus Ebenezer Ephraim McJinsey has started from Kansas for Washington in search of an office. If his name should not be derailed, he expects to call on the president early next week.

At the coming Democratic primaries in Ohio no one will be permitted to vote who did not support the Chicago platform in its entirety. Those who did not are, of course, not Democrats.

Dr. Deboe, the new Kentucky senator, is a strange representative of the Blue Grass state. He does not drink or smoke.

Senator Aldrich is afraid that the sugar trust may be knocked out by German refiners.

DOMESTIC IDYLS.

New York Journal: Penelope—Why should the groom obtain the marriage license?

Leola—Because he's never allowed any after the ceremony.

Washington Star: "I would gladly lay the world at your feet," the young man exclaimed.

"Dear me," sighed Mabel, "I almost wish you hadn't said that."

"Why?"

"Father is always saying you act as if you own the earth."

Detroit Free Press: Mother—What in the world ever possessed you to give Mr. Bingo a shaving set?

Daughter—He never seems to realize how tender my face is.

New York Weekly: Mrs. De Weary—And so you have been married five years, and are as much in love with your husband as ever?

Mrs. Cheery—Yes, indeed.

"Hum! What business is your husband in?"

"He's captain of a whaler."

Chicago Tribune: "Wasn't it a surprise when young Rockseverth married the oldest of those Berry girls?"

"O I don't know. He had his pick of them, and I suppose he thought he ought to take the ripest Berry."

Chicago Record: "Joblots knows how to please lady customers."

"What does he do?"

"He calls all the married women 'Miss.'"

Cincinnati Enquirer: "My dear, you should not be angry about my not mailing that letter. Let your motto be: 'Forgive and forget.'"

"Oh, yes, indeed! You do the forgetting, and I can do the forgiving, I suppose."

Chicago Post: They had met after some years.

"How's Brown?"

"Pegging along the same old way."

"He isn't his own boss yet, then?"

"Well, I should say not. Why, man, he's married."

A BACHELOR'S REFLECTIONS.

New York Press: Probably Jonah had been trying to fix it with his conscience by singing hymns on board the ship.

You can always tell by the way a girl smiles to herself whether she is in love with a man or not.

After a woman gets to be over 30 she would rather have a home of her own than a husband of her own.

Most girls would never get married if they thought their husbands wouldn't turn out better than their fathers have.

A girl always thinks it is funny that it takes most of the men she meets when she's on her bicycle so long to recognize her face.

A girl with one hole in her glove, one button off her shoe and her skirt open where it ought to come together in the back looks worse than a man with no necktie.

THE PORTER'S TROUBLES.

New York Herald: He wants more wages, says a telegram from St. Louis, and he gives a number of reasons why he ought to have more. Most of them are of interest chiefly to himself or his employers, but one concerns the public. His tips from travelers have so decreased, he says, that they and the wages paid him by the company do not together enable him to live in the style befitting his station.

But why should tips decrease? The porter does not tell us, and perhaps he does not know, but it strikes us as just possible that the traveler is tired of paying a tyrant for tyrannizing over him. Long suffering as we are, there comes a point when we strike. The public in St. Louis seems to have reached that point. In this part of the world we reached it long ago. How many of us have the moral courage to refuse backsheesh or blackmail—the distinction between the two is not always clear—levied upon us must remain unknown. But after having been roasted all winter by the colored gentleman who likes a temperature of 90 degrees, after being patronized by him when he is in a conversational mood, after yielding up our coat and hat to be brushed—they are snatched from us whether we will or no and the hat sometimes seized from the head—and after enduring other woes too numerous to recapitulate, we are not surprised to hear that tips have decreased.

Louisville Courier-Journal: There must be something in the new senator from Pennsylvania, after all.

The new senator from Illinois was bold enough to criticize the fossilism of the senate, but the new senator from Pennsylvania actually refuses to tip the hotel waiters—and the hotel waiters of Washington at that!

Senator Penrose believes that when a man pays for a meal in a hotel he has a right to obtain that meal without paying a waiter for it a second time. He believes that as the hotel keeper charges him both for the meal and for serving it there is no reason why the hotel keeper should not pay the waiter for serving it. He believes, like millions of others, that the permission and encouragement by employers of tipfishing is a gross imposition on their customers, who are thus forced to pay twice for the service of waiters and cooks. Senator Penrose believes these things and he has the courage of his belief. His action and its results are thus described:

"Senator Penrose has studiously ignored the open palm of expectant waiters. He has been deaf to hints. He has been blind to suggestive attitudes, he has ignored discourtesy. Evidently he was a man not to be reached by the ordinary watering methods, and a more drastic course was adopted. The waiters all with one accord deserted his table. He beckoned to one, but his motion was not seen. He called to another, but he was not heard. He summoned the head waiter and demanded his breakfast. The head waiter called a subordinate to serve the senator, but he refused and was discharged on the spot. Another was summoned, only to be likewise treated. Thereupon the whole body of waiters cast off their aprons and walked out. They would die, but give up their sacred tips, never."

Senator Penrose has entered upon a righteous, but, we fear, a hopeless crusade. Good fortune to him, nevertheless. If he should succeed in abolishing the outrageous tip system he would do more good than the entire United States senate has done evil.

INGALLS ON CHAPMAN.

Washington dispatch to the St. Louis Republic: Ex-Senator Ingalls of Kansas is in town. Speaking of the jail life of Broker Chapman, he said:

"In the old barbarous days, if a common, plain, plug citizen violated the laws and was convicted and sentenced to imprisonment, he was hustled into the Black Maria with a policeman on the step and turned over to the jailer with unfeeling and inhuman lack of ceremony. But here, when a man suspected of corrupting legislation defies the senate and is convicted by due process of law, the execution of the sentence is deferred till the delinquent has expressed his readiness to endure the penalty. Obsequious attendants receive him upon his arrival in the city as a distinguished guest. He is consulted about the hour when he prefers to have his incarceration begin. A diagram of the prison is submitted to him that he may select the most eligible apartments. Persian rugs alleviate the harshness of the stony floor. Vans of furniture are forwarded to replace the simpler appointments of the cell. Trunks of fashionable apparel are conveniently stored for his access. Fellow prisoners are detailed to act as valets of the chamber and cup-bearers. A daily menu is prepared by a great chef for the selection of viands and beverages to solace his weary hours. Eminent citizens in carriages escort him to the gate. The iron cot is found to have been removed to make place for a brass bedstead, with luxurious upholstery, whereon this minion of fortune may woo 'tired nature's sweet restorer, balmy sleep.'

"Tyrant evidently had modern Washington justice in mind when he advised man to so live that when his summons came to join the innumerable caravan he should not go like a galley slave, scourged to his dungeon, but—

"'Sustained and soothed by an unfaltering trust,
Approach his grave like one who wraps the drapery of his couch
About him and lies down to pleasant dreams.'

"Hereafter, should this example be imitated, men will come to Washington to commit crime, as in ancient days they went to Jerusalem to worship."

SEW UP HEART WOUNDS.

Can prompt surgical aid save the life of a man stabbed through the heart? It has always been held that any attempt to operate directly upon the heart was worse than foolish, and that to sew up a lesion in the heart proper without killing the patient would be an absolute impossibility, says the New York Journal.

Yet, Dr. Rehe, of Frankfort, Germany, at a meeting of the surgical congress in Berlin on Saturday reported a successful operation of the kind—the first in the history of surgery—and produced his patient living and well before the assembled scientists to attest to its truth.

Describing the case, Dr. Rehe said the man had been stabbed in the right side of the heart. He was conveyed with great haste to a hospital and taken directly to the operating room. The surgeon laid bare the heart in a few seconds, and found a wound in the right side of the organ. He sewed up the orifice and applied general treatment for arresting hemorrhage. The heart worked violently during the operation, but the commotion of the organ gradually subsided, and in due time the wound healed and the patient recovered.

SINCE DAD STRUCK OIL.

Since dad hez struck a streak of luck, an' brought us into town,
I've tried my best to be at rest, and settle calmly down;
But everything's contracted so I don't feel good nor free,
And can't git used to city ways ner they git used to me.
And while we're living better than we ever did before,
In them old days of country ways, when we was all so poor,
Our happiness is kind o' drowned beneath a wild turmoil,
That makes you fret and most regret your dad discovered oil.

We've got two pairs of windin' stairs, a fireplace in the hall,
A Turkish mat, a chiny cat, and pictures on the wall;
And neighbors don't drop in and talk like neighbors uster do,
But simply say the time of day, or mebbe "Howdy-do."
And maw, she orders up next day our driver with his hack,
To drive aroun' the whole blamed town, to pay them callers back.
And when we kick she says the trick is strictly after Hoyle,
Which makes it right and proper now, since dad discovered oil.

And pap, I bet, has a regret that one unlucky day
He gave consent and was content to let maw have her way.
He longs to find a quiet place where he can git a rest,
And kind o' loaf around once more and shuck his coat and vest,
And live a life of calm content, the life we used to prize,
With no one near to laugh or sneer, or none to criticise.
Before we floundered in the swim that seems to soothe and boil
And all about us now, since dad discovered oil.

What do we care for style and things we never had before?
Where is the consolation when a feller's heart is sore?
I want to go and hang around and visit round the place,
A baskin' in the sunshine of an old familiar face,
And hear a girlish whisper, feel a pressing of the hand,
And listen to a language that all lovers understand,
And seek some consolation from this endless world of toil
Which maw calls "social duties" now, since dad discovered oil.
—S. H. Gray in the Buffalo Express.

THE SOUND OF LITTLE FEET.

I listened in the morning
For the sound of little feet
That patter'd along in the sunshine,
Over the quiet street;
For the tones of the sweet voice singing
Some quaint boy'd strain of old,
As I saw the wee hands full of flowers,
And the sunny head crown'd with gold.

I watch'd when the noon was over,
And the clock in the tower struck four,
As the children came slowly homeward,
The hours of schooltime o'er;
And I heard mid the ripple of voices,
The one that my heart lov'd best,
And I saw a smile like a sunbeam
Stray'd out of the glowing west.

And now, in the hush of gloaming,
I watch and I list again;
But the little feet come no longer,
No song floats on the heart strain;
For the flowers and the tired little childheart
Are bush'd into slumber sweet,
Tho' I know that in heaven the angels
Hear the sound of our little feet.

THE BEST

Louis Rouchleau's Idea of the Rainy Lake-Seine River District.

He Considers it the Best Gold Region in the Country.

It Offers Exceptionally Good Inducements to Prospectors and Miners.

Louis Roucheau has returned from a tour of investigation of the new gold mining districts that have recently been attracting general attention, with a view to becoming interested in one of them. He has visited Rossland and the new fields in Idaho, and more recently he has examined the leading mines in the vicinity of Rat Portage. He saw some excellent properties in all of the districts, but is of the opinion that the fields at the very doors of Duluth offer advantages that none of the others possess.

He has satisfied himself that there are paying mines in each of the localities visited, but he saw none richer either in the Rossland or Idaho districts than those he personally examined a few miles from Rat Portage. In discussing the comparative worth of the respective camps he said:

"It is certain that there are two big mines in the Lake of the Woods district, the Sultana and the Mikado. The former is a well-developed mine and the latter is a prospect, the richness of which is now beyond all question. There are no better prospects in the Rossland and neighboring districts, and while it may be possible that no other big mines will be found there, I do not believe it. Others will certainly be found, and the chances are that there will be extensive developments. To prospective investors the Lake of the Woods, Seine River and Rainy Lake district has many advantages over the more noted camps in the far West. To begin with, they are easy of access, and freight rates are comparatively cheap. For instance, a 10-stamp mill, which, with freight charges, will cost about $11,000 in the Rossland country, can be set up complete on almost any location here for $6000. Miners' wages there range from $2 to $3.50 per day, while the best kind of workmen can be employed here for $2, which is an important item to the prospector and miner in a new country. Other items of expense incidental to the development of a gold mine are in about the same relative proportion in the respective districts."

"I expected when I went to Rat Portage to find a whirlwind of excitement, but such was not the case. The people have not gone wild, but are attending to their business in a cool, collected manner not usual in new mining camps. Good properties in large numbers are in the market at low prices, and the most promising feature of it all is that long-time options are offered without any cash payment, so strong is the faith of their owners that development will show them to be all that can be expected.

"I did not visit the Foley mine, but I heard many reports from there of an encouraging character. However, I know nothing of it from personal observation. The Sultana and Mikado I visited and examined thoroughly. I saw the ore body and picked up a number of samples which I had assayed and know absolutely what they are. Dave Adams is making a careful examination of the country, and I expect he will be back in a short time. I am convinced that his report will confirm what I have said."

All it Has Coming.

Some time ago, in the suit of the Wells-Stone Mercantile company to enforce the statutory liabilities of the stockholders of the Washington Iron company, F. W. Paine was appointed receiver of the iron company. Yesterday Receiver Paine filed his report, in which he states that he has received $850.75 as the entire estate, and after diligent search he believes that is all there is belonging to the company.

THEIR TREASURES.

Laid at the Feet of Eveline Sharpley by the Indians.

The Greatest Gift to Man.

Health, or That Which Will Restore it as Furnished by the Indians.

Mrs. Eveline Sharpley of Sibley, Iowa, writes as follows:—

"I was troubled with loss of appetite, restlessness at night and inability to sleep, accompanied by severe pains in my bones, nothing seemed to do me any good until my husband persuaded me to try a bottle of Kickapoo Indian Sagwa, and before I had finished it I had relief. We got five more bottles, and did not give up using it until I was perfectly well and completely restored to health, and although I am 56 years old, I sleep and eat perfectly, and do not know what an ache or pain means."

The above letter is of interest to those who suffer from similar disorders. Little does one know the meaning to them of the loss of appetite and inability to sleep, especially when it is accompanied by severe pains, because it signifies a general breaking down of the whole system. Some serious derangement is the cause, probably existing in the stomach or one of the other great vital organs, the liver or kidneys, causing the blood to be contaminated, and all parts of the body to become weakened and diseased in sympathy. Such troubles cannot be taken care of too soon, and that which will cure the quickest should be sought immediately. Nothing will produce such favorable and quick results as Kickapoo Indian Sagwa, which is sold to-day by all druggists at $1. per bottle, and is exactly the same as it was centuries ago, when it was used by the Indians, when it made them famous for lives of perfect health and great duration. Kickapoo Indian Sagwa is purely vegetable and therefore is perfectly harmless. Our pamphlet entitled "Kickapoo Indian Doctor" gives symptoms of disease and full instructions for home treatment and will be mailed free to any address by the Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., New Haven, Conn.

MRS. DAY'S SHOOTING.

Her Handling of the Gun Delights the Shots.

Mrs. D. H. Day, of this city, who is visiting the different shooting tournaments throughout the South and West is making a fine record and astonishing the crack shots everywhere. A Minneapolis paper in comparing her with Mrs. Shattuck, of Minneapolis, who has held the state honors heretofore, says:

"Mrs. Shattuck, of Minneapolis, one of the best-known women in this state over the traps or in wing shooting, appears to have a rival for the state honors in Mrs. Dr. David Day, of Duluth. This lady has done no better shooting than Mrs. Shattuck has done, to be sure, but surely nothing could be more satisfactory than her performance at a Des Moines shoot recently, where she represented Western Field and Stream. At the opening of the shoot there, she tied Heikes, champion of the United States, at inanimate targets; on Thursday she was tied with Budd and Grimm, the champions of Iowa. She killed twenty straight out of a possible twenty, and did it in a manner that won her the commendation of every gunner on the grounds. Mrs. Day's manner of handling her gun is sensationally pretty. She brings it up with a snap and lets go with an abandon that excites the envy of the oldest trap shots in the country. Once a woman gets the hang of the thing she stands every show in the world of outranking the man as a gunner. She doesn't smoke, doesn't drink, goes to bed early, takes the best care of herself, and has the advantage of the average man in a variety of ways. The odds are that having progressed so far as to be fully confident of her own powers in competition with the best shots in the country, Mrs. Day will eventually become a champion of champions.

"The same chances apply to Mrs. Shattuck of Minneapolis, who is chain lightning on the trap and whose work in field and fen have proved valuable experience. A match between these two ladies ought to draw a big crowd of gunners, and it would certainly prove one of the most interesting events of the season."

HEAVY GATE VALVE.

Contractor Hugo Placed it In Position Yesterday.

Contractor Hugo placed the 19,000 lb. gate valve yesterday in position. This important operation was performed successfully, and today it will be inspected and "trued up" by the city engineer. The handling of this ponderous piece of machinery was very skillfully performed, under the immediate supervision of Mr. Hugo. There are two derricks at Lakewood, but it was decided that both of them combined would be necessary to handle the valve.

The bank of the trench was cut down so as to form a sloping roadway from where the valve lay to the place of its destination, and skids were laid along this incline. The valve was then moved on rollers along these skids by aid of blocks and falls, and by 3 o'clock the first water gate outside of and adjoining the pumphouse well was safely landed at the bottom of the trench. Pipe laying on the Hugo contract was also commenced yesterday, and several lengths of pipe were successfully lowered and placed in the trench.

ANXIOUS TO GET FLOWERS.

G. A. R. Memorial Day Committee Will Receive Donations.

The Memorial day G. A. R. committee on flowers will be glad to receive all contributions from those willing to donate flowers for the purpose of decorating the graves of the soldiers, and more especially would they appreciate such gifts at the hands of the pupils in the public schools. For the purpose of receiving such contributions the committee will be in attendance on Friday afternoon in the vacant store in the Masonic Temple block.

All exercises of the day held by the G. A. R. will be at the cemetery, where Rev. Dr. Cleland will deliver the annual address. There will be no ceremony at the hall other than the assembly of the veterans, who will also disperse from there upon their return from the ceremony at the cemetery at Forest Hill.

In referring to the proposed bicycle races to be held in the afternoon, Col. Helm said that at the grand encampment this summer an earnest effort will be made to alter the date of Decoration day to the first Sunday in June, with the hope that a change to a Sunday will effectually put a stop to the desecration of the day by races, baseball games, etc.

Maccabee Surprise Party.

Charles E. Norman was pleasantly surprised by a large party of his Maccabee friends at his residence, 111 East Fifth street, Monday evening, the occasion being Mr. Norman's thirty-ninth birthday. Card playing, social chat and refreshments contributed to the evening's pleasure. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Chellew, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. LO AS AN AERONAUT.

Pima Indians Are Building an Airship.

Phoenix, A. T., May 26.—The airship craze has invaded the Pima Indian reservation. After a big pow-wow, which lasted many days, the young men of the tribe set to work early last week, under the direction of two of the chief medicine men to construct an aerial navigation ship from a model found in one of the illustrated weekly papers that reaches the reservation. Work has progressed to the point where the thing has assumed definite shape and design.

The ship is a canoe-shaped affair, and the propeller is a huge revolving wheel, very much like that which appears in the illustrations of most of the standard airships. Charles Barnett, who arrived yesterday from the reservation, says the Indians will surely attempt to launch their contrivance from the highest perpendicular bluff on the Pima reservation.

STATE MILITIA ENCAMPMENT.

St. Paul, May 26.—Some of the National Guard regiments will be in camp over July 4, this year. The officers and men have generally found so much fault on Independence day, that Gen. Muehlenberg will send none of them to camp until after it has passed. The Second regiment, Col. Bobleter, will go into camp July 5 and remain until July 10, five days. The men will not be in camp over Sunday. They will go on Monday and come back Saturday. Col. Shandrew, with the Third regiment, and two batteries of artillery, under Maj. Libby, will remain in camp the same length of time. They will go to Lake City, Monday, July 12, and return Saturday, July 17. The First regiment, Col. Reeve, will go into camp July 19 and remain until July 26.

CONGRESS OF ARCHITECTS.

Washington, May 26.—The minister of Belgium has informed the department of state that the Society of Architecture of Belgium has taken the initiative in convoking an international congress of architects to meet at Brussels Aug. 28, and to hold till Sept. 2 following. During the congress a retrospective exposition of architecture will be organized. The United States government is invited to send special delegates to represent it in the congress.

THE WARRING WHEELMEN.

San Francisco, May 26.—The charges recently made by President Potter of the League of American Wheelmen against the recently resigned officers of the North California division of the league have brought forth a caustic reply from Frank H. Kerrigan, ex-chief counsel of the division, who resigned to affiliate with the California Associated Cyclists. The reply is in the form of an address to California wheelmen and is aimed to correct any misapprehensions that might arise from Potter's statements. Mr. Kerrigan's manifesto has been approved by the chief advisers of the associated cyclists.

JUST AT THIS SEASON.

Spring the Most Dangerous of the Year.

This is the most dangerous season of the year. It may be pleasant, may often seem attractive, but back of all the pleasant atmosphere there is danger! This danger comes in some form of sickness.

Almost any sickness starts with a cold or a chill caused by the sluggish action of the system. That is why so many people just now complain of tired feelings, pains in the muscles and bones, loss of appetite, spring fever and similar troubles.

The following is good advice from a prominent medical journal: "Pneumonia and other dangerous complaints, which result from a neglected cold, can always be avoided if a timely remedy is taken. When chilly sensations are felt they should be stopped immediately or serious consequences will follow. There is only one way known to the world of avoiding a cold or chills, and that is the use of a good, pure, strong stimulant. Nothing ordinary will do. It must be something sure in its action and scientifically prepared. For this reason nothing has ever equaled Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky, which is acknowledged today by physicians and scientific men to be the only pure medicinal whisky on the market."

Duffy's Pure Malt is always reliable and effective. People should not, however, permit any dealer to substitute something which is claimed to be "just as good" or "about the same thing."

THE STATE FIREMEN.

Topics Assigned to the Different Departments.

The committee on topics of the State Fire Department association, which is to meet at Little Falls this year, has completed its work and assigned topics to one-half the departments in the state. There are so many departments that only half of them are to furnish papers on topics this year. Following are the assignments made by the committee:

Topic 1—The duty of firemen in relation to the protection of property from water as well as fire. Belle Plaine, Crookston, Faribault, Hallock.

Topic 2—Should not the size of thread in hose connections be uniform in all departments, and the advantages. Chaska, Como, Fairmont, Long Prairie.

Topic 3—The evil of social visits of fire companies by which towns and cities are left wholly or partially unprotected. Benson, Cloquet, Evansville, Grand Rapids, Heron Lake.

Topic 4—The benefit of incorporating in connection with the present laws. Brainerd, Hastings, Mankato, Montgomery.

Topic 5—The saving of life being the first consideration, should not a designated number be detailed for the special duty? Anoka, Duluth, Moorhead, Melrose.

Topic 6—Should not the legislature enact a law creating a state fire warden whose duty shall be to investigate the cause of fires, with power to empanel a jury? Minneapolis, Henderson, Little Falls, Morris, Granite Falls.

Topic 7—The importance of discipline during a fire, with rules and regulations therefor. Austin, Carlton, Canby, Gaylord, Hutchison.

Topic 8—Should honorary members be entitled to vote for company officers? Fergus Falls, Jordan, Litchfield, Lake City.

Topic 9—Should fines be imposed for non-attendance at fires and meetings, or should monthly dues be instead? Arlinson, Cold Springs, Dassel, Lake Benton.

Topic 10—The most efficient means of giving alarms for fire in cities and towns having volunteer fire departments. East Grand Forks, Eden Valley, Gibbon, Hibbing.

Topic 11—Should not a state law be enacted establishing active duty limit and exemption from jury. Alexandria, Chatfield, Jasper, Glencoe, Graceville.

Topic 12—The propriety of paying a pension to permanently disabled firemen. Albert Lea, Brandon, Excelsior, Glenwood.

Company G's Ball.

Company G is actively preparing for its annual ball Friday evening, and the members are taking great interest in it. The decoration of the hall is under way, and it will be elaborately done, excelling anything which has been heretofore attempted in that line. The band and orchestra are busily engaged in rehearsing the music for the dances. The band has never before played for dancing, but the men have nearly all played in the orchestra, and very little practice will put them in fine shape. A number of new two steps and waltzes are being rehearsed, and will be played. There will be two square dances, and William C. Sargent will have charge of them. A number of militiamen from outside are expected.

To Shorten the Time.

Monday, May 31, the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic eastbound passenger train will leave Duluth at 6:30 p. m. instead of 4:30, as at present. It will arrive at Sault Ste. Marie the same time as now, the two hours being made up between Duluth and that point. It will be known as the "Business Men's Special," the object in shortening the time being to make it convenient for those making Eastern trips, enabling them to start on their journey after the close of the business day.

Inman Employe Injured.

James Stratton, an employe of the Inman tug line, was seriously scalded last night. He was going into the hold of the tug on which he works when he slipped, fell from the ladder and against the stove, and a cauldron of hot water was upset over his head, back and arms. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital and his burns dressed, and while he is resting easily today, he will have to stay in the hospital for several days.

GREEN-McKEEVER FIGHT.

San Francisco, May 26.—If the 20-round contest between George Green and Charlie McKeever tonight does not prove one of the most interesting matches of the year, there will be quite a number of sports disappointed. Local patrons of pugilistic events have sized the thing up carefully and while they favor Green's chances to fight they have come to the conclusion that all the requisites for an interesting exhibition of fisticuffs are in sight. Prior to the Green-McKeever go there will be two other contests, the one which promises best being a 10-round match between Billy Elmer and Jim Ryan. Elmer is a comparative novice in the ring. His real name is William E. Johns, and he is an actor by profession.

$4.30—EXCURSION RATES—$4.30

St. Paul, Minneapolis and Return.

The St. Paul & Duluth road has made a $4.30 rate to Minneapolis and return for the state meeting of the Knights of the Maccabees which will be held Wednesday, June 2. It is expected that a large delegation will go from Duluth.

FISHING EXPERIENCE.

Duluth Men Have One of a New Kind.

Now is the season when all who are fond of fishing, and that includes almost everyone, are either going on or just getting back from a fishing trip. Nearly every day there are stories set afloat of big strings and little strings, the usual grind of fish stories. One party that went out recently had an experience that they will remember some time. It would not do to tell their names or the location of the place they visited. They got there at night, and four of them had made arrangements to spend the night at a house near the fishing grounds. The other two members of the party were forced to take up quarters in another house nearby for the night. Once or twice during the night one of the two looked out and saw that the light still burned in the house where the four were quartered, and from the noise it was evident that they were not sleeping well. The two, who tell the story, slept fairly well, and in the morning they went over to call on the four.

All were up, dressed and showing plainly that they had not slept a wink. "How did you sleep," asked one of the two.

"Sleep h——l," forcibly replied one of the four with some very choice specimens of variegated profanity. "We haven't slept a wink."

"What' the trouble?"

"Trouble? Look here," replied one of the four. As he spoke he turned down the covers of one of the beds.

The members of the party say they never saw such a sight in their lives. The sheets were a mass of crawling life, a regular mass meeting of bed bugs. More bed bugs than any of the party had ever imagined existed. The man who had exhibited the outfit replaced the covers with disgust written all over his face and resumed his seat. Pretty soon a large specimen crawled lazily up the side of a pillow and started across its surface. One of the men snatched up a rifle.

"There's one," he exclaimed, and taking a hasty aim he blazed away. When the smoke cleared away the bug and part of the bed were gone. The racket apparently disturbed the colony, for several more made their appearance. The marksman blazed away again, and brought down several more. He also brought up the proprietor of the house, who wanted to know what was the matter. He was promptly overwhelmed with explanations from the party, and again the air became filled with blue rings of profanity.

The man stood through it all in amazement. When a pause occurred he ventured to speak.

"Well, I swan," he remarked, "Ef that don't beat all. Here I've lived in this house for years and I never knew there was any bugs."

Just then a particularly immense bug sauntered carelessly over the pillow. The man with the gun took careful aim and blew the animal into the wall back of the bed. The proprietor stared for a second, his mouth agape, and then without a word turned and went down stairs.

CRANK'S IDEA OF FAME.

Berlin, May 26.—The Lokal Anzeiger of Aix-La-Chappelle today published a dispatch from St. Petersburg saying that a young artisan has been arrested in the park of Tsarscoe-Selo, seventeen miles south of St. Petersburg, where a summer residence of the emperor is located, with a dagger and revolver in his possession. The prisoner says he wanted to murder the czar, become famous and be hanged like other "heroes."

IN THE DAKOTAS.

NORTH DAKOTA.

One of the strongest and coldest winds known at this season blew all day Sunday and a heavy frost Sunday night cut down all kinds of crops, at and near Crary. Much damage was done to garden stuff and all kinds of shrubbery, but while it will make grain somewhat later, it will not damage it materially, as it will make wheat stool, and with favorable weather from now on, the prospect for a good crop is very favorable.

Michigan City and that section of country was visited by a heavy frost last night. Grain is not damaged to any great extent as it was not far enough advanced, but garden stuff is entirely destroyed and will have to be planted again. Old settlers say it was the heaviest frost that ever struck the county at this date.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Hutchinson county has decided to test the constitutionality of the state liquor law so far as it provides for the payment to the state by counties of $300 per annum of the tax collected from retail dealers. The commissioners have instructed the treasurer not to pay over this tax, and the state authorities will now be compelled to assume the aggressive. It has been contended that the legislature has no right to provide state revenue in this manner, to the detriment of the counties. It is regarded as class legislation for the reason that certain counties where no liquor is sold are benefited by the lessening of state taxes, and that the burden is borne by those counties where licenses are issued.

Clay county has only four saloons and the state revenue is but $1200 a year. Yankton county, with sixteen saloons, pays the state $4800. Minnehaha, Lawrence and other counties pay large amounts, while many counties do not pay a cent. Hutchinson county will be joined by others in resisting the payment of this tax, it is understood.

John Gamble, a boy of about 12 years of age, son of ex-Congressman J. R. Gamble, had his bicycle stolen at Yankton. He had left his wheel standing near the pavement while he went into his uncle's law office, when a stranger, evidently a cowboy, boldly and in full view of many persons, took the bicycle, and mounting it spun rapidly out of town. At first nobody thought it strange, as they supposed the machine to be the stranger's, until about an hour afterwards when young Gamble came out and commenced to search for his property. Numerous bicyclists started in different directions to find the thief and the stolen property, and about 1 o'clock yesterday morning Adolph Brecht and Charles Rossteuscher, who had started in pursuit of the thief on a tandem, came in sight of the cowboy. As they gained upon him they discharged their revolvers. The robber took fright, and leaving the bicycle in the road, scampered off across the fields and escaped. The pursuers then returned, bringing the stolen wheel with them.

A Small Spot May be Cancer!

"It was merely a mole at first, and for a long time was so insignificant that I gave it no thought whatever."

These words of a recent correspondent contain an accurate description of the first symptoms of the most violent and destructive cancers as they appear in nine cases out of ten. A slight scab, a small sore, a lump in the breast—a mere spot, harmless as they appear for a time, have developed into cancers of the most dangerous and obstinate form.

Cancer is becoming so prevalent that such symptoms as the above, which refuse to heal and disappear under ordinary treatment, may well be regarded with suspicion.

Being a blood disease, it is folly to expect Cancer to be cured by a surgical operation. The knife never did and never will cure a blood disease, and every time it is resorted to, a life is threatened with sacrifice.

The only known cure for this dreadful disease is S. S. S. (Swift's Specific), as is shown by the indisputable testimony of the many whom it has cured.

Mr. A. H. Crausby, of 158 Kerr St., Memphis, Tenn., says that his wife paid no attention to a small lump which appeared in her breast, but it soon developed into a cancer of the worst type, and notwithstanding the treatment of the best physicians, it continued to spread and grow rapidly, eating two holes in her breast. The doctors soon pronounced her incurable. A celebrated New York specialist then treated her, but she continued to grow worse and when informed that both her aunt and grandmother had died from cancer, he gave the case up as hopeless.

Some one then recommended S. S. S., and though little hope remained, she begun it, and an improvement was noticed. The cancer commenced to heal, and when she had taken seven bottles it disappeared entirely, and although several years have elapsed not a sign of the disease has ever returned.

Mr. William Walpole, of Walshtown, South Dakota, writes: "About three years ago, there came under my left eye a little blotch about the size of a small pea. It grew rapidly, and shooting pains ran in every direction. I became alarmed and consulted a good doctor, who pronounced it cancer, and said that it must be cut out. This I would not consent to, having little faith in the indiscriminate use of the knife. Reading of the many cures made by S. S. S., I determined to give that medicine a trial, and after I had taken it a few days, the cancer became irritated and began to discharge. This after awhile ceased, leaving a small scab, which finally dropped off, and only a healthy little scar remains to mark the place where the destroyer had held full sway.

The Only Hope

For this dreadful disease is a real blood remedy—one purely vegetable, containing no potash, mercury, or other destructive mineral. S. S. S. is the only blood remedy which reaches obstinate, deep-seated blood diseases, and hence it is the only cure for Cancer. The disease can only be reached through the blood, and all local treatment, such as caustic plasters or a surgical operation, only adds to its tortures. Being often hereditary, Cancer, in some cases does not appear until middle life, and it is of greatest importance that its first symptoms be carefully watched and S. S. S. promptly taken. S. S. S. is purely vegetable, and is the only blood remedy guaranteed to contain no mineral or other drug; it is not a drug-shop preparation, but is made from the roots and herbs of the forests. We will mail our book on Cancer and Blood diseases to any address. Swift Specific Company, Atlanta, Georgia.

CITY SUED

Action Brought to Recover For Groceries Furnished For Lakewood Camp.

Complaint Alleges That They Were Delivered to D. A. Reed's Residence.

City is Admitted to Have Already Paid Part of the Claim.

A rather sensational complaint was filed today in the municipal court. The title of the case is H. J. Milsted against the city of Duluth. The suit is to recover $21.76, claimed to be for goods furnished by the Stone-Ordean-Wells company, the claim having been sold and transferred to the plaintiff in the case.

The city is alleged to have been building a waterworks system and to have been boarding and lodging men working on the trench at Lakewood. It is alleged that the board of public works, a city department, had charge of said work, and had full power and authority from said city to do everything necessary for the progress of said work, including board of said men, and to make contracts therefor and to pay for said board on behalf of said defendant, the city of Duluth; that said board, during said times, made and contracted on behalf of said city with one Otto Erickson by terms of which, among other things said Erickson was to get provisions and groceries from the said Stone-Ordean-Wells company, for which the city was to pay.

On or about Nov. 17, 1896, it is alleged that in pursuance of said agreement, the board of public works, by D. A. Reed, its then president, ordered from said company a bill of groceries and provisions, consisting of canned goods, buttter, soap, coffee, etc., the value of which was $61.76; that thereupon and on or about said day the goods were delivered to said D. A. Reed, president of the board, at his residence in the city of Duluth, and that the city of Duluth, by the board of public works, agreed with said Stone-Ordean-Wells company to pay for the same.

It is further alleged that the sum of $40 has been paid on the bill, which was paid between January and February, 1897, and that there is now due on said claim the sum of $21.76..

Mr. Reed, in reference to the matter, said this afternoon that he bought some goods from Erickson and paid him the cash for them. He said that the board always had some money which was due Erickson, and for this reason guaranteed his bill at the Stone-Ordean-Wells company. Erickson bought the goods and Mr. Reed says that he made a purchase from Erickson at one time. He supposed that Erickson had paid his bills, for payment was never demanded of the board.

ENGLAND MAY DRAW OUT.

London, May 26.—A special dispatch from Athens says that Great Britain has declared her intention to abandon the concert of the powers, if it be determined that the occupation of Thessaly by Turkish troops shall be prolonged until Greece shall have paid the war indemnity demanded by Turkey.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

NERVOUS PROSTRATION.

A New Jersey Woman Expresses Her Gratitude to Mrs. Pinkham for Relief.

"Will you kindly allow me," writes Miss Mary E. Saidt to Mrs. Pinkham, "the pleasure of expressing my gratitude for the wonderful relief I have experienced by taking your Compound? I suffered for a long time with nervous prostration and general debility, caused by falling of the womb. It seemed as though my back would never stop aching. I could not sleep. I had dull headaches. I was weary all the time, and life was a burden to me. I sought the seashore for relief, but all in vain. On my return I resolved to give your medicine a trial. I took two bottles and was cured. I can cheerfully state, if more ladies would only give your medicine a fair trial they would bless the day they saw the advertisement, and there would be happier homes. I mean to do all I can for you in the future. I have you alone to thank for my recovery, for which I am very grateful." —Miss Mary E. Saidt, Jobstown, N. J.

THE TARIFF DEBATE.

Anticipation Crowds the Senate Galleries Today.

Washington, May 26.—The senate chamber was a center of interest today, as it was expected that the tariff debate would advance from the state of set speeches to the actual consideration of the bill. This was the program for the ady, as outlined by those in charge of the bill. The public interest in the discussion promised to exceed that of the Cubain resolution and the galleries were crowded from the outset.

At 2 o'clock the senate took up the tariff bill and the formal reading of the bill began.

REVERSED

Chicago Lake Front Case Decision Made By Commissioner Hermann.

Reverses Lamoreux's Decision and Rejects McKee Scrip Applications.

Kinzie's Patent Holds Good and Gives Title to All Accretions.

Washington, May 26.—Binger Hermann, commissioner of the general land office today announced his decision in the Chicago lake front case, reversing the decision of Commissioner Lamoreux and denying and rejecting the application of Harvey M. Lafollette and Mathias Benner to locate McKee scrip on the lands. This allows the patent rendered to Robert A. Kinzie in 1821 to stand for the benefit of the grantees.

The commissioner holds that the Kinzie patent applies to all lands in the tract stretching to the shore line; that the accretions inure to the benefit of those who hold under the Kinzie patent and, thirdly, that there was ample justification for directing and holding a re-hearing. The lands involved were valued at upwards of $15,000,000.

Inspectors Monaghan and Chalk began the inspection of the steamer North Land yesterday, and are still at it today. They will get through tonight. The inspection of an ordinary boat is the work of a few hours, but it takes at least two days to inspect one of these big boats. The North Land will probably make a trial trip on Sunday or Monday.

Tomorrow the inspectors will go to Stillwater and Red Wing, and will return on Monday. They will then begin the inspection of the steamer North West. The steamer John Harper was also inspected today.

Massachusetts Receives the Precious History of the New Plymouth Colony.

A Priceless Manuscript Secured By Efforts of Ambassador Bayard.

Senator Hoar and Many Other Notables Make Brief Addresses.

Boston, May 26.—The Bradford manuscript history of the New Plymouth colony, the document for the possession of which Massachusetts had long been anxious, was formally presented to the commonwealth of Massachusetts by Hon. Thomas F. Bayard, former United States ambassador to England, before a joint convention of the legislature today. The ceremony of delivering the manuscript took place in the spacious chamber of the house of representatives and was of a most impressive nature. Besides the members of both branches of the general court, many prominent officials of the state and other distinguished citizens were present.

After President Lawrence had called the joint convention to order, Governor Wolcott, accompanied by the executive council, Mr. Bayard, Senator George F. Hoar and several Massachusetts congressmen entered the chamber. Formal proceedings were opened by Clerk Coolridge of the senate, who read the decree of the consistorial convention of London, entrusting the manuscript to Ambassador Bayard, to be delivered by him in person to Governor Wolcott of Massachusetts.

The actual presentation was prefaced by an address by Senator Hoar, who spoke in terms of high appreciation of ex-Ambassador Bayard's efforts towards establishing upon a broader foundation the feeling of brotherhood between Americans and Britons. The senator gave in detail the story of the Bradford narration and of the many unsuccessful attempts which had been made to secure it for the United States. He continued: "On Dec. 21, 1895, I was appointed to deliver an address at Plymouth on the occasion of the two hundred and seventy-fifth anniversary of the landing of the pilgrims upon the rock. In preparing for that duty I read again, with renewed enthusiasm and delight the noble and touching story as told by Governor Bradford. I felt that this precious history of the Pilgrims ought to be in no other custody than that of their children. But the case seemed hopeless. I found myself compelled by a serious physical infirmity to take a vacation and to get a rest from public cares and duties, which was impossible while I stayed at home.

"When I went abroad I determined to visit the locality on the borders of Lincolnshire and Yorkshire from which Bradford and Brewster and Robinson, three leaders of the Pilgrims came, and where the first church was formed and the places in Amsterdam and Delft Haven, where the colonists spent thirteen years, and especially to see the manuscript of Bradford at Fulham, which then seemed to me, as it now seems to me, the most precious manuscript on earth, unless we could recover one of the four gospels as it came in the beginning from the pen of the evangelist.

"But the desire to get it back grew and grew during the voyage across the Atlantic. I did not know how such a proposition would be received in England. A few days after I landed I made a call on John Morley. I asked him whether he thought the thing could be done. He inquired carefully into the story, took down from his shelf the excellent though brief life of Bradford in Leslie Stephens' biographical dictionary and told him he thought it ought to come back to us and he should be glad to do anything in his power to help."

Mr. Hoar then recounted his own efforts while in England to get a sight of the precious manuscript and told them he first viewed it in the library of the lord bishop of London and made the first request for its return to the United States. He referred in complimentary terms to Mr. Bayard's success in securing the volume after so many others had failed and assured him that it was an achievement for which the country would ever hold him in grateful recollection.

To the President and Common Council:

Your committee on drains, sewers and parks, to whom was referred the petition of Mrs. A. L. Agatin for a sewer in Second street from lot 12, block 87, Endion division, to Fourteenth avenue east, and the reports of the board of public works and board of health concerning the same, having considered the some, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

ARTHUR J. HARKER,
H. BURG,
THOS. F. TREVILLION,
Committee.

Whereas, Mrs. A. L. Agatin petitioned this council for the construction of a sewer in East Second street, from lot 12, block 87, Endion division, to Fourteenth avenue east; and

Whereas, the board of health recommended that said sewer be built as a sanitary measure; and

Whereas, the board of public works recommends in its report that said sewer be built from Fourteenth avenue east to Thirteenth avenue east, instead of between the points petitioned for; and

Whereas, a resolution of this council was passed on the 17th of May, directing the board of public works to cause the construction of a sanitary sewer from lot 12, block 87, Endion division, to Fourteenth avenue east; and

Whereas, the plan proposed by the said board of public works is more feasible and practicable, and is acceptable to the said petitioner; now, therefore,

Be it resolved by the common council of the city of Duluth, that the resolution of this council passed May 17, 1897, ordering the construction of a sanitary sewer in East Second street from said lot 12, block 87, Endion division, to Fourteenth avenue east be and the same is hereby rescinded, and

In the matter of a report of the board of public works, dated May 10, 1897.

It is hereby ordered by the Common Council of the City of Duluth:

That the board of public works of the city of Duluth cause the following improvements to be made, towit: That a sanitary sewer be constructed in East Second street from Fourteenth avenue east to Thirteenth avenue east.

That said board cause said work to be let by contract as provided by law, and after said work shall be placed under contract said board shall proceed without delay to assess 75 per cent of the amount, as nearly as it can ascertain the same, which will be required to pay the costs and necessary expenses of such improvement, together with the cost of an easement in lands for slopes or retaining walls, for cuts for fills, in connection with said improvement; also for changing or diverting streams and water courses; also for constructing, laying and repairing cross walks and sidewalks, retaining walls, area walls, gutters, sewers, and also for private gutters and sewers, and all other legitimate purposes authorized by the city charter and the amendments thereto, including ten (10) per cent upon the amount which shall be added to the assessment to defray necessary expenses of making survey, plans, specifications and superintendence upon the real estate to be benefitted by said improvement, as near as may be to the benefit resulting thereto, as provided by law. It being the opinion of the council that real estate to be assessed for such improvement can be found benefited to the extent of costs and expenses necessary to be incurred thereby. If the amount so assessed shall be insufficient to complete the work, then, after the completion of said work, the board of public works is hereby ordered to make a final assessment in the same manner as hereinbefore described to pay for the same.

Jury in the Rachel Spellman Case Could Reach No Agreement.

The Twelve Stood Six to Six For Twenty Long Hours.

Trial of the Case Against Register of Deeds Borgstrom is on.

Twelve bleary-eyed men filed into Judge Moer's court at 10:15 this morning and lined before his desk. They had been out all night and they looked it, but there was nothing in their conduct that was reprehensible. They composed the jury in the arson case against Rachel Spellman, and they came to report to the court that they had failed to reach an agreement.

They had notified the court to that effect by a note some time before they came in, but as the county attorney was not present they had to wait until he came. Judge Moer asked the jury how it stood in point of numbers, and one of the jurors replied that they stood 6 to 6. Asked how long they had stood that way, the reply was "twenty hours," and without further comment Judge Moer discharged the jury.

County Attorney Arbury wanted until the conclusion of the Borgstrom case to determine what he should do with the case against Mrs. Spellman, and Judge Moer granted the time.

THE BORGSTROM CASE.

Trial Has Been Taken Up in District Court.

When C. O. Baldwin had seen the Spellman case go into the jury's hands yesterday afternoon he changed his position of defender to prosecutor with considerable celerity, and took up the case against Register of Deeds Peter J. Borgstrom, who was indicted by the January grand jury for appropriating public moneys. The indictment alleges that he received $87.50 as register of deeds from A. A. Harris & Son as fees for furnishing certified copies of instrument, and that he appropriated $63.25 of that sum to his own use.

The task of securing a jury in the case was attended with no little difficulty. Nineteen men were called yesterday afternoon, and out of that number seven jurors were excused. A large proportion of the jury had heard too much about the case to be available as jurors. All the peremptory challenges were exhausted except one which the defense still held. The panel was exhausted before the hour of adjournment, so court adjourned until this morning to use the Spellman jurors.

When this morning arrived and that jury was still out, it became necessary to issue a special venire of fifteen, and the remainder of the forenoon was taken up in waiting for the return on that venire. This afternoon the work of drawing the jury was again taken up.

Those who were chosen yesterday afternoon are as follows: Richard Johnson, James J. Burns, Henry Hansen, Richard Stokes, Eugene Kelly, Olaf Gulbranson, R. Krojanker.

TO CONSULT STOCKHOLDERS

Manager Gray of the Ironton Plant Goes East.

Manager Gray of the Ironton Structural Steel company, with others connected with the enterprise, will leave for the East next Monday. During their absence a consultation will be held with the stockholders and the future policy of the company decided upon. The plant now has but one melting pot with a capacity for twenty tons to a single heat. This is not sufficient to supply the rolling mill and if the plant is to be operated an additional melting pot of thirty tons capacity will have to be put in. This will make it possible to produce about 125 tons of ingots a day ready for the rolls. If the mill is run before this pot can be supplied it will be necessary to secure ingots elsewhere and it is possible that it will be decided to contract for them at once. Manager Gray will return to Duluth in about two weeks.

A Coming Concert.

The concert at the Armory next Tuesday will be attended by an exceptionally large audience, a great many tickets having been sold. It will be given under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hoelscher, assisted by the Aeolian quartet; Mrs. McAuliffe, mezzo-soprano; Mrs. Thornton, contralto; Arthur Lahey, baritone; Flaaten's orchestra; Miss McKay, soprano; Albert Hoelscher, flutist, and Miss Mamie Finnegan, reader.

Judgments Entered.

Default judgment was entered today in two cases in which postmasters were claimed to have been short in their accounts. One was for $445.49 against Thomas Halliday, S. Roquist, Enoch Arden, Emanuel Peterson and Swan Malmquist. They are bondsmen of C. A. Peterson, who was once postmaster at Thomson in Carlton county. The other judgment is for $127.37 against J. B. Sumner, who was postmaster at Pillager in Cass county, and his bondsmen, B. T. Cole and Obadiah Sumner.

Looking For Business.

H. C. Knoblanch, of Leith, Scotland, was in the city today and visited the board of trade. He was here for the purpose of establishing connections for direct export with some of the grain and flour men here. He will hardly be very successful in this, for the men here who are engaged in export business already have connections.

TEN YEARS SICK.

Victim of Nervous Dyspepsia and Nervous Prostration.

The Experience of a Grateful Woman Cured By Dr. Charcot's Kola Nervine Tablets.

Onalaska, Wis.—For ten years I have been the suffering victim of nervous prostration and nervous dyspepsia. I cannot begin to tell you or remember the remedies I have taken or the prescriptions I have tried. Take what I would, I grew worse instead of better, and was well-nigh discouraged. Then came the grateful change. One month ago—on the advice of my brother, who sent me a box—I commenced taking Dr. Charcot's Kola Nervine Tablets. I have taken one box and gained five pounds, but that is nothing compared to the physical relief I have experienced. I am better and happier than I have been for five years. If I could make the recommendation stronger I would gladly do so. Yours gratefully,
MRS. LULU GLEASON.

BOTH HOLD THE FORT.

Two City Engineers Are on Duty Today.

Both Messrs. Patton and Reed occupied desks in the city engineer's office today but the vault was not opened, Mr. Patton holding the fort in the inside office while Mr. Reed camped in the bookkeeper's office. Business appeared to be going on as usual but Mr. Patton being absent during the greater part of the morning Mr. Reed seemed to be in complete control of all active operations.

The city clerk is considerably mystified as to the signature of D. A. Reed which appears on the estimate passed by the council on Monday in favor of N. F. Hugo. He says that he believes that in some way another copy of the estimate was substituted for the one that he read to the council on Monday night, as he is sure that he should have noticed the fact that the estimate was not approved by the board of public works and was signed by Mr. Reed instead of Mr. Patton. This substitution was rendered all the more easy as the estimates had passed through several hands besides his, both before and after the council had approved the amounts of the estimates.

President Smith, Alderman Harker, John Flood and Contractor Steele are inspecting the Carroll-Porter contract today in order to determine the truth or falsity of the charges made against the conduct of the work.

One of the assistant engineers went today to set the big valve put in the trench at the pump house by N. F. Hugo yesterday. Mr. Reed said that the contractor should have waited until the concrete foundation had been completed, but that he was in hopes that no more delay would result from this cause. Three carloads of pipe and valve flanges arrived for the Carroll-Porter contract today.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Reed got weary at being shut out of the draughting room. A bright idea struck him and calling the stenographer, who sits in the outer office, he ordered certain work copied. The original paper was in the draughting room, and when the door was opened to admit the stenographer, Mr. Reed swarmed over Patton's trocha and as a climax captured the duplicate key to the room that had been left sticking in the lock of the door. Satisfied with this acquisition he retired in good order to the outside room and shortly after, having refused to issue a marriage license to a bewildered foreigner, he went home for the day.

Eugene Silberstein Dead.

Eugene Silberstein, the youngest son of B. Silberstein, of this city, died last night at 9:30 at the family residence on West Second street, aged 19 years and 3 months. The funeral will take place tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. from his late home and the interment will be at the Hebrew cemetery. The late Eugene Silberstein was a most exemplary young man and had already displayed much ability in all his undertakings. He was universally beloved by his relatives, friends and companions, and his untimely decease comes as a great blow to the members of his family. The immediate cause of death was pneumonia following closely upon a severe attack of typhoid fever.

Young Man's Death.

William LeSage died yesterday at the home of his brother, G. H. LeSage, of the United States land office. The deceased came here from Montreal about two years ago. This spring he was taken with typhoid fever and was ill for six weeks. A throat affliction followed this and an operation was performed. This seemed to be successful and the young man was able to be around, having been out this week. Yesterday, however, the throat trouble again appeared in a violent form and caused his death in a very short time. He was 20 years of age.

Maj. Sears Returns.

Maj. Sears returned today from Chicago where he has been for ten days or more. He spent a portion of the time in looking over the work on the drainage canal. The progress which is being made, he said, does not appear to the casual observer to be very rapid because of the stage in which the work now is, but in reality a good deal has been done. Maj. Sears spent some time in looking over the plant used.

SPECIAL JOB FOR REID.

Washington, May 27.—If Ambassador Hay makes no objection, Whitlaw Reid will be appointed by President McKinley as special ambassador of the United States at the ceremonies incident to the sixtieth anniversary of the coronation of Victoria as queen of Great Britain and Ireland. The president decided to name Mr. Reid to this place. A cablegram was sent to Ambassador Hay, asking him if he would object to Mr. Reid's appointment. In the meanwhile Mr. Reid is being sounded as to whether he will accept the mission.

FAKE DAMASCUS BARRELS.

Washington, May 27.—Nearly all the real Damascus steel gun barrels that come to the United States are made in Belgium, but for some years the trade has suffered severely from the imitation of the genuine Damascus. The latter is made only by the most expert workmen, while women and children turn out the imitations cheaply. The Damascus pattern is reproduced on the imitation barrels from a paper pattern at a cost of about 12 cents, and the barrels thus treated last as long as the genuine. United States Consul Gilbert at Liege, who reports upon the subject to the state department, says that 90 per cent of the barrels exported from that place to the United States are imitations that would deceive anyone but an expert.

ENGLISH HORSE RACING.

London, May 27.—At first day's racing of the Salisbury meeting today, Richard Croker's bay filly Georgiani was third in the race for the city bowl, valued at 100 sovereigns. Sir William Ingram's Comfrey won.

DISMISSED

Henry Havemeyer, the Sugar Trust President, is Given His Freedom.

The Charge of Contumacy of the Senate Committee Is Dismissed.

Cases Against Secretary Searles and the Newspaper Men Still Stand.

Washington, May 27.—Interest in the trial of Henry O. Havemeyer, president of the American Sugar Refining company, for contumacy of the senate sugar investigating committee, was greatly intensified this morning by the pending motion of the defense to instruct the jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty. It was understtod, of course, that if the court should order an acquittal the case would come to an abrupt close and that the indictments of John E. Searles, secretary of the refining company, and Messrs. Edwards and Shriver, the newspaper men, probably would be quashed. There was again the same crowd of distinguished persons present. Several ladies were also in attendance.

As soon as the court convened this morning District Attorney Davis entered upon his reply to the motion of the defense to order acquittal which Mr. Havemeyer's counsel argued yesterday. Mr. Davis took up the six propositions upon which the defense based the motion, and met them separately, although not in the order laid down by the defense.

Mr. Johnson replied at some length to the arguments of Mr. Davis, after which the court announced a recess till 1 o'clock during which interval he would take the motion of defendant's counsel under advisement.

Upon reassembling the court announced that it substantiated the motion of the defense and the case against Havemeyer was dismissed.

The jury in accordance with instructions of the court returned a verdict of not guilty.

Mr. Davis, the district attorney, said that the verdict in this case would not affect the case of John E. Searles, secretary of the Sugar Refining company, whose trial will be proceeded with tomorrow. Mr. Davis said that Mr. Searles had directly refused to answer questions and that his case was in no ways parallel with that of Mr. Havemeyer.

THAT GROCERY SUIT.

Mr. Reed Has Something More to Say of It.

In reference to the suit against the city for the bill of groceries claimed to have been delivered to Mr. Reed and charged to the city, Mayor Truelsen said this morning that personally he knew nothing about the matter, but that Mr. Reed has given him what he considered a satisfactory explanation of the matter.

In reference to the suit Mr. Reed said today:

"The bill is merely a personal account between Erickson, the Stone-Ordean-Wells company and myself. The city or the board of public works had nothing to do with the matter. I was not president of the board at that time and did not authorize the bill as president. I guaranteed the bill personally because I received the goods and have paid all of the bill except $8.76. The board guaranteed Erickson's bills for groceries used at the boarding camp, but they nor the city are in no way responsible for my private accounts. I had supposed that Mr. Erickson had settled the bill some time ago, for it had never been presented to me for payment. It seems strange to me that the Stone-Ordean-Wells company would allow the account to be negotiated for political purposes."

SEVEN BOATS LOADING.

Large Shipments of Ore From the Missabe Dock.

Seven boats are being loaded at the Duluth, Missabe & Northern ore docks in this city today, and they will take out about 27,000 tons of ore. This nearly approaches the greatest amount shipped in any one day from this dock in former years, but it is not considered unusual now when none but the largest class of lake vessels are being used in the ore carrying trade from Duluth. Last year, when a shipment of 28,000 tons in a single day was made, Gen. Manager McBride considered it of sufficient importance to telegraph to the New York offices of the company, but now a much heavier shipment would not be thought unusual.

Summarily Stopped.

A curious runaway took place on West First street today. A butcher's delivery horse and wagon dashed down Fourth avenue west and turned east on First street. When near the board of trade building the reins slipped down off the seat and caught in some manner on the hub of one of the front wheels. The turning wheel wound the reins around the hub and the astonished horse was brought up on his hind feet so quickly that he did not know where he was at. It took the beast several minutes to recover from the surprise. The wagon was not even scratched.

K. P. ENCAMPMENT.

Indianapolis, May 27.—The arrangements for taking care of the Knights of Pythias supreme lodge and the encampment of the Uniform Rank, which are to be held in this city in 1898, are progressing. Fifty thousand dollars will cover the necessary expenses and an effort will be made to raise that amount. This will cover the prize drills, which will require $10,000.

BUCKET MAKERS KICK.

Oppose a Scheme of the Tobacco Manufacturers.

Washington, May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The manufacturers of wooden buckets in Minnesota and Wisconsin are up in arms at an attempt of the manufacturers of fine cut chewing tobacco to have the schedule in the new tariff bill changed so as to provide that fine cut tobacco must be put in square sealed packages, as is the case with smoking tobacco.

The tobacco men claim that dishonest dealers refill the buckets bearing prominent firm names with inferior tobacco, and wish to prevent this abuse.

A similar attempt was made when the McKinley bill was under consideration, but failed through the vigorous opposition of the bucket makers of the Northwest. They will put up just as strong a fight this time.

FORCED INTO LINE.

Nelson Will Not Hold Up the Tariff Bill.

Washington, May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is not now believed that Senator Nelson will hold up the tariff bill in the senate in order to force his bankruptcy bill through the house. Last week Nelson threatened to do this, but he has been forced into line by the party, so it is said today.

LEEDY'S RAILROAD.

Kansas' Governor Has Another New Scheme.

Mankato, Kan., May 27.—Two thousand Populists held an "indignation" meeting here to discuss railroad freight rates, and this meeting afforded Governor Leedy an opportunity to spring a surprise upon the people of Kansas. After referring to the recent supreme court decision further curtailing the authority of the interstate commerce commission, he declared that the time had come for the people of the West to act, and he asserted that they must themselves furnish the needed relief from exorbitant freight rates. Thereupon he proceeded to outline a plan which, he said, had been maturing for four months.

He announced that he appeared before the meeting as the representative of a company of railroad men who desired to go into partnership with the public in the building of a railroad from some point in Central Nebraska through Kansas, Oklahoma, Indian territory and Texas to the gulf. He said the company he spoke of was able and ready to complete the road, provided the public would take the majority interest in it, and that the public need not put up one cent until the railroad should be completed. The proposition is that the states and municipalities shall hold the majority of stock.

The men associated with him did not propose to take in any outside capital, save that of the states and municipalities, which would be in the majority, and they proposed to run the road themselves or to allow the majority interests to run it. The stocks and bonds of the company it is proposed to issue through the Texas railroad commissioners or the commissions of other states owning it, as might be agreed. Prominent Texans, the governor said, have expressed a willingness to take hold of the scheme, and he believes that Texas is willing to invest some of her $22,000,000 of surplus school funds in securing more equitable freight rates. It is claimed, too, that the 6500 convicts in Texas could be put to work on the roadbed, the state receiving pay for their labor in first mortgage bonds. The governor's plan was enthusiastically received.

DURFEE'S SHORTAGE.

Owes the State of Illinois About $218,000.

Chicago, May 27.—The Post today says: Bradford K. Durfee, late superintendent of the department of insurance for the state of Illinois, has not yet settled with the state. He went out of office May 5, turning over to James R. B. Van Cleave, the new superintendent, all the books, records and furniture appertaining to his office and holding receipts from the auditor showing he had paid into the state treasury about $500,000, the cash income of his office.

Mr. Durfee, in the four years of his incumbency, received of public moneys $728,894. The difference between the receipts and the $509,978 is the amount of cash still remaining in Mr. Durfee's hands—or at least withheld from the state, its rightful owner—and it was, at the time of his retirement, the amount that the last insurance commissioner failed to pay. He was at that date $218,916 short in his accounts.

The Post also prints letters from Insurance Superintendent J. B. Van Cleave and State Auditor J. S. McCullough, outlining these claims Verdict For Singer.

The jury in the personal injury case of Maime Guilbeault against W. T. Singer agreed upon a verdict at 5:30 last night, but as court had adjourned the verdict was sealed when it was brought into court this morning it proved to be in favor of Singer.

Judge Cant next took up the case of Joseph Andre against the St. Paul & Duluth road, to recover $339 for injuries to his horse and wagon, which was thrown about forty fet on the Garfield avenue crossing by a St. Paul & Duluth engine.

The Garfield avenue mandamus case was still on trial before Judge Ensign today.

Lower Rates Named.

As a result of direct negotiations between M. J. Forbes, president of the Consolidated Elevator company of Duluth, and the governing committee of the Western Insurance union, lower rates on the elevators and grain therein have been named.

POLAR

Lieut. Peary Outlines the Plans of His Next Polar Expedition.

He Starts Next Month on the Preliminary Trip Northward.

Will Take Few White Men and Will Depend on Esquimaux.

New York, May 27.—Lieut. Peary, who has just received five years' leave of absence from the navy department, in an interview last night, outlined his plans for his proposed Arctic expedition. On July 8 he will start north on the preliminary journey, the sole object of which will be to make arrangements for the final trip, which will be begun in July, 1898. Lieut. Peary will first pick out a ship for the preliminary voyage. He will select one of the St. John's sealers and have it ready to leave Boston between July 5th and 8th. At Boston, the sealer will take on board a store of supplies. Lieut. Peary will be accompanied by two or more scientific parties which will go north with him to some point near Melville Bay. One of the parties will be conducted by Profesor G. H. Barton of the Massachusetts institute of technology. Another will be led by Professor C. H. Hitchcock of Dartmouth, and a number of Yale scientists will probably organize a third party. These scientists will work independently of Lieut. Peary and will simply be passengers with him. The results of their studies will in no way concern his affairs.

Lieut. Peary's object in his preliminary trip will be to communicate with a colony of Esquimaux at Whale Sound, who are known as the Arctic Highlanders. Mr. Peary has lived with these people and gained their entire confidence and affection. When he left Whale Sound, he says, he was acquainted with every man, woman and child in the colony. He has the utmost confidence in the people and he says they will do anything for him within their power. He will pick out six of eight of the most intelligent young men in the colony and prepare them to take their families north with them and establish another colony which a year later will be his base of supplies. At this village, which they will found, they will work throughout the year, collecting meat, furs, bearskins to be made into boots, sledges and other supplies and collecting and training a pack of the best Esquimaux dogs obtainable. Lieut. Peary says he could utilize the entire tribe in his work if it were necessary. He will have his men arrange affairs so that when he sees them in the summer of '98, they will be ready to move north with him at a day's notice.

Lieut. Peary will be accompanied on this summer's trip by his wife and his 3-year-old daughter, but on the main expedition Mrs. Peary and the child will remain in this country. The journey this summer bill be from Boston to Sydney, then to Cape Breton, where the ship will take on coal, through the gulf of St. Lawrence to Belle Isle and up the Labrador coast to the mouth of Hudson's straits, then to Resolution island and across the South Greenland coast to Melville bay and finally, to Whale Sound, which will be reached in the latter part of July. The return will be made in September.

"The project is entirely my own," he said, "the American Geographical society the technical society most capable of passing on the project, has indorsed it and has promised to subscribe money for the trip when it is needed. The American museum of natural history has also subscribed. I have outlined my plans very carefully, more so than before, and have made use of all the experience I have gained in previous expeditions. I depend largely for my success upon the co-operation of the Esquimaux, and I have complete confidence in them, and know that I can trust them to do everything I tell them and to have everything in readiness for me when I am prepared to start on the main expedition for the pole.

"As for the plans of the main expedition I can say little more than has already been published. I am thoroughly decided on one point and that is, that I shall take with me very few white men. I shall give much attention to the selection of my surgeon, who must be vigorous, active and thoroughly enthusiastic. I shall time the main expedition carefully and be prepared to make the final dash for the pole at precise the time when al lthe conditions are most favorable. From the present time until July, I shall be busy preparing for the preliminary trip. There will be much to do, but I am determined that there shall be no delays, for any interference with the plans that I have outlined might be fatal to the entire project."

MESSENGER KING'S HEARING.

Boston, May 27.—Albert M. King, who fled from Boston last week with $30,000 of the funds of the Boylston National bank in his possession was today taken before United tates Commissioner Fiske and arraigned on a charge of embezzling $30,940 from the bank. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $2500 bonds for the grand jury which meets on June 4. He furnished bonds and was released.

DISLIKES THE INDEMNITY.

Athens, May 27.—The Greek government has sent a memorandum to the powers protesting against the indemnity demanded by Turkey and also protesting against the proposed rectification of the Greek frontier. It is reported that the Turks have confiscated 1,250,000 bushels of wheat at Volo and that the Turkish commander has issued a proclamation calling upon the peasants to return and gather the harvest or their crops will be confiscated.

A SOLEMN CEREMONY.

Two Saints Canonized at St. Peter's in Rome.

Rome, May 27.—The canonization today of the Blessed Zacharia, founder of the order of Barnabites' and of the Blessed Fourier de Mataincour, surnamed the aspostle of Lorraine, was the most impressive ceremony witnessed at St. Peter's since the abolition of the temporal power of the popes, the only difference in this morning's ceremonial and those which occurred under the sovereignty of the popes being that the external gates of St. Peter's were closed and that tickets of admission to the cathedral had to be obtained. The huge basilica was thronged. According to estimates 40,000 persons were present. The approaches to the church were lined by Italian troops. Inside the building were the pontifical gendarmes and the Swiss pontifical guards. Young men belonging to the different Roman Catholic societies, under the direction of the pontifical chamberlains, acted as ushers.

From as early as 6 o'clock in the morning a steam of carriages and pedestrians set in toward the basilica, and by 8 o'clock St. Peters' was crowded. Its interior was aglow with the light of thousands of candles, which a force of 300 lay brothers commenced lighting at the apse where the pontifical throne, surmounted by an immense picture of the Holy Trinity, was surrounded by banners depicting the miracles wrought by the blessed Zacharia and the blessed Fourier. Soon after 8 o'clock the strains of "Ave Maria" heralded the approach of the inaugural procession from the Sistine chapel. It was headed by representatives of the mendicant and monastic orders, and was typical of the entire ecclesiastical orders, from the students to the prelates, patriarchs and cardinals, culminating in the venerable figure of the supreme pontiff Leo XIII, borne by the bearers of the traditional flabelli. His holiness wore the pontifical tiara; in his left hand he carried a lighted candle and with his right hand he blessed the people while traversing the nave.

The procession halted at the altar of the blessed sacrament, to permit of the pope making adoration. Then, after the pontifical noble guard had presented arms, his holiness proceeded to the apse and seated himself upon the throne, on the steps of which were grouped twelve assistant archbishops. The assembled dignitaries of the church made the customary obeisance to the pontiff, the cardinals kissing his hand and receiving the accolade, the bishops kissing his hand and knee and the minor prelates kissing his feet. This ceremony completed, the dignitaries of the church took their places in the stalls. The side seats of the apse were occupied by the princes and patricians of Rome, the Knights of Malta, and the members of the diplomatic corps. The ceremony of canonization followed.

SCORCHED

The City of Ashland Visited By Another Very Destructive Fire.

Grain Mill, Several Residences and Boathouse Totally Destroyed.

Wisconsin Central Road Suffers Some Loss---Lucky Thunder Shower.

Ashland, Wis., May 27.—A destructive fire visited this city at an early hour this morning. It is estimated that the loss will amount to $150,000. The Northern Grain Mercantile company's lower mill is in ruins as are also several residences and boathouses adjoining. The loss on the mill is $100,000. Seven cars, two of which were grain laden, were burned and a portion of the Wisconsin Central's viaduct was ruined. The Central company's loss is about $5000. At 3:30 the fire was threatening a large section of the city, but a driving rain set in and checked the onward march of the destroyer.

A LATER ACCOUNT.

Milwaukee, May 27.—A special to the Evening Wisconsin from Ashland, Wis., says the loss by this morning's fire is now estimated at $100,000. The mill of the Northern Grain Mercantile company is a total loss. The residence of ex-Lieut. Governor Fifield and Manager Gifford of the grain company were badly damaged. The Wisconsin Central trestle is badly burned and unsafe. A thunder shower checked the fire at a time when it threatened the residence portion of the city.

PEERLESS PULLMAN.

Most Perfect Little City in the World.

Chicago, May 27.—George M. Pullman has received from Archduke Rainer two magnificent medals and a richly wrought diploma as testimonials of honor and merit in founding and building the most perfect town in the world. This distinction for the suburb came as the result of an exhibit in the International Hygienic and Pharmaceutical exposition in Prague. The archduke was the projector of the exposition.

Pullman won against the settlements created by Krupp, the gun man, and Stumm, the great maker of steel, and Baron Von Ringhofer. The verdict of the jury was unanimous, finding that Pullman was without a peer in the matter of comfortable homes for workingmen, streets, sewers, water system, shops, public halls, churches, grounds and the rules and regulations governing them. The verdict included the Pullman sleeping car.

WILL FIGHT MR. McNALL.

Fort Scott, Kas., May 27.—J. R. Lord, assistant superintendent of the Metropolitan Insurance company, which State Insurance Commissioner McNall has ordered to discontinue business in Kansas, today received a letter from Vice President Fisk, of the New York office, instructing him to disregard McNall's order and continue in business. The letter asserts that McNall's action is absolutely without authority of law. Counsel for the insurance company is said to be en route from New York to act in opposition to McNall and protect the company's representatives in Kansas.

OKLAHOMA'S OFFICIALS.

Kansas City, May 27.—A special to the Star from Guthrie, O. T., says: Governor Barnes, who was inaugurated yesterday, today appointed Harper S. Cunningham, of Guthrie, attorney general of the territory. Cunningham formerly lived at Salina, Kas., and was well known in that state as a railroad attorney. He is president of the territorial bar association.

SEEDS

Secretary Wilson Will Gather Rare Ones From Every Foreign Country.

And Will Conduct Experiments to Find Out Their Usefulness.

In Future He Will Try to Distribute Them---Beet Sugar Seed.

Washington, May 27.—The benefits that may inure to this country, through expert investigation of agricultural conditions abroad from a subject that is receiving the special attention of Secretary of Agriculture Wilson. He has contemplated for some time the development of this means of securing information and in furthering the idea has adopted a policy of utilizing the services of experts who are abroad and of enlisting the help of government appointees sent to foreign posts. In this connection he says he consulted with several recently appointed ministers and consuls with the result that they will forward reports as to certain lines of agricultural work in the countries to which they are sent.

Consul A. Buck, the new minister to Japan, will forward seeds of ligunes, bulbs, etc., with explanatory notes, while Mr. Patterson, consul to Calcutta will report on agricultural products in the foreign southern latitudes. Many other diplomatic representatives have been communicated with and the result of their inquiries and observations are expected to be important to our agricultural interests. Prof. Plimb of Pardue, Ind., is going abroad this summer, and as a side issue has been commissioned to report on the condition of dairying in the countries he visits. Other scientists will go to Australia and to Mexico and the latter will collect specimens and data, of what may be desirable from the semi-arid regions. Advantage will be taken of the visit of an expert to Central Asia and tre seeds from there are expected.

Prof. Hanson of the agricultural college of South Dakota who has arranged to go to Europe will be sent eastward to Asia to bring seeds of trees and ligunes. Special efforts will be made to obtain the latter in various places because of their power to bring nitrogen from the atmosphere into the soil. Secretary Wilson says it is his intention to prosecute a vigorous search of foreign high and dry altitudes for vegetation that may be introduced with success in similar altitudes in this country.

The plan of action above outlined is the practical demonstration of the policy of gathering rare and valuable seeds for distribution. Mr. Wilson does not expect that the distribution of common seeds can be done away with as he recognizes a considerable demand for them, but so far as possible the rarer kinds will be substituted for the common ones. Next year he says, this government will probably buy ten or twelve tons of sugar beet seeds for distribution.

STATE SUPREME COURT.

A Tax Decision That Affects Big Lumbermen.

St. Paul, May 27.—The supreme court, through a decision handed down by Justice Buck, has reversed the Itasca county district court and declared valid the law of 1892 authorizing the governor to appoint a special appraiser to appraise lands or other property in any county when the people by petition state it to be their belief that property has been undervalued by the assessors.

The effect of this decision is that the Weyerhausers, Morton D. Hull & Co. and the Winona Iron company, as well as other owners of pine lands in that county, will have to submit to an increase of about 100 per cent in the taxes on their pine land holdings in that county, and that they will have to pay the state the difference between the value at which the lands were assessed and their real value from 1888 up to date.

The lands were purchased by the parties to this suit about Oct. 1, 1894. From 1888 to that time the former owners had paid a certain amount of taxes upon them, the amount levied by the assessors, but the people of the county claimed that the lands had been grossly undervalued. In 1893 the legislature passed a law providing that when the people of any county petitioned the governor, stating that certain property in their county was undervalued, and was not paying its just proportion of the taxes, the governor might appoint a special appraiser, not a resident of that county, to appraise the lands. He was to file his report with the county and state auditors, and the lands were to be assessed at the valuation he placed upon them, subject, of course, to the usual hearings, and a revision by the courts or the proper authorities if an injustice had been done.

Govenor Nelson appointed Senator Theden to do this work in Itasca county, and he made his report about Jan. 1, 1894. The assessment of the property was raised in some places as high as 100 per cent. The lumber companies began a fight to have this set aside, and finally carried it into the courts, where they claimed that the law was unconstitutional, on the ground that it violated section 1, article 3 of the constitution, by giving judicial powers to an officer of the executive department; that it allowed the taking of property without due process of law; that it was contrary to the principles of justice on which the state and national governments are founded and that it provided for unequal taxation.

The district court declared the law unconstitutional. The supreme court reverses the decision and turns the lumbermen down on all of their propositions. They did not deny that the property had been grossly undervalued.

The court holds that the act, instead of providing for unequal taxation, aims to equalize it by making these lumbermen pay their just share; that it is an act of justice, and that it does not take property from persons without due process of law, because the parties have notice when they are summoned to court, if at no other time.

Justice Buck, in his opinion, says that if this undervaluation had been on only one or two isolated pieces of land it might have been considered an error of judgment, but as it occurred on eighty-nine pieces in the same county or district, it cannot be so considered, but implies bad faith, which is equal to fraud. Moreover, it is held that the change of ownership will not prevent the state or county from collecting the back taxes due on the undervaluation from 1888 to 1894. It is admitted that this principle may work a hardship in some cases, where the purchaser is compelled to pay these back taxes, but this cannot be allowed to prevent the state from securing its dues.

It is also admitted that the law of 1895 was drastic in its provisions, but the court says that drastic measures are often necessary to right great wrongs, and the law should not be condemned on that account. Numerous decisions of other courts and the United States are cited in support of the various points decided in this case.

Three other decisions were rendered as follows: J. W. Willoughby et al, respondents, vs. St. Paul German Insurance company et al, defendants, August Steffen, intervenor, appellant; judgment affirmed. Charles G. Klotz, as administrator, etc., of Christian Hacker, deceased, respondent, vs. Winona & St. Peter Railroad company, appellant; affirmed Charles E. Carp, appellant; vs. Timothy. Murphy, respondent; affirmed.

ZANZIBAR FREEMEN.

They Seem to Be Prospering Fairly Well.

Washington, May 27.—United States Consul Mohun, at Zanzibar, has informed the state department that the sultan, Hamud Ben Said, on April 7 last, issued a proclamation abolishing the legal status of slavery in the islands of Zanzibar and Cemba. The consul says:

"It was thought by many persons that the effect of freeing the slaves would be to throw many thousand negroes on their own resources and that great sufferings and privations would ensue for three or four years, but from what I can see, not one person will suffer in the slightest degree. In my opinion not 10 per cent of the present generation of slaves will leave their masters, and to outward appearances the condition of the negro is the same as before emancipation. The Arabs received the news with submission. The town was absolutely quiet, although sailors and marines were prepared to land from the British men-of-war in the harbor. I don't think there is the slightest fear of future trouble."

FEES OF TRAINERS.

San Francisco, May 27.—Trainers of prize fighters cannot look to the courts to assist them in the collection of training fees. Judge Seawell has so decided in the suit of J. J. Rauer against Thomas Sharkey. The plaintiff sued for a balance of $900 alleged to be due William Smith for training Sharkey for his fight with Fitzsimmons. Judge Seawell held that the cause of action was one which could not be maintained in a court ofjustice, and ordered the case dismissed.

NEW STEAMSHIP LINE.

San Francisco, May 27.—The Japanese steamship Hupeh, carrying a heavy freight consigned to San Francisco and Eastern points, is expected to arrive in this port about June 10. She is under charter to the Canadian Pacific railroad and is the pioneer, if her voyage across the Pacific turns out profitably, of a new line of steamships between China and Japan and San Francisco. If the experiment is successful it is said that the bulk of trade shipments for the future will come through this city.

LIGHT PUNISHMENT.

Carlton, Minn., May 27.—The case of John Lynch, who a few days ago became intoxicated and drove his family out of home, afterward setting fire to and destroying all their personal property, came up before Judge Bradley yesterday and resulted in Lynch being bound over to keep the peace and put under bonds for $200. Failing to secure same, he was placed in charge of Sheriff McKinnon.

SENOR SAGASTA'S VIEWS.

Madrid, May 26.—It is understood that Senor Sagasta, the Liberal leader, will soon publish an important political statement, in which he will announce his unalterable opposition to the sale of Cuba and his unyielding support of the maintenance of the integrity of Spanish territory.

At this moment thousands of men are standing at the cross-roads of life. Death in the guise of a foolish ambition coaxes them to take one road, while health and happiness in the form of wife and babies coax them to take the other. For the sake of a few added dollars will they continue to over-work and neglect the commonest precautions for the preservation of health, or will they listen to love and reason and draw back before it is too late? A man may do almost any amount of good, hard work if he will take care of his health and when he feels out of sorts will take the right remedy.

The great blood-maker, flesh-builder and nerve tonic is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is the hard-workers' medicine. It corrects all disorders of the digestion, invigorates the liver, purifies the blood and tones and steadies the nerves. It makes the appetite hearty and brings refreshing sleep. Thousands of hard-workers owe their lives to it and have said so over their signatures. Druggists all sell it and all substitutes are frauds.

"I was taken with erysipelas in my hands and went to the doctor," writes Mrs. Lena Baumgartner, of Joy, Charlevoix Co., Mich. "He said he could not cure me. He gave me medicine to ease me but the disease spread all over my body. I took two bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two of the 'Favorite Prescription' and am entirely cured. I have a boy three weeks old. I was helpless two or three months before confinement, but after taking the 'Favorite Prescription' I was able to do my washing three days before I was confined."

There is scarcely a known form of ill-health that constipation will not cause or aggravate. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are an unfailing cure for constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative.

NOBLE

Particulars of His Vast Bequest Made For Public Good.

Over 30,000,000 Kroner for the Advancement of Science, &c.

Five Annual Prizes Worth Nearly $55,000 to Be Awarded.

Washington, May 27.—Some interesting details of the vast bequest made to the public by Noble, the inventor, have been made public by the state department. Alfred Noble, who recently died in Sweden, provided in his will, dated at Paris, Nov. 27, 1895, for the devotion of between 30,000,000 and 35,000,000 kroner for the advancement of science and literature, and it is thought that 3 per cent per annum, the income from the bequest will amount to $240,000 or more. This latter sum is to be distributed annually in five prizes. Each individual prize will therefore be worth between $48,000 and $55,000. Some of the heirs at law are contesting the will, and this probably will de lay the distribution of the prizes.

The following is an extract from the will: "My total remaining fortune, when captalized, shall be disposed of in the following way: When the capital has been converted into good securities by the trustees it shall form a fund, the interest of which shall be distributed annually as prizes to those persons who shall have rendered humanity the best services during the year. The interest shall be devided into five equal portions which shall be distributed as follows:

"One-fifth to the person having made the most important discovery or invention i nthe science of physics; one-fifth to the person who has made the most eminent discovery or improvement in chemistry; one-fifth to the one having made the most important discovery with regard to physiology or medicine; one-fifth to the person who has produced the most distinguished idealistic work of literature, and one-fifth to the person who has worked the most or best for advancing the fraternalization of all nations and for abolishing or diminishing the standing armies as well as for the forming or propagation of committees of peace.

"The prizes for physics and chemistry shall be awarded by the Royal Swedish Academy of Science, that given to works of physiology and medicine by the Carolinski institute at Stockholm, the prize for literature by the Royal Swedish academy at Stockholm, and the prize given to the propagators of peace by a committee composed of five members who shall be selected by the Norwegian storthing. It is my absolute wish that no importance shall be attached to any difference of nationality in awarding the prizes, which consequently shall be given to the most competent person whether Scandinavian or not."

LIQUOR IN ALASKA.

Said to Be Smuggled in Large Quantities.

Tacoma, Wash., May 27.—News comes from Alaska that liquor of double strength is being smuggled into that territory in large quantities. The shipment of liquor there is unlawful, except where special permits are granted, but consignments go by every steamer, though liquor is never entered on the steamer's manifest. The latest way for getting quantities of whisky into the interior is to take it through Alaska in bond for British territory beyond. Being prohibited there, a bond is given British customs officers to take it out in a specified time. Means are found for the taking of it across the line into Alaska at some point not watched by American officers.

It is asserted that in this way 1200 gallons of high proof spirits were distributed among Yukon mining camps last season. By diluting the quantity was increased to 2400 gallons, which sold for $25 per gallon, netting a profit to the smugglers of $45,000. Similar though smaller shipments are being made this year.

SAD FATE.

The New York newspapers recently published the details of the suicide of a society woman who became crazed by headache and drowned herself in the harbor. What a sad end to a life that ought to have been completely happy!

Doubly sad because advanced science could have saved her! Munyon has a specific for all kinds of headache, which cures in three minutes and leaves no depressing effects. One or two doses will stop Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Headaches from Indigestion, Nervousness, Overwork, Colds, Intemperance, or Railroad or Ocean Travel.

In striking contrast to the above sad case is that of Mrs. E. Hardin, 2,959 Germantown Avenue, Philadelphia, Pa., wife of the Clerk of the Board of Education, who says: "For thirty years I suffered with sick headache, which appeared in attacks of severe pain, so intense that I was obliged to remain in bed for days at a time. These attacks appeared almost every week, and at no time did I ever receive relief, although I consulted the most skilled physicians in the city. The headaches seemed to wear themselves out and then commence anew. At last I was induced to try Munyon's Headache Cure. The relief was magical and almost instantaneous. I followed up the treatment and was completely cured—for three years have passed and I have had no return of the headaches. I have recommended Munyon's Remedies to a number of my friends, and I have received their most sincere thanks for many worderful cures that have been accomplished by these little pellets."

Professor Munyon has a separate specific for each disease, the only logical system of medicine.

THAT SEELEY DINNER.

The Participants Will Probably Not Be Tried.

New York, May 27.—It is likely that the persons indicted for participation in the notorious Seeley dinner last January, that was raided by Police Capt. Chapman, will not be tried. The district attorney, according to the Journal, has about come to the conclusion that the best interests of the community demand that the details of the dinner be allowed to remain hurled instead of being brought out in court.

He has lately received numerous letters signed by prominent people, urging him in the interest of society, to allow the indictments to remain where they are. In this class are school principals and school teachers, who state that the publicity given the Seeley dinned has damaged the youthful minds of the community.

SOMETHING TO DEPEND ON.

Mr. James Jones, of the drug firm of Jones & Son, Cowden, Ill., speaking of Dr. King's New Discovery, says that last winter his wife was attacked with la grippe, and her case grew so serious that physicians at Cowden and Pana could do nothing for her. It seemed to develop into hasty consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in store, and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home, and to the surprise of all she began to get better from first dose, and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is guaranteed to do this good work. Try it. Free trial bottles at Duluth Drug company's drug store.

COTTON MILLS DULL.

General Curtailment of Output May Be Made.

Boston, May 26.—A movement which is expected to develop into a more or less general curtailment of production among New England cotton mills is to be inaugurated next month by the mills of the Dwight Manufacturing company at Chicopee, Mass.; the Layman company at Holyoke, Mass., and the Great Falls Manufacturing company at Somersworth, N. H. The officials of these mills give as the reason for this step the present unsatisfactory state of the cotton goods market. All the mills in question are engaged in the manufacture of sheeting, shirting and drills, are capitalized in the aggregate at $4,170,000, and operate 250,000 spindles and about 9000 looms. The curtailment will probably last during June, July and August. It is thought to be not unlikely that the great Amoskeag corporation of Manchester, N. H., may may take action in the matter at the coming meeting of the directors, and that Fall River mills will see the wisdom of falling into line as they did last July.

Advocates of a general shut-down point to the meager showing made in the report of the dividends paid by the mills for the past quarter, from which it appears that thirty-eight corporations have paid to stockholders $192,950, or an average of 7-8 of 1 per cent on a capital of $22,132,000—one of the slimmest showings in the history of the business, and indicating that the surplus accounts from which dividends have been drawn in the past have other purposes. Fifteen of the mills, either been used up or are needed for among which some so equipped as to produce goods economically under the stress of hard times, have passed their dividends entirely, and the stockholders in nearly every other instance have had to be satisfied with about the smallest dividend possible.

OBJECTS TO RELIEF.

London, May 26.—Lord Radstock, secretary of the Society for the Christian Rescue of India, has received a letter from the Rev. J. O. Denning, an American clergyman at Narsinghpur, relative to the dishonesty and incompeteney of the natives, who are administering the famine fund. Mr. Denning says that, owing to the action of the Hindoo members of the local district committee, not a single half penny has reached the poor Hindoos. He adds that the members of this committee opposed all relief of children on the ground that the only orphanage is a Christian one, and that to help the children would be helping the Christians.

QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY OBSERVENCE.

London, May 26.—The official celebration of the queen's birthday was observed today in London with the usual closing of the courts and government offices, the ringing of the church bells, a display of flags, artillery salutes and the ceremony of trooping the color on the horse guards parade, in which the colonial troops, now in London, took part. Although this ceremony was somewhat marred by rain, it was witnessed by large throngs of people. The New South Wales, Indian and other detachments of colonial troops present attracted considerable attention. The royal family was largely represented at the trooping of the color.

DROPPED

Wheat Started Out Strong But Soon Turned Weak and Lower.

The Price Current Crop Summary Bearish and the Weather Favorable.

Receipts Continue to Be Liberal and Export Clearances Only Moderate.

The wheat market opened strong this morning, owing to the short interest created within the past few days, but prices soon tended downward. The early news was not of a character to produce much change in opinion formed upon what was previously known of the market situation. The decline at Liverpool was scarcely the equivalent of the drop in America and at any rate, from having been expected, it did not attract much attention. Later cables showed an advance. The Price Current crop summary was rather bearish and the weather was generally favorable. Northwest receipts showed some falling off but were still liberal, 406 cars being reported against 486 last week and 438 the year before. Receipts at Chicago were 4 cars and the quantity inspected out of store 2500 bus. The details of business at New York for export probably helped to create the firmer feeling with which the market opened. According to that, the sales were 328,000 bus. It is tolerably clear from the seaboard advices and the weekly exports as reported by Bradstreet's that importing countries are disposed to take about as much as this country is willing to part with at about present prices. The export clearances of wheat and flour were only moderate, being equal to 265,000 bus. The nearness of cutting time in Texas and Oklahoma and the expectancy of a large crop owing to the favorable weather were used for more than they were worth to secure a few bulls.

July wheat opened here 5c higher at 72¾c but quickly weakened and declined during the first half hour to 72¼c. Later it reacted ½c, but after noon became weaker and sold down to 71⅝c. The close was easy with sellers at 72c, a decline of 5c during the session. Shippers bought 15,000 bus of cash stuff at 1c over July. The mills were not in the market. Following were the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, cash, 73½c; May, 73½c. No. 1 northern, cash, 72½c; May, 72½c; July, 72c asked; September, 65½c bid. No. 2 northern, 70¾c. No. 3, 65¼@66½c. Rejected, 63½@64½c. To arrive—No. 1 hard, 73½c. No. 1 northern, 72½c. Rye, 34c. No. 2 oats, 21c; No. 3 oats, 20½c. Flax, 77c.

Car inspection—hWeat, 153; corn, 1; oats, 19; rye, 14; barley, 13; flax, 11. Receipts—Wheat, 225,511 bus; oats, 20,270 bus; rye, 1806 bus; barley, 21,427 bus; flax, 6152 bus. Shipments—Wheat, 314,517 bus; oats, 78,571 bus; barley, 57,477 bus.

NEW YORK MONEY.

New York, May 27.—Money on call nominally 1¼@1½ per cent. Prime mercantile paper 3½@4 per cent. Sterling exchange weak with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.86¾@4.87 for demand and $4.83¾@4.86 for sixty days. Posted rates $4.86½@4.87 and $4.88@4.88½. Commercial bills $4.83. Silver certificates, 60¼@60⅝c. Bar silver, 60c. Mexican dollars, 47½c. Government bonds steady. New 4s registered, $1.22¾; coupon, $1.22¾; 5s registered, $1.12¼; coupon, $1.13¼; 4s registered, $1.10¾; coupon, $1.12¾; 2s registered, 96; Pacific 6s of '98, $1.00¾.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Minneapolis, May 27.—Wheat, steady; May, 70½c; July, 70c; September, 62⅝@63c. No. 1 hard, 72½c; No. 1 northern, 71¼c. Receipts, 266 cars.

THE LIVERPOOL MARKET.

Liverpool, May 27.—Closing, wheat futures steady; May, 5s 9½d lower; July, 5s 8d; 1d lower; September, 5s 7¾d; 1d lower. Corn, futures firm; May, 2s 7½d; unchanged; June, 2s 7¼d, unchanged; July, 2s 7¼d; 1d lower; September, 2s 6½d; 1d lower.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 207 Board of Trade.

Chicago, May 27.—Wheat opened slightly higher but closed 5c lower than yesterday and at the put price for the fourth day in succession. Liverpool cables hardly reflected our decline of yesterday and this together with the somewhat lighter movement in the Northwest caused some early covering by shorts. After this the market sagged off a cent to 69c for July on the slump at St. Louis where the trade was excited over the prospect of early receipts of new wheat from Kentucky and Tennessee. Clearances were only fair and the total for the week promises to be considerably less than last week's. Liverpool closed 1d lower and the San Francisco market has been declining steadily for a week. About 165,000 bus cash wheat were worked here today for shipment while the cash sales of yesterday and today are rather encouraging, yet in the face of our steady decline they are much smaller than would naturally be looked for. There was good short selling today by several leading operators and the market appears to offer few inducements to buyers at present. The probability is that the coming government report will be very bearish and will give the cue to foreign buyers.

Corn and oats weak and fractionally lower on continued selling by commission houses.

Provisions steady. Some pressure to sell ribs and lard but pork seems to be in good hands.

Puts, July wheat, 68¾@68¾c.
Calls, July wheat, 70-4@69⅝c.
Curb, July wheat, 69¼c bid.

GRADUATING EXERCISES.

St. Luke's Hospital Nurses Receive Their Diplomas.

Last evening at St. Paul's Episcopal church the graduating exercises of the training class of St. Luke's hospital were held and six nurses received their diplomas. They were: Miss Mary Louise Kennedy, Miss Letitia Zillah Wilkie, Miss Mina Belle Webster, Miss Mary Avison, Miss Kathleen Elizabeth Burrows and Miss Charlotte Richardson.

The exercises were in the form of a service conducted by Rev. Dr. Ryan. The vested choir rendered music. The address was delivered by Dr. J. M. Robinson. He said said that while there is much discussion as to the profession which are and should be open for women there never has been any as to her right to the calling of nurse. It is recognized as a field belonging largely to woman. The time was when the profesion of nursing was looked upon as something degrading, but this has changed and largely through the efforts of Florence Nightingale until it has become today one of the accredited callings. He spoke of an innovation which has been introduced in some cities and he commended it highly. It consists in the formation of nurses visiting societies. A number of nurses form a sort of association and arrange for visiting patients for an hour or two or three a day for a small fee instead of taking charge of their case for the entire day. Under this arrangement a person who is not very ill and cannot afford to hire a nurse can secure the services of one for an interval in the day. The plan has been very successful and is heartily appreciated by physicians. In closing Dr. Robinson gave the nurses some advice as to the profession which they are to follow:

Rev. Dr. Ryan spoke of the great work of nurses and of the close alliance of the profession with Christianity. He then presented the graduates with their diplomas and Miss Taylor, matron of the hospital gave each the badge of the hospital. Mrs. Snapp sang "The Way of Peace" at the close.

A reception in the church parlors followed and a large number attended. Mrs. Snapp and F. W. Maynard sang. Refreshments were served.

Not Enough Evidence.

William Laplante and William Blanchard, who have been in jail since May 7, on an indictment charging them with assault in the second degree, were released this morning, the county attorney having concluded that there was not enough evidence in his possession to secure a conviction. They were charged with making an assault upon one E. L. Havorsen on the night of May 15, with an unknown dangerous weapon.

An informal reception was then tendered the distinguished visitor, and refreshments were served. When the board had been cleared of the good things with which it was spread, dancing was begun and continued to a late hour. The grand master workman expressed his satisfaction at finding the lodge in such a flourishing condition.

AGAINST DICKERMAN.

Decision By Secretary Bliss in a Land Case.

Washington, May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Secretary Bliss today denied, for lack of jurisdiction, the application of Walter H. Dickerman for the institution of a suit to vacate the patent issued to the state of Minnesota to land embraced in the case of Dickerman against the state from the Duluth district.

Dickerman claimed that the patent was illegally issued as the land in controversy was not swamp at the date of the grant and therefore did not inure to the state under the swamp land grant.

THE WEATHER.

United States Agricultural Department, Weather Bureau, Duluth, Synopsis of weather conditions for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 a. m. (Central time), May 27.—A shallow barometric depression extends from Kansas to Lake Superior, having drifted slowly eastward, with decreasing intensity, during the past twenty-four hours.

Showers have resulted in Iowa, Missouri, Western Illinois, Eastern Nebraska, South Dakota, Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, Manitoba, Northern Minnesota, and Ontario, the rainfall being generally light, except at Davenport and Denver, where the twenty-four hour rainfall is .68 inch, with rain still continuing.

Partly cloudy weather prevails, with slightly warmer east to south winds and falling barometer, in the lake region, the Mississippi and Lower Missouri valleys, and fair weather with cooler north to west winds in the more westerly districts.

Local forecast for Duluth and vicinity: Probably showers and warmer this afternoon; generally fair tonight and Friday; light, variable winds becoming fresh to brisk northwest by tonight.

JAMES KENEALY,
Local Forecast Official.

Chicago, May 27.—Forecast until 8 p. m. tomorrow: For Wisconsin: Partly cloudy with showers this afternoon and probably tonight, with warmer in extreme east portion; Friday partly cloudy with cooler in west portion; fresh southeast winds. For Minnesota: Partly cloudy with showers in extreme east portion tonight; Friday fair; cooler; fresh northerly winds.

DISTRICT SCHOOL MEETINGS.

There is an erroneous idea prevalent in many of the common school districts throughout the state that the law passed by the last legislature relating to school meetings in such districts takes effect this year.

This law provides that the officers of each common school district shall be a director, a treasurer and a clerk, who shall be elected by ballot at the annual meeting which shall be held on the third Saturday in June of each year."

It is provided, however, that this act shall not go into force until after Jan. 1, 1898, so that the annual meetings this year in all the school districts should be held as usual on the third Saturday in July. The officers then elected will serve until the next annual meeting in June, 1898.

WAR MAY BE RESUMED.

There are strong indications that the Turko-Grecian war will be resumed. The sultan appears to be obdurate in his demand that Thessaly shall be ceded to Turkey as part of the Greek indemnity, and there is said to be dissension among the great powers in regard to the subject. It is not known that any one of the powers favors the permanent retention of Thessaly by the Turks, although the German emperor may not be opposed to the idea. Some of the powers, including Russia, have advocated a Turkish occupation of Thessaly until the indemnity is paid, but England has firmly demurred to such a project. This has produced complications, which may entirely prevent the arrangement of peace, and in consequence the Greek government is preparing for a renewal of the war. Should hostilities be renewed, the bad feeling produced by the failure of the peace negotiations may drag some of the great powers into the conflict and a general war may result.

England is in honor bound to stand by the Greek government now, because it was largely due to the interference of the English that the Greek navy failed to accomplish anything in the recent campaign. The Greek navy did little more than the Turkish fleet, idly lying at anchor in the Dardanelles, when it was anticipated that it would be of great assistance to the land forces by bombarding Turkish ports, cutting off their communication by sea and destroying their supplies. The Chicago Tribune says the apparent reason for its paralysis has been explained in diplomatic circles in Washington, and the fault is ascribed to English interference. When it became known that the Greeks had planned naval demonstrations of an important nature, they were notified by the British minister that under no circumstances would their fleet be allowed to attack either Salonica or Smyrna, as it would be prejudicial to England's commercial interests. It was due to English menaces that the Greek fleet was idle at Prevesa. When the fleet sailed toward the bay of Salonica and destroyed a Turkish depot of supplies at Platamona the British blockading squadron at Crete was ordered there and stopped the operations of the Greek vessels. It was thus the most powerful arm of the Greeks was rendered impotent. The Greeks could not fight the English on the water and the Turks on the land. An army ten times their number confronted them on the one hand and the most powerful fleet of the world on the other.

It will thus be seen that England is really responsible for the success of the Turks in gaining complete control of Thessaly, and should now stand by the Greeks, even if it be necessary to send the English fleet to force the Dardanelles and compel the sultan to listen to reason.

THE GREATEST MONOPOLY.

Last week, Standard Oil stock sold at 313 3-4, which is almost the highest figure recorded for the stock of this remarkable monopoly. It is noteworthy in view of the great decline in value of other stocks and the great depression in commercial and industrial circles. Standard Oil stock has doubled in value since the panic of 1893. In the latter part of that year, when all other values were on the down grade and depression lowered everything on the list, Standard Oil securities began to rise, and the upward movement continued until today the capital stock of $97,000,000 is worth the enormous sum of $300,000,000. And now it is said that in order to consummate the purchase of certain European oil properties, this capital stock will be doubled.

The Chicago Chronicle says that in 1896 the shareholders of the organization received dividends of 51 per cent, and already in this year 20 per cent has been distributed. The total amount of dividends distributed in the years from 1893 to 1897, inclusive, is $104,225,000. This organization controlling oil fields, pipe lines, coal, iron, gold, copper, zinc, silver and lead mines and railways, is in the hands of nine men, one of them John D. Rockefeller, owning 51 per cent of the capital stock. If, as is contemplated, it secures control of the Russian and other oil property it will then have a real monopoly, perhaps the only one in the world.

THE COST OF PENSIONS.

Col. Ainsworth of the war department has given out some figures which show how generous this country is in paying pensions to its war veterans and their dependants. He says the government is paying $140,000,000 annually to 970,678 pensioners, of which number 219,000 are widows. The Union survivors of the civil war are 1,095,628, and of this number about 769,000 are on the pension rolls, leaving only about 300,000 who are not receiving monthly stipends. Of the total number of pensioners, quite a few are veterans of the wars of 1812 and 1847 or their widows, as well as a small number of widows of revolutionary heroes.

The amount the government annually pays to its wounded and disabled soldiers and their dependants is nearly twice as large as the amount Great Britain pays to maintain its army. It is greater by $39,000,000 than the cost to France of the maintenance of its standing army of 600,000 men. It is $27,000,000 more than Germany pays to keep in a state of efficiency the most expensive military establishment in the world.

But, as the Detroit Journal says, our government pays the enormous tribute of gratitude to its preservers with no thought of its proportions. These veterans preserved our heritage with valor and by suffering immeasurable hardships, and the least return we can make to them is to keep the wolf from their doors while they remain with us. True, many undeserving ones share in the distribution of the pension moneys, but the proportion is comparatively small, and it is better that ten undeserving veterans be pensioned than that one deserving one should be denied the privilegeof sharing in a grateful government's bounty. There is no doubt that hereafter the yearly pension appropriations will grow smaller, as the veterans and their dependants are steadily decreasing in number.

The Chicago Chronicle thinks, and many will agree with it, that the "new" clergymen are going too far. One of these in New Jersey has put a phonograph in his church and uses it to save himself from the trouble of praying, reading selections from the Bible and asking the divine blessing upon the congregation. He has dismissed the soloists of the choir and the congregation is now regaled by phonographic reproductions of the voices of great singers in sacred music. Logically carried out, this would result in the dismissal of the preacher himself and the substitution of Edison's invention instead. Then the worshippers, at a nominal cost per month, could listen to the greatest clergymen of the world and would be relieved of the necessity of pound parties and other drains upon the purse.

Senator Fuller of Morrison county, who is editor of the Little Falls Transcript, modestly disclaims the authenticity of the report that he is to be made receiver of the Duluth land office, and expresses the opinion that The Herald is "joshing" some of the Republicans hereabouts. But, since it is said all the Sixth district senators are to be taken care of by our congressman, why should not Senator Fuller get the receivership?

The Chicago lake front case has been decided by Land Commissioner Hermann in favor of the Kensie patent, by virtue of which the present owners of the valuable land claim title. Commissioner Lamerous, it will be remembered, decided the other way, but his decision was never promulgated. The case will finally be settled in the courts, and Judge Lamoreux may yet be sustained.

A Larchmont, N. Y., clergyman has obtained a divorce in North Dakota on the grounds that his wife was cruel, because she disturbed him by playing golf on other than ladies' days, by not wearing her hat on straight and by indulging in a swagger walk. Evidently he would not have a minister's wife follow in the footsteps of the wordly minded.

The Washington correspondent of the Chicago Record says: "The increased tax on beer will not be pressed. The Republicans are already convinced that it is a very unpopular proposition and that they will have to discover some other way of raising revenue."

An exchange has figured out that in point of frequency of pestering office-seeking visits to the White House, Senator Mason of Illinois heads the list, with Cullom of Illinois second, Nelson of Minnesota, and Proctor of Vermont third and Quay fourth.

No doubt the Minneapolis Journal will claim that State Auditor Dunn was instrumental in causing the supreme court to decide the Itasca county lumbermen's case, so that they must pay double the taxes they have been paying heretofore.

A Spanish count is in North Dakota looking for a divorce. It seems strange that he should come so far to be released from matrimonial bonds, when he could have stopped off a day at Chicago and obtained the desired relief.

There will be a congressional election in the Fourth Indiana district on Aug. 10, to choose a successor to Judge Holman. It is ordinarily a close district, and the result may be a good indication of public sentiment now.

The Herald is pleased to learn that Congressman Morris is considering the question of extending the federal mining laws to the Rainy Lake gold district, and will probably prepare a bill to accomplish this result.

Congressman McLaurin of South Carolina, who has been appointed to the senate to succeed the late Senator Earle, is only 37 years only, but possesses great ability. Although a Democrat, he is a protectionist.

Ex-Congressman Conger of Iowa, who has been made minister to Brazil, filled the same position for four years under the Harrison administration.

Ex-congressmen and Ohio men are taking all the federal plums in sight.

Is it not time for Minnesota to be given at least a little consulship?

BREEZY OBSERVATIONS.

Cincinnati Enquirer: The lie passed between them.

And yet they parted as friends.

To relieve the awful uncertainty it may be stated at once that the lie was printed on a can of maple syrup.

Kalamazoo Telegraph: Something whizzed by—a minglement of steel spokes and red bloomers.

"What is that there?" asked Uncle Hiram, withdrawing his gaze from the high building to look after the vision.

"That is the new woman," answered his nephew.

"The new woman? Looks like the old boy."

Indianapolis Journal: Watts—I don't believe women have any sense of humor at all.

Potts—My wife has. There can't anything happen out of the common but she says "why, that's funny."

Chicago Post: "I tell you, sir, we're slaves to our landlords."

"Yes?"

"Yes, indeed. It's an outrage that we should have to pay rent."

"It's a good deal of bother at times."

"Then why do you do it?"

"I'm too lazy to move."

Washington Star: "Father," said the bright little girl, "what is loaf sugar?"

"There are several kinds, my dear," replied Senator Sorghum. "The most important variety is that which enables a man by a little superior knowledge and prompt action to place himself beyond the necessity of working any more."

Cleveland Leader: Smith—I tell you the man who is always ready to seize an opportunity is great.

Brown—Yes, but he is a greater man who can distinguish an opportunity from a live wire.

Detroit Free Press: "Why on earth did you marry that grass widow?" demanded Mr. Ricketts, angrily, of his son.

"It was in following your own advice, father."

"Following my advice, you idiot! I never advised you to marry her."

"No, but you always told me to make hay while the sun shone."

THE LAWN MOWER.

I love to hear the music
Of the mower on the lawn,
Awaking sleepy echoes
At the first faint flush of dawn.
But dearly as I love it,
If I ever had to shove it
The grass would grow forever
Just as sure as you are born.

A BACHELOR'S REFLECTIONS.

New York Press: A woman always ends an argument by repeating just what she said that began it.

The only thing worth living for is old age, and the only thing worth dying for is childhood.

The average girl would rather be caught in swimming than to be seen with a gingham apron on.

Life is like a nutmeg grater—you have to rub up against the rough side of it to accomplish anything.

As soon as a man begins to get bald and too big around the waist he is said to have reached his prime.

When a girl goes walking with a man she always laughs and acts so interested in all the babies they meet.

A woman always has a few old letters saved up somewhere which she can find and cry over on a rainy day.

Adam didn't mind the fall very much, because he knew, whatever happened, Eve could never remind him of the promise he made at the altar when he married her.

IN THE DAKOTAS.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Dan Cunningham, accused of killing a man named Barnard, of Cook county, Wyoming, was arrested at Minot by Sheriff Livermore, of Burleigh county. Cunningham has been driving a stage there for some months. The killing occurred last December. Cunningham confesses the crime. He and his accomplices dragged Barnard from bed and lynched him.

The first grand jury in the past eight years in Grand Forks county will report for duty Tuesday and there is much speculation over what it may do. There will be a number of blind pig cases. Normand, the murderer of the Hillstad children, will be indicted and the assignment of the North Dakota Milling company will be aired. The regular June term of the district court also convenes June 1.

William R. Mitchell, who was a fusion candidate for the house from the Wheatland district last fall, has signed a contract to erect at Wheatland a 2-story brick hotel 40 by 70 feet in size. The work will commence next week and it will cost $5000.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

The president of the electric light plant of Sturgis has a contract for wiring Fort Meade for electric lights. It will save $300 a year over the cost of kerosene oil, which has been used heretofore. The Standard Oil company made a fight to prevent the change. The electric railway will soon be extended from Sturgis to the fort.

The mystery of the postoffice robbery of last August at Bryant has been solved by the confession of two young men, who acknowledge having taken the stamps. They have given bonds to appear next winter.

The Fort Randall military reservation, comprising 40,000 acres, will be open to settlement by homestead entry June 1. The land is on the west side of the Missouri in Gregory county, and is very desirable for agriculture.

THE ISLES OF GREECE.

(As they were not sung by Lord Byron.)

The Isles of Greece, the Isles of Greece!
Where burning Sappho loved and sung,
Where warriors battle best in peace,
Where Dios rose and Phoebus sprung.
Just like a yellow omelet—
I beg to say, their sun has set.

Paretic poets long have writ
About their strength on land and sea:
Of how they forced the Turk to git
And walloped every enemee:
They need a poet now, you bet,
To pen at least a triolet.

Prince Constantine! Prince Constantine!
The boss retreater of the day.
You need a poet, too, I ween,
To sing a merry roundelay
On how you never do forget
To go indoors when it is wet.

The Isles of Greece! The Isles of rGeece!
Where kingly George sits in a trance,
Where vai rous mobs their yells release,
But do not by the slightest chance
Enmesh themselves in Turkey's net—
Indeed, the army runneth yet.

The sons of Greece in cellars sit
And drink their mugs of foaming beer;
And hatch their schemes of war, to-wit:
"We'll fight it out on paper here."
'Tis thus these valiant knights agree
To make a new Thermopylae.

They do not weep for days more blest
With prattling poets than are these.
They do not care for Fame's high crest,
If they have but their beer and cheese.
Why should they seek the bloody Turk,
When warfare looks so much like work?

Some day we'll have an epic true,
With Constantine bestride a nag,
Askip the merry tra-la-loo,
Bereft of every royal rag,
H—l bent for Athens' ancient gate,
Pursued by Abdul's men elate.

Some day the story will get out
Of how no Greek e'er fought at all,
Of how success was naught but rout,
And there was ne'er a Turkish fall.
And then, without the king's consent,
His palace will be up for rent.
—St. Louis Republic.

SPEAKING ABOUT CUBA.

Minneapolis Tribune: We should not be too severe upon the Spanish authorities in Cuba. Didn't Gen. Obregon Scold his soldiers real hard the other day when they dragged a wounded Cuban officer to death at the heels of a horse because he claimed American citizenship? And didn't he give the mangled remains a decent burial?

Springfield Republican: Spain's prond and ill-judged refusal to Secretary Olney's offer came nearly a year ago, and whether the feelings of her government have changed since then we have no means of knowing. Yet another campaign of subjugation has in the meantime failed, and Mr. Olney's communication has even greater weight today than when it was written, because if the situation was deplorable then it is more deplorable now.

Louisville Courier-Journal: There is no occasion for becoming excited over the action of the senate yesterday in passing the Morgan resolution recognizing Cuban belligerency. In so far as that action reflects American sympathy for the struggling patriots of Cuba it has general approbation throughout the country. In so far as it is an interpretation of international law or a construction of fact, the people of the United States are not disposed to split hairs regarding it. In any event Spain has her hands full and is not likely to go out of her way to pick a quarrel and invite a drubbing.

New York Tribune: It is an old story, rehearsed anew, and perhaps to be repeated yet again. But it can scarcely last forever. The show years turn ever forward, never backward. The power of Spain upon her colonies is waning, and must one day cease. The demand of the people for self-government is growing stronger, and must some time prevail. But beyond that inevitable change there lie harrassing problems, such as more than one emancipated Spanish colony has found almost to overtax its strength, and such as even the United States has not yet fully settled. The end of the old story will come, but it is to be sought not lightly and heedlessly, but with grave appreciation of its mighty import.

SPOILS OF WAR.

Chicago Times-Herald: Perhaps the sudden convalescence of the "sick man of Europe" is due to the fact that he has lately taken a little Greece.

St. Louis Republic: In the matter of an indemnity Greece can well afford to concede all that Turkey asks. All she can do is to concede the demand, for there is no money in the treasury, and there is no reason why Turkey's wishes should be curbed. If Greece can substitute promises to pay for concessions of territory she will make a bargain.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Turkey's indemnity demands shrink with a steadiness which shows that she never expected to get her original figure. There is a strong probability that she will never get anything in the shape of money out of Greece, and very little in the way of territory. She has won some prestige, however, at a very small expenditure in either money or blood, and even if she should get no other compensation she would have no right to complain.

Philadelphia Press: The Shiek-ul-Islam's utterances as to the will of Allah calling for Turkish possession is all very well; the shiek dispenses the will of Allah according to pressure of palace influences. However significant his utterance may be it is not so important as the dispatch announcing that German engineers will survey a route connecting the Thessalian railroad with that in Macedonia. Unless this is the merest bluff it indicates a definite intention on the part of the porte to hold on to Thessaly at all hazards. And for one England cannot allow this. What of the others? Will the concert fight over this?

Philadelphia Inquirer: It is difficult to see how Greece could raise money with which to pay a war indemnity. Her national debt amounts to $65 per capita, more than five times our debt, and her securities are quoted in London at 19 cents on the dollar. Turkey's financial condition is equally as precarious. For some time her expenditures have exceeded her revenues by $5,000,000 a year, and for the last loan that she negotiated she had to pledge her customs duties. There is no record in modern history of two such bankrupt nations going to war with each other, and with as much sang frold as was ever possessed by a Micawber.

Astonishing Cure of Bladder and Kidney Trouble After Using Hobbs Sparagus Kidney Pills Three Weeks.

Oswego, N. Y., Nov. 26, 1896.

About three years since I was attacked with a violent affliction of the bladder and kidneys. For a year I was confined to my bed and the inflammation was so violent that I passed apparently nothing but blood. The care of my physician, after long suffering, relieved me, but about Sept. 1 of this year the disease again made its appearance more violently than at first. I was unable to work and had no reason to expect anything but a long painful illness with but little hope of recovery. I saw your advertisement of Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills and bought one box and took the medicine as directed. About the third day the good effects become apparent and in less than three weeks I was completely cured.

I cannot express my thankfulness for my recovery, and shall recommend the use of your remedy to all my friends affected in like way.

Every word of this is true. The only fault I find is, that it does not give a real idea of my suffering. Perhaps words will not express it, but your medicine is wonderful and I thank you for new life and health.

I can thoroughly recommend your pills to any one that is troubled with rheumatism and kidney trouble.

WHERE FISHING IS GOOD.

Those looking for the best fishing grounds are reminded of Lake Tetonka, at Waterville, and Madison lake, on the Minneapolis & St. Louis railroad.

Wall-eyed pike, bass and crappies are found in great abundance at both of these lakes, which have not been fished out to the extent of some of the older and better known localities.

Excellent hotel accommodations, boats, bait, etc., on hand, and all charges are very reasonable.

DR. HOBBS

SPARAGUS KIDNEY PILLS.

Continue to Increase in Favor and Popularity With Druggists in General and the Public in Particular.

Their Sale in Duluth Keeps on Growing to an Extent that is Absolutely Marvelous.

MORE AND MORE SOLD DAILY

RETAIL DRUGGISTS KEPT BUSY TRYING TO MEET THE DEMAND.

The unprecedented demand upon the retail druggists of Duluth for Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills, applies to surrounding towns and cities also.

The fact is, there is an evident general demand for Dr. Hobbs' remarkable kidney remedy everywhere in this vicinity.

This shows conclusively not only the vast number of persons there are in this section who are in one way or another afflicted with kidney troubles or kindred ailments, but that Dr. Hobbs' has won the entire confidence of these people by his great discovery.

Physicians in this neighborhood gaze with amazement at the extraordinary cures effected by this modern remedy. One of the fraternity was overheard to say a day or two ago, "I don't have any faith in any of these so-called patent medicines and never had since I began the practice of medicine, but in this case I am forced to think Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills is a great kidney remedy. I lately received a quantity of these pills with a circular from Dr. Hobbs, in which he openly gave me the ingredients of his discovery.

"Since then I have used them to quite an advantage in my practice. In fact, some of my patients who have been taking these pills have been actually cured of their kidney troubles, while others have reported that they are feeling much better. All I can say is: 'Honor to whom honor is due.'"

It is barely possible the physician who made these statements did not think they would be printed in this paper, but at all events he was fearlessly honest in his expressions and he is entitled to credit in making them. Any conscientious physician who can find advertised remedy that will relieve distress, should not hesitate to prescribe it to his patient even if it is not considered ethical to do so.

Dr. Hobbs again desires to say that he will be pleased to send free to any physician in Duluth samples of his pills with a circular giving their ingredients. Physicians desiring samples will please address Hobbs Remedy company, Chicago, Ill.

FOREIGN MISSIONS.

Presbyterian Assembly Takes Up That Division.

Eagle Lake, Ind., May 26.—The first order today in the Presbyterian general assembly was the report of the committee on foreign missions. The report showed that efforts had been made to curtail expenses as far as possible, in view of the reduced receipts, but in spite of such efforts, an increased deficit was reported. A large part of it was due to a falling off in the item of legacies. It was suggested that the extra effort to extinguish the debt of the board had an effect upon contributions to the cause of foreign missions, the women's boards and to the young peoples societies. Mention was made of necessary retrenchment, but the basis of it was not specified. Six foreign missionaries died, and eighty-three were sent out during the year, a large proportion of whom, however, returned to former fields of labor.

The receipts were as follows: From churches, $270,479; women's boards, $299,115; Sabbath schools and young people's societies, $54,049; legacies, $69,736; miscellaneous sources, $95,549. Unused appropriations and the sale of properties on the field increased the assets by $60,129.

The total expenditures were $936,061, of which $57,621 was for administration and printing.

The total debt amounted to $113,229, which was reduced by receipts from the anniversary reunion fund to a net debt of $97,454.

The largest appropriations were made for work, as follows: China, $174,697; India, $167,373; Japan, $78,145; South America, $80,000; Syria, $59,065; Siam and Laos, $71,114; Persia, $75,193; Africa, $41,385. The board had securities to the amount of $257,583, the interest of which is available for current work. It also owns securities of $38,102, upon which it has not yet realized, and special funds aggregating $366,866, of which $134,455 belong to the permanent fund.

The Presbyterian building in New York stood the board in $929,885, of which $54,740 belonged to the interest account and $14,203 represented the taxes. Loans on the building aggregated $610,0000, and $17,054 had been received from rentals. The gifts made toward the building amounted to $270,-893.

The selection of Charles W. Hand, of Brooklyn, as treasurer of the board was announced.

TODAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

Eagle Lake, Ind., May 27.—The interests of the American Sabbath union occupied the time of the Presbyterian general assembly today during the first half hour, usually devoted to devotional exercises. Dr. J. W. Hathaway, president of the union, presided and made remarks during which he said that the desecration of the Sabbath in America had no parallel in Europe. A report was made by Dr. Withrow of the committee on bills and overtures concerning organic union with the Southern Presbyterian church. The following answer was made and adopted by the assembly: "We reiterate our readiness to take active steps toward such union as soon as the Lord in his providence shall open the way."

An official letter and salutations were ordered sent to the general synod of the German Reformed church. A negative answer was sent to the request of the National Temperance union that the assembly send a delegate to their convention. A committee of fifteen was ordered appointed, representative of all shades of opinion in the church, to arrange a plan of co-operation and harmonize all interests engaged in the work of home missions. The importance of this action lies in the fact that the contest over the board of home missions in the assembly this week grew out of differences of opinion upon this subject.

The judicial committee, Dr. Minton, chairman, reported recommending that as the assembly had already adjusted the matter, Dr. R. R. Booth and others be allowed to withdraw the appeal against the synod of New York. This had reference to what was done in enjoining presbyteries from students of Union seminary under their care with a view of licensure.

A report was made by Rev. W. H. Hubbard, editor of the denominational paper, the Assembly Herald, upon the work done by him. He said that the paper was not in accord with the boards of the church because unlike them it was out of debt, self-supporting and had a balance. One hundred and twenty thousand copies have been circulated each month at an annual subscription of 10 cents each. It was also reported that the Congregational church has followed the example of the committee.

THE BIWABIK BUDGET.

The Contract For Building Roberts Mine Spur.

Biwabik, May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Col. W. E. Dorwin and Harry Roberts have secured the contract for grading a two-and-one-half-mile spur from the Duluth & Iron Range track to the Roberts mine near McKinley. The contract calls for completion by July 15, but it is doubtful if the work can be done in that time, unless a big force of men is employed. The contract for clearing the right-of-way will be sublet, probably to Shank Bros., of this place. Martin Beckett, of Two Harbors, will build camps and board the men. This work will help the business men of Biwabik to a considerable extent.

Joseph Sellwood and a party of Eastern men were here yesterday in President Greatsinger's private car. They inspected the mines here and at other points on the range.

The young people of the village surprised Mrs. Thomas Flanagan last night at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Laird. Mrs. Flanagan departed this morning for her home in the West.

The Roberts Mining company, of McKinley, has sold 20,000 tons of ore and will begin shipping as soon as the new spur is completed.

The new pump is being put in at the Cincinnati and mining with a full force will be resumed within a few days.

John S. Lutes, chief clerk of the Biwabik mine, made a business trip to Duluth this week.

Miss Edith Williams, one of the teachers in the public schools, has been quite ill of late, but is now recovering. Her place was filled by her brother, Richard Williams.

For packing and moving household goods go to Duluth Van Co., who are headquarters for that business, at reasonable prices. 212 W. Superior st.

FIELD DAY

High School Athletic Contests at the Driving Park Yesterday Afternoon.

Track Was Heavy and Records Were Slow But Were Satisfactory.

Chester Terrace Gives Ashtabula Terrace an Awful Drubbing at Ball.

It did not rain much while the annual field day of the Duluth High School Athletic association was going on yesterday afternoon for a wonder. The high school boys for several years past have invariably picked out rainy days for their field day. There was rain earlier, however, and the cold east wind made it quite like old times. One field day long to be remembered it not only rained, but it blew and snowed so considering everything, yesterday was not half so bad as it might have been. The field day was a good one. The track being somewhat heavy because of the dampness, prevented extraordinary records being made, but the boys have every reason to congratulate themselves. For considering the circumstances the contests were well fought out, and the team of winners that will represent Duluth in the Ashland and Minneapolis events, will be a good one. There was a good attendance.

The part of the events attracting most public interest are the bicycle races. MacArthur won two out of these events and he might have won the third but for an accident. In the quarter mile race MacArthur, Gridley and Nelson were lined up together in a close finish with a very slight advantage in favor of MacArthur. When the trio were a couple of yards from the goal Nelson lost control of his wheel Gridley to finish first. MacArthur made second and Nelson third. MacArthur second and Nelson third. McArthus and Gridley led the finishes in the other bicycle races, and the contest between the two was warm.

In the 220-yard dash McGinnis and C. Olson ran a dead heat in 26 seconds, and as both will go to Ashland it was not necessary to decide it. The events resulted as follows:

Quarter mile bicycle—Gridley, first; MacArthur, second; Nelson, third; time, 36 2-5 seconds.

Mile bicycle—MacArthur, first; Gridley, second; Brewer, third; time, 2:49 4-5.

Two mile bicycle—MacArthur, first; Gridley, second; time, 6:01.

Fifty yard dash—McGinnis, first; William Olson, second; Naughton, third; time, 6 1-5 seconds.

Shot put—Richardson, first, 40 feet, 11½ inches; Park, second, 35 feet, 8 inches.

Hundred yard dash—McInnis, first; W Olson, second; C. Olson, third; time, 11 2-5 seconds.

Mile run—W. L. Estrange, first; T. E. Kelly, second; O. Poirier, third; time, 5:22 2-5.

Standing broad jump—Richardson, first, 9 feet 8 inches; B. Howard, second, 9 feet 7 3-4 inches; E. Henderson, third, 9 feet 2 inches.

Hundred and twenty yard hurdle—E. Henderson, first; A. Richardson, second; Reuben Smith, third; time, 22 2-5 seconds.

Half mile walk—C. Tibbetts, first; R. Fox, second; time, 4:07 4-5.

Running broad jump—A. Richardson, first, 18 feet 6 inches; C. Naughton, second, 17 feet 7 inches.

Half mile run—E. Lynch, first; O. Poirier, second; time 2:18.

Hammer throw—T. Parks, first, 90 feet 6 inches; A. Richardson, second, 83 feet 8 inches.

Running high jump—L. Bradley, first, 4 feet 9 inches; A. Richardson, second, 4 feet 8 inches; E. Henderson, third, 4 feet 7 inches.

Two hundred and twenty yard hurdle—R. Smith, first; E. Henderson, second; time, 31 2-5 seconds.

Four hundred and fifty yard dash—E. Lynch, first; E. Richards, second, time, 1:1 4-5.

Pole vault—O. Martin first, 9 feet 4 inches; M. McGinnis, second, 8 feet 5 inches.

The team that will represent Duluth at Ashland next Monday and at Minneapolis on the following Friday will be made up of the winners of first and second places in yesterday's events. The games were pulled off in very quick time yesterday, the entire program occupying little more than two hours and a half.

The officers yesterday were as follows: Dr. N. B. McNulty, referee; Henry Meining, starter; John Loman, Mark Baldwin, judges; Rufus Draper and David Paddack, field judges; A. S. Ames, time keeper; Ralph Miller, clerk of course.

A TERRIBLE DEFEAT.

Chester Terrace Falls All Over Ashtabula.

The great Ashtabula-Chester terrace baseball game, which has been the talk of the town for ten days, is over. The slaughter was something awful and it is no wonder that the clouds were black and lowering and that their pent-up fury burst forth early this morning in thunder, lightning and terrific rain. It was enough to make a wooden Indian weep.

Fifty-one to twenty-five is the score of this remarkable game. One man is said to have kept a detailed score of the game, but he took it out after the game and buried it in an unknown spot. It is well that he did so for no score could convey an adequate idea of the wonderful features of that game.

Chester terrace went to bat first. Pitcher Mosher and Catcher Barnes took their places and the other seven Ashtabulas scattered themselves most anywhere over the field. The slaughter began. The prediction that the first side to bat would win the game was verified. When the routed Ashtabulas got the necessary three men out, thirteen Chester men had crossed the plate.

Then the Ashtabulas came forward, but the smiles that donned their faces lacked confidence. Mulford Wade went into the box and Will Edson put on the mask. Barnes lined out a three bagger and the Ashtabulas hugged each other for joy, but their happiness was short lived. Barnes got home, but his was the only run.

In the second inning the Chesters "rubbed it in" piling up nine more runs. Ashtabula scooped up two runs and the inning closed with the score 21 to 3. It looked like a desperate case for the Ashtabulas. They trotted out a new battery in the next inning. Dr. Drenning pitching and F. W. Boldrick catching. It was easy to see at once that Drenning was an oldtimer from the manner in which he rolled himself around the ball, probably in an endeavor to hypnotize it into doing his will. He succeeded in retiring the side with a goose egg and the Ashtabula cohorts howled themselves hoarse. But though they could howl they could not bat and they only got one run. Chester piled up nine in the next inning and then Ashtabula got eight and in the next ten runs. In the seventh inning the Chesters tried to overcome their thirteen mark of the first inning, but only succeeded in equalling it. At 7 o'clock the game was still in progress and the passengers on the cars going by heard shouts of "make it fifty." They made it fifty-one. Will West was put in the box for the Chesters in the sixth inning and proved to be a wizard, shutting the Ashtabulas out in two innings.

To describe individual playing would be impossible. It baffles description. Tom Larke at first base was the pride of the Ashtabulas. Boldrick caught very well and Cross was good at second. For the Chesters McGregor at third made very few errors and Edson caught a pretty game. John Adams was the hardest hitter and toyed with the sphere just as he pleased.

G. Fred Stevens was the umpire and had both nines so inspired with awe that they dared not approach him. He was gorgeously arrayed in an immense swallow tail coat, white vest, trousers a yard wide and a little cap that looked infinitesimally small above his broad features. Not a decision was questioned—possibly because of the Colt revolver Fred carried.

About 300 people were in attendance.

MERIT MAKES IT FAMOUS.

The Only Remedy in the World, Except a Surgical Operation, That Will Certainly Cure Any Form of Piles.

The study of physicians, the experiments of chemists, the loudly advertised pretensions of quacks, have been for years expended in one direction; to find a pile cure that would cure.

The results have been a number of harmless and in most cases useless ointments, suppositories and even internal remedies, which the public have weighed in the balance of experience and found wanting; nearly all of them gave some relief, but nothing approaching a radical cure resulted from these preparations.

The remedy required is one which will immediately stop the pain so severe in many cases of piles, and then by contracting the small blood vessels (capillaries) to their normal size, produces a radical cure by reducing and finally absorbing the tumors and healing the inflamed, raw mucous surfaces.

Until two years ago, no such remedy had been produced, but at that time a suppository was placed upon the market, which has since proven itself to be the long sought permanent cure for this common and distressing trouble; it has rapidly become famous throughout the United States and Canada, and is now sold by nearly all druggists under the name of the Pyramid Pile Cure.

It is now the best known, because its merit and safety have advertised it wherever used. It has been advertised by word of mouth, from one sufferer to another; people who had tried everything else, even submitting to painful and dangerous surgical operations without avail have finally found that piles may be cured without pain and without expense, practically, as the Pyramid Pile Cure is sold for the nominal price of 50 cents and $1 per package.

The Pyramid instantly stops all pain and at the same time contains no cocaine, morphine or narcotics; the acids and healing properties contained in the remedy speedily remove, cause a healthful, natural contraction and absorption of the tumors; it will cure any form of rectal trouble except cancer and advanced fistula, which, by the way, nearly always result from neglecting proper and timely treatment for piles.

As above stated, can furnish you with the Pyramid Pile Cure at 50 cents for ordinary size or $1 per large package.

To Be Sawed at Superior.

Graham & Horne, of Fort William, who last winter purchased 7,000,000 feet of logs on the south shore, expecting to tow them to Fort William to be sawed, have contracted with the West Superior Lumber company to manufacture them into lumber. They are now being towed to the mill. The prospective tariff of $2 a thousand feet on lumber induced Graham & Horne to have the logs sawed here instead of at their mill in Canada.

CHANGING TRACKS.

St. Paul & Duluth Making Extensive Improvements.

An important change of tracks is being made by the St. Paul & Duluth at the north end of the flour sheds on St. Paul & Duluth slip No. 1, and a permit has been granted by the building inspector for an extensive addition and general repairs to the sheds themselves. These improvements, when completed, added to the substantial filling to the docks that was done last season by Williams, Green & Williams with their improved hydraulic machinery specially designed for such work, will make the St. Paul & Duluth flour dock a structure second to none at the head of the lake.

The same company has nearly completed the repairs to their outer dock on the lake front in the rear of the city hall, which were necessitated by the damage done to the old dock by the storms of last fall. The superstructure of the cribs forming the face of the dock has all been removed and fresh plank covering has been laid along the whole length of the work, about 800 or 900 feet. These cribs have been filled in with heavy Kettle river rubble and repropped with the same material.

This solid filling has necessitated a lengthening of the outlet of the storm sewer on Second avenue east through the dock, and this work is now being done. When this work is complete the unsightly mudhole at the rear of the city hall, between East Michigan street and the lake, will be entirely done away with.

MORE CHECK FORGERIES.

Several Passed on Duluth Business Men Recently.

Another check swindle was perpetrated a few days ago upon two business houses at the West End, and the swindler managed to fly out of town before the police department had been informed of the forgeries.

In one case a saloon keeper cashed a check purporting to have been drawn by the Clyde iron works for $25, and a clothing merchant cashed another for $18 supposedly drawn by the same company. The writing in each case is the same and the forgeries are executed in the crudest and most bungling manner, so much so that the police authorities are lost in wonder at the credulity of those who cashed such palpable imitations of the checks of such an important business institution as the Clyde Iron works.

The detectives have spotted the forger, but, as before said, he had nearly twelve hours' start and at present has not yet been apprehended.

Another check for $9 of the same brand turned up at police headquarters today. All three checks are marked at one end with a rubber stamp "The Glyde & Iron Co." and are signed "R. Clyde Co." As the chief remarked "a blind man ought to have known they were forgeries."

Little Lumber Selling.

Very few lumber sales are being made now, owing to the fact that little dry stock remains unsold on the docks, and that which has been sawed thus far this season is scarcely ready for the market. There are a few small lots on the docks, but the stock on hand is not of a character that will permit all orders received by brokers to be filled. In the meantime Canadian lumber continues being shipped to Eastern lumber markets in large quantities, while congress is debating the Dingley bill.

Work to Be Resumed at the Pioneer Mine.

Mining will probably be resumed at the Pioneer mine at Ely in a few days. Shipping of ore from the stock piles has commenced in a small way and they will be increased as soon as mining is resumed. The management of the mine will not draw from the stock piles any more than is absolutely necessary, but will load directly from the mine to the cars, holding the accumulated stock, amounting to 163,000 tons, in reserve for the expected increased demand toward the close of the season. The Pioneer, under the new ore pool agreement, has an allotment of 225,000 tons, but it is believed this will be considerably increased before the close of the shipping season.

PROTECT THE SYSTEM FROM MALARIA.

It is possible to do this even in regions of country where miasma is most rife, and where the periodic fevers which it causes assume their most formidable types. The immense popularity of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is very largely attributable to the fact of its efficacy as a remedy for chills and fever, bilious remittents, and as a preventive of the various forms of malarial diseases. In those portions of the West and South where complaints of this nature prevail, and in the tropics, it is particularly esteemed for the protective influence which it exerts and it has been very widely adopted as a substitute for the dangerous and comparatively inefficient alkaloid, sulphate of quinine. Physicians have not been among the last to concede its merits, and the emphatic professional indorsements which it has received have added to the reputation it has obtained at home and abroad.

MINNEAPOLIS LAWYER

Like Many Another Professional Man, He Had Kidney Disease.

Like Many Another Minneapolis Man, He Took Dodd's Kidney Pills and Was Cured—They Will Cure All Kidney Ills.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 25.—Food ceases to be food when it is not needed by the system; then it becomes poison. After enough nutriment has been taken to satisfy the demands of nature, every mouthful over is a burden upon the kidneys. Excessive eating, as well as excessive drinking causes kidney disease. The only way to keep the kidneys absolutely healthy is to eat just what the body demands, no more, no less.

Food may become poison also for another reason. Men who work at mental occupations need brain food, not muscle food or flesh food. If they eat muscle-making or flesh-building foods they derange the kidneys, because their systems cannot use the kind of nutriment supplied. It becomes waste; must be expelled. The kidneys are overworked.

Men who work at sedentary employments, professional men, are prone to kidney disease, and very serious diseases, too. Diabetes and Bright's disease find most of their victims in this class. The only medicine known to modern science that will positively cure the aggravated and serious forms of kidney disease (as well as the lesser ills) is DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS. In every case of kidney disease where these Pills have been tried, a cure has been recorded.

Take the case of Attorney Bunting, of this city:

DODD'S MEDICINE COMPANY:

Gentlemen: I have been troubled for three years with weakness of the bladder and kidney disease. I could not get any relief. Before I commenced to take DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS I could not sleep well, and would have to urinate several times at night. Now I can sleep soundly, and I ascribe it all to DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS. I can highly recommend them. You may publish this if you see fit. I believe I am a cured man. A. BUNTING.

LEAPED FROM THE TRAIN.

Cockney John Attempts to Escape From a Marshal.

A tough old English bum, well known to the authorities by the soubriquet of Cockney John has just added another chapter to his pleasing adventures in running up against the proverbial strong arm of the law. Cockney John a short time ago blew into Eveleth. He is tough and no one knew it better than himself so he fearlessly began to fight the booze that is retailed in the yange town under the name of whisky. As might be expected Cockney John came out second best, the aforesaid booze getting in its solar-plexus blow night before last. Marshal Hookwith landed the redoubtable Britisher in the Eveleth lock-up after a hard struggle and after John had been introduced to the Eveleth beak, the marshal started with him to Duluth to enter him as a boarder for thirty days free of charge in W. C. Sargent's establishment on the hill.

About half way down Cockney John felt an overpowering desire for liberty and accordingly made a dash for the car door. The marshal was close upon him, but although he grabbed his fleeing prisoner, John managed to jump off the train, which was running about twenty miles an hour, and dragged Hookwith with him.

Bumpety-bump head over heels went the two men down the dump into the ditch, and strange to say both escaped without serious injury. The marshal peeled a good chunk of skin off his classic visage, but the old Cockney sinner came up smiling, only a little dirtier possibly than before.

The nervy marshal hung on to his prisoner and put in the time the train took to back up with some convincing arguments of the propriety of staying on a moving train when a man's fare has been paid for him. Cockney John was finally safely lodged in jail and will get out just in time to get into good trim to be arrested as drunk and disorderly on the Fourth of July.

Hawkins and Emma E. Hawkins, his wife, mortgagors, to Sarah C. d'Autremont, mortgagee, bearing date the tenth day of December, 1891, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, on the eleventh day of December, 1891, at eight o'clock a. m., in Book 71 of mortgages, on page 583. A CLASH

A Patton Man and Reed Man Came Together This Morning.

Both Were Sent Out to Look After Work on the Trench.

Mr. Patton Puts a New Lock on the Draughting Room Door.

The city engineer trouble reached an acute stage this morning. E. W. Lewis is one of the assistant city engineers, and he is in charge of the work on the pipe-laying and trench-digging contracts at Lakewood and Lester river. This morning Mr. Reed called Mr. Lewis and asked him for the profile of the Carrol-Porter work, and it was given him. Mr. Reed then handed the profile to Charles Thomas, a West Duluth young man who has been working around the office of the board of public works since the late changes were made, and told him to take charge of the Carroll-Porter contract. Lewis and Thomas went to Lester river together, and upon their arrival Lewis asked Thomas for the profile. Thomas handed it to Lewis, who put it in his pocket and told Thomas that he had no instructions from Mr. Patton to give him or any orders to take charge of any work. Thomas then grabbed hold of Lewis, but the foreman and some others got between the two men and prevented any more trouble.

Both returned to the city hall, Thomas to report to Mr. Reed and Lewis, it is said, to obtain an attorney's advice as to the arrest of Thomas for assault. Up to the noon hour the matter remained in this situation.

It was said this morning that all last night a trusty watchman guarded Mr. Patton's interests in his office, and this morning a new spring lock appeared upon the door of the draughting room, to which Mr. Reed did not have the key. Assistant Engineer Duffies and his desk occupied the place in the outside room where Mr. Reed sat yesterday, and the desk occupied by Mr. Reed was said to be in the draughting room. During the morning Messrs. Reed and Patton were both in the office, but as Mr. Patton has control of all the records, the balance of business done with the public was greatly in his favor.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Patton formally notified the board of public works that his attention had been drawn to the fact that that body had been sending "by mistake" orders to Mr. Reed as city engineer, whereas all such orders should have been sent to him, he being the only real city engineer with the name blown in on the bottle. The communication is on file in the office of the board.

This morning there was a conference between the board of public works, Architect E. S. Palmer, Contractor Fredrickson and James Pierce as the friend of Fredrickson, and the pump house matter was thoroughly overhauled and reviewed. The board was to hold a meeting this afternoon to try and come to a decision.

CASE OF DESTITUTION.

That Seems to Have Been Andrew Peterson's Trouble.

The body of Andrew Peterson, who died last night in a fisherman's shanty situated in the ravine at the mouth of Lester river, was brought to Durkan's morgue today and an inquest will be held by the coroner this afternoon or evening as there are rumors that the unfortunate man died of neglect and starvation.

About a week or so ago this case was reported to the health office. From there a telephone message was sent to the county superintendent of poor. This morning Charles Shogram, the superintendent's clerk said that he was sent the same day to investigate the case and found Peterson in the shack, at Lester river, with another man. Peterson wanted medical attention, and said that he did not want to go to the hospital. He had some medicine which he thought was helping him and said that if he did not feel better he would row up in his boat with his partner and see Dr. Braden, whose address was then furnished to him and carfare offered to him to enable him to go to the doctor.

No more was heard of the case, Mr. Shogram asserts, until yesterday afternoon, when a man came to the superintendent's office and said that Peterson was very bad. Mr. Cook is away on a business tour of the iron ranges and Mr. Shogram at once took a hack and went to Lester river, intending to take Peterson to the hospital. It was too late, however, as the unfortunate man was in a bad way when he arrived and expired shortly afterwards.

This morning one of County Undertaker Durkan's assistants took a coffin down to Lester river and brought the body in. He describes the condition of the shanty as squalid in the extreme and as being tenanted by three other men besides the deceased. They appear to have been living on fish meat as there are but few evidences of any other kind of food visible. The condition of the body is almost indescribable and it is emaciated to a shocking degree. The case will be thoroughly investigated by the coroner.

Later—This afternoon Coroner Eklund made a post-mortem examination of Peterson's body and found that he came to his death through disease and not through want or hunger. Peterson had ample means. He owned a fishing boat and some nets, had $150 coming from Bernt Bernisson, which he could have collected at any time, and had some cash besides. No inquest will be held.

AMERICANS AS A RULE

Are Not Favorably Disposed Towards Counterfeits,

Either counterfeit money or counter-goods of any kind. The United States court, sitting at Rochester, N. Y., has ordered an injunction against the sale of Grain-O in packages made to imitate the original Postum Cereal Food Coffee packages.

The countefeit in this case was put out in packages having the red seals and much of the wording of Postum, and the non-discriminating public have been given this or some one of the various imitations when calling at the stores for the original Postum Cereal Food Coffee.

These makers of articles to furnish grocers with which to "substitute" for some original article have little idea of hygienic or food value in a Cereal Coffee. Some counterfeits are offered in place of Postum because the package weighs two pounds, while the genuine package weighs but one and a quarter pounds. The counterfeit two-pound package looks like browned rye kernals ground. It is probably harmless enough, but no idea of food value is there. Postum is made by skillful food experts, 70 per cent being secured from the parts of the cereals containing the albumen and phosphates required by the human body to rebuild the gray matter in the nerve cells. This part also produces the diastase which digests starch. That's why Postum "makes red blood" and why thoughtful people use it regularly. Buyers should look for the red seals and the registered United States trade mark.

Grocers sell the original and genuine Postum at 15 and 25 cents a package.

Interesting Testimony as to Register Borgstrom's Book.

Has Been Altered Since the Grand Jury Met Last January.

Deputy Register Loe is Required to Answer Some Leading Questions.

The Borgstrom case entered a stage this morning that was a little sensational and decidedly interesting. Acting County Attorney Baldwin, after encountering considerable reluctance from Deputy Register H. O. Loe, obtained permission from Judge Moer to address leading questions to him, on the ground that he was an adverse and reluctant witness. Thereupon he proved by the witness that certain of Register Borgstrom's private records, which were before the January grand jury when the indictment was found had received alterations and erasures since that time.

The jury was completed yesterday afternoon by adding the names of J. R. Root, L. H. Brooks, George A. Gray, A. J. Mathewson and J. L. Porter. A second special venire was necessary before the last name was added to the list.

J. W. Reynolds, attorney for the defendant, presented the usual objections to Mr. Baldwin's prosecuting the case, on the ground that he was not properly qualified and that he was to be paid by private individuals. Mr. Baldwin went upon the witness stand and testified that he had received no compensation for his services from anyone, and that he had no agreement by which anyone was to pay him besides the county. C. A. Congdon and P. A. Patrick had urged him to go on with the cases, but they had not agreed to pay him. Judge Moer overruled the objections, and the case went to trial.

Mr. Baldwin made his opening address last night, and this morning he began to introduce testimony on behalf of the state. The early testimony related solely to the defendant's official capacity, his election and qualification being proved. The interest began soon after B. O. Loe, who has been deputy register of deeds for seven years, was called to the stand for the state. He manifested some reluctance to testify, and every question was met by strenuous objections from the defense, each of which Judge Moer promptly overruled.

Finally Mr. Loe was shown the book in which the defendant had kept a record of fees received for making certified copies of instruments, and asked what it was.

"That is the private account book of Peter J. Borgstrom," was the reply.

"What does it contain?"

An objection was entered here, and Mr. Baldwin stated that he proposed to show that that book had been before the grand jury, and that since that time part of it had been altered and erased. Judge Moer overruled the objection, and Mr. Loe replied that he did not know what it contained.

"Whose handwriting is it in?"

"Mr. Borgstrom's."

"Did you ever see it before?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did you see it when it was before the January term grand jury?"

"Yes, sir."

"If it please the court," said Mr. Baldwin, "I should like the privilege of asking this witness leading questions, on the ground that he is an adverse witness."

"I protest against that," said Mr. Reynolds.

"The request is allowed," replied Judge Moer.

"Did you produce this book before the grand jury?" asked Mr. Baldwin, continuing the examination.

"Yes."

"Did you not say at that time that it was one of the records of the office of the register of deeds?"

"I don't know as I said that. I might have said that it was a record belonging to the register of deeds."

"Did you state that certain pages showed the amount received during May for making certified copies?"

"I did."

"Does it purport to show the actual amount received?"

"I thought it did."

"Well, does it?"

"I think so."

"Is there any other book in the office showing the amounts received for this work during May?"

"I think not.

"You produced this book before the grand jury?"

"Yes."

"Was a reference made to page 242?"

"Yes."

"Will you look at that page, and tell me if it is in the same condition as it was then, or have certain figures concerning the month of May, 1895, been scratched out, and replaced by others since that time?"

"I think they have been changed."

"Was the word 'balance' in pencil mark there when it was before the grand jury?"

"I don't think so."

"Do you know when the alteration was made?"

"No, sir."

"Have the figures '$30.50' been changed?"

"It seems so."

"Examine page 242 and state what it was considered in the office to be."

"I don't know what it was considered to be. I never had anything to do with the book."

"You had access to it at all times?"

"Yes, but I never looked at it."

The witness was shown a line in the book which stated that $62 had been received for 126 copies made during May, 1895, and he explained the meaning of the figures.

Judge Moer here asked the witness who had had possession of the book since it was before the grand jury. The reply was that Mr. Borgstrom had had it, but it was where anyone who desired to do so could get it.

Before Mr. Loe left the stand he was shown another book which showed that on May 11, 1897, the register had received $24.25 for furnishing ninety-seven certified copies of instruments to A. A. Harris & Son. These are all the copies mentioned in the indictment, and Mr. Loe said that they were the same copies referred to in the bill presented to A. A. Harris & Son, in the bill Mr. Borgstrom asked $87.50 for the work he credited with $24.25 on the books.

Mr. Baldwin then introduced the defendant's report to the board of county commissioners for May, 1895, in which he stated that for 126 instruments during the month he had received $31.50.

Miss Johnson, who was at that time Borgstrom's stenographer, testified that she made all the copies done on the typewriter, and that she did it all during office hours. On cross-examination she said that when the work came in she was informed that it was wanted in a hurry, and the whole force was put on the task. They worked up to 6 o'clock several evenings. She did not know whether any of the force worked overtime, or whether Mr. Borgstrom paid them for this out of his own pocket. She admitted that at that time Mr. Borgstrom was paying half of her salary out of his pocket.

SALVAGE

Five Thousand Dollars Given to the Arabia's Owners and Crew.

Judge Lochren Decrees That the G. G. Hadley's Owners Must Pay It.

Coal Charters at Buffalo and Cleveland Reported to Be Scarce.

Judge Lochren rendered a decision today in the admiralty case of the Western Transit company, owner of the steamer Arabia, R. Murray, master, and the crew of the boat against the steamer George G. Hadley. The case was brought to recover $12,000 salvage. On Sept. 7, 1895, the Arabia, bound for Duluth, sighted the steamer George G. Hadley flying signals of distress. A heavy gale was blowing from the northwest and the Hadley had lost her rudder and was unmanageable. She was drifting toward a rocky shore. The Arabia passed a hawser to the Hadley and attempted to tow her but the line broke. She then attached two hawsers to the Hadley's stern and caused herself to be used as a rudder. In this way the Hadley was brought to Duluth. She had a cargo valued at $45,000 and her own value was $70,000.

Judge Lochren finds that there is no question but that a salvage service was rendered a service that was "in every way meritorious, skillfully performed and deserving of a substantial reward."

He finds that the master of the Arabia assumed considerable risk and says: "Public policy requires that salvage allowances shall be sufficiently liberal to induce seamen even at much risk and inconvenience to succor and rescue endangered vessels."

Judge Lochren then names $5000 as a fair silowance and directs that seventenths of the amount be paid to the owners of the Arabia, one-twentieth to R. Murray, master of the boat, and the balance is to be divided among the crew in proportion to the amount of wages each man receives.

TWO REASONS WHY.

According to the Cleveland Leader the charters for 500,000 tons of ore from the head of Lake Superior to be delivered during the months of June and July, were cancelled because it was found impossible to ship the amount named in the time specified in addition to the large amount that must be furnished to the Bessemer and American Steel Barge company fleets to keep them moving. This is probably the true reason for the cancellation, although the Detroit Free Press states that the fueling question cut a prominent figure in the matter. It asserts that the charters contained a clause compelling the carriers to fuel with certain dealers with whom the Rockefeller combine has an agreement. The ore was to have been unloaded at Conneaut, Ashtabula, Fairport and Erie. At the two first named ports Rockefeller has no fueling arrangements and to obtain their fuel the vessels would have to go to Cleveland. Objection to this feature led to the calling off of the deal, the Free Press claims.

NEW RAILROAD DEPOT.

Omaha Road Begins Work on a Brownstone Station.

Ground was broken today for the erection of a new Omaha railroad depot on Fifth avenue west and Railroad street. The main building will be an imposing structure, four stories high, built of cut brownstone, and the train shed with the adjacent baggage and express rooms will be thoroughly modern in style and convenience.

The depot will stand on the tract of land, now being cleared of some old wooden buildings, between the present little old country station house, that does duty for a depot, and Railroad street with a frontage of about one hundred feet on South Fifth avenue west. The train shed will span the space now occupied by the Omaha tracks. This structure will be open at both ends, thus affording connection with docks and warehouses east of the site.

The building will rest upon a pile foundation and at noon today the cars loaded with piles began to arrive and were unloaded. About fifty men are employed in grading the site and half as many more in demolishing the row of frame houses fronting on the avenue.

The building of this handsome new depot will be a boon to the traveling public of Duluth. It will also, no doubt, redound to the profit of the company as waiting in inclement weather, around the present old depot or out among the tracks in the yard, for the arrival or departure of a train was very unpleasant.

REDUCED RATES TO PHILADELPHIA.

Account of the meeting of the American Medical Association and Academy of Medicine, Philadelphia, the Baltimore & Ohio railroad will sell tickets to delegates on the certificate plan from all points on its lines west of the Ohio river, May 26 to June 2, valid for return passage until June 7, on the basis of a fare and a third for the round trip. Tickets will also be sold on this plan from stations of all connecting lines.

The Baltimore & Ohio maintains a double daily service of fast express trains with through Pullman cars from Chicago to Philadelphia. All Baltimore & Ohio trains run via Washington and stop-over is allowed at the national capital within the life of the ticket.

CHANGE OF TIME, DULUTH, SOUTH SHORE & ATLANTIC RAILWAY.

TILLMAN

South Carolina Senator Is Again After the Sugar Trust People.

Says That Chapman Is Enjoying Club Privileges While in Jail.

Senator Aldrich Denied His Assertions---Tariff Debate Was Resumed.

Washington, May 28.—Senator Frye presided in the senate today in the absence of Vice President Hobart. Waning interest in the tariff debate was indicated by the comparatively small attendance on the floor and in the galleries. A monster petition, said to bear the names of 15,000 citizens of Philadelphia, was presented, favoring Cuban independence.

Mr. Cullom gave notice of two amendments to the tariff bill. One of them proposes to strike out the item increasing the tax on beer and to substitute a tax of 70 cents per gallon on distilled spirits.

Senator Tillman introduced a resolution in the senate for the appointment of a special committee of five senators to inquire into recent reports of speculation by senators in sugar stock and as to advance information by New York speculators as to the sugar schedule of the tariff bill. Also, to continue the investigation made in 1894. The resolution recites that one man is serving a sentence in jail and that another was yesterday acquitted on technicality, and provides for conducting the investigation so all questions shall be pertinent.

Senator Frye, in the chair, promptly referred the resolution to the committee on contingent expenses. Mr. Tillman was allowed to speak on the subject by unanimous consent.

Mr. Tillman made a very sensational speech. He said the Democratic members of the finance committee were under a cloud on account of the sugar schedule of the tariff bill of 1894; also that the Republican members of the finance committee were now under suspicion. One party was as deep in the mud as the other in the mire, asserted Mr. Tillman.

Mr. Pettus demanded that Mr. Tillman should specify his charges and that the whole senate should not be subject to his sweeping assertions.

Mr. Tillman said the present tariff bill was made in the rooms of the Arlington hotel, with close connection by telephone and telegraph with New York and in close touch with the sugar trust magnates. Mr. Tillman said Chapman was in a jail turned into a club, while the sugar magnate had gone free on a technicality. He read from papers showing that the sugar trust secured the sugar schedule in the new bill, and also an extract from a paper making a charge that Senator Smith of New Jersey had been speculating in sugar. Mr. Tillman closed with a declaration that the senate should either prove the correspondents liars or prove the senators corrupt and then turn them out.

Mr. Aldrich replied to Mr. Tillman. He denied that any person connected with the sugar trust had anything to do with the making of the sugar schedule. No person except the Republican members of the committee knew anything about the sugar schedule, except Senator Jones of Nevada, to whom it was shown thirty-six hours before its report. He did not want to say for himself and for the other members of the subcommittee that he had not bought or sold a share of sugar stock.

At the conclusion of Senator Aldrich's remarks the tariff bill was taken up.

Senator Aldrich said he and every member of the sub-committee courted the fullest investigation of their acts while considering the tariff bill. There is nothing decided yet as to whether another sugar investigation will be held. Senator Aldrich's statement that he and other members of the sub-committee courted the fullest investigation indicated that such an investigation might be ordered, but it is likely that the members of the committee on contingent expenses will consult the wishes of the senate on the subject.

It is pointed out by some senators that the last investigation was a fizzle, and that if another was ordered it would likely result the same way and the senate would make itself ridiculous. Still, if there is any considerable desire on the part of senators for an inquiry, it may be ordered. Senators Jones of Nevada, Gallinger of New Hampshire and Jones of Arkansas are the sub-committee to whom the Tillman resolution was referred.

KING HUMBERT'S ASSAILANT.

Rome, May 28.—Pietro Acciarettl, the ironworker of Artegena, province of Udine, who attempted to stab King Humbert on April 22 while his majesty was on the way to the races, was put on trial today. The court room was crowded and there were many ladies present, in the course of his examination Acciaretti violently attacked the prevailing social evils. He said he had acted alone and in despair, as men did when they committed suicide. The object of his attempt upon the life of the king, he explained, was to strike the representative of the class living in comfort. His act, he affirmed, was unpremeditated, or otherwise he would have thrown a bomb.

SENN'S GREAT BOWLING.

Louisville, May 28.—Frank Senn, of the West End Bowling club, lowered the world's bowling record here last night at Byrne's bowling hall. Mr. Senn made twenty successive "strikes" before leaving the alley. The previous world's record was eighteen successive strikes.

WHAT WILL NELSON DO?

Action on Anti-Trust Amendments Doubtful.

Washington, May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The action of Senator Nelson upon his anti-trust amendments is awaited with interest. Senator Aldrich says that but two or three Republicans will vote in caucus for this amendment. Whether Senators Nelson, Mason and Chandler will consider themselves bound by the caucus action to vote against their convictions is a doubtful question. Senator Nelson is hopeful that an anti-trust amendment will be adopted but does not care to define his future action.

NO OVERTURES MADE.

McKinley Has Not Approached Spain on Cuba.

Madrid, May 28.—A semi-official denial is given today to the published statement that President McKinley has made overtures to Spain on the subject of Cuba, and it is reiterated that it is impossible for the Spanish government to accept mediation in a question "which concerns Spain alone."

MINING CONVENTION.

Will Be Held at Rat Portage Next Week.

Rat Portage, Ont., May 28.—A mining convention is to be held here on June 2, 3 and 4. Letters have been received by the secretary from mining men and capitalists from Rossland and Spokane in the West to Montreal in the East, and Cleveland, Chicago, St. Paul, Duluth and other American cities, stating their intention to be present.

A large exhibit of ores has been prepared from every portion of the gold fields of Northwestern Ontario. Excursions will be run to the mines carrying visitors free of charge, and every effort will be made to make the occasion instructive.

TEN YEARS IN JAIL.

Banker Johnson Will Have to Endure It.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 28.—John F. Johnson, late president and cashier of the State National bank of Logansport, was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment in the Ohio state penitentiary at 10 o'clock by Judge Baker of the United States court for the district of Indiana. There was no sensation and Johnson received the words of the judge without a tremor, and Mrs. Johnson, who was present in the court room, listened to the sentence without emotion. By counting off good time Johnson will have to serve about seven years.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS.

Eastern Cities Experience a Little Shaking Up.

Whitehall, N. Y., May 28.—An earthquake shock, lasting about forty-five seconds, occurred here at 10:45 o'clock last night. Reports from Fort Henry and Ticonderoga indicate that the shock was felt throughout the Champlain valley. No damage is reported.

Elizabethtown, N. Y., May 28.—A heavy shock of earthquake was felt at this place at 10:15 last night. It lasted nearly two minutes. The noise was like heavy thunder. The wave was from east to west.

Gouverneur, N. Y., May 28.—About 10:15 last night a severe earthquake shock was felt here. Houses were shaken and loose articles on shelves were thrown to the floor. About 11 o'clock another shock was felt, but it was not so severe as the first one.

Saratoga, N. Y., May 28.—An earthquake shook this section about 10:15 o'clock last night. The tremor lasted for two minutes. Windows and doors rattled, but no damage was done.

Watertown, N. Y., May 28.—Special dispatches to the Standard from points in Jefferson and St. Lawrence counties state that the earthquake shock was quite severe. The inhabitants were greatly frightened and when the earthquake came rushed out of their houses in their night clothes. In some places heavy doors were shaken from their hinges.

Rome, N. Y., May 28.—A distinct earthquake shock was felt here at 10:15 last evening. There was only one shock, but it apparently lasted several seconds. Houses were perceptibly shaken.

NEGROES HANGED.

Chicago Has Its First Double Colored Execution.

Chicago, May 28.—William T. Powers and John Lattimore, both colored, were hanged in the county jail today, the first double execution since the hanging of the anarchists in 1887, and the first double colored execution ever had in Chicago. Both men were cool and walked unassisted to the scaffold. Neither had anything to say. The drop fell at 12:15 o'clock. Powers hung perfectly motionless after the drop, his neck having been broken. Lattimore, however, drew his legs up convulsively several times.

William T. Powers, was executed for the murder of John J. Murphy, a saloon keeper, by whom Powers was employed as a porter. On the night of Dec. 29, 1896, Powers stole into Murphy's bedroom and beat his head to a pulp with a stove poker. The object was robbery. Powers was 23 years old.

John Lattimore and Henry Rucker were convicted of the murder of Louis Marvee on the tow-path of the drainage canal near Summit, Nov. 29, 1896. Rucker confessed when arrested and was given a twenty-five years' sentence. In this case, too, the object was robbery. Lattimore's age was 26.

PENSION GRANTED.

Romantic Career of Jean Baptiste Le Blanc a Quadroon.

Born of a Negro Mother in Hayti He Became a Crook.

Practiced as a Physician and Humbugged a Lot of People.

San Francisco, May 28.—Dr. Gustavus Hamilton Griffin, who had disappeared from New York, leaving behind numerous victims mourning the loss of their cash and wondering what had become of the smooth tongued quadroon physician, is well known all over the Pacific coast. In 1888 Griffin bonded an immense tract of coal land in British Columbia and endeavored to sell out at an advance of $500,000 to Robert Dunsmuir. The deal fell through and Griffin was so exasperated that he wrote many anonymous letters to Dunsmuir threatening the latter's life. He was finally arrested in Victoria, B. C., convicted and sentenced to five years penal servitude.

During Griffin's trial it developed that the quadroon doctor was an all-round crook. His real name is Jean Baptiste Le Blanc. He is a son of a French plumber and a negress, and was born on the island of Hayti. He left the island at an early age, went to England and then to Paris, finally being engaged as valet to Gustavus Griffin, M.D., B.A., who was a prominent member of the French academy. Le Blanc picked up many of the forms of good society while in Dr. Griffin's employment.

In March, 1886, Le Blanc or Griffin, was arrested at Los Angeles on a charge of embezzlement. He started a bogus champagne company there some months before and succeeded in swindling various people out of sums of money aggregating $25,000.

A SILVER CONFERENCE.

Ohio Silver Republicans Now In Session.

Columbus, Ohio, May 28.—The state conference of Silver Republicans called by Provisional State Chairman Davis, of Findlay, under instructions from National Chairman C. A. Towne, of Minnesota, met in the board of trade auditorium with Dr. Spencer Carwood, of Milford Center, in the chair and about 100 persons in the audience. Allen W. Thurman, of this city, Democratic candidate for governor, and Gen. A. J. Warner were also among those present.

The morning was devoted to the appointment of committees and speeches. Mr. Towne is present. He served as a Republican in congress one term from the Duluth district.

Provisional Chairman Davis says that "the organization which is being formed is for the free and unlimited coinage of all the gold and silver that comes to the mint at the ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the consent of any other nation, and the support of any party that fully expresses our ideas on this subject."

Committees are to be appointed with power to nominate a state ticket in the future if necessary.

MRS. LANGTRY'S PLANS

San Francisco, May 28.—Mrs. Langtry, the actress, will arrive in California for a short visit about July 1. H. C. McPike has received word from her that she will soon leave England on her long journey. Mrs. Langtry will spend most of her time here on her ranch in Lake county. She intends to make extensive improvements on the place, among them being the restocking of the farm with the intention of breeding high class cattle and horses.

WHEN YOU ARRIVE IN NEW YORK

You will be in the very heart of the city, at Cortlandt street, at Desbrosses street or at Twenty-third street, providing the trip is made over the Pennsylvania Short Lines. Passengers over this route have choice of entering New York at either of the three convenient locations mentioned. Full information free by addressing H. R. Dering, assistant general passenger agent, No. 248 South Clark street, Chicago, Ill.

WASHINGTON DEMOCRATS.

Spokane, Wash., May 28.—The leaders of the Democratic party in this state declare their intention to rescind the fusion of the last campaign, reorganize the Democracy and conduct future campaigns upon the Chicago platform. A general meeting of Democratic committeemen has been called to this end to meet at Spokane June 14.

At this moment thousands of men are standing at the cross-roads of life. Death in the guise of a foolish ambition coaxes them to take one road, while health and happiness in the form of wife and babies coax them to take the other. For the sake of a few added dollars will they continue to over-work and neglect the commonest precautions for the preservation of health, or will they listen to love and reason and draw back before it is too late? A man may do almost any amount of good, hard work if he will take care of his health and when he feels out of sorts will take the right remedy.

The great blood-maker, flesh-builder and nerve tonic is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is the hard-workers' medicine. It corrects all disorders of the digestion, invigorates the liver, purifies the blood and tones and steadies the nerves. It makes the appetite hearty and brings refreshing sleep. Thousands of hard-workers owe their lives to it and have said so over their signatures. Druggists all sell it and all substitutes are frauds.

"I was taken with erysipelas in my hands and went to the doctor," writes Mrs. Lena Baumgartner, of Joy, Charlevoix Co., Mich. "He said he could not cure me. He gave me medicine to ease me but the disease spread all over my body. I took two bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two of the 'Favorite Prescription' and am entirely cured. I have a boy three weeks old. I was helpless two or three months before confinement, but after taking the 'Favorite Prescription' I was able to do my washing three days before I was confined."

There is scarcely a known form of ill-health that constipation will not cause or aggravate. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are an unfailing cure for constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative.

JAPAN AND HAWAII.

Mikado's Realm Has No Thought of Annexation.

New York, May 28.—The World this morning says: Marquis Ito, who has just arrived in this city en route for London and the queen's jubilee, politely refused to be interviewed, on the plea that he was too fatigued after his long journey, bupt Marquis Kido, who speaks English fluently, answered for him some questions concerning the policy of Japan. "The rumors of Japan's desire to annex Hawaii," he said, "are mere idle gossip. We sent a man-of-war to protect the interests of our countrymen. That is all. After our experience in Formosa, we don't want to annex Hawaii or anything else at present."

Marquis Kido said the Japanese have the most amicable feeling towards Americans, and hoped pleasant relations would always continue. "I want to correct one mistake that is quite general. Marquis Ito is not being sent to England as a special representative at the queen's jubilee, but as a member of the suite of Prince Arisugawa, a member of the imperial family, who will fill that position for the government on that occasion. We will sail Saturday, and join the prince in Paris."

IN THE DAKOTAS.

NORTH DAKOTA.

The jury in the case of F. T. Ward, a blind pigger from Church's Ferry, charged with violation of the prohibition law, brought in a verdict of guilty at Devil's Lake. This is the first time anyone has been convicted of violating the prohibitory law in Ramsey county although the law has been in force seven years and there have been numerous prosecutions. Hitherto juries would either disagree or acquit.

Alison Cunningham, wanted for murder at Sun Dance, Wyo., was arrested by Detective Livermore in Bismarck. Cunningham was a cowboy, and in a dispute over a woman killed another cowboy. He escaped on horseback. He admits his identity and will be taken to Wyoming at once.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

The preliminary hearing of Mr. and Mrs. Wahnsley, murderers of Guy Moore, of Darrah, occurred at Vermillion. The defendants were held to the circuit court on the charge of willful and felonious murder, and sent to jail without bond. Court convenes June 11.

For the past four or five years the crops in the Black Hills have been almost a failure, says a Rapid City dispatch. Only along the creeks and streams of water were they at all satisfactory. Since 1892 the amount of moisture that has fallen in this vicinity each year has been below the normal. One of the biggest harvests that has been gathered in the Hills was in the year 1887, when 29.63 inches of rain fell. The observer at the United States weather bureau at this place sent the following report in for the week ending May 22: The rain during the past week has done great good.

One of the queerest combinations to be found in the state exists at Hermosa. Two licenses to sell intoxicating liquors under the new law have been granted, one to the mayor and marshal of the city and the other to the justice of the peace.

ATHLETICS

Great Excitement Over the College Field Games at Berkeley Oval.

Preliminaries to Be Held This Afternoon Will Be Hotly Contested.

Finals Will Be Pulled Off Tomorrow—Some of the Entries.

New York, May 28.—The Herald this morning says: The all-absorbing question among collegians and others who have sporting proclivities is, who will win the points in the inter-collegiate games to be held at Berkeley Oval today and tomorrow. The host of entries compels, as in former years, the running of the preliminaries on the first day and insures decisive, keen, competition for the finals. The thirteen events have called out an entry list of 630. It seems as though Pennsylvania and Yale had the best of it, with the chances favoring the former.

With seventy men in the "hundred," Wefers will beat the "even timers," who are expected to give him a race. Hoffman, Pennsylvania; Maghury, Wisconsin and Jarvis, of Princeton, will probably fight out the places. Wefers will account for the "two twenty." Colfelt, of Princeton, has more than a look in for the place, with Hoffman third. Tommy" Burke of Boston university will attend to the quarter, while a hot race will occur between Hollister, Howard and Colfelt for the places.

The half-mile run looks nothing more than an exercise romp for Hollister, Cregan, Princeton, and Wright. Brown will make a pretty race for the places, Cregan, Orton, of Pennsylvania, and Wright will each think he has been in a race when the mile is finished, and this trio look the best of a clever lot.

In the low hurdles, Jones, of Princeton, has an excellent chance, Perkins and Reynolds, of Columbia, will be thereabouts at the finish. Six men in the high jump have successfully essayed six feet and over. Winsor, Pennsylvania; Merwin, Yale, and Morse, Harvard, look the likely ones, and it is more than possible that six feet three inches will be cleared by the winner.

The pole jumping class is decidedly high. Smith, of Columbia, has a capital chance for first honors. Hoyle, Harvard, W. A., with a record of 11 feet 2 3-4 inches, is the dangerous factor. J. P. Remington, of Pennsylvania, looks to have a line on the broad jump, with a best performance of 22 feet 8 inches.

In all likelihood Woodruff, Pennsylvania, will capture the hammer event. The shot-putters are all in a class, and about forty-one feet will about win. Hughes, of Boston university, is credited with 41 feet 9 inches.

The points are scored five for a first, two for a second, and one for a third place.

LAMPSON'S WILL.

Relatives Will Try to Void Yale's Windfall.

New York, May 28.—A special from Rochester, N. Y., says: An effort is to be made to break the will of the late William Lampson, banker, of LeRoy. Objections to its probate will be filed with Judge North a week from Monday. The contestant will be Mrs. Laura Ann Brooks, of St. Paul, Minn., an aunt of Mr. Lampson. She is the only next of kin in the first degree surviving Mr. Lampson, and in the event of the will being set aside, will receive all the personal property left by her nephew. It is estimated that the value of the estate is $750,000.

She will claim that Mr. Lampson was not of sound mind at the time he executed the will. Forty-two cousins of the banker have been cited to appear, and they all declare that if the will is to be broken they must come in for their share. Butler Ward, the executor, and Yale college, to which nearly all of the estate is bequeathed, will be ably represented. One hundred and fifty thousand dollars were given to Yale to erect an auditorium building to be known as the Lampson lyceum. The balance was also bequeathed to the college for endowing chairs.

WILL POUND STAMPS.

Archie Chisholm to Be Postmaster at Hibbing.

Washington, May 28.—Congressman Morris has made the following recommendations for appointments of postmasters in his district: Hibbing, A. M. Chisholm; Eveleth, William D. Ellsworth; Milaca, Charles F. Searle, and Buckman, John Sitzman. The first two are presidential offices.

DEADLY ERROR.

New Cook Used Arsenic Instead of Baking Powder.

Oakland, Cal., May 28.—Fred Beeson, an employe on the ranch of Henry Morse at Sunol, used arsenic instead of baking powder in making a batch of bread. Beeson is dead, another man is dying and several others are dangerously ill. Beeson was a new hand on the ranch. It was found necessary to secure a cook and Beeson was asked if he could fill the position and accepted.

He was put to work in the kitchen and his first work was to bake up a batch of bread and biscuits for the evening meal. He says he found some white powder in a baking powder can and used it as soda. Investigation has proved the powder was arsenic.

A DECAPITATED WOMAN.

Kansas City, Mo., May 28.—An unidentified woman, probably 50 years of age, who carried a ticket from Cassopolis, Mich., to Columbus, Kan., was missing from the west bound "Maple Leaf" passenger train when it arrived late last night. A short time afterward her body was found in the railroad yards in Kansas City. The body had been decapitated, and it was evident that she had fallen from a platform of the coach.

THE CURSE

Of mankind—contagious blood poison—claimed as its victim Mr. Frank B. Martin, 926 Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D. C., and the usual physician's treatment did him not the slightest good. His condition reached that deplorable stage which only this terrible disease can produce.

THE CURE

After all else failed, was at last found in S. S. S.—the greatest of all blood remedies. Eighteen bottles removed the disease permanently, and left his skin without a blemish.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

George A. Duey, a Cincinnati telegraph operator, was shot dead by a police officer last night. A burglar alarm had been turned in and Duey refused to halt when ordered.

At Atlanta, Ga., Rev. James Hoskins, a preacher of the Free Thinker faith, who has been holding forth on the streets of the city, was tried in the police court yesterday and fined. His arrest was caused by the vicious terms with which he characterized Christ, calling Him a hypocrite, liar and a pretender.

At Oshkosh, Wis., yesterday in the circuit court, the jury awarded Miss Harriet Kellett $3500 damages from Fred H. Robie for breach of promise. She sued for $10,000.

Mrs. Elsie Neumiller, crazed by domestic trouble, gave her 8-year-old son carbolic acid and then took a dose herself yesterday afternoon at Milwaukee. She is dead but the boy may recover.

David Robinson, son of ex-Governor Robinson and ex-mayor of Elmira, was indicted by the grand jury at New York yesterday for grand larceny. His bail was fixed at $10,000.

A slight earthquake shock was felt throughout Vermont last night. Buildings trembled perceptibly. At Bellows Falls and Burlington the jar was felt twice. The earthquake was more to the north.

Oakman, Ala., was the scene of a deadly shooting affray yesterday. Charles Williams, a drunken machinist, started the trouble by shooting the mayor. Isaac Appling and was in turn shot by Montgomery Appling, a brother of the murdered man. Andrew Richards and William Duncan were fatally wounded.

MUD ISLAND VANISHING.

San Luis Obisco, Cal., May 28.—The mud island of Moro bay will soon disappear. Slowly day by day the earthquake's work is disappearing beneath the waters in the bay, constantly the terrific gaseous forces which escaped from subterranean crevices and pushed up the dark mass of mud are spending their strength. It will be a matter of only a few days until those who look out over the waters of Moro bay will be unable to locate the spot where the island so suddenly rose on the night of May 3.

ANTI-TOXINE FOR TETANUS.

San Francisco, May 28.—A new treatment for lockjaw has just been successfully tried at the German hospital under the direction of Dr. Conrad Well. The patient who owes his life, as the physician believes, to the new treatment is Edmund Shehn, about 22 years old, who received an injury to his thumb about a month ago. Within forty-eight hours, under the new treatment, signs of improvement began and in a week the patient has been pronounced out of danger. The new treatment consists of injections of a tetanus anti-toxine similar in its source to the anti-toxine for diphtheria.

STATE SUPREME COURT.

Declares Public Warehouse Law is Unconstitutional.

St. Paul, May 28.—The supreme court has declared the public warehouse law of 1895 unconstitutional. The law provided that every public warehouse other than those used for the storage of grain should procure licenses from the governor within thirty days after the passage of the act, and that all railroad companies should be required to turn over to the warehouse companies all goods that had been in their possession uncalled for twenty days or more. The storage company was to pay the transportation charges and take a lien on the goods for that amount.

The Milwaukee, Great Northern and Chicago Great Western roads decided to contest the law in the courts. The district court held it to be valid, but the supreme court reverses the decision and holds that the law is unconstitutional.

Justice Mitchell, who handed down the decision, in his opinion says it is a most remarkable act, and reads as though it was especially designed to favor a certain class of warehousemen, and was not for the public benefit at all. It is declared to be an abuse of the police power of the state, and an unwarranted interference with the rights of citizens to pursue any lawful calling they may choose. This is one reason why it is the duty of the courts to declare it unconstitutional.

Justice Mitchell also shows that the wording of the act, if strictly construed, would limit the licenses to those issued within thirty days after the passage of the act, thus giving these parties a monopoly of the public warehouse business in the state, and that this is another reason why it is clearly unconstitutional. Then, again, there is no provision compelling the warehousemen to pay the freight charges on goods, so they might take such goods as they chose, or such as would be to their greatest advantage, and refuse the others.

The provision requiring notice to the consignee to remove the goods within forty-eight hours is also held unconstitutional, for it makes no allowance for contracts that might have been made between the consignee and consignor. It is held that instead of proving a measure to preserve property from destruction, it is one to further its destuction by piling up costs beyond the value of the goods.

The defendant railroad companies in the case had been indicted for failure to comply with the law, and the supreme court orders that the indictment be dismissed.

The supreme court holds that there must be a limit to the time when a ward may call upon a guardian for an accounting. The question came up in a suit brought by Mary J. Bradnes, a Sioux woman, against Herbert M. Carpenter, one of the bondsmen of a man named Farnham, who had been her guardian twenty-one years ago.

William Friederich fails to recover damages from the city of St. Paul for injuries to his eye. Friederich was engaged in digging a trench, when a splinter from a stake driven by one of the other men struck him in the eye. He sued and claimed negligence on the part of the city foreman, because no iron cap had been placed on the stake before it was driven. The courts hold that the driving of the stake without the cap was not dangerous to anything save the stake, and that the cap was used as a protection to the stake and not for the other workmen.

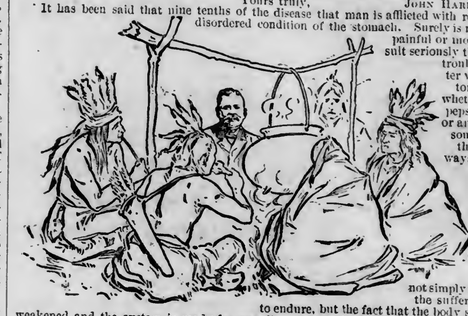
By the Indian John Harrington Was Taught the Secret of Health.

Had Suffered from Dyspepsia. To Him was Shown the Lore of the Aborigines. It Made Him a New Man—Strong, Healthy and Thankful.

John Harrington, of Vincennes, Ia., writes to the Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., as follows:—"I am very thankful to Kickapoo Indian Sagwa and the Kickapoo Indian Oil for the good they have done me. I have been troubled for a long time with Dyspepsia of the very worst kind, and Kickapoo Indian Sagwa has cured me. I can now eat anything, and relish what I eat and I cannot say too much in praise of this wonderful remedy.

Yours truly,
JOHN HARRINGTON."

It has been said that nine tenths of the disease that man is afflicted with result from a disordered condition of the stomach. Surely is nothing more painful or more apt to result seriously than stomach troubles. No matter what the doctor may call it whether it is dyspepsia, gastritis, or any other high sounding name, the cause is always the same—a broken down condition of this great vital organ of the body. The greatest trouble with dyspepsia is not simply the pain that the sufferer is obliged to endure, but the fact that the body soon becomes weakened and the system is ready for any disease that the patient may be subject to. Diseases of the blood, kidneys, lungs and heart will be sure to follow quickly in the wake of a disordered stomach. Do not let troubles of this nature go too far unheeded. Do as John Harrington did, and take Kickapoo Indian Sagwa. Remember it is the essence of health. It is made from herbs, barks, gums and roots of the forests and contains no poisonous ingredients of any description.



Kickapoo Indian Remedies are sold by all druggists. They are the same as they were when used by the Indians centuries ago. Look at the Indians as examples of health and strength. Consider their long lives. Think of the food they ate and the great exposures they were obliged to undergo and yet sickness never once entered into their lives. The remarkable longevity that they were endowed with is to-day a matter of wonder.

If you are ailing and do not know the cause of your trouble, send for our little pamphlet, entitled "Kickapoo Indian Doctor," which will be mailed to you free. Address the Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., New Haven, Conn.

The General News Was Bearish, and Wheat Took Another Drop.

Crop Reports Were Favorable and the Northwest Receipts Again Heavy.

France Will Soon Be Ready to Begin Importing Foreign Wheat.

Wheat continued on the downward grade today. It opened steady and a shade higher, influenced by the cables which showed a better opening tone than expected. There was some feeling also that a reaction was due after a four-day's decline. The general news was bearish, the weather being seasonable, crop reports favorable and Northwest receipts rather heavy, 407 cars against 478 last week and 377 the year before. It was estimated that Duluth wheat stocks will show a decline of 1,250,000 bus this week. Chicago received seven carloads, and inspected out 68,000 bus. Liverpool, which in the course of the day, showed 1d advance over yesterday's closing price, stood at 1d decline at the close today. Paris, compared with closing prices Wednesday, was from 15 centimes higher for nearby delivery to 10 centimes higher for September and December. Berlin since Wednesday afternoon shows 1¾ marks decline. St. Louis reported an intention among flour millers there to close demand next week to prepare for new crop grinding. In anticipation of early deliveries of new wheat, all the winter wheat markets where the grade was still bringing extravagant premiums over spring wheat reduced those premiums considerably. The Atlantic port clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 360,000 bus. France is close to the point where foreign wheat can be imported for home consumption, and without much doubt that country will be a competitor for the new crop of the United States against the United Kingdom, which practically for years back has been our only customer.

Trading was active on the Duluth board, but the fluctuations were confined within a narrow range. July wheat opened 1c higher at 72¾c, but soon began to decline until it touched 71¾c. During the last half hour it rallied and sold up to 73c. The close was easy with sellers at 73c, a decline of ¾c for the day. The mills bought 150,000 bus of cash stuff at the over July, and shippers took 25,000 bus of it over July. Following were the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, cash, 73¼c; May, 73¾c. No. 1 northern, cash, 72¾c; May, 73¾c; July, 73¾c asked; September, 65¾c asked. No. 2 northern, 70c. No. 3, 65¼@65¾c. Rejected, 49¼@64½c. To arrive—No. 1 hard, 73¾c; No. 1 northern, 72¾c. Rye, 33¾c; No. 2 oats, 21c; No. 3 oats, 20½c. Flax, 75c.

Car inspection—Wheat, 192; oats, 47; rye, 6; barley, 19; flax, 18. Receipts—Wheat, 167,701 bus; corn, 704 bus; oats, 15,993 bus; rye, 2695 bus; barley, 2058 bus; flax, 10,840 bus. Shipments—Wheat, 372,605 bus.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 307 Board of Trade, Chicago, May 28.—Wheat: Another bear day in wheat resulting in a net decline of 1c and closing for the fifth day in succession at put price. The feature of the day was the weakness in the cash markets. The cash wheat premium narrowed here and at New York and Toledo the May option declined 2c. Exporters reported very few orders in hand, the day's business resulting in the engagement of only about seventeen loads at seaboard. Clearances light and the week's total will be small. Visible decrease for the week will likely be in the neighborhood of 1,500,000. Northwest stocks are decreasing rapidly, as the large movement would suggest. They are estimated to show only 3,500,000 June 1, against 6,500,000 a month ago. Foreign markets also eased off. Berlin being noticeably weak. A large line of long wheat came out on the early break, reported to be for a heavy local trader, while the selling by a prominent St. Louis short was again a feature. The rapidly decreasing stocks would seem to inspire faith among buyers, but the unresponsive action of the market is daily increasing the ranks of believers in cent-a-pound wheat.

Corn receipts were largely in excess of estimates and the proportion of high grade corn very large, but Western offerings are said to be decreasing and the market was comparatively steady.

Oats also quiet and steady.

Provisions less active and with little change, shorts continue good buyers on all the declines and the selling pressure is less urgent from outside holders.

Puts, July wheat, 68¾c@68¾c bid.
Calls, July wheat, 69¼@69⅝c.

PERSONAL INJURY CASES.

Trial of Them is Proceeding in the District Court.

Judge Cant this morning gave the case of Joseph Andre against the St. Paul & Duluth to the jury, and took up that of Sventi G. Johnson against the Bessemer Steamship company to recover $15,000 for personal injuries. He claims that while he was acting as a sailor on the steamer John Eriesson he was ordered to climb down a fender to the ore dock at Ashland, where the boat was lying. The heel rope gave away and precipitated him twenty feet to the dock, permanently injuring both feet and ankles.

The melodramas case against the St. Paul & Duluth was still on before Judge Ensign this morning, and the end was not in sight. E. J. Duffies, the assistant city engineer, was on the stand this morning and when he was asked who was city engineer, he had to give it up. W. H. Patton was present with the city attorney.

Physical Culture Exhibition.

Next Thursday and Friday evenings the schools will give an exhibition of physical culture exercises at the High School Assembly hall, under the direction of Max Alletzhaeusser, the director of physical culture of the public schools. The entertainment was to have been held last Wednesday and Thursday, but it was postponed until next Thursday and Friday. The same program will be given each night, and it will include examples of the methods employed in the schools for physical development.

In Memoriam.

"For so much beauty which the dust is to embrace, we weep and lament."— Berachoth.

The melodious chime of life's sweet intonations dies away in a most beautiful symphony when the sorrow-winged angel kisses God's spirit from the smiling lips of the noble-minded. The herald of death's majesty who, with weird and doleful bugle call, summons the enlisted to the grand army of the universe, does not disturb the harmony of the soul that returns pure and untainted to the fountain where it was pinioned to take flight to earth, whereby its emanation it effuses the divine breath of the master artist who formed it in the cast of sublimity.

Such a soul which the Lord and Master of all flesh and spirit framed in Eugene Silberstein was convoked to the conclave where the sainted gather, encompassed by the glory of the Most High.

"He gazed at the flower with tearful eyes,
He kissed its drooping leaves;
It was for the Lord of Paradise
He bound it in his sheaves."

Unassuming, kind and peaceful as our brother was, his memory will remain ever green in the garden of friendship in the heart of all those who knew him. May thy soul in yonder lightful heights be radiant from the halo of divinity; may it be bound in the bond of all the noble and the righteous at the throne of grace and mercy.

The Sawmill Workers' Meeting Tonight Is For the Union Label.

The Memorial day exercises in the West Duluth public schools this afternoon were largely attended by parents of the pupils, and they proved exceedingly interesting as well as patriotic. The program at the Irving school was opened with exercises by the scholars in the primary grades, after which the following numbers were given: Song, "Tenting Tonight," third grade; "Meaning of the Day," Carl Carlson; recitation, "Driving Home the Cows," Mary Englehart; dumb bell drill, eighth grade; "Sheridan's Ride," Grace Ward; "Swanee River, (with gestures), nine girls; "Our Flag," Albert J. The G. A. R. detailed C. T. Clement, J. C. Cook and J. R. Randall to address the pupils of Longfellow school and W. W. Scott, E. D. Payne and S. W. Higgins to perform a similar service at the Fairmount school.

FOR THE UNION LABEL.

The open meeting of the Sawmill Workers' Protective union in Great Eastern hall tonight is largely in the interest of the union label movement. The mill workers will be appealed to to purchase only goods bearing a union label and manufactured by union labor. The principal speaker will be James Wood, of Birmingham, N. Y., representing the International Cigarmakers' union.

GILBERTS TO ENTERTAIN.

Next Tuesday evening "The Gilberts" will give a concert in Asbury M. E. church for the benefit of the church. THE WEATHER.

United States Agricultural Department, Weather Bureau, Duluth. Synopsis of weather conditions for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 a. m., (Central time), May 28.—Owing to the advance of a ridge of high pressure which now extends from Colorado to Manitoba, the temperature has changed to decidedly cooler from Manitoba southward to Kansas.

Rainfalls, varying in amount from one-tenth to seven-tenths of an inch, are reported in sections of Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, Iowa and Illinois, the rainfall being the heaviest in Colorado. Lesser rainfalls are reported in Wisconsin, Eastern Minnesota and Michigan. Cloudy weather continues in Michigan, Illinois and Missouri, but in all reporting districts west and north of those states fair weather is now general, and there has been a decided change to warmer in the provinces north of Montana, under the influence of a low pressure area which has advanced to that section.

Duluth temperature at 7 a. m., today, 50; maximum yesterday, 61; minimum yesterday, 43; rainfall, .01 inch.

Local forecast for Duluth and vicinity: Fair tonight and Saturday; warmer Saturday; light, variable winds, probably shifting to fresh southwest.

JAMES KENEALY,
Local Forecast Official.

Chicago, May 28.—Forecast until 8 p. m. tomorrow: For Wisconsin: Fair tonight with probably light frost; Saturday fair and warmer; fresh northerly winds, becoming variable Sunday. For Minnesota: Fair tonight with probably frost in extreme southeast portion and warmer in extreme west portion; Sunday fair and warmer; fresh northerly winds becoming variable.

SPECIAL FEATURES TOMORROW.

A leading feature of The Saturday Herald tomorrow will be an exhaustive article on the gold fields of the Lake of the Woods and Rainy Lake, written by the special correspondent of The Herald, who is now touring that region. This article should be read by every person interested in the gold district, because it gives a very complete account of all the properties which have been developed; tells the romantic history of the Sultana mine and its plucky owner; presents valuable information for those who propose to do prospecting; shows how mining claims are taken up on the Canadian side of the international boundary under the amended Ontario mining laws, and demonstrates that gold mining in this section of the country is yielding and will continue to yield handsome returns.

In addition to the above valuable article there will be many other attractive features in tomorrow's edition and all the news, both at home and abroad. As a newspaper, The Saturday Herald is not equalled at the head of the lakes, and its special features are always the best and exclusive.

STATE BANKRUPTCY LAWS.

A special committee of the national convention of the representatives of the commercial bodies of the United States, recently held for the purpose of advocating the passage of a comprehensive bankruptcy law, have compiled a highly important document, which has been forwarded to congress, and which contains an epitome of the laws of the various states on the bankruptcy question. It is well known that a few large firms have opposed bankruptcy legislation because, by employing counsel in each state, they were able to protect their own interests and enjoy a decided advantage over their smaller rivals, who were ignorant of the laws of the different states and who, therefore, could not protect their claims in the event of the assignment or insolvency of a debtor.

From this compilation it appears that of the forty-five states ten have voluntary insolvency laws, twenty-one have assignment laws and one, Utah, has no insolvency or assignment law. In twenty-four states there is no discharge provided by law, while in twenty-one states a discharge from home creditors is allowed. In this state there is a voluntary and involuntary insolvency law, under which each creditor who proves his claim must file a release and the court will discharge the debtor if no fraud is shown. Creditors who refuse to file their claims are not affected by the discharge. A debtor, therefore, must always remain liable to such creditors unless they permit the statute of limitations to run.

The friends of a comprehensive federal bankruptcy law point to the variety and inconsistent character of state insolvency legislation as one of the strongest arguments in favor of a general law that would put all creditors on an equal footing. The need of a law under which honest debtors can obtain an early and complete discharge from all creditors is also apparent.

A PROFITABLE BUSINESS.

Statistics furnished from the state insurance commissioner's office show that the life insurance companies are doing a profitable business in Minnesota. The total life insurance business written in the state last year amounted to $9,515,733.69, an increase of $1,500,000, less than the preceding year. On the other hand, the amount of insurance that went out of force was $2,500,000 less than in 1895. The premiums collected amounted to $2,599,694, and the losses paid to $690,228. During the twenty-five years past 209,409 policies have been issued in this state. The premiums received amounted to $27,982,142, and the losses paid to $9,616,209, a little more than one-third of the premium receipts.

Of course the expenses of the life insurance companies are heavy. They pay large salaries and commissions to agents, they issue great amounts of costly literature, and they do considerable advertising in other ways, but notwithstanding these expenditures the figures above given show that their business is highly profitable.

The Detroit Journal says: "Henry Labouchere, the impetuous and impulsive English publicist, whose pen is sharper than a needle and who never before crawfished in his life, has been obliged to confess that the charges he made against Dr. Harris in connection with the Transvaal raid were without foundation in fact, which goes to show that even the surest are apt to go wrong." The Journal does Mr. Labouchere an injustice. He has withdrawn the charges because the stockbrokers, upon whose evidence he depended to prove them, do not desire to testify and he will not compel them to do so.

The Springfield, Mass., Republican says a good object lesson in the effect of the broad tires may be found in the smooth, firm bicycle paths that run alongside roads that have been converted into mire by the furrowing of wagons resting on narrow wheels. The building of good roads and the introduction of broad tires must go hand in hand, and until it is possible to make the latter universal every wagon user whose routes lie over favorable roads should regard it as a duty to the community to see that his wagons and carts are properly equipped.

The new senator from Florida, Stephen R. Mallory, occupies the seat held by his father, also Stephen R. Mallory, from 1851 to 1861. The elder Mallory resigned to go into the rebellion with his state and was the Confederate secretary of the navy. The son has been a member of congress and when defeated for renomination made the announcement before leaving Washington that he would come back a senator. He has fulfilled his prediction.

At a meeting of prominent Silver Republicans held at Minneapolis the other day, Hon. J. W. Griffin, of that city, was designated as the member from Minnesota of the provisional national committee of the Silver Republican party, meeting at Chicago on June 8. A provisional state committee for Minnesota was appointed to consist of one member from each judicial district and five at large, this committee to be announced hereafter.

Mr. Havermeyer, the sugar king, is very well satisfied with the result of his trial, he says. He certainly should be satisfied, and the judge who took his case from the jury will no doubt be given a few profitable pointers on sugar stock. But this palpable failure of justice will not add to the respect felt for the courts.

The Princeton Union says: "Edward Bok, of the Ladies' Home Journal, and Alvin Tilotts, of the Duluth News Tribune, have begun a crusade against the colored shirt." When two such eminent authorities collaborate, the colored shirt is indeed doomed to expulsion.

CAPITAL GOSSIP.

Washington, May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—If the tariff bill becomes a law as reported to the senate by the finance committee, Minnesota interests will be fairly well taken care of, with the exception of flax. Owing to a lack of information upon the subject, the house ways and means committee put but 1 cent per pound on unhackled flax. Later they discovered that it was a very easy matter to bring in the raw Canadian flax and dress it on this side, and an attempt was made to have the duty increased to 2 cents by the senate committee. The manufacturers of flax, however, seemed to have the strongest pull at the senate end of the capitol, and instead of increasing the duty on raw flax the committee reduced it to half a cent per pound. The Minnesota senators will endeavor to amend this schedule on the floor.

* * *

One of the most vexatious problems to the Northwestern members has been the settlement of the lumber tariff, and such expressions as $1 and $2 men have been exceedingly familiar around the capitol since the present session was convened. The Michigan men, who own extensive forests in Canada, oppose the $2 rate and assert that Canada would immediately retaliate by putting an export duty on logs. The $2 men have the assistance of the senators and representatives of many of the Southern states where lumber is an important staple. On the contrary there is a vigorous opposition to a $2 rate from Republican representatives of such states in the Northwest as the Dakotas, which produce no lumber of any kind.

Representative Tawney has also been put in a somewhat embarrassing position over this lumber tariff. He has all along been an ardent advocate of a $2 rate, claiming that it is no greater protection than was given in the tariff act of 1883, and that the $1 was put on by the McKinley bill through an error. Mr. Tawney, however, does not represent a lumber district, and the farmers who are compelled to purchase timber are protesting against this high rate. As Mr. Tawney, however, has secured all the protection he wanted for barley, potatoes, eggs and other products of his district, to be consistent he must support the higher rate on lumber.

* * *

Senator Nelson has a theory for accounting for the depressed state of the lumber trade and does not believe that it is due to the low tariff altogether. He says that in hard times the farmers, who are now the greatest consumers of lumber, first feel the effect of the depression. If a man has an old log barn or any other kind of outbuilding which should be replaced by a new one, he usually makes it last until times improve. He will manage to get along with it somehow. The depression of the last four years, he thinks, has a great deal to do with the low price of lumber. This idea is shared by a good many other Republicans, but most of them are willing to agree to a moderate rate of protection. While Senator Nelson has never expressed himself on the subject, it is presumed that he would favor the $1 rate in preference to the $2 tariff.

* * *

Within a short time the annual reports of the engineers in charge of the various waterway and harbor improvements will be received at the war department and their arrival is always awaited with interest, especially those from the region of the great lakes. The recommendations of these engineer officers are particularly important, as they serve as a basis for the river and harbor bill which is passed by congress every two years. Should an engineer officer report adversely upon any proposed improvement, it almost invariably means that congress will not make any appropriation for the work.

The city of Duluth was put under continuous contract system through the efforts of Representative Towne and is consequently interested in waterway improvements only incidentally. Of course everything which is done to better navigation from the head of the lakes to the Atlantic ocean will be for the benefit of the Zenith City, and the reports of the engineers in charge of the various locks and dams are of importance to the people of Duluth and Superior. There are also a number of rivers and harbors contiguous to Duluth which may reasonably expect to be provided for in the next rivers and harbors bill.

* * *

The maintenance of the reservoir system at the head waters of the Mississippi is also another important subject to the people of Minnesota. As this system is of material benefit to the navigation of the Mississippi by increasing the flow of water during the dry season the Minnesota congressmen and senators have heretofore had the support of the representatives of the states bordering on the Mississippi river all the way to its mouth. The value of these reservoirs in retaining flood waters has also been demonstrated. Opposition to the project, however, developed in an unexpected quarter towards the close of the last session of the Fifty-fourth congress. Representative Towne endeavored to secure the adoption of an amendment to the sundry civil bill by which the government could acquire title to certain lands which could be flooded by the building of the proposed Gull lake reservoir, and permit the commencement of this work, provision for which had been made in the regular rivers and harbors bill. Representative Loud of California promptly objected, refusing to listen to argument, and prevented the adoption of the amendment. Mr. Towne later made some rather uncomplimentary remarks about this gentleman, and now he is even more opposed to any appropriation for this reservoir system than he was before. He declares that they are merely private lakes for the benefit of a few Minnesota millers. He says that he will do everything in his power to prevent any further appropriations for the extension or maintenance of this system. There is a well-founded rumor, however, that his constituents contemplate relegating him to private life when his time for renomination comes around so that he is not likely to be a permanent obstructionist.

* * *

There is not much hope that Minnesota will fare as well in the next rivers and harbors bill as in the one passed by the Fifty-fourth congress, when Mr. Towne was a member of the committee. An effort is being made to put Judge Morris on the rivers and harbors committee and it may be successful. If so the state may secure something, as a member of this committee naturally is able to take care of his own section, if he has any ability and push at all.

DEFAULT HAS BEEN MADE IN THE conditions of a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Thomas Benton and Maggie Benton, his wife, mortgagors, to The Union Building and Loan Association, mortgagee, bearing date February 3rd, 1894, and duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on February 6th, 1894, at 8:75 o'clock p. m., in Book 69 of mortgages, page 251; which default consists in the non-payment of monthly interest and premium on the principal sum of said mortgage for more than a space of six months after the same has become due.

And whereas, said mortgage contains a provision that in case of default in the payment of monthly interest or premium, or any part thereof, for the space of six months after the same shall have become due, or should the said four shares of stock described in said mortgage be sold for the non-payment of dues, then in either or any such case, the whole principal debt secured by said mortgage shall immediately become due and payable, and the mortgagee in either such case is authorized to sell the mortgaged premises at public auction to satisfy the mortgage debt, interest and premium and all costs and charges, and also the sum of fifty dollars ($50.00) attorney's fees. Said mortgagee has elected and does hereby elect to declare the whole debt due because of such defaults as aforesaid, and there is claimed to be due and is actually due on said mortgage at the date of this notice, the sum of seven hundred seventy-three and 50-100 dollars ($773.50).

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, will, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash to pay said debt of seven hundred seventy-three and 50-100 dollars ($773.50) and six dollars ($6.00) for insurance premium, and fifty dollars ($50.00) attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Duluth, St. Louis County, Minnesota, on the 26th day of June, 1897, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

The premises described in and covered by said mortgage and which will be sold as aforesaid are situated in St. Louis County, Minnesota, and described as follows, to-wit:

The easterly twenty-five (25) feet of lot fifteen (15), in block fifty-five (55), Endion Division of Duluth, being a strip of ground of uniform width of twenty-five (25) feet of the easterly part of said lot and of the full depth of said lot, all according to the recorded plat of said division.

The list of entries for the annual road race of the Duluth Cycle club, which will take place on London road tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, is practically complete with forty-eight names, though there may be one or two more before the handicap committee gets down to work on the list tonight. The list is an unusually large one, and there is a good number of swift riders who will contrive to make the race interesting. Of course there are the usual number of wall-flowers who cannot be expected to be anywhere near the leaders, but they are few and there are enough prizes to make it an object to all of them to put forth their best efforts.

The list of entries up to this morning is as follows:

Tonight the handicap committee, which has been working in secret for some time, will make up the handicaps, and they will be announced tomorrow morning. Saginaw People Look Over Their Mineral Properties.

A distinguished party of Saginaw capitalists is at the Spalding hotel, having returned from a trip to Hibbing. They are Era Rust, a retired lumberman of Saginaw; George L. Burroughs, a banker of the same city, and G. B. Gough, also of that city. These gentlemen are the fee owners of the Rust mine at Hibbing, one of the Lake Superior group of mines at that place, operated by the Consolidated company. Maurice Quinn, of Saginaw, the well known pine land man and father of Attorney Frank Quinn, of this city, joined the party here last night.

Mr. Rust and his associates came here, in the first instance, to inspect their mine, and, it is whispered, to hear what was to be heard regarding the desired reduction of royalties upon Mesaba ores. They have remained over to meet another distinguished citizen of Saginaw, W. B. Burt, who is the fee owner of the Burt mine in the same group of mines as the Rust, and operated under the same management.

Mr. Burt is a man who, for the past thirty years, has been prominent in both business and politics in Michigan. Going to Saginaw in 1859, he commenced in a small way as a lumberman, but he soon rose from the ranks, and in a few years he was the head of the great salt combination, which dominated the salt trade of nearly all Michigan. He soon became interested in railroads, and was the leading spirit in several interprises. He is at present receiver for the Toledo & Ann Arbor road. Three years ago Mr. Burt ran on the Democratic ticket for the governorship of Michigan, and was beaten by ex-Governor Rich by a small majority. Mr. Burt has with him in his private car a small party of New York capitalists, who are interested in mineral and pine lands in this county.

Mr. Rust has retired from active business. He acquired his mining lands some thirteen years ago, when they were located for pine by G. B. Brough, who was at that early date so convinced that these lands would be valuable for iron that he chose as his compensation for locating the lands an interest in the mineral right in preference to a cash payment, thus securing for himself a comfortable competence.

George L. Burroughs is a banker, and is interested with Mr. Rust in his holdings upon the Mesaba. Mr. Burroughs is also interested in the new mammoth arch bridge, which is being built by the Pennsylvania Bridge company across Niagara, to replace the old suspension bridge. The main arch of this structure has a span of 550 feet, and the work is being done without interrupting the passage of the trains across the suspension bridge, which now really rests upon the top of this great arch. The work being done on this new bridge is considered by many as one of the engineering wonders of the age.

Maurice Quinn needs no introduction to the people of Duluth, having been almost a resident of this city for the past fourteen or fifteen years.

Operators Would Play.

The baseball fever has invaded the telegraph operators, and the Western Union men at Duluth caused the following challenge to be published in the Minneapolis Journal a day or two ago:

To Billy Jones, Captain Minneapolis Western Union Baseball club: The undersigned and his followers have from time to time noticed in the sporting columns of the Journal with what marvelous ease you and your braves have walloped every ball team you have met thus far this season. You very likely consider yourselves jim-jams, and inasmuch as we are a little of the cracker-jack kind ourselves, we believe it would be interesting not only for us, but for any honest fan as well, to see these two worthy aggregations meet on the field of honor. To this end we, the telegraphers of Duluth, challenge you for a game of "baz bam," to be played in this city on or about the Fourth of July. Should the result of the game be unsatisfactory to either club, we can undoubtedly arrange for a return game in Minneaplis at a later date in the season. I suggest the Fourth because it will give you ample time to get the stiffness out of your joints and place you in position to admire some of our joints.

Now, let's see what there is in your crowd; or do you wish us to believe that all this loud howling about your prowess is merely a case of "much ado about nothing."

An early consideration of this matter will greatly oblige. Respectfully yours, F. X. DUENWALD.

AMUSEMENTS.

A COMIC OPERA TREAT.

Th lovers of comic opera will be particularly happy at the announcement of Manager Marsh of the first appearance here of "The Tar and the Tartar," a comic opera of national reputation, the score of which contains the musical numbers "I Want a Situation," the famous transcription of national airs "Things Are Not as They Used to Be;" the famous drinking chorus and other numbers which are doubtless familiar to every musician. The opera was originally produced in New York in 1892 and enjoyed a run of 300 performances. Since that time it has been presented in all the principal cities of this country. Manager Askin, who is here ahead of the organization, produced the opera originally and will present it here in its original form.

The costuming of the piece is of Oriental character and permits of gorgeous display. The famous march of the Morocco girls is one of the taking features, the costumes being entirely of silver. The cast contains the names of Bertha Waltzinger, George C. Boniface, David Torrance, Mountjoy Walker, James Sturgis, J. H. McQuaid, Blanche Chapman, Thomas Springer, Emma Janvier, Amy Bower and a chorus of forty voices.

"The Tar and the Tartar" will be presented Monday evening and on Tuesday the famous New York Casino success, "The Brigands," will be given its first performance here. Manager Marsh has prevailed upon the management to play the company here at popular prices, which is just half that usually demanded by comic opera organizations possessing less merit. The large number of orders received in advance of the sale of seats indicates that the public have taken more than the usual amount of interest at the coming of this company.

SAUNDERS IS SATISFIED.

Says He Found the Vein He Went After.

Capt. Saunders, who left Duluth a number of weeks ago in company with a half-breed Indian who claimed to know the location of a gold bearing quartz vein on the Canadian side of the line, has returned. Mr. Saunders has little to say about his expedition except that he is entirely satisfied with the result. A gentleman who was interested in the enterprise and who has kept close tab on the movements of Mr. Saunders and his party said to an Evening Herald reporter today that after much trouble the vein had been located and that it is all and more than had been expected. He claims that the remarkable specimens shown by the Indian are no better than the average rock found in the vein and that the discovery will prove to be one of the greatest mines in the country.

Others who had hoped to be the beneficiaries of the Indian's knowledge, say that the report that Mr. Saunders had located the property is without foundation and insist that the Indian who acted as his guide knows nothing about where the vein is located, having obtained the specimens from the real discoverer. Another expedition will start in a short time for the purpose of finding the mysterious mine, acting on the supposition that the reported success of Mr. Saunders and his party is untrue.

DEFENSE

Register Borgstrom's Side of the Case Being Presented Today.

Claims Money Not Paid to the County Went to His Clerks.

Asserts That He Followed the Same Methods as Amos Shephard.

The defense in the Borgstrom case was in progress today, and it is probable that the case will go to the jury tomorrow morning. Peter J. Borgstrom, the defendant, was on the stand all this morning, and he was submitting himself meekly to a scorching cross-examination by Mr. Baldwin at noon. Mr. Baldwin rested his case at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and Mr. Reynolds entered theusual motion to dismiss on the ground that the state had failed to show a public offense. Judge Moer denied the motion.

The defendant then took the stand. The state in its case had shown that during 1895 Borgstrom had received $113.20 for certified copies, and that he had only accounted for $31.50 to the county. From the direction Mr. Reynolds' questions took it was clear that he intended to show that the defendant had paid out the discrepancy for extra help. Mr. Baldwin objected to the testimony, and Judge Moer reserved his decision to this morning, when he admitted the testimony as bearing on the question of intent.

The defendant testified that he had used the money received for copying instruments for extra work by his office force. He allowed the county 25 cents for each instrument by certifying, which was official work. The balance he used to pay his force. He said that in May he gave B. O. Loe $62, G. A. Weldan $15, and he paid out $4 for blanks. This made up the discrepancy in the month's receipts. He claimed that in his first two years he paid out in this way $217 more than he received, as the county commissioners had notified him that they would allow no charges for overtime. He said that he had never received any money that he had not turned over to the county or paid out to his employes for extra work.

He did this on the strength of what his predecessor, Amos Shephard, told him of the work. He had always managed it that way, and it was done upon the advice of leading attorneys of the city. The work of certifying the copies was official and the county was therefore entitled to receive the fee for that. The copying, however, might be done outside of office hours and the proceeds pocketed. Mr. Borgstrom stated that relying upon the ability and integrity of Mr. Shephard he adopted his plan and he believed that he was acting legally when he did so. He never made any concealment of the receipts and disbursements for this work. He made no report of them to the county because he did not consider that they belonged to the county. He had never been arrested or accused of a crime before. He was not a church member, but he was member of the West Duluth Republican club, a temperance society and other organizations.

In the direct examination Mr. Reynolds had developed Mr. Borgstrom's history since he arrived from Sweden in 1881. On the cross-examination Mr. Baldwin began thus:

"You say you came to this country in 1881?"

"Yes, sir."

"You got an office right away?"

"I got a position in the postoffice at Willmar, Minn."

"What was your next office?"

"I was village recorder of West Duluth."

"While the street improvements were being made?"

"Yes, sir."

Mr. Baldwin dropped this line here and took up the matter at issue. Mr. Borgstrom's books showed that for 126 copies made and certified to in May he had received $113.50.

"Of that number you received $87.50 for doing ninety-seven instruments for A. A. Harris & Sons?"

"Yes, sir."

"And $25.25 for twenty instruments for Billson, Congdon & Dickinson?"

"Yes."

"How much does that make?"

"It makes $112.75 for 117 instruments."

"There are still nine instruments left, are there not?"

"Yes."

"The fees for those were at least 25 cents each for certifying, making $2.25?"

"Yes."

"And you think some of them may have been copied also, do you not?"

"Yes."

"But at least it was $2.25 for the nine?"

"Yes."

"That makes $115, doesn't it?"

"Yes."

"And your books show $113.50?"

"Yes."

"You say you paid Loe $62 for extra work. What did he do?"

"He probably certified some of them."

"That was official work wasn't it, to the fees for which the county was entitled?"

"Yes."

"What else did he do?"

"Well, he—he conducted the office and directed the work."

"Did any of the other clerks get anything for extra work?"

"I don't remember only except Weldan."

"They did extra work, didn't they?"

"Yes."

The witness testified that part of the time he was away at Grand Marais on private business. Loe got in his extra time by giving up his two-weeks' vacation, and working for Mr. Borgstrom. He examined some other charges on the books and explained them as charges for examining records. They ran from $1 to $1 and they were not turned over to the county. He did not know of any legal provision for such a fee. As to the changes made in his private record of these receipts he did not think it was queer that he should change accounts two years old right after he was indicted, and he did not do it because he knew he had to account for the discrepancy. He admitted that during all the time he had been in the office he had turned over to the county 25 cents for each certified copy, regardless of what it cost him. He had no record of what he paid out, for extra work to his clerks.

He was shown his report to the county commissioners for May, 1895, in which, after detailing his receipts, including $31.50 for certified copies, he had sworn that that was all he had received. He said that that report was true as regards "official fees."

HAS NOT YET ACCEPTED.

Mr. Burt Has Been Asked to Reduce Royalties.

Wellington R. Burt, of Saginaw, Mich., accompanied by H. W. Ashley, general manager of the Toledo & Ann Arbor railroad, of Toledo; R. W. Murray, a leading New York lawyer and G. F. Dominic, a prominent broker, also of New York, arrived in Duluth this morning in Mr. Burt's private car. This afternoon the party took a ride about the harbor, the guests of Capt. Frank Hibbing, and tomorrow morning they will go to Hibbing to view the Burt and other mines.

In an interview with a reporter for The Evening Herald Mr. Burt said that he had received a proposition from the Consolidated mines to reduce the royalty on ore taken from the Burt mine, of which he owns the fee. The royalty now being paid is 30 cents a ton and the proposition made by the representatives of Mr. Rockefeller was for a readjustment on a sliding scale, based on the quantity of ore taken out, the minimum being 15 cents a ton. Mr. Burt said the proposition had not been accepted, but that the tendency was for lower royalties and that the disposition among fee owners was to consent to a cut.

"I was in Duluth before the Missabe road was built," said Mr. Burt, "and wanted to build the road myself but at that time the Merritts had considerable weight and the enterprise finally fell into the hands of Mr. Rockefeller. While perhaps small owners such as myself have been placed in a position where we may be squeezed by this corporation, which is not pleasant, I believe that Mr. Rockefeller will make more development on the Mesaba range in five years than a combination of small owners could have accomplished in thirty years. We could have dug the ore and hauled it to market, but Mr. Rockefeller with his millions of capital has not only done this but he is creating a market for it. The demand for iron in this country is less than it ever was while more mines are being opened up constantly. A market for the product must be obtained abroad and this is what Mr. Rockefeller will succeed in doing. The day of high priced ore has gone by, and the tendency now is toward cheapness to enable this country to compete with foreign iron producing countries. The time is not far distant when the United States will supply the world with iron of all kinds.

"I know both Mr. Rockefeller and Andrew Carnegie well. They have always been guided by policies directly opposed to each other. Mr. Carnegie has believed in the formation of pools with the object of advancing prices, while Mr. Rockefeller has aimed to reduce values, encourage increased consumption and profit by a greater volume of business with smaller margins. He has accomplished this object, in every thing he has undertaken and will bring it about in the iron field."

Mr. Burt said that his present trip was more for pleasure and recreation than for business.

WILL OBSERVE TOMORROW.

There has been a great deal of discussion as to the day to be observed as Memorial day. The city offices, the municipal court and the district court with most of the county offices will be closed tomorrow, while the banks and the board of trade will observe Monday as a general holiday and will do business tomorrow as usual. The following letter from the city clerk gives in full the reason for the closing of the city offices:

"Having been besieged with inquiries as to which day should be observed as a holiday, in memory of the deceased soldiers of our country, I beg to call public attention to the fact that upon the present occasion, tomorrow, Saturday, the city offices will be closed for the observance of Memorial day.

"Chapter 59 of the session laws of 1897 makes the Monday following any holiday which falls on Sunday, a bank holiday, and by implication, a general holiday, though no statutory act has ever been passed confirming or justifying the same.

"This year, the governor of the state has issued a proclamation for the observance of Saturday as Memorial day; the participation in the exercises of that day is the obvious reason for the suspension of business; and these facts outweigh in my mind, the inferences which might be drawn from the statutes; therefore the 29th of May is the logical choice as a day to commemorate the death of our nation's martyrs. Very respectfully,

"C. E. RICHARDSON, City Clerk."

PRIZES FOR ESSAYS.

A Competition For Pupils of the High School.

In connection with the Fourth of July celebration by the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution, together with the Society of Colonial Wars, it has been decided to offer two prizes to high school pupils for essays on a patriotic subject. There will be two prizes, the first of $15, and the second of $10. The subject chosen is "The True and False American Spirit." The essays are limited to 2000 words and must not be less than 1500 words. The judges will be Rev. T. H. Cleland, F. A. Patrick, and a lady to be announced later. The essays must be in the hands of Mr. Cleland not later than Saturday, June 26. They should be signed with a nom de plume. The real name of the writer must be enclosed in a sealed envelope, and the nom de plume written on the outside and sent to Rev. C. H. Patton, who is chairman of the prize essay committee. The judges wish to have nothing to do with the names of contestants either before or after the decision, hence only the essays will be sent to Mr. Cleland. The decision will be announced on or before the public celebration of the Fourth. The committee reserves the privilege of determining what public disposition, if any, shall be made of the successful essays.

A lively contest is looked for with many essays of high grade. If the contest is satisfactory in extent and quality, it is expected to make it an annual occurrence. Further details as to the conditions can be obtained of Rev. C. H. Patton. The committee in charge are Rev. C. H. Patton, Rev. G. H. Humason, William C. White, Mrs. Julia Barnes, Mrs. W. S. MARINE MATTERS.

The Steamer Grand Traverse May Be Raised.

Buffalo, May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. John Laughlin, in charge of the wrecking expedition to raise the steamer Grand Traverse, is here to wait for the boiler connected with the pumps to be repaired. He states that the coal has not quite all been pumped out. It is thought that she can be raised when that is done, although a thorough examination of her hull has not yet been made.

IS IT THE TURNING POINT?

Cleveland, May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—A few leading men connected with the iron industry here are of the opinion that the turning point has been reached and that the market for both ore and high iron will improve materially within the coming week or ten days. But the coal shippers agree with the dispatches from Pittsburg predicting a strike of miners throughout Ohio and Pennsylvania, and the districts in which the strike is talked of are mainly those producing coal for the lake trade.

END OF AN OLD TIMER.

The Buffalo Express states that the Western line steamer Badger State has been placed in the boneyard. The Badger State was at one time a favorite passenger steamer on the route between Buffalo, Milwaukee and Chicago, but for a number of years past had been run in the Lake Superior trade. Two or more seasons ago both she and the steamer Empire State were condemned as passenger carriers and their service restricted to freight during the mild months. Mason & Bidwell built the Badger State at Buffalo in 1862. Her measurement is 917 tons and present rating about B2. It is hardly again.

Wednesday, June 2.

Is the date of the musical soiree at the Armory.

Observed in the Schools.

Memorial day was generally observed in the public schools today. There was a visitation by the committees from the G. A. R. at each school, and in most of them there were programs including patriotic music and speeches by the veterans and others. Most of the celebrations were held this afternoon, though at the High School the exercises took place at 9 o'clock this morning. The opening was the regular chapel exercises by the school, after which "America" was sung by the school. J. R. Brearly, A. H. Burke and C. P. Bragg all made eloquent, appropriate and patriotic addresses, and Ralph Miller recited "Sheridan's ride" with considerable spirit. The school sang several patriotic selections.

SEARLES

The Secretary of the Sugar Trust on Trial For Contumacy.

Defense Moved That the Jury Be Ordered to Acquit Him.

The Court Adjourned Until Tuesday Without a Decision Being Given.

Washington, May 28.—The trial of John E. Searles, secretary of the American Sugar Refining company, followed that of President Havemeyer, before Judge Bradley, in criminal court No. 1 today. Judge Bradley's decision yesterday, which threw the case against Mr. Havemeyer out of court, robbed the Searles trial of much of its interest, despite the assertion of District Attorney Davis that the cases were not analogous, and that the contention set up by the defense in the Havemeyer case, upon which the judge ordered a verdict of acquittal returned, would not hold in the Searles case. The general belief was that the main question as to pritiency would be raised by the defense in this case, and that the court be required to rule on that question before the defense opened.

The indictment found against Mr. Searles was very similar to the one found against Mr. Havemeyer, except that the questions asked of Mr. Searles were somewhat different. The indictment recites that by a resolution of the senate a committee was appointed to investigate certain charges made by the press concerning the election of 1892. The committee summoned Secretary Searles. He was asked by the committee: "What amount was expended by your company in the campaign of 1892?"

"I decline to answer the question," said Mr. Searles, giving as his reason for declining to answer that he did not believe it within the province of the committee to ask such a question.

The committee then asked: "What sum did you, (meaning the American Sugar Refining company) contribute to the Democratic campaign fund in the state of New York in 1892 that was used for the purpose of conducting the campaign in that state, at which time Cleveland and Harrison were candidates for president of the United States?"

"I decline to answer that question," was Mr. Searles reply, and for the same reasons as given in the declination to answer the first question.

"Did you contribute to the Democratic campaign fund in New York?" was asked.

He again declined to answer.

The same lawyers who appeared for Mr. Havemeyer had charge of Mr. Searles' defense. Mr. Havemeyer sat by Mr. Searles' side in the rear of the table occupied by his counsel. The members of the senate investigating committee and other distinguished persons were present. Before the trial began District Attorney Davis, who conducted the case for the government, asked that in the event that the trial of the case was not concluded today (although, he said, he saw no reason why it should not be) that it be adjourned until Tuesday. He gave as a reason important engagement of the counsel for the defense. To this Judge Bradley agreed.

None of the first twelve talesmen were challenged, but one was excused. The indifference of the defendant's counsel to the composition of the jury seemed to indicate their confidence that the case eventually would be taken out of the hands of the jury as that of Mr. Havemeyer was.

At 11:40 the government rested its case against John E. Searles, secretary of the American Sugar Refining company, and the defense moved that the jury be instructed to bring in a verdict of acquittal on three grounds.

When Mr. Johnson concluded, District Attorney Davis made reply. The opinion is unanimous about the court that Judge Bradley will sustain the motion, take the case from the jury and order an acquittal.

Mr. Davis concluded and the court adjourned till Tuesday without a decision being rendered.

IN PYTHIAN RANKS.

Meeting of the Uniformed Body in Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, May 28.—Twenty-three companies, two regiments, 760 men and officers, the organization flourishing and healthy, its financial condition sound and the bright smile of prosperity lighting up the promises of the future, are all facts which were revealed in the reports made this afternoon to the seventh annual assembly of the Minnesota brigade of the Uniform Rank of the Knights of Pythias at Masonic temple.

The commissioned officers of the brigade constitute its legislative department, and when Brig. Gen. Phillpot rapped for order there were over sixty present. In his annual report Gen. Phillpot, in addition to the facts already set forth, referred to applications for new companies at Pipestone, Melrose, Wadena and Detroit, and recommended a series of official visitations by each colonel and major, regimental and battalion encampments, as no state encampment is to be held this year, and the inauguration of a popular movement to enable the entire brigade, with proper band escort, to take in the Indianapolis encampment next year. For this purpose the grand lodge of the state will be asked to appropriate $250.

Pythian Memorial day is always the second Sunday in June, and another of Gen. Phillpot's recommendations is that this year it be very generally observed with special church services.

DULUTH PETITIONS.

Washington, May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator Nelson today presented two petitions from citizens of Duluth for the passage of a restrictive immigration bill.

PRESBYTERIAN WIND UP.

General Assembly Closing Its Long Annual Meeting.

Eagle Lake, Ind., May 28.—When the Presbyterian general assembly gathered this morning it was understood that an effort was to be made to complete the sessions today. The rush characterizing closing hours began at once. The committee on bills and overtures reported briefly upon petitions as to certain liquor bills and Sunday legislation pending in congress. The statement was made that sufficient information was not at hand for deliberate judgment, but a general statement was adopted covering the subject as follows:

"The general assembly reaffirms deep interest in all legislation by which the the causes of temperance and morality are wisely furthered, and commends the efforts of Christian men in your state and federal legislative assemblies to safeguard social purity and to prevent the maintenance of liquor saloons in any government building."

The standing committee on systematic beneficence reported through Dr. Wilson Phraner. The standing committee on the subject recommended increase above the average of the past six years. Pending the adoption of the report the assembly was addressed by Dr. Wilson Phraner (chairman of the committee) and Rev. William H. Hubbard.

The report of the special committee on specific beneficence showed the causes of discouragement to benevolence. These were the debts of the boards, the fact that the recommendations of the assemblies had called for more than three times the amount ever collected in any one year, a lack of obligation on the part of the churches to support the work of the boards, and the existence of numerous societies in the churches which sap their resources. From the figures given it appeared that only one-third of the total receipts from all sources came from the churches as such, thus in 1896 only $843,968 out of a total of $2,533,152. After discussing the question of apportionment of church offerings, the committee advised the substitution of a system of advance pledges from the churches, stating the amount that each church would give to each board during the following year.

RUSSELL SAGE'S NEPHEW.

Joliet, Ill., May 28.—George Sage, a grand nephew of Russell Sage, is dead in the Will county poorhouse of consumption. George was a son of Elizur Sage, who some time ago borrowed $50 from his uncle, Russell Sage, giving as security therefor a mortgage on his home. In their efforts to pay back this money Elizur Sage and his wife were almost at the verge of starvation, and finally it was resolved to send George, hopelessly ill, to the poorhouse, where he could receive some medical attention. The mortgage was paid a few days ago, and yesterday George died.

SHARPSHOOTER GORDON KILLED.

New York, May 28.—The Herald this morning publishes details concerning Col. Charles S. Gordon, an American, reported to have been killed in Cuba, while with the insurgents in the vicinity of Cienfuegos. Says the Herald: Col. Charles Gordon disembarked in Cuba last June, and was soon promoted to the rank of major. His remarkable shooting at the light of Vista Hermosa, in the province of Havana, astonished both the Spanish and Cubans. He crossed the trocha and joined Maceo. Maceo promoted him for bravery in the field, and thought so much of him that he was selected as one of the few to cross the trocha in his company. Gordon was wounded at the same time that Maceo was killed.

ORDER AT ATHENS.

Athens, May 28.—Elaborate measures have been taken to preserve order. Besides the police and gendarmes, a civil guard has been selected from the most trusted inhabitants. The minister of the interior, M. Theotokis, is resolved to deal severely with anti-dynastic movements. The fact that the warships at Phaldrum are ready to land troops and artillery in the event of disorders occurring has deterred the revolutionists from making a demonstration.

WILLIAM IS OBJECTIONABLE.

Paris, May 28.—A number of people who have been interviewed by representatives of the Gaulois on the subject of Emperor William of Germany visiting Paris during the exhibition of 1900 agree that his majesty's visit is inadmissible as long as the question of Alsace-Lorraine exists.

RAILWAY CLAIM AGENTS.

St. Louis, May 28.—The National Association of Railway Claim Agents has completed a two days' session and elected officers. Indianapolis was chosen as the next place of meeting. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, E. B. Hutchinson, of Indianapolis; vice presidents, Frank S. Farnam, of Boston; L. T. Stewart, Marshalton, Iowa; George J. Dodd, Sedalia, Mo.; E. F. Sauer, Terre Haute, Ind.; Clayton Harrington, of Dallas, Tex.; secretary and treasurer, G. L. Price, Galesburg, Ill.

HIS STRANGE DELUSION.

Kingston, N. Y., May 28.—An application has been made to Judge Clearwater to commit James Myer to an insane asylum. Myer's delusion is that he is the homeliest man in the world, and he threatens suicide in consequence.

A RIO GRANDE COLLISION.

Grand Junction, Col., May 28.—The Atlantic express east-bound on the Denver & Rio Grande railroad collided with a freight train near here this morning. The engineer and fireman were killed and several passengers were injured.

CLAPP BROTHERS INDICTED.

New York, May 28.—Indictments against Osrow and Dwight O. Clapp, brothers, of Chicago and New York, who failed recently, were found by the grand jury of this county today. The men named are under arrest in Chicago. The complainant, Albert Hes, alleged that he put up with them $3000 as margin on $58,000 worth of stock the day the firm failed. The liabilities of the firm are $204,986 and the assets nominal.

DURFEE HAS SQUARED UP.

Chicago, May 28.—Bradford K. Durfee, state superintendent of insurance under Governor Altgeld, who was accused of being $200,000 short in his accounts, does not owe the state a cent, according to State Superintendent of Insurance Van Cleave. Mr. Durfee was removed from office on May 5. At that time he was indebted to the state to the extent of $126,000; all of which has since been paid. Durfee was forced to dispose of all of his salable property at sacrificial prices in order to square his accounts with the state.

A BRIDGE SCANDAL.

Sensational Suit to Be Begun in Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., May 27.—The Times this morning says: Within the next few days, a suit making charges against Theodore C. Bates, of Worcester, Mass., and Francis Amory, a recent projector of the Winner bridge enterprise in this city, will be filed in the circuit court by Attorney C. H. Nearing. Dr. A. B. Lyman, of Baltimore, Md., and one of the bondholders, appears as plaintiff. It is the intention of Dr. Lyman, says the Times, to secure the accounting of the transactions of Bates and Amory, which involve the sum of $1,500,000 and to ascertain what disposition has been made of certain bond sales.

The petition concludes with these words: "No accounting has ever been made by these defendants of the proceeds derived from the sale of the stock and bonds, nor of the use and disposition of the money paid to defendants, nor of the use to which the money received from the sale of the first mortgage bonds or of the disposition of such bonds, or of the assets that were in the hands of said defendants, belonging to the plaintiff and other Winner security holders."

Attorney Nearing says of the suit: "At the time of the failure of the Winner companies the holders of the stocks and bonds were distributed all over the United States. Messrs. Bates and Amory formed the plan of getting the holders of the securities to unite and place their securities with trustees that concerted action might be taken for protecting the properties. To carry this out he required a large amount of money to be advanced to pay off prior liens upon bridge and railway, and to defray court expenses. These security holders advanced in the neighborhood of $40,000 for that purpose. To ascertain what was done with this money is one of the objects of the suit."

TEETH IN THE VAT.

Damaging Testimony in the Trial of Luetgert.

Chicago, May 28.—Professor Mark De LaFontaine, the expert chemist, has made a discovery in his investigations into the contents of the vat in the Luetgert sausage factory which is considered by the prosecution to be of a nature most damaging to the defense. In the sediment not only has he found traces of teeth, but also a large number of flakes of a composition only found in the human teeth.

This, together with the broken false tooth found by the police near the vat, is looked upon by the prosecution as the strongest kind of evidence to establish the corpus delicti, which the defense has maintained was wanting in the state's case.

The state rested its case today with the evidence of Professor De LaFontaine and Dentist Klein. No effort will be made to call any other witnesses, except in rebuttal, and then only in case an effort is made by the defense to go into expert testimony.

Many people are availing themselves of Dr. Schiffman's generous offer of extracting teeth without pain for 50 cents a tooth, including the anaesthetic, until June 5. If you need any teeth extracted come soon as this offer only holds good until that date. Don't wait until the last days as there is a great rush now. Office will be open Sunday from 9 a. m. to 12 noon.

No Summer Vacation.

There will be no vacation at the Business University during the summer. Those who anticipate entering soon for either a commercial or stenography course will find Monday, June 2, an excellent time to enter.

THE WAR

Mr. Patton Was In Court and There Was No Excitement Today.

Reed Was Expected to Discharge Patton's Inspectors This Morning.

Gas and Water Company Brought In---Bids For the Reservoir Opened.

City Engineer Patton had to attend the district court today to give evidence in the Garfield avenue viaduct case so City Engineer Reed took the opportunity to go on a visit of inspection along the line of the waterworks. Up to noon no word had arrived from the seat of war although it was more than expected that Mr. Reed would attempt to displace Mr. Patton's inspectors and replace them with his adherents.

As has been predicted the Duluth Gas and Water company has come into the fight. This time, however, the company is an unwilling sufferer and by no means an active participant in the hostilities. A day or so ago a leak occurred in one of the mains. Manager Van Bergen went to Mr. Patton and paid the usual fee for an order for a permit to dig up the street where the leak occurred. This order the board refused and Mr. Van Bergen disliked the idea of being arrested for working without a permit, and still more hated to see an immense quantity of the purest water in the world running to waste. Suddenly he remembered that the chief of police is a good fellow and going to him he told the story. The chief with an eye to public convenience told Mr. Van Bergen to go ahead with his work without a permit and that he should not be arrested. Mr. Van Bergen did so, the leak was stopped and the street restored to a proper condition.

After a short time Mr. Van Bergen concluded that as he had received no permit that he would get the fee that he paid returned to him and he has made a formal demand for restitution of the amount.

The board of public works held its regular meeting this morning and formally confirmed the election of President Smith. Nothing definite has been arrived at in the pumphouse matter, but the board did hope to have another meeting with Mr. Fredrickson this afternoon.

Bids for the construction of the water trenches from Fortieth avenue east to Thirty-fourth avenue east were opened this morning and it is tolerably certain that P. McDonnell is the successful bidder.

Bids for the construction of the new reservoir were also opened and hasty computations show that Watterworth & Fee and P. McDonnell are the lowest bidders, the first bidding $60,951, and the latter $60,591.50, a net difference of 50 cents. These bids were for Kettle River sandstone lining and coping. With granite lining and coping P. McDonnell's bid is lowest by about $3000.

MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES.

Services at the Cemetery in the Morning.

Tomorrow will be observed as Memorial day by the G. A. R. veterans, and the exercises in memory of the dead soldiers will take place in the forenoon, and beyond them there will be no formal observance by the G. A. R. posts.

All members of the G. A. R., Sons of Veterans, Woman's Relief corps and old soldiers and citizens generally are to meet at 9 o'clock at the Masonic Temple building. At 9:30 o'clock they will take cars at Second avenue east and Second street for Forest Hill cemetery, where the exercises will be held. The ritualistic service of the Grand Army of the Republic will be said, and an address will be delivered by Rev. T. H. Cleland, D.D., of the First Presbyterian church. The graves will be decorated with flowers. All those who will contribute flowers are requested to leave them at any early hour at the corner store room in the Masonic Temple building.

PLANS FOR THE ENGINEERS.

They Will Arrive Here on July 14.

It is now reasonably certain that the American Institute of Mining Engineers will arrive in Duluth Wednesday morning, July 14, over the Duluth South Shore & Atlantic railroad, although the itinerary has not yet been absolutely decided upon. The party, which it is now expected will number 180 will arrive in Houghton from Buffalo by the Northern steamship company. On reaching Duluth they will go by special over the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, visiting the mines at Ely and Tower, thence to the Mesaba range and to Duluth over the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road. They will remain in Duluth a day and be entertained by the commercial organizations and citizens.

A GOOD DECISION.

Secretary Gives a Poor Settler the Best of It.

A decision has been received by the secretary of the interior in the case of the United States against Alphonze Brouseau, involving lands in section 18-51-17, and it is one which will meet with general commendation. Brouseau's entry was held for cancellation because of failure to reside on the land. The local officers found that the charges were substantially true when made, but on account of good faith shown by the subsequent conduct of the entryman, they recommended the relief of the entry from cancellation. The general land office reversed the decision.

It was shown at the hearing that Brouseau had cut and sold timber on the land, and the general land office held that this was evidence of fraudulent intent.

The secretary holds that the status of facts at the time of the hearing should control, and not at the time of the special agent's report. The largest estimate of the timber on the land was about 260,000 feet. If all cut and sold at $3.50 per thousand it would be worth $910. According to another special agent's report, the value of his improvements was $955.50, with twelve and three-eighths acres cleared. This, the secretary says, shows good faith, and that he did not intend to cut the timber and then abandon the land. The man has a wife and ten children, has no other home, and has to labor with his hands for a living. The secretary reverses the general land office, and declines to allow the entry to be cancelled.
